(b) Regrading certificates. Immediately after a regrading has been completed, a regrading certificate shall be issued showing the results of such regrading; and such certificate shall thereupon supersede, as of the time of issuance of the regrading certificate, the grading certificate previously issued for the product involved. Each regrading certificate shall clearly set forth the number and date of the grading certificate which it supersedes. The provisions of § 54.10 and § 54.32 shall, whenever applicable, also apply to regrading certificates except that copies of such regrading certificates shall be furnished each interested party of record.

§ 54.34 Appeal grading—(a) Application for appeal grading. An application for an appeal grading may be made by any interested party who is dissatisfied with any determination stated in any grading certificate only if the identity of the product, or representative sample thereof, on the basis of which a determination was made has not been lost, and such application for the appeal grading is made within two days following the day on which the grading was performed. Upon approval by the Administrator, the time within which an application for an appeal grading may be made may be extended.

(b) How to obtain appeal grading. Appeal grading may be obtained by filing a request therefor (1) with the Administrator, (2) with the grader who issued the grading certificate with respect to which the appeal grading is requested, (3) with the immediate superior of such grader, or (4) with the officer in charge of any office of grading. The application for appeal grading shall clearly state the reasons therefor and may be accompanied by a copy of the aforesaid grading certificate or any other information the applicant may have secured regarding the product, at the time of grading, from which the appeal is requested. Such application may be made orally (in person or by telephone), in writing, or by telegraph. If made orally, written confirmation may be required.

(c) Record of filing time. A record showing the date and hour when each such application for appeal grading is received shall be maintained in such manner as the Administrator may prescribe.

(d) When an application for an appeal grading may be refused. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section, if it appears to the Administrator that the reasons for an appeal grading are frivolous or not substantial, or that the quality or condition of the products has undergone a material change since the grading from which the appeal is made, or the identical products that were examined to ascertain the grade thereof cannot be made accessible for reexamination, or the act or regulations in this part have not been complied with, the Administrator may refuse the applicant's request for the appeal grading, and such applicant shall be promptly notified of the reason for such refusal.

(e) When an application for appeal grading may be withdrawn. An application for appeal grading may be withdrawn by the applicant at any time before the appeal grading is made upon payment, by the applicant, of all expenses incurred by the Administration in connection with such application.

(f) Who shall perform the appeal grading. An appeal grading of any graded product shall be made by any grader (other than the one from whose grading the appeal is made) designated for this purpose by the Administrator; and, whenever practical, such appeal grading shall be conducted jointly by two such graders.

(g) Appeal grading by immediate superior. Notwithstanding the provisions of this section, whenever the immediate superior of a grader has evidence that such grader incorrectly graded a product, such superior shall immediately make a regrading of the product.

(h) Order of performance of appeal gradings. Appeal gradings shall be performed, insofar as practical, in the order in which applications therefor are received; but any such application may be given precedence pursuant to § 54.4.

(i) Appeal grading certificates. Immediately after an appeal grading has been completed, an appeal grading certificate shall be issued showing the results of such appeal grading. Such certificate shall thereupon supersede the grading certificate for the product involved and such supersedure shall be effective as of the time of issuance of the grading certificate with respect to which the appeal is made. Each appeal grading certificate shall clearly set forth the number and the date of the grading certificate which it supersedes. The provisions of § 54.10 and § 54.32 shall, whenever applicable, also apply to appeal grading certificates except that copies of such appeal grading certificates shall be furnished each interested party of record.

§ 54.35 Superseded certificates. Whenever any grading certificate is superseded in accordance with the regulations in this part such certificate shall become null and void as of the effective time of supersedure. If the original and all copies of such superseded certificate are not delivered to the person issuing the regrading certificate or appeal grading certificate, he shall notify such persons as he considers necessary to prevent fraudulent use of the superseded certificate.

SANITARY REQUIREMENTS

§ 54.36 Minimum standards for sanitation, facilities, and operating procedures in official plants. Except as otherwise provided in this part the provisions of this section shall apply with respect to grading service and inspection service in all official plants. The table set forth in this section indicates some of the types of material which may be used in the construction of equipment, utensils and facilities for use in the plant.

(a) Buildings and plant facilities (1) The buildings shall be of sound construction and kept in good repair, and shall be of such construction as to prevent the entrance or harboring of rodents:

(i) Outside openings: (a) The doors, windows, skylights and other outside openings of the plant, except receiving rooms and live rabbit holding rooms, shall be protected by properly fitted screens and other suitable devices, against the entrance of flies and other insects.

(b) Outside doors, except in receiving rooms and live rabbit holding rooms shall be self-closing and so hung that not over ¼ inch clearance remains when closed. Screen doors shall open toward the outside of the building.

(2) Rooms and compartments used for edible products shall be separate and distinct from inedible products departments and from rooms where rabbits are slaughtered and skinned. Separate rooms shall be provided when required and all rooms shall be of sufficient size to permit the installation of the necessary equipment for processing operations and the conduct of such operations in a sanitary manner.

(i) The official plant should have separate rooms for each of the following operations depending upon the various types of operations conducted; but in no case shall the receiving or holding of live rabbits or killing operations be permitted in rooms in which eviscerating operations are performed:

(a) The receiving and feeding of live rabbits.

(b) Killing and skinning operations.

(ii) Rooms and compartments in which carcasses or parts thereof are held for further inspection shall be in such number and such location as the needs of the inspection in the plant may require. They shall be equipped with locks and keys and the keys shall not leave the custody of the inspector in charge of the plant. All such rooms and compartments shall be marked conspicuously with the word "retained" in letters not less than 2 inches high.

(iii) Coolers and freezers: Coolers and freezers of adequate size and capacity shall be provided to reduce the internal temperature of ready-to-cook domestic rabbits prepared and otherwise handled in the plant to 36° F. within 24 hours unless other cooling facilities are available.

(iv) Refuse rooms: Refuse rooms shall be entirely separate from other rooms in the plant, and shall have tight fitting doors and be properly ventilated.

(v) Storage and supply rooms: The storage and supply rooms shall be in good repair, kept dry, and maintained in a sanitary condition.

(b) When bleeding troughs are used they shall be long enough to catch the blood during the bleeding process and shall be cleaned daily. Such troughs shall be installed so as to pitch at least ½ inch per foot toward a smooth metal catch basin or basins, of sufficient capacity for a day's operation at peak production, or shall be flushed continuously.

(4) There shall be an efficient drainage and plumbing system for the plant and premises:

(i) All drains and gutters shall be properly installed with approved traps and vents. The drainage and plumbing system must permit the quick run-off of all water from plant buildings, and surface water around the plant and on the premises; and all such water shall be disposed of in such a manner as to prevent a nuisance or health hazard.

(ii) Sewerage and plant wastes. (a) The sewerage system shall have adequate slope and capacity to remove readily all waste from the various processing operations and to minimize, and if possible to prevent, stoppage and surcharging of the system.

(b) Catch basins which are connected with the sewerage system shall be suitably located but not near any edible products department or in any area where products are unloaded from, or loaded into, vehicles. To facilitate cleaning such basins shall have inclined bottoms and be provided with suitable covers.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

[Public Notice 94]

CLAIMS AGAINST CLOSED INSTITUTIONS IN JAPAN

APRIL 11, 1951.

Notice is hereby given that, according to an announcement by the Closed Institutions Liquidating Commission, an agency of the Japanese Government, claims arising outside Japan against closed financial institutions in Japan, except the claims of depositors, debenture holders, and stockholders, must be filed with that Commission no later than July 16, 1951, in order that payment may be made to the extent permitted by the realization of available assets in Japan. Payment can currently be made only in yen, and recipients who desire the conversion of yen into foreign exchange will be required to follow procedures established by the Japanese Foreign Exchange Control and Foreign Trade Control Law.

Department of the Army

STATEMENT OF ORGANIZATION AND FUNCTIONS

AGENCIES DEALING WITH PUBLIC; OFFICE OF QUARTERMASTER GENERAL

The statement of organization and functions published in 15 F. R. 551, February 1, 1950, and amended in 15 F. R. 6917, October 14, 1950, is further amended by changing subparagraphs (1) through (8) of paragraph (i), section 2, to read as follows:

SEC. 2. Organization and functions of agencies dealing with the public. * * *

(i) Office of the Quartermaster General—(1) Mission. Under the direction and control of Assistant Chief of Staff, G-4, The Quartermaster General provides and services food, clothing, equipment, and supplies for the Army, as assigned to the Quartermaster General and, as assigned, for the Navy and the Air Force; and provides for the disposition of the remains of deceased military personnel and for over-all supervision of the operation of National Cemeteries.

(2) Origin. (i) The Quartermaster Corps, originally the "Quartermaster Department," was established June 16, 1775 by the Continental Congress which, in addition to authorizing a Quartermaster General, provided for appointment of a Commissary-General of Stores and Provisions. In 1777 there were authorized a Commissary General with four deputies, a Commissary General of issues with three deputies, and a Commissary General of clothing.

(ii) After the Revolutionary War the Congress in 1785 curtailed Quartermaster Department activities and authorized procurement through civilians known as "contractors of provisions." In 1812 Congress reconstituted the Quartermaster Department. During the Civil War responsibility for supplying animal transport and providing forage, and the operation of ocean, rail, and water transportation became an additional function of the Quartermaster Department. In 1912 Congress consolidated the Quartermaster, Subsistence and Pay Departments, and established what was then the Quartermaster Corps.

(3) World War I. World War I brought the first steps toward mechanization of the Army. The Quartermaster Corps created bakery, butcher, ice plant, labor, and motor truck companies, clothing units, mechanical repair shops, salvage units, and graves registration units, and trained the personnel for field activities. The size of the Army and the distance of combat activities from the zone of interior increased Quartermaster Corps procurement and storage activities to proportions in excess of all combined prior operations.

(4) World War II. In World War II motor transport, construction, and utilities as well as the function of transportation were given to other Army agencies. The Quartermaster Corps devoted its major interest to providing the soldier with items of food, clothing, and equipment necessary to the personal maintenance of the soldier and which would contribute to the soldier's personal comfort and well-being. The remoteness of the battlefronts, the unprecedented size of the Army, and the requirement for approximately 70,000 different items of quartermaster origin brought the Quartermaster Corps to peak (1945) expansion: 54 general officers, 30,744 other officers, and 467,266 enlisted.

(5) Legal basis. The authority for assignment of general powers and duties to the Quartermaster General by this paragraph is sections 206 and 405, Public Law 581—81st Congress (Army Organization Act of 1950).

(6) Dual role of the Quartermaster General—(i) Staff advice. The Quartermaster General provides administrative and technical advice and recommendations relating to quartermaster matters to the Secretary of the Army, the Under Secretary of the Army, the Chief of Staff, and the General and Special Staffs.

(ii) Command. For the execution of the Quartermaster Corps mission, the Quartermaster General commands all troops, activities, and installations assigned to his control.

(7) Major functions—(i) Supply. Procures, stores, disposes, maintains, and supplies those items of equipment and supplies assigned to the Quartermaster Corps.

(ii) Installations and separate activities. Commands Quartermaster Corps class II installations (including general depots) and separate activities.

[No. 46]

PAYETTE DIVISION, BOISE PROJECT, IDAHO

PUBLIC NOTICE OF TERMS GOVERNING DELIVERY OF WATER FOR 1951 IRRIGATION SEASON

MARCH 5, 1951.

1. On February 27 and March 9, 1948, Public Notices Nos. 38 and 39 were issued, one announcing the availability of water under the contract of October 3, 1927, between the United States and the Black Canyon Irrigation District, as amended by the contract of July 15, 1936, to the lands comprising the gravity areas of the Payette Division; the other announcing the rental charge, in addition to the construction charge against the land covered by Public Notice No. 38, for all lands to which water would be delivered for 1948. On September 14, 1949, Public Notice No. 41 was issued opening land to entry and announcing that water will be furnished therefor for the irrigation season of 1950. On March 25, 1949, Public Notice No. 42 was issued announcing terms governing delivery of water for the 1949 irrigation season, and on February 24, 1950, Public Notice No. 44 was issued announcing terms governing delivery of water for the 1950 irrigation season. These notices were issued having regard for the provisions of the Federal Reclamation Laws (act of June 17, 1902, 32 Stat. 388, and acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto) prohibiting the delivery of water upon the completion of any new project or new division of a project until a contract approved by the Secretary of the Interior had been made with an irrigation district providing for payment by the district of all the costs of constructing and operating and maintaining the irrigation works.

2. Public Notices Nos. 42 and 44 were issued for the purpose of providing a temporary arrangement for furnishing water to the lands of the District during the 1949 and 1950 irrigation seasons. It is unlikely that an amendatory repayment contract will be entered into between the District and the United States prior to the beginning of the irrigation season of 1951. Exercising my general supervisory authority over the works of the Payette Division, I have determined that, notwithstanding the inadequacy of the existing repayment contract and outside of the provisions of that contract, water will be furnished for the 1951 irrigation season only on a temporary rental basis as follows:

(a) For lands served by gravity canals in the Payette Division, the minimum rental charge for the 1951 irrigation season for water delivered to or for the farms by Government forces will be $4.40 per irrigable acre, said payment to be made by each landowner for his total irrigable area. Included in said water rental charge for lands served by gravity canals is a construction charge component of $1.70. If the total cost of operating and maintaining the works of the Payette Division, including the charge for power for irrigation pumping for the year 1951 is less than, or equals, the amount paid by the District on the basis of $2.70 per irrigable acre, such construction component of $1.70 may be credited on the instalment that would have been due for 1951 under the contract of October 3, 1927, as amended, and Public Notice No. 38. The said minimum charge per irrigable acre shall be payable whether or not water is used and will entitle the water user to three acre-feet of water per irrigable acre for the 1951 irrigation season. Two dollars and seventy cents per irrigable acre will be payable by the District in advance of the delivery of water, and $1.70 per irrigable acre will be payable, one-half on or before December 31, 1951, and one-half on or before July 1, 1952. Additional water will be furnished during the 1951 irrigation season at the rate of $1.15 per acre-foot, and shall be payable by each landowner to the District on or before December 20, 1951. Payments by the District to the United States for such excess water shall be made on or before December 31, 1951. The minimum charge on account of lands which do not receive water for the irrigation season of 1951 shall be payable by the District to the United States on or before December 31, 1951, and the District shall make the necessary assessments therefor against the lands involved.

(b) For the rental of water during the irrigation season of 1951 for privately-owned new lands under the pump system of the Payette Division, there will be a minimum charge of $2.70 per irrigable acre of land irrigated but not less than 50 percent of the irrigable area of each privately-owned tract whether water is used or not, except that on individual ownerships of from 10 to 20 irrigable acres, payment shall be made for at least 10 acres, and on individual ownerships of 10 or less irrigable acres, payment shall be made in full for said acreage. All such payments shall be payable by the District in advance of the delivery of water, except that for individual ownerships having more than 20 irrigable acres, payments in advance of delivery of water shall be made on a minimum of 10 acres. For the advance payment of water rental outlined above, the maximum of three acre-feet of water per irrigable acre will be furnished. One dollar and fifteen cents per acre-foot will be charged for any water furnished to any tract in excess of three acre-feet per acre. The amount charged for such excess water, together with the balance due on ownerships of more than 20 irrigable acres, will be payable by each individual landowner to the District on or before December 20, 1951, and such charges shall be paid by the District to the United States on or before December 31, 1951.

(c) For the rental of water during the irrigation season of 1951 for new lands comprising homestead farm units under the pump system of the Payette Division, there will be a minimum charge of $2.70 per acre of land irrigated, payable by the District in advance of the delivery of water, upon a minimum of 10 acres. Payment up to the total irrigable acreage in each farm unit shall be made in advance of the delivery of water in multiples of 10 acres. For the advance payment of water rental outlined above, the maximum of three acre-feet of water per irrigable acre will be furnished. One dollar and fifteen cents per acre-foot will be charged for any water furnished to any farm unit in excess of three acre-feet per acre. The amount charged for such excess water will be payable by each individual owner of a farm unit to the District on or before December 20, 1951, and charges for such excess water shall be paid by the District to the United States on or before December 31, 1951.

3. For the irrigation season of 1952, it is contemplated that lands served by water under the pump system of the Payette Division shall pay the minimum charge per irrigable acre as announced for that year for the total irrigable area of each privately-owned tract whether water is used or not.

4. The foregoing arrangements are a temporary expedient for the 1951 irrigation season only. The Bureau of Reclamation is now discussing a long-range repayment plan with the District's board of directors. The present arrangements are made with the understanding that all reasonable effort will be made by the Bureau of Reclamation and the District's board of directors to agree on a long-range repayment plan and to present it to the District's electors at the earliest possible date.

5. Water for Payette Division lands will be delivered and measured by Government forces at the nearest available measuring device to the individual farm.

6. Any charge, or any part thereof, required to be paid to the United States under this notice, and which remains unpaid after it shall become due and payable, shall be subject to, and there shall be paid a penalty at the rate of one-half percent per month from the date of delinquency.

7. Individual landowners in the Payette Division will make their applications for water and the payments required by this public notice direct to the Black Canyon Irrigation District office, Notus, Idaho. Applications by the irrigation district for water and payments by the District to the United States on the basis of this public notice will be received at the office of the Bureau of Reclamation, 214 Broadway, Boise, Idaho.

Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File No. 70-2599]

NORTHERN NATURAL GAS CO.

NOTICE OF FILING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 13th day of April 1951.

Notice is hereby given that an application-declaration and an amendment thereto have been filed with this Commission, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, by Northern Natural Gas Company ("Northern"), a registered holding company. Applicant-declarant has designated sections 6 and 7 of the act as applicable to the proposed transactions.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than April 25, 1951, at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law raised by such application-declaration, as amended, proposed to be controverted, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time thereafter such application-declaration, as filed or as further amended, may be granted and permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to said act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100 thereof.

All interested persons are referred to said amended application-declaration, which is on file in the office of this Commission, for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which are summarized as follows:

Northern has arranged a line of credit in the amount of $30,000,000 with a group of 8 commercial banks, pursuant to which it will issue and sell to such banks, from time to time but not later than March 22, 1952, a maximum of $30,000,000 principal amount of its promissory notes. Said notes will bear interest at the "prime rate" in effect at the time each note is issued and each note will mature on or before nine months from the date of its issue. Said notes may be prepaid at any time prior to maturity without penalty or premium.

Northern, pursuant to the exemption provided in section 6 (b) of the act, has heretofore issued and sold on March 22, 1951, $5,100,000 principal amount of such notes and now proposes the issuance and sale of the balance of $24,900,000 principal amount of such notes, as above stated. The proceeds of the sale of the notes are to be utilized to defray, in part, the cost of Northern's construction program for the year 1951, which is estimated at approximately $60,000,000. Completion of the construction program is dependent on the availability of materials and certain other factors.

The long term financing of Northern's 1951 construction program will require the sale of securities to the public in the aggregate amount of approximately $51,000,000 which Northern states will consist of debentures and common stock. The bank notes herein proposed will be repaid by Northern out of the proceeds of the sale of such securities.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

his application has been approved or who sells honey for such diversion, and (d) who otherwise complies with all the terms and conditions of this subpart. An application must be filed either prior to or at the time of diversion or of sale for diversion upon which payment will be claimed. Payment will be made after the honey is diverted. Applications based (1) on intent of the applicant to divert or (2) on firm sales contracts, will be approved in the order submitted and in accordance with the availability of funds. Applications based on sales negotiations shall be approved in the same manner, but approval shall be subject to the completion of negotiations and notification to the Director, within 30 days from date of approval, of the quantity and floral source of the honey set forth in the final sales contract. If such notification is not received by the 30th day, the Director may cancel the approval. The Director reserves the right to withdraw approval of any application based on sales negotiations, but such withdrawal must be made prior to receipt of notice of completion of the sales negotiations. Only one person will be eligible for payment on any one diversion of honey, and such person shall be the packer-diverter or the packer who sells direct to a diverter other than a packer, for purposes of diversion or a wholesaler who, not having purchased for purposes of diversion, sells the honey to a diverter. Applicants may make their sales contracts under this subpart subject to the condition that the Department of Agriculture will make a diversion payment on such sales.

§ 524.203 Period for diversion. No payment under this subpart will be made in connection with any honey diverted by the applicant or sold into an approved diversion outlet unless the diversion was accomplished by the applicant or the sales contract was entered into after the effective date of this subpart and prior to 12 o'clock midnight, e. s. t., March 31, 1952. Where diversion is by a manufacturer other than the applicant, the time for diversion shall extend to 12 o'clock midnight, e. s. t., April 30, 1952.

§ 524.204 Diversion. As used in this subpart, diversion means the utilization of domestically-produced honey in the manufacture of an approved product, by blending with one or more other commodities, by coating of a food, feed, or tobacco product, or by any other method approved by the Director, so as to preclude re-use or consumption of the honey as honey. Approval of diversion products shall be restricted to those in which (a) no honey has been utilized by any manufacturer since January 1, 1948, except pursuant to an approved diversion application, or (b) the use of honey has been negligible as to either the number of manufacturers or the percentage of the total sweetening agents employed in the product, or both.

§ 524.205 Rate of payment. The rate of payment applicable to honey grading U. S. Grade C or better diverted in accordance with the terms and conditions contained in this subpart shall be 3.75 cents per pound.

§ 524.206 Net price to buyer. The net price per unit of weight charged the buyer shall be established by deducting the rate of payment under this subpart from the gross sales price of such unit of weight.

§ 524.207 Minimum grade and inspection. Honey diverted under this subpart shall be equal to or better than U. S. Grade C of the "United States Standards for Grades of Extracted Honey," effective April 16, 1951. It shall have been inspected at either the diverter's or at the applicant's plant or warehouse, prior to diversion. Such inspection shall be performed by an inspector of the Processed Products Standardization and Inspection Division, United States Department of Agriculture. The cost of the inspection and issuance of certificates shall be borne by the applicant.

§ 524.208 Period for filing claims. Applicants hereunder shall file claim for payment not later than May 31, 1952.

§ 524.209 Proof of claim. (a) If applicant is located in California, Oregon, Washington, Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Nevada, New Mexico, Montana, Utah or Wyoming, claim or claims for payment under this subpart shall be filed with Werner Allmendinger, P. O. Box 3638 (335 Fell Street), San Francisco 2, California, and if applicant is located in any other State, such claim or claims shall be filed with E. M. Graham, United States Department of Agriculture, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Washington 25, D. C. Each claim for payment shall be filed in an original and three copies on voucher form FDA-564 and shall be supported by (1) the original and one copy of the inspection certificate or certificates required in § 524.207, (2) the original and a copy of a certified statement of the applicant that he has diverted in the manner specified in his application and within the applicable period specified in § 524.203; or has sold and delivered for diversion the honey covered by such inspection certificates in accordance with the terms and conditions of this subpart, and that such honey was produced in the continental United States, (3) where diverter is other than applicant, two signed or certified true copies of the sales contract, (4) where diverter is other than applicant, a certification in duplicate from the diverter of such honey that such diversion has been accomplished and the manner and date of such diversion, and (5) such other documents as may be required by the Director as evidence of the diversion of honey.

AUTHORITY: §§ 524.231 to 524.249 issued under sec. 32, 49 Stat. 774, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 612c.

§ 524.231 General statement. In order to encourage the exportation of honey produced in continental United States, the Secretary of Agriculture, pursuant to the authority conferred by section 32 of Public Law 320, 74th Congress, as amended, offers to make payments to United States exporters upon the terms and conditions stated in this subpart.

§ 524.232 Eligibility for payment. Payments will be made to any United States exporter of honey (except as provided in § 524.247), (a) who executes an application in quadruplicate, on the form set forth below, covering a firm sales contract which is dated not later than March 31, 1952, and which is received by the Director within the 30-day period following the execution of the sales contract, or who confirms the execution of a firm sales contract resulting from a prior sales negotiation, the application for which has been previously submitted to the Director in quadruplicate, on the form set forth below, and approved by the Director, if such confirmation is received by the Director within the 30-day period following the execution of the firm sales contract, which must be executed not later than March 31, 1952; (b) whose application has been approved by the Director; (c) who sells honey for export to an eligible destination as stated in § 524.235 pursuant to this subpart, and who furnishes evidence of exportation of such honey as required by § 524.240; and (d) who otherwise complies with all the terms and conditions of this subpart. Applications based on firm sales contracts will be approved in the order in which they are submitted for export sales (see § 524.233), and as long as funds are available. Applications based on sales negotiations will be approved in the same manner. The confirmation of completion of a sales negotiation shall include a statement of the quantity of honey, floral source, destination, and name and address of buyer named in the final sales contract. If a firm sales contract resulting from a prior sales negotiation, the application for which has been previously approved by the Director, is not executed within 30 days following the date of approval of said application, the Director may cancel the approval of the application. The Director reserves the right to withdraw approval of any application based on sales negotiations, but such withdrawal must be made prior to receipt of notice of completion of the sales negotiations. Applicants may make their sales contracts under this subpart subject to the condition that the Department of Agriculture will make an export payment on such sales.

§ 524.233 Period for export sales. Sales contracts for the exportation of honey under this subpart must be entered into on or after the effective date of this subpart and prior to 12 o'clock midnight, e. s. t., March 31, 1952.

§ 524.234 Period for exportation. Exportation from continental United States in fulfillment of export sales under this subpart shall be accomplished on or after the date of the sales contract and prior to 12 o'clock midnight, e. s. t., April 30, 1952.

§ 524.235 Eligible destinations. Eligible destinations shall be limited to: Austria, Belgium-Luxembourg, Denmark, Finland, France, Federal Republic of Germany, Greece, Iceland, Ireland, Italy, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Trieste (Free Territory), United Kingdom, Yugoslavia, Egypt, Union of South Africa; Afganistan, Arabia, Burma, Ceylon, India, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Israel and Palestine, Japan, Jordan, Lebanon, Pakistan, Southern Korea, Syria, Taiwan (Formosa), Thailand, Tibet, Turkey, Yemen; Australia, New Zealand, and the dependencies and overseas territories of such countries other than those located in or adjacent to the Americas.

§ 524.236 Rate of payment. The rate of payment applicable to honey of U. S. Grade C or better exported in accordance with the terms and conditions contained in this subpart shall be the lowest of the following: (a) 4.5 cents per pound, (b) 50 percent of the sales price (computed before deduction of such payment) as determined by the Director, basis free alongside ship United States ports of exportation; except that if shipment from packing plant or warehouse to the nearest U. S. port from which honey is customarily shipped would result in a lower rate payable under this subpart, the honey shall be deemed to have been shipped from such nearest port, or (c) 50 percent of the domestic market price of the honey at the time of sale and place of delivery in the United States, as determined by the Director.

§ 524.237 Net price to foreign buyer. The net price per unit of weight charged the foreign buyer shall be established by deducting the rate of export payment under this subpart from the gross sales price of such unit of weight.

§ 524.238 Minimum grade and inspection. Honey exported under this subpart shall be equal to or better than U. S. Grade C of the United States Standards for Grades of extracted honey, effective April 16, 1951, and shall have been inspected not more than 30 calendar days prior to shipment from packing plant or warehouse to the port of exportation. The inspection shall be performed by an inspector of the Processed Products Standardization and Inspection Division, United States Department of Agriculture. The cost of the inspection and issuance of the certificates shall be borne by the exporter.

§ 524.239 Period for filing claims. The exporter shall file claim for payment under this subpart by mailing it or delivering it directly to the offices referred to in § 524.240 not later than May 31, 1952.

§ 524.240 Proof of claim. (a) If exporter is located in California, Oregon, Washington, Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Nevada, New Mexico, Montana, Utah, or Wyoming, such claim shall be filed with Werner Allmendinger, P. O. Box 3638 (335 Fell Street), San Francisco 2, California; and if exporter is located in any other State, such claim shall be filed with E. M. Graham, United States Department of Agriculture, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Washington 25, D. C. Each claim for payment shall be filed in an original and three copies on voucher form FDA-564. Each claim shall be supported by (1) two signed or certified true copies of the sales contract, (2) two copies of the applicable on-board ocean carrier bill of lading signed by an agent of the ocean carrier (except that where loss, destruction or damage occurs subsequent to loading on board ocean carrier but prior to issuance of on-board bill of lading, two copies of a loading tally sheet or similar document may be submitted in lieu of such bill of lading), (3) the original and one copy of the inspection certificate required in § 524.238, (4) a certification in duplicate that the honey has been exported to an eligible country of destination and (5) such other documents as may be required by the Director as evidence of sale and exportation of the honey on which payment is claimed. An exporter can comply with the requirement with respect to inspection certificates by filing a copy of the original inspection certificate signed by the inspector who issued it and one copy of such inspection certificate.

(c) Each on-board ocean carrier bill of lading shall show the number of boxes, markings, and gross weight, the date and place of loading on vessel, the name of the vessel, the destination of the honey, and the name and address of both the person exporting the honey and the person to whom it is shipped. If the shipper or consignor named in such bill of lading is other than the exporter (seller) named in the sales contract, the exporter shall furnish with his claim a waiver by such shipper or consignor of any right to claim payment under this subpart for exportation of the quantity of honey covered by such bill of lading. If the bill of lading shows the name of a person different from that appearing as the buyer on the contract under which the bill of lading is made, the exporter shall accompany his claim on the exportation covered by such bill of lading with a certification in duplicate that the shipment under that bill of lading is to the buyer named in the contract and is made pursuant to that contract.

§ 524.241 Records and accounts. Each exporter shall maintain accurate records and preserve them until at least March 31, 1954 showing the quantities, sales prices, and deliveries of honey exported in connection with the offer in this subpart. Such records, accounts, and other documents relating to any transaction in connection herewith shall be available during regular business hours for inspection and audit by authorized employees of the United States Department of Agriculture.

§ 524.242 Re-entry, diversion, loss. If any quantity of honey exported under the provisions of this subpart re-enters the United States or its territories or possessions or is diverted to an ineligible country of destination, payment may be withheld or, if payment has already been made by the United States Government, the exporter shall refund the amount received on the quantity of honey which so re-enters the United States or is so diverted: Provided, That, if the honey with respect to which payment may be withheld or refund required under this section is damaged after exportation, the payment withheld or refund required shall be an amount determined by the Director which, however, shall not exceed the amount realized or which might reasonably be realized by the exporter over the net price at which he sold to the foreign buyer. In case of complete loss or destruction of the honey or any part thereof after exportation, without fault or negligence of the exporter, no refund of the payment shall be required for the quantity so lost or destroyed. The exporter shall notify the Director immediately upon becoming cognizant of any unloading, diversion of, or damage to the honey with respect to which refund may be required under this section and shall furnish information as to any claim he may have in connection with such event.

§ 524.243 Set-off. The Director may set off, against any amount owed to any exporter under this subpart, any amount owed by such exporter to Commodity Credit Corporation, the United States Department of Agriculture, or any other agency of the United States.

§ 524.244 Assignment. No exporter shall, without the written consent of the Director, assign any claim of the exporter against the Secretary hereunder or make a lienholder a joint payee with respect to any such claim. With such consent, an exporter may assign, in accordance with the provisions of the Assignment of Claims Act of 1940, any claim for payment under this subpart, or make a lienholder a joint payee with respect to any such claim. In case of such assignment, the Director may set off any claim against the exporter arising out of the exportation on which the assigned claim is based, and may set off any other claim of the United States against the exporter based on facts existing at the time of the assignment or based on facts arising thereafter prior to the knowledge by the Director of the assignment.

§ 524.245 Amendment. This subpart may be amended by the Director at any time by public announcement of such amendment. Notice of any amendment will be transmitted promptly to every exporter participating in the program on record with the Fruit and Vegetable Branch. No amendment shall be applicable to any honey covered by an approved application based on either a firm sales contract or sales negotiation or to any other firm sales contract made before the effective time and date of such amendment.

§ 524.246 Termination. This subpart may be terminated by the Director at any time by public notice of such termination. Termination shall not be applicable to any honey covered by an approved application based on either a firm sales contract or sales negotiation or to any other firm sales contract made before the effective time and date of such termination.

§ 524.247 Persons not eligible for payment. (a) Payments under this subpart will not be made to any Department, agency, or establishment of the United States Government administering any law providing for the furnishing of assistance or relief to foreign countries.

(b) No member of or delegate to Congress, or resident Commissioner shall be admitted to any share or part of any contract resulting from this subpart or to any benefit that may arise therefrom, but this provision shall not be construed to extend to such a contract if made with a corporation for its general benefit, or to such person in his capacity as a beekeeper.

It is further ordered, That all of the respondents herein except those as to whom the amended complaint has been dismissed, shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with this order.

In the Matter of Arnold Coat Company, Inc., et al.

This proceeding was heard by Webster Ballinger, trial examiner, upon the complaint of the Commission and the joint answer of respondents in which they admitted all of the material allegations of fact set forth in the complaint and waived all intervening procedure and further hearing as to said facts on the condition that all admissions of fact were made solely for the purposes of the instant proceeding, the enforcement or review thereof in the Circuit Court of Appeals, and for any review thereof in the Supreme Court of the United States, or for any other court proceedings in connection therewith which might be brought or instituted by virtue of the authority contained in the Federal Trade Commission Act as amended by the act of March 21, 1938.

Thereafter the proceeding regularly came on for final hearing before said trial examiner upon the complaint, and upon the admission answer of all the respondents, and said trial examiner, having duly considered the record in said matter, and having found that said proceeding was in the interest of the public, made his initial decision comprising certain findings as to the facts, conclusion drawn therefrom, and order to cease and desist.

No appeal having been filed from said initial decision of said trial examiner as provided for in Rule XXII, nor any other action taken as thereby provided to prevent said initial decision becoming the decision of the Commission thirty days from service thereof upon the parties, said initial decision, including said order to cease and desist, accordingly, under the provisions of said Rule XXII, became the decision of the Commission January 26, 1951.

The said order to cease and desist is as follows:

Ravitch, individually and as officers of Arnold Coat Company, Inc., directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the manufacture for introduction, or introduction into commerce, or the offering for sale, sale, transportation or distribution in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the aforesaid Acts, of coats and other wool products which contain, or in any way are represented as containing "wool," "reprocessed wool" or "reused wool," as those terms are defined in the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, do forthwith cease and desist from misbranding said products by failing to securely affix to or place on each of such products a stamp, tag, label or other means of identification, or a substitute therefor, showing in clear and conspicuous manner:

(A) The percentage of the total fiber weight of such wool product, exclusive of ornamentation not exceeding 5 per centum of said total fiber weight, of (1) wool; (2) reprocessed wool; (3) reused wool, (4) each fiber other than wool where said percentage by weight of such fiber is 5 per centum or more; and (5) the aggregate of all other fibers;

(B) The maximum percentage of the total weight of such wool product, of any non-fibrous loading, filling, or adulterating matter;

(C) In the case of a wool product containing a fiber other than wool, the percentages by weight, in words and figures plainly legible, of the wool contents thereof;

(D) The name of the manufacturer of the wool product, or the name of one or more persons subject to section 3 of the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, or the registered identification number of such person or persons as provided in Rule 4 of the regulations as amended.

PART 199—CANVAS COVER INDUSTRY

PROMULGATION OF TRADE PRACTICE RULES

Due proceedings having been held under the trade practice conference procedure in pursuance of the act of Congress approved September 26, 1914, as amended (Federal Trade Commission Act), and other provisions of law administered by the Commission;

It is now ordered, That the trade practice rules of Group I and Group II, as hereinafter set forth, which have been approved and received, respectively, by the Commission in this proceeding, be promulgated as of April 18, 1951.

Statement by the Commission. Trade practice rules for the Canvas Cover Industry, as hereinafter set forth, are promulgated by the Federal Trade Commission under the trade practice conference procedure.

Members of the industry are the persons, firms, corporations and organizations engaged in manufacturing, finishish, treating, processing, or marketing "canvas covers" as such term is delineated in the definitions preceding § 199.1.

The rules are directed to the maintenance of free and fair competition in the industry and to the elimination and prevention of unfair methods of competition, deceptive practices, and other trade abuses. To this end various unfair trade practices are defined and proscribed and guidance is given in the proper use of certain significant terms and in making nondeceptive disclosure of the size of canvas covers and of the type and grey-goods weight of the fabric contained therein.

Among the practices prohibited are misrepresentation respecting fire, water, weather, and mildew resistance, and as to size, shrinkage, origin, and other pertinent factors; harmful and excessive stretching; deceptive guarantees and warranties; false invoicing; defamation and disparagement; illegal discrimination; and other unfair trade practices.

Proceedings for establishment of the rules included the holding of an industry-wide trade practice conference, under Commission auspices, in Cincinnati, Ohio, at which conference suggested rules were discussed and submitted by the industry for the consideration of the Commission. Subsequently a further hearing was held upon public notice whereby all interested or affected parties, including consumers, were afforded opportunity to present their views, suggestions, objections, or amendments respecting proposed rules, and to be heard in the premises.

Following such hearing, and upon full consideration of all matters submitted in the proceedings, the Commission approved and received, respectively, the rules hereinafter appearing in Group I and Group II. Such rules become operative thirty (30) days after the date of promulgation.

These rules promulgated by the Commission are designed to foster and promote the maintenance of fair competitive conditions in the interest of protecting industry, trade, and the public. It is to this end, and to the exclusion of any act or practice which suppresses competition, restrains trade, fixes or controls price through combination or agreement, or which otherwise injures, destroys, or prevents competition, that the rules are to be applied.

§ 199.0 Definitions. (a) "Canvas cover": For the purpose of this part the term "canvas cover" as used in this part shall mean a cover, made wholly or principally of canvas material, which is adapted for use as a portable or stationary shelter or protection from the sun, water, rain, weather, or other condition, such as tarpaulins, truck covers, flat covers, drop cloths, tents, canopies, awnings, and similar articles.

(b) "Canvas material": As used in this part the words "canvas material" shall be deemed to mean all kinds and types of canvas, including, but not limited to, all kinds of duck, drill, jean, twill, osnaburg, sheeting, or any substitute fabric from which a canvas cover may be made.

GROUP I

General statement. The unfair trade practices embraced in §§ 199.1 to 199.24 are considered to be unfair methods of competition, unfair or deceptive acts or practices, or other illegal practices, prohibited under laws administered by the Federal Trade Commission; and appropriate proceedings in the public interest will be taken by the Commission to prevent the use, by any person, partnership, corporation, or other organization subject to its jurisdiction, of such unlawful practices in commerce.

§ 199.1 Misrepresentation respecting ability to resist fire and flame, water passage, and deterioration due to the sun, weather, or mildew[1]—(a) In general. In the sale, offering for sale, or distribution of canvas covers, it is an unfair trade practice to use any mark, brand, tag, label, advertisement, or other representation, which has the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers, or the public into the belief:

(1) That such covers have been treated so as to be immune or resistant to fire or flame when such is not the fact, or into the belief that covers so treated have a greater degree of resistance to fire or flame, or will retain their fire or flame-resistant properties for a longer period of time, than is in fact true; or

(2) That such covers have been so treated as to be impermeable or resistant to water passage when such is not the fact, or into the belief that treated covers have a greater degree of resistance to water passage, or will retain their resistance to water passage for a longer period of time, than is in fact true; or

(3) That such covers have been so treated as to be immune or resistant to deterioration due to exposure to the sun, weather, or mildew when such is not the fact, or into the belief that treated covers have a greater degree of resistance to such deterioration, or will retain their resistance to such deterioration for a longer period of time, than is in fact true.

(b) Misuse of the term "proof." In accordance with the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section, the following requirements respecting use of the term "proof," or similar representations, shall apply:

(1) The term "fireproof," "flameproof," or any other word, term, or representation of similar import, shall not be used as descriptive of any canvas cover unless such cover is incombustible and will remain so throughout its expected life under normal use.

NOTE: It is the consensus of the industry that there is no commercial treatment for canvas material which, when applied in quantity and manner as to assure of an optimum of efficiency, will render such fabric incombustible for any substantial length of time when exposed to direct flame.

(2) The term "waterproof," or any other word, term, or representation of similar import, shall not be used as descriptive of any canvas cover unless such cover is impermeable to water and moisture and will remain so throughout its expected life under normal use.

(3) The terms "weatherproof," "sunproof," "mildewproof," or any words, terms, or representations of similar import, shall not be used as descriptive of any canvas cover unless such cover is immune to deterioration due to the action of the weather, sun, or mildew, respectively. [Rule 1]

§ 199.2 Disclosure as to size of product and kind and weight of fabric. (a) In connection with the offering for sale, sale, or distribution of canvas covers, it is an unfair trade practice to deceptively conceal the true size or dimension of such covers or the kind and grey-goods weight of the fabric; or to advertise, mark, brand, stamp, tag, label, or otherwise represent or describe, any canvas cover in a manner having the capacity and tendency or effect of confusing, misleading, or deceiving the purchasing or consuming public as to the size or any dimension of such canvas covers, or as to the kind, grey-goods weight, or other grade or quality of the fabric.

(b) To the end that confusion, misunderstanding, deception, and unfair competitive practices may be avoided and prevented, canvas covers (other than tents or awnings which are "custom-made" or "tailor-made" as defined in § 199.4)[2] shall be properly marked so that the size and dimensions, and the kind and grey-goods weight of the fabric, may be effectively disclosed to purchasers and consumers in a manner which is truthful, definite, unambiguous, and in no way misleading or deceptive. The following provisions for proper marking shall be applicable for the purposes stated in this section:

(c) Disclosure of size of tarpaulins and flat covers:

(1) Finished size. Each tarpaulin or flat cover shall be so marked as to disclose plainly the actual size or dimensions thereof at the time of completion of manufacture. Such size shall be designated "finished size" and shall be accompanied by a statement clearly indicating that such "finished size" is the size at the time of completion of manufacture and revealing the fact, when such is the case, that the product is subject to shrinkage due to varying climatic conditions and possible retraction from tension applied in the course of manufacture, as for example:

Finished size (size at time of completion of manufacture): 8 feet by 10 feet.

This product is subject to shrinkage due to varying climatic conditions and possible retraction from tension applied in the course of manufacture.

(2) Cut size. The term "cut size" as used in §§ 199.1 to 199.24 shall mean the size or dimensions of a canvas cover before the making of its seams, hems, or reinforcement turn-overs. Nothing in §§ 199.1 to 199.24 shall be construed as prohibiting truthful disclosure of the cut size of a canvas when such cut size is shown in conjunction with, and with no greater conspicuousness than, any marking of the "finish size," and when explanation is made of the meaning of "cut size." Such conjunctive marking of finished and cut size shall be accompanied by a statement clearly indicating that the product is subject to shrinkage due to climatic conditions and possible retraction from tension applied in the course of manufacture. The following is an example of proper size marking when cut size is shown:

Finished size (size at time of completion of manufacture): 8 feet by 10 feet.

Cut size (size before making seams, hems, and reinforcement turn-overs: 8 feet 6 inches by 10 feet 6 inches.

This product is subject to shrinkage due to varying climatic conditions and possible retraction from tension applied in the course of manufacture.

(d) Disclosure of size of tents:

(1) (i) Each tent[2] shall be so marked as to disclose plainly the finished size at the time of the completion of manufacture. The ground or base dimensions and the center height shall be given and, where pertinent, the wall or eave dimensions. Other dimensions of the tent may also be given, provided they are given as finished dimensions at the completion of manufacture thereof.

(ii) Where it is desired to show the "cut size" in addition to the "finished size," the same shall be shown in conformity with paragraph (c) (2) of this section.

(iii) A qualifying statement shall also accompany the size marking revealing the fact, when such is the case, that the product is subject to shrinkage due to varying climatic conditions and possible retraction from tension in accordance with the applicable example following paragraph (c) (1) or (2) of this section.

(e) Disclosure of size of awnings:

(1) In disclosing size or dimensions of awnings,[2] the width, drop and extension (exclusive of valance) shall be stated in the finished size at the time of completion of manufacture. The valance, where given, shall be stated as an additional item to the drop, as for example:

Drop 36 inches, Valance 8 inches.

Where it is desired to show the "cut size" in addition to the "finished size," the same shall be shown in conformity with paragraph (c) (2) of this section.

NOTE: Nothing in this section shall be construed as prohibiting nondeceptive representation of an awning as having been made to fit a certain size window or opening, provided such awning will satisfactorily and fully fit such designated opening without the necessity of any stretching, distortion, or other material adaptation.

(f) Disclosure of kind and weight of fabric:

(1) Each canvas cover[2] shall be so marked as to disclose clearly and unambiguously the commercial type of fabric (such as "Army duck," "double filling duck," "drill," "jean," "osnaburg," etc.) and the original grey-goods weight of the fabric. Such weight shall be shown in ounces per square yard to the nearest 1/100 of an ounce subject to recognized mill tolerance and tables of conversion as shown in Commercial Standard CS28-46 of the National Bureau of Standards. (See also § 199.104.)

(2) No marking or sales description referring to the loaded weight of the fabric after treatment shall be used which creates or tends to create confusion or deception in the merchandising of the products. Nothing herein, however, shall be construed as prohibiting the marking or stamping of other additional information on the canvas cover, or on the tag or label affixed thereto: Provided, Such additional marking or stamping shall be in accord with true facts and with all provisions of §§ 199.1 to 199.24: And provided further, That the same shall in no way tend to confuse or mislead with respect to the abovementioned required markings, or otherwise.

(g) Type of marking to be used:

(1) The marking in the several respects provided for in this section shall be clearly and conspicuously set forth either upon the canvas cover itself, or upon a durable tag or label securely sewed or attached to the canvas cover in such manner as to carry through to the ultimate consumer; and the information to be disclosed shall be written or printed with such permanency as to remain legible throughout the market-

[1] Specific guidance to industry members respecting the use of words, terms, or representations importing resistance to fire, water, weather, and mildew as descriptive of canvas covers is dependent upon formulation of minimum standards and test methods which will afford adequate consumer protection. When such have been established, the Commission will give consideration to amending §§ 199.1 to 199.24 by incorporating the same.

[2] Tents or awnings which are "custom-made" or "tailor-made" as defined in § 199.4 need not under these rules be marked as to size, or as to the kind and weight of the fabric, where no deception is practiced in connection therewith.

ing of the product in the channels of trade and delivery to the ultimate consumer. [Rule 2]

§ 199.3 Resort to harmful and excessive stretching prohibited. The practice of unduly or excessively stretching cloth in finishing, treating, or processing operations reduces the quality of the cloth and of the product made therefrom and induces harmful and undesirable contraction, shrinkage, and undersize after completion of manufacture of the product; and it is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry to cause or promote any such harmful and undue or excessive stretching or tension with respect to the canvas material or canvas cover, either in his own processing, manufacturing, or treating operations, or by any other processing, manufacturing, or treating concern. The limited ordinary and necessary tension which is required under good manufacturing, processing, and treating operations carefully applied shall not, under this section, be construed as coming within the term "undue or excessive stretching" as herein used. [Rule 3]

§ 199.4 Misuse of term "custom-made" or "custom-tailored." In the sale, offering for sale, or distribution of canvas covers, it is an unfair trade practice to use the term "custom-made" or "custom-tailored," or terms or representations of similar import, as descriptive of any canvas cover when the same has not been cut and made pursuant to individual specifications for a specific opening or specified place of use by the ultimate consumer or purchaser (as distinguished from a ready-made or stock canvas cover). [Rule 4]

§ 199.5 Use of terms "shrunk," "preshrunk," etc. In offering for sale, advertising, selling, or distributing any canvas cover or canvas covers, it is an unfair trade practice to use the terms "preshrunk," "shrunk," "full shrunk," "shrinkproof," "double shrunk," or any word, term, or phrase of similar meaning, import, or scope, as descriptive of any canvas cover, unless the same has in fact been preshrunk to the extent that there remains no residual shrinkage therein; Provided, That nothing in this section shall prohibit the use of the term "shrunk" or "preshrunk" as descriptive of canvas covers (though some residual shrinkage remains therein) if the same have in fact been substantially preshrunk and there is stated in conjunction with such terms, and with equal emphasis, conspicuousness, and display, the percentage or maximum percentage of residual shrinkage remaining therein. The designations and provisions for the proper disclosure of residual shrinkage as specified in the trade practice rules relating to "Shrinkage of Woven Cotton Yard Goods," promulgated by the Federal Trade Commission June 30, 1938, shall be available to the members of the industry for their use and guidance in the application of this section. [Rule 5]

§ 199.6 Loading or adulterating industry products. The practice of adulterating or loading industry products being deceptive and harmful to purchasers and productive of unfair methods of competition, it is an unfair trade practice to adulterate or load any canvas cover or product of the industry by adding or applying to the fabric any substance or product which does not contribute or perform a useful service to the full extent applied, or by any other means to adulterate or load such canvas cover or product of the industry. [Rule 6]

§ 199.7 Misrepresentation as to origin. In the sale, offering for sale, or distribution of canvas covers, it is an unfair trade practice to use any marking, labeling, advertising, or other representation which has the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers or prospective purchasers:

(a) Into the belief that such canvas covers, or any part thereof, were made or manufactured in the United States when such is not the fact; or

(b) Into the belief that such canvas covers, or any part thereof, were made or manufactured in a foreign country when such is not the fact; or

(c) Into any other erroneous belief as to origin of the product or any part thereof. [Rule 7]

NOTE: Products of foreign manufacture when imported into the United States are required to be marked as showing the country of origin under provisions of U. S. C. A., Title 19, Sec. 1304, and nothing in §§ 199.1 to 199.24 shall be construed as relieving anyone from such requirements.

§ 199.8 Deception as to being new. (a) It is an unfair trade practice to sell, offer for sale, or distribute canvas covers under circumstances or conditions which have the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving the purchasing or consuming public into the erroneous belief that such canvas covers are new and unused when in truth and in fact they are used, rebuilt, or second-hand, in whole or in part.

(b) It is also an unfair trade practice to fail or refuse to make full and non-deceptive disclosure of, and thereby to deceptively conceal, the fact that any canvas cover, or any part thereof, so offered for sale or sold or distributed, has been used, or has been rebuilt, or is second-hand, or is composed of used or reprocessed material, in whole or in part. [Rule 8]

§ 199.9 Misrepresentation not specifically prohibited above. (a) It is an unfair trade practice to sell, offer for sale, or distribute any canvas cover, part thereof, or other products of the industry, under any representation, circumstance, or condition having the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers or prospective purchasers thereof in respect to the grade, quality, type, composition, treatment, durability, performance, size, weight, strength, construction, or origin of any such canvas cover, part, or other product of the industry, or in respect to the manufacture, processing, or distribution thereof, or in a manner which is false, misleading, or deceptive in any other material respect.

(b) Under this section it is an unfair trade practice to misrepresent:

(1) The immunity or degree of resistance, durability, or efficiency of a canvas cover with respect to mildew, water, sun, heat, combustion, cold, ice, or other weather conditions; or

(2) The breaking strength of the warp or filling of the canvas material of a canvas cover; or

(3) The composition or type of treating material applied to or on the canvas material of a treated canvas cover; or

(4) The method or manner of the application of treating materials to or on the canvas material of a treated canvas cover; or

(5) The method or process used in effecting the coloring of the canvas material of a canvas cover; or

(6) The colorfastness properties or qualities of any colored canvas material of a canvas cover; or

(7) The fire or flame-resistant properties or treatment of the cover or fabrics; or

(8) The amount or type of stitching or sewing in effecting seams, hems, or reinforcements of any canvas cover; or

(9) The kind, size, strength, or rot-resistance of thread or twine used in the sewing or stitching of any canvas cover; or

(10) The thread count or weight of the canvas fabric or any canvas cover; or

(11) The size, kind, or type of reinforcements for placement of grommets or eyelets in or upon any canvas cover; or

(12) The number, and the size, type, composition, or strength, of grommets, eyelets, rods, pipes, pulleys, frames, rollers, stakes, poles, or other hardware used on or in connection with a canvas cover; or

(13) The immunity or degree of resistance of grommets, eyelets, rods, pipes, pulleys, frames, stakes, poles, arms, rollers, gears, gear housings, or other hardware of any canvas cover respecting rust, corrosion, rot, or other deterioration; or

(14) The immunity or degree of resistance of the ropes of a canvas cover to rot or mildew deterioration; or

(15) The number, and the size, kind, composition, or strength, of any rope or ropes of a canvas cover; or

(16) In any manner to misrepresent, directly or indirectly, any canvas cover, canvas material, or treatment thereof. [Rule 9]

§ 199.10 Deceptive guarantees, warranties, etc. (a) It is an unfair trade practice to use, or cause to be used, a guarantee which is false, misleading, deceptive, or unfair to the purchasing or consuming public.

(b) Under this section guarantees of the following type or character shall not be used:

(1) Guarantees containing statements, representations, or assertions which have the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving in any respect; or

(2) Guarantees which are so used, or are of such form, text, or character, as to import, imply, or represent that the guarantee is broader than is in fact true; or

(3) Guarantees in which any condition, qualification, or contingency applied by the guarantor thereto is not fully and nondeceptively stated therein, or is stated in such manner or form as to be deceptively minimized, obscured, or concealed, wholly or in part; or

(4) Guarantees which are stated, phrased, or set forth in such manner that although the statements contained therein are literally and technically true, the whole is misleading in that purchasers or users are not made sufficiently aware of certain contingencies or conditions applicable to such guarantee which materially lessen the value or protection thereof as a guarantee to purchasers or users; or

(5) Guarantees which purportedly extend for such an indefinite or unlimited period of time or for such long period of years as to have the capacity and tendency or effect of thereby misleading or deceiving purchasers or users into the belief that the product has or is definitely known to have a greater degree of serviceability or durability in actual use than is in fact true; or

(6) Guarantees which have the capacity and tendency or effect of otherwise misrepresenting the serviceability, durability, or lasting qualities of the product, such as, for example, a guarantee extending for a certain number of years or other long period of time when the ability of the product to last, endure, or remain serviceable for such period of time has not been established by actual experience or by competent and adequate tests definitely showing in either case that the product has such lasting qualities under the conditions encountered or to be encountered in the respective locality where the product is sold and used under the guarantee; or

(7) Purported guarantees in the form of documents, promises, representations, or other form which are represented or held out to be guarantees when such is not the fact, or when they involve any deceptive or misleading use of the word "Guarantee" or terms of similar import; or

(8) Guarantees issued, or directly or indirectly caused to be used, by any member of the industry when or under which the guarantor fails or refuses to scrupulously observe his obligation thereunder or fails or refuses to make good on claims coming reasonably within the terms of the guarantee; or

(9) Guarantees which in themselves or in the manner of their use are otherwise false, misleading, or deceptive.

(c) This section shall be applicable not only to guarantees but also to warranties, to purported warranties and guarantees, and to any promise or representation in the nature of or purporting to be a guarantee or warranty. [Rule 10]

§ 199.11 Misrepresentation as to character of business. It is an unfair trade practice for any person, firm, or corporation to represent, directly or indirectly, that he or it is a canvas cover manufacturer, or that he or it owns or controls a factory engaged in the manufacture of canvas covers, when such is not the fact; or in any other manner to misrepresent the character, extent, or type of his or its business. [Rule 11]

§ 199.12 Imitation or simulation of trade-marks, trade names, etc. The imitation or simulation of the trade-marks, trade names, brands, or labels of competitors, with the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving the purchasing or consuming public, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 12]

§ 199.13 False invoicing. Withholding from or inserting in an invoice or billing any statement or information by reason of which omission or insertion a false record is made, wholly or in part, of the transaction which such invoice or billing purports to represent, with the effect of thereby misleading or deceiving the purchasing or consuming public, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 13]

§ 199.14 Use of lottery schemes. The offering or giving of prizes, premiums, or gifts in connection with the sale of industry products, or as an inducement thereto, by any method which involves lottery or scheme of chance, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 14]

§ 199.15 Defamation of competitors or false disparagement of their products. The defamation of competitors by falsely imputing to them dishonorable conduct, inability to perform contracts, questionable credit standing, or by other false representations, or the false disparagement of the quality, grade, origin, use, construction, design, performance, properties, manufacture, or distribution of the products of competitors, or of their business methods, selling prices, values, credit terms, policies, or services, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 15]

§ 199.16 Procurement of competitors' confidential information by unfair means and wrongful use thereof. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry to obtain information concerning the business of a competitor by bribery of an employee or agent of such competitor, by false or misleading statements or representations, by the impersonation of one in authority, or by any other unfair means, and to use the information so obtained in such manner as to injure said competitor in his business or to suppress competition or unreasonably restrain trade. [Rule 16]

§ 199.17 Unfair threats of infringement suits. The circulation of threats of suits for infringement of patents or trade-marks among customers or prospective customers of competitors, not made in good faith but for the purpose or with the effect of thereby harassing or intimidating such customers or prospective customers or of unduly hampering, injuring, or prejudicing competitors in their business, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 17]

§ 199.18 Inducing breach of contract. Inducing or attempting to induce the breach of existing lawful contracts between competitors and their customers or their suppliers by any false or deceptive means whatsoever, or interfering with or obstructing the performance of any such contractual duties or services by any such means, with the purpose and effect of unduly hampering, injuring, or prejudicing competitors in their business, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 18]

§ 199.19 Commercial bribery. It is an unfair trade practice for a member of the industry, directly or indirectly, to give, or offer to give, or permit or cause to be given, money or anything of value to agents, employees, or representatives of customers or prospective customers, or to agents, employees, or representatives of competitors' customers or prospective customers, without the knowledge of their employers or principals, as an inducement to influence their employers or principals to purchase or contract to purchase products manufactured or sold by such industry member or the maker of such gift or offer, or to influence such employers or principals to refrain from dealing in the products of competitors or from dealing or contracting to deal with competitors. [Rule 19]

§ 199.20 Coercing purchase of one product as a prerequisite to purchase of other products. The practice of coercing the purchase of one or more products as a prerequisite to the purchase of one or more other products where the effect may be to substantially lessen competition, tend to create a monopoly, or to unreasonably restrain trade, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 20]

§ 199.21 Selling below cost. The practice of selling products of the industry at a price less than the cost thereof to the seller, with the purpose or intent, and where the effect may be, to injure, suppress, or stifle competition or tend to create a monopoly in the production or sale of such products, is an unfair trade practice. As used in this section, the term "cost" means the total cost to the seller, including the costs of acquisition, processing, preparation for marketing, sale, and delivery. [Rule 21]

§ 199.22 Prohibited discrimination—(a) Prohibited discriminatory prices, or rebates, refunds, discounts, credits, etc., which effect unlawful price discrimination. In the marketing in commerce[3] of products of the industry of like grade and quality for use, consumption, or resale within the jurisdiction of the United States, and subject to paragraph (A–1) (1), (2), and (3) of this section, it is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged therein to discriminate in price between different purchasers where the effect thereof may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce, or to injure, destroy, or prevent competition with such industry member or with any person who knowingly receives the benefit of such discrimination or with their customers.

[3] As used throughout § 199.22, the word "commerce" means "trade or commerce among the several States and with foreign nations, or between the District of Columbia or any Territory of the United States and any State, Territory, or foreign nation, or between any insular possessions or other places under the jurisdiction of the United States, or between any such possession or place and any State or Territory of the United States or the District of Columbia or any foreign nation, or within the District of Columbia or any Territory or any insular possession or other place under the jurisdiction of the United States."

(A–1) The inhibitions against such discrimination in price shall be applicable irrespective of whether the discrimination in the price itself is effected in the form, or through the means, of rebates, refunds, discounts, credits, allowances, or other form of price differential.

(1) Nothing, however, herein contained shall prevent differentials which make only due allowance for differences in the cost of manufacture, sale, or delivery resulting from the differing methods or quantities in which the products are sold or delivered to said purchasers.

(2) Nor shall anything herein contained prevent persons engaged in selling products in commerce[2] from selecting their own customers in bona fide transactions and not in restraint of trade.

(3) Nor shall anything herein contained prevent price changes from time to time where made in response to changing conditions affecting the market for or the marketability of the products concerned, such as but not limited to actual or imminent deterioration of perishable goods, obsolescence of seasonal goods, distress sales under court process, or sales in good faith in discontinuance of business in the products concerned.

(b) Prohibited brokerage or commissions. In the selling of industry products in commerce,[2] it is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged therein to pay or grant, or to receive or accept, any commission, brokerage, or other compensation, or any allowance or discount in lieu thereof, except for services rendered in connection with the sale or purchase of such products, either to the other party to such transaction or to an agent, representative, or other intermediary therein, where such agent, representative, or other intermediary is acting in fact for or in behalf, or is subject to the direct or indirect control, of any party to such transaction other than the person by whom such compensation is so granted or paid.

(c) Prohibited advertising or promotional allowances, etc. In the selling of industry products in commerce[2] by any member of the industry, and in the course thereof, it is an unfair trade practice for such member to pay or contract for the payment of anything of value to or for the benefit of his customer as compensation or in consideration for certain services or facilities furnished by or through such customer, unless such payment or consideration is available on proportionally equal terms to all other customers of such member competing in the distribution of such products.

(1) As used in this paragraph, the certain services or facilities referred to are such as are furnished by or through the customer in connection with the processing, handling, sale, or offering for sale, of such industry member's products.

[2] See footnote 3 on p. 3385.

(d) Prohibited discrimination in services or facilities. In the sale of industry products bought for resale, with or without processing, it is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce[2] to discriminate in favor of one purchaser against another purchaser by furnishing certain services or facilities upon terms not accorded to all competing purchasers on proportionally equal terms.

(1) Said services or facilities referred to in this paragraph are such as are connected with the processing, handling, sale, or offering for sale, of the products purchased, and the term "furnishing" as used in this paragraph shall be construed as including contracting to furnish, and contributing to the furnishing of, the services or facilities.

(e) Inducing or receiving an illegal discrimination in price. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry, in the course of commerce[2] in which he is engaged, knowingly to induce or receive a discrimination in price which is prohibited by the foregoing provisions of this section.

(f) Exemptions. The inhibitions of this section shall not apply to purchases of their supplies for their own use by schools, colleges, universities, public libraries, churches, hospitals, and charitable institutions not operated for profit. [Rule 22]

NOTE: In complaint proceedings charging discrimination in price or services or facilities furnished, and upon proof having been made of such discrimination, the burden of rebutting the prima facie case thus made by showing justification shall be upon the person charged; and unless justification shall be affirmatively shown, the Commission is authorized to issue an order terminating the discrimination: Provided, however, That nothing herein contained shall prevent a seller rebutting the prima facie case thus made by showing that his lower price or the furnishing of services or facilities to any purchaser or purchasers was made in good faith to meet an equally low price of a competitor or the services or facilities furnished by a competitor.

§ 199.23 Discriminatory returns. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce[2] to discriminate in favor of one customer-purchaser against another customer-purchaser of industry products, bought from such member of the industry for resale, by contracting to furnish, or furnishing in connection therewith, upon terms not accorded to all competing customer-purchasers on proportionally equal terms, the service or facility whereby such favored purchaser is accorded the privilege of returning industry products so purchased and receiving therefor credit or refund of purchase price; Provided however, That nothing in any of the sections in Group I shall prohibit or be used to prevent the return of merchandise by purchaser, for credit or refund of purchase price, when and because such merchandise has not been properly labeled by the seller in accordance with these rules, or has been otherwise falsely or deceptively labeled or represented, or when and because such merchandise is defective in material, workmanship, or in any other respect is contrary to warranty or purchase contract. [Rule 23]

§ 199.24 Aiding or abetting use of unfair trade practices. It is an unfair trade practice for any person, firm, or corporation to aid, abet, coerce, or induce another, directly or indirectly, to use or promote the use of any unfair trade practice specified in these rules or any other unfair method of competition or unfair or deceptive act or practice. [Rule 24]

GROUP II

General statement. Compliance with trade practice provisions embraced in §§ 199.101 to 199.104 is considered to be conducive to sound business methods and is to be encouraged and promoted individually or through voluntary cooperation exercised in accordance with existing law. Nonobservance of such sections does not per se constitute violation of law. Where, however, the practice of not complying with §§ 199.101 to 199.104 is followed in such manner as to result in unfair methods of competition, or unfair or deceptive acts or practices, corrective proceedings may be instituted by the Commission as in the case of violation of §§ 199.1 to 199.24.

§ 199.101 Disclosure of manufacturer's identity. In order to avoid and prevent deception as to the identity of manufacturers of canvas covers and to aid in fixing responsibility for misrepresentation and deceptive concealment of the true facts concerning such canvas covers, it is the judgment of the industry that every manufacturer should indelibly and legibly stamp or mark on the canvas covers made by it, or on a durable tag or label securely attached to such canvas covers, the name or mark of identification of such manufacturer. [Rule A]

§ 199.102 Return of merchandise. The practice, by members of the industry, of selling merchandise and later permitting the purchaser to return it for credit or refund of purchase price, without just cause, creates waste and loss, increases the cost of doing business, operates both to the detriment of the industry and the public, and is condemned by the industry. [Rule B]

§ 199.103 Repudiation of contracts. Lawful contracts are business obligations which should be performed in letter and in spirit. The repudiation of contracts by sellers on a rising market, or by buyers on a declining market, is condemned by the industry. [Rule C]

§ 199.104 Manner of disclosure of type of canvas material. It is the recommendation of the industry that denomination of the type of canvas material of which a canvas cover is made be in accord with the nomenclature and definitions contained in Commercial Standard CS28–46 (Cotton Fabric Tents, Tarpaulins, and Covers) of the National Bureau of Standards. OPINION OF GENERAL COUNSEL, RELATING TO USE OF "HEDGE CLAUSES" BY BROKERS, DEALERS, INVESTMENT ADVISERS, AND OTHERS

§ 241.4593 Opinion of the General Counsel, relating to the use of "hedge clauses" by brokers, dealers, investment advisers, and others. My opinion has been requested concerning the legality of various types of "hedge clauses" which are used in the literature of brokers, dealers, investment advisers and others. While the language of these hedge clauses varies considerably, in substance they state generally that the information furnished is obtained from sources believed to be reliable but that no assurance can be given as to its accuracy. Occasionally language is added to the effect that no liability is assumed with respect to such information.

All the statutes administered by the Commission provide that any condition, stipulation or provision which binds any person to waive compliance with their requirements shall be void. Apart from these provisions, moreover, the courts have repeatedly held that a hedge clause or legend disclaiming liability has little, if any, legal effect as protection against civil liability where a person makes a representation which he knows, or in the exercise of reasonable care could have discovered, is false or misleading. See Equitable Life Insurance Co. of Iowa v. Halsey, Stuart & Co., 312 U. S. 410 (1941); People v. Federated Radio Corporation, 244 N. Y. 33, 154 N. E. 655 (1926); Tone v. Halsey, Stuart & Co., 286 Ill. App. 169, 3 N. E. 2d 142 (1936); Continental Insurance Co. v. Equitable Trust Co., 127 Misc. 45, 215 N. Y. S. 281 (1926); Wolfe v. A. E. Kusterer & Co., 269 Mich. 424, 257 N. W. 729. The question arises, therefore, whether the result, if not the purpose, of such a legend is to create in the mind of the investor a belief that he has given up legal rights and is foreclosed from a remedy which he might otherwise have either at common law or under the SEC statutes.

In my opinion, the anti-fraud provisions of the SEC statutes are violated by the employment of any legend, hedge clause or other provision which is likely to lead an investor to believe that he has in any way waived any right of action he may have, assuming, of course, that the mails or other jurisdictional elements are involved. I refer to section 17 (a) of the Securities Act of 1933, section 10 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and § 240.10b–5 (Rule X–10B–5) thereunder, section 15 (c) (1) of that act and § 240.15c1–2 (Rule X–15C1–2) thereunder in the case of a broker or dealer effecting a transaction over the counter, and section 206 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 in the case of a registered investment adviser.

A legend in common use states in effect that the information is obtained from specified sources and is believed to be reliable but that its accuracy is not guaranteed. Assuming the truth of the representations as to the source of the information and the belief that it is reliable, it is my opinion that the mere use of this legend in connection with a communication supplying information is not objectionable. This does not mean, of course, that there would be any justification for representing to the investor, either when the information is supplied or thereafter, that the effect of the legend is to relieve the person using it from a liability under the above-mentioned statutory provisions and rules. TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Supplementary Regulation 19]

GCPR, SR 19—ADJUSTMENT OF CEILING PRICES OF FAIR TRADE COMMODITIES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Public Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Supplementary Regulation No. 19 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (16 F. R. 809) is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This supplementary regulation to the General Ceiling Price Regulation permits ceiling prices established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation for wholesalers and retailers to be adjusted in certain situations to the minimum prices established under State Fair Trade Acts.

Under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, no retailer or wholesaler may sell a commodity at a price higher than the ceiling price established for him, regardless of the provisions of any State Fair Trade Act or fair trade contract. Cases have come to the attention of the Office of Price Stabilization in which the ceiling price is less than the minimum price stipulated in a fair trade contract.

The present supplementary regulation permits a retailer or wholesaler to apply for adjustment of his ceiling price in such a situation if he can show either that his ceiling price for any commodity is less than the minimum price at which he was lawfully required to sell the commodity during the base period under the provisions of a State Fair Trade Act, or that he has been permanently enjoined by a court from selling the commodity at less than such minimum price, and also that the commodity was generally sold during the base period at prices no lower than such minimum price within the locality in which his selling establishment is located. In a proper case, where the application shows that a fair trade price was generally in effect in the base period and that the seller's ceiling price was below the fair trade price, an order will be issued permitting the ceiling price of the retailer or wholesaler to be increased to the minimum price established under the fair trade law. In some cases this situation was the result of a violation of the fair trade contract; in other cases it resulted from the fact that a manufacturer announced a new fair trade price but permitted the distributor to dispose of marked inventory on hand at the old price.

Where the price established by fair trade contracts has generally been observed during the base period and violations represent the abnormal situation, enforcement of the fair trade contract would not be regarded by the Office of Price Stabilization as substantially interfering with the purpose of the General Ceiling Price Regulation or the Defense Production Act of 1950.

If a retailer or wholesaler is unwilling voluntarily to increase his ceiling price to the fair trade price, the manufacturer will be obliged to have the retailer or wholesaler enjoined from selling below the fair trade price. The Office of Price Stabilization would not and could not prohibit a retailer or wholesaler from selling below his ceiling price. This Office establishes ceiling and not minimum prices, and it has always made clear that it is not a violation of its regulations to sell below a ceiling price. However, if a retailer or wholesaler has been enjoined by a court from selling a commodity below the fair trade price, the Office of Price Stabilization will, upon application by the retailer or wholesaler, increase his ceiling price to the fair trade price under the conditions stated in this supplementary regulation.

FINDINGS OF THE DIRECTOR OF PRICE STABILIZATION

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the provisions of Supplementary Regulation 19 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

So far as practicable the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950; to prices prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950, to June 24, 1950, inclusive; and to relevant factors of general applicability.

In formulating this supplementary regulation the Director has consulted with representatives of industry to the extent practicable under the circumstances and has given consideration to their recommendations.

Take notice that Gulf-Michigan Gas Transmission Corporation (Applicant), a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business at 407 North Eighth Street, St. Louis 1, Missouri, filed on April 4, 1951, an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 (c) of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, authorizing the construction and operation of certain natural-gas transmission pipe line facilities as hereinafter described.

Applicant proposes to construct the following:

(1) Approximately 680 miles of 30-inch diameter main pipe line extending from a point at or near Perryville, Ouachita Parish, Louisiana (just north of Monroe, Louisiana), to a point in the vicinity of St. John, Lake County, Indiana, plus several river crossings of 16-inch and 24-inch diameter pipe.

(2) Approximately 25 miles of 30-inch diameter lateral pipe line extending westerly from its proposed Compressor Station No. 8 to a point approaching the east bank of the Mississippi River opposite St. Louis, Missouri.

(3) Three compressor stations, designated Station Nos. 1, 4, and 8 to be located at or near Perryville; Hickory Ridge, Cross County, Arkansas; and Mascoutah, St. Clair County, Illinois, having installed horsepower of 14,060, 8,800 and 7,920, respectively, or an aggregate installed horsepower of 30,800.

By means of the proposed facilities, Applicant proposes to transport initially a volume of 350,000 Mcf of natural gas daily from southern delivery points of supply to northern and intermediary markets, including the delivery and sale of 200,000 Mcf of gas per day on a firm basis to the Michigan-Wisconsin Pipe Line Company in the vicinity of St. John as well as the delivery and sale to that company of 50,000 Mcf of gas per day on a seasonal basis. Michigan-Wisconsin transports and sells natural gas at wholesale in the States of Michigan and Wisconsin, principally in the metropolitan areas of Detroit and Milwaukee.

Applicant states that the total initial firm sales including the volumes available for the St. Louis area are estimated at a maximum of 350,000 Mcf per day.

[Docket No. G-1089]

TEXAS EASTERN TRANSMISSION CORP.

ORDER REJECTING RATE SCHEDULES AND FIXING DATE OF HEARING

APRIL 12, 1951.

On March 30, 1949, the Commission issued its order herein granting to Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation (Texas Eastern), a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing, among other things, the transportation and sale of natural gas to Texas Gas Transmission Corporation (Texas Gas), at its Lisbon connection, in a volume not to exceed 200,000 Mcf per day upon the condition, among others, that Texas Eastern shall file, at least sixty days prior to the commencement of gas services therein authorized and directed, schedules of rates and charges therefor acceptable to the Commission.

On December 9, 1949, the Commission issued its order modifying said order issued March 30, 1949, to permit the filing of interim schedules of rates and charges to be effective from that date to and including February 23, 1951, relating to said sale and delivery to Texas Gas at the Lisbon connection, conditioned that Texas Eastern file acceptable schedules of rates and charges one month prior to the expiration date of the interim schedules of rates and charges, together with cost studies and other pertinent data, such modification being for the purpose of allowing Texas Eastern additional time within which to comply with the above-mentioned condition of said order issued March 30, 1949.

On February 21, 1951, Texas Eastern filed schedules of interim rates and charges designated "Rate Schedule DCQ-A" and "Rate Schedule E-A" to supersede like designated schedules filed on December 9, 1949, with a request that such schedules be permitted to become effective March 1, 1951, and to continue in effect to and including April 30, 1951.

By order issued March 1, 1951, said interim rate schedules filed by Texas Eastern on February 21, 1951, were allowed to take effect on March 1, 1951, and to continue in effect to and including April 30, 1951. In said order issued March 1, 1951, the requirements of the order issued March 30, 1949, as modified by the order issued December 9, 1949, were further modified as follows:

• • • Texas Eastern shall file on or before April 1, 1951, schedules of rates and charges acceptable to the Commission applicable to sales and deliveries of natural gas by it to Texas Gas at said Lisbon connection.

On March 30, 1951, Texas Eastern filed new schedules of rates and charges designated "Rate Schedule DCQ-A" and "Rate Schedule E-A", relating to sales to Texas Gas at the Lisbon connection, in which Texas Eastern proposes to continue in effect the same rates contained in the presently effective interim schedules relating to such sale.

The Commission's staff has made a study with respect to the proposed rates, including a field study of the operation of the facilities involved in making the sale to Texas Gas, the results of which indicate that the rates provided in the filing of March 30, 1951, may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory and preferential.

The Commission further finds: (1) Based upon the information submitted by Texas Eastern and the staff's studies, the rate schedules tendered for filing by Texas Eastern on March 30, 1951, are not acceptable and should be rejected and Texas Eastern should be given an opportunity to be heard in justification of said filing.

(2) The rate schedules covering the sale of natural gas to Texas Gas at Lisbon, La., for which a certificate of public convenience and necessity was issued in Docket No. G-1089 will not be effective after April 30, 1951, and good cause exists to set this proceeding for hearing upon less than the usual 15 days notice.

The Commission orders:

(A) A public hearing be held commencing on April 23, 1951, at 10:00 a. m. (e. s. t.), in the Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 1800 Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D. C., to determine if the rate schedules tendered for filing by Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, designated as Rate Schedule DCQ-A and Rate Schedule E-A, on March 30, 1951, comply with the above-mentioned conditions of the Commission's order issued March 30, 1949, as modified.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, the above-mentioned rate schedules tendered for filing on March 30, 1951, by Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, are hereby rejected.

(C) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure.

Date of issuance: April 12, 1951.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

MILWAUKEE SOLVAY COKE CO.

NOTICE REGARDING FILING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 12th day of April A. D. 1951.

Notice is hereby given that an application has been filed with this Commission, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), by Milwaukee Solvay Coke Company ("Coke Company"), a non-utility subsidiary of Milwaukee Gas Light Company, which in turn is a public utility subsidiary of American Natural Gas Company, a registered holding company. Applicant has designated section 6 (b) of the act as applicable to the proposed transactions.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than April 24, 1951, at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law raised by said application proposed to be controverted, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time after April 24, 1951 said application, as filed or as amended, may be granted as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100 thereof.

All interested persons are referred to said application which is on file in the office of this Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which are summarized as follows:

Pursuant to the terms of a credit agreement, Coke Company proposes to borrow an aggregate of $800,000 from the First Wisconsin National Bank of Milwaukee and an aggregate of $400,000 from the Marine National Exchange Bank of Milwaukee from time to time prior to December 31, 1951. It is contemplated that the first advance will be made shortly after execution of the Credit Agreement and the remainder of the credit will be taken down in amounts of $300,000 or multiples thereof as funds are needed. The notes representing each advance by each bank will mature in the order of the dates of their creation in the amount of $300,000 on March 1 of each of the years 1953 through 1956. The notes maturing in 1953 and 1954 will bear interest at 3 percent per annum and those maturing in 1955 and 1956 will bear interest at 3¼ percent per annum. It is proposed that Coke Company pay to the banks a commitment fee at the rate of ½ of 1 percent per annum on the average daily unused balance of the commitment, from the date of execution of the credit agreement to December 31, 1951, or the date on which the entire amount of $1,200,000 shall have been borrowed, whichever is earlier. Coke Company will have the right to prepay the notes in the inverse order of their maturities at any time without penalty, in amounts of $300,000 or multiples thereof, except that a prepayment penalty of ¼ of 1 percent per annum for the unexpired term will apply in case of prepayment from the proceeds of borrowings from banks other than those participating in the credit agreement. The application states that the proceeds from the sale of its notes will be applied by Coke Company to the expansion of its coke production facilities.

HARVEY E. ANDERSON

ORDER FOR PROCEEDINGS AND NOTICE OF HEARING

In the matter of Harvey E. Anderson, 1013 Grand Avenue, Kansas City, Mo.

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 12th day of April 1951.

I. The Commission's public official files disclose that Harvey E. Anderson, hereinafter referred to as registrant, is registered as a broker-dealer pursuant to section 15 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

II. The Records Officer of the Commission has filed with the Commission a statement, a copy of which is attached hereto and made a part hereof,[1] stating that registrant did not file with the Commission reports of his financial condition during the calendar years 1947, 1948, 1949 or 1950 as required by section 17 (a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule X-17A-5 adopted thereunder.

III. The information reported to the Commission by its Records Officer as set forth in Paragraph II hereof tends, if true, to show that registrant violated section 17 (a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule X-17A-5 adopted under said section.

IV. The Commission, having considered the aforesaid information, deems it necessary and appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors that proceedings be instituted to determine:

(a) Whether the statements referred to in paragraph II hereof are true;

(b) Whether registrant has wilfully violated section 17 (a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule X-17A-5 adopted under said section;

(c) Whether, pursuant to section 15 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, it is in the public interest to revoke registration of registrant; and

(d) Whether, pursuant to section 15 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, pending final determination, it is necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors to suspend the registration of registrant.

V. It is ordered, That registrant be given an opportunity for hearing as set forth in paragraph IV hereof on the 14th day of May 1951 at the main office of the Securities and Exchange Commission, located at 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C., before a Hearing Examiner to be designated by the Commission. On such date the Hearing Room Clerk in Room 193, North Building, will advise the parties and the Hearing Examiner as to the room in which such hearing will be held. The Commission will consider any motion with respect to a change of place of said hearing if said motion is filed with the Secretary of the Commission on or before May 7th, 1951. Upon completion of any such hearing in this matter the Hearing Examiner shall prepare a recommended decision pursuant to Rule IX of the rules of practice unless such decision is waived.

It is further ordered, That in the event registrant does not appear personally or through a representative at the time and place herein set or as otherwise ordered, the Hearing Room Clerk shall file with the Records officer of the Commission a written statement to that effect and thereupon the Commission will take the record under advisement for decision.

This order and notice shall be served on registrant personally or by registered mail forthwith, and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER not later than fifteen (15) days prior to May 14, 1951.

In the absence of an appropriate waiver, no officer or employee of the Commission engaged in the performance of investigative or prosecuting functions in this or any factually related proceeding will be permitted to participate or advise in the decision upon the matter except as witness or counsel in proceedings held pursuant to notice. Since this proceeding is not "rule making" within the meaning of section 4 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act, it is not deemed to be subject to the provisions of the section delaying the effective date of any final Commission action.

By the Commission.

311.22 Average value.
311.23 Investment limit.
311.24 Fair and reasonable value of farm.
311.25 Total investment in farm.
311.26 Application of average value and investment limits.
311.27 Limit on account of insured loan.
311.28 Action required requiring total investment in farm gerater than $12,000 if county average value exceeds $12,000.
311.29 Farm situated in more than one county.

AUTHORITY: §§ 311.21 to 311.29 issued under sec. 41, 60 Stat. 1066; 7 U. S. C. 1015. Statutory provisions interpreted or applied are cited to text in parentheses.

DERIVATION: §§ 311.21 to 311.29 contained in FHA Instruction 401.2.

§ 311.21 General. The Secretary of Agriculture has determined "average values" and "investment limits" for most of the counties and parishes in the United States, its territories and possessions, in accordance with the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, as amended. Direct or insured farm ownership loans will not be made in any county, parish, or locality until such determinations have been made for the county, parish, or locality (see § 311.30).

§ 311.22 Average value. The "average value" for a county, parish, or locality means the average value, as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture for the purposes of title I of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, as amended, of efficient family-type farm-management units situated in the county, parish, or locality.

(Sec. 3, 60 Stat. 1074; 7 U. S. C. 1003)

§ 311.23 Investment limit. The "investment limit" for a county, parish, or locality is the amount to which the total investment of a farm ownership applicant in a farm is limited, unless a greater total investment is authorized as provided in § 311.28. The total investment of a farm ownership applicant in a farm will be computed in accordance with § 311.25.

(Sec. 44, 60 Stat. 1069; 7 U. S. C. 1018)

§ 311.24 Fair and reasonable value of farm. The fair and reasonable value of a farm is determined by the County Committee in accordance with §§ 321.41 to 321.44 of this chapter and is the amount certified by the Committee (on Form FHA–491, "County Committee Certification," or on Form FHA–499, "Recertification by County Committee") to be the fair and reasonable value of the farm, based upon its normal earning capacity, after contemplated improvements are made.

(Sec. 2, 60 Stat. 1074; 7 U. S. C. 1002)

§ 311.25 Total investment in farm. The computation of the total investment of a Farm Ownership applicant in a farm depends upon the type of Farm Ownership financial assistance for which application is made. In computing total investment, the cost of property insurance or the initial mortgage insurance charge is not included.

(a) For an initial direct or insured Farm Ownership loan (Tenant Purchase, Farm Enlargement, and Farm Development), the applicant's total investment in the farm will consist of the sum of the following items:

(1) The purchase price of all land or interests in land to be acquired by the applicant.

(2) The amount necessary for all planned repairs and improvements, both immediate and deferred.

(3) The amount of any necessary fees and expenses incident to making and closing the loan which are required to be paid by the applicant, whether included in the Farm Ownership loan as a service fee or paid by the applicant from personal funds.

(4) In the case of a Farm Enlargement or a Farm Development loan:

(i) The value, as determined by the County Committee (on Form FHA–493, "Equity Determination and Tract Valuation"), of the applicant's equity in the tract of land owned by the applicant which is to be enlarged or improved.

(ii) The amount necessary to refinance indebtedness against the tract of land owned by the applicant which is to be enlarged or improved, or to pay the balance due on a purchase contract covering such land.

(5) If a Tenant Purchase loan involves a tract of land in which the applicant owns an undivided fractional interest, by reason of inheritance or otherwise, and the applicant is to purchase the interests of the other heirs or joint owners (see § 316.4 of this chapter):

(i) The value of the applicant's interest in the tract.

(ii) The amount necessary to satisfy the applicant's share of liens or encumbrances against the tract.

(b) For a subsequent direct Farm Ownership loan (see §§ 333.1 to 333.10 of this chapter) not in connection with the voluntary transfer of a farm or the sale of land by the Farmers Home Administration, the applicant's total investment in the farm will consist of the sum of the following items:

(1) The unpaid amount of the applicant's Farm Ownership indebtedness.

(2) The amount of the requested subsequent loan, except such part, if any, of the requested subsequent loan as will be used for refinancing outstanding farm ownership indebtedness.

(3) The amount of any necessary fees and expenses incident to making and closing the subsequent loan which are required to be paid by the applicant and which are not included in the subsequent loan as a service fee.

(4) Any other amounts which will be paid by the applicant from personal funds in connection with accomplishing the purposes of the subsequent loan.

(5) The value, as determined by the County Committee (on Form FHA–493), of the applicant's equity in land owned by him.

(c) For a sale by the Farmers Home Administration of a family-type farm on terms and in a manner consistent with title I of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, as amended (see §§ 372.81 to 372.86 of this chapter), the applicant's total investment in the farm will be computed in a manner consistent with the computation of total investment for an initial tenant purchase loan.

(d) For a voluntary transfer of a farm which secures a direct Farm Ownership loan (see §§ 372.21 to 372.27 of this chapter), if a subsequent loan is requested in connection with the transfer, the applicant's total investment in the farm will be computed as in the case of an initial Tenant Purchase loan. If no subsequent loan is requested, the investment limit and the average value do not apply in connection with the transfer of a family-type farm.

(e) Each case involving a type of Farm Ownership financial assistance not described in this section will be referred to the Administrator for specific instructions.

(Sec. 44, 60 Stat. 1069; 7 U. S. C. 1018)

§ 311.26 Application of average values and investment limits. No direct (initial or subsequent) or insured Farm Ownership loan for the acquisition, enlargement, or development of any farm, and no credit sale by the Farmers Home Administration of a farm on title I terms, will be approved:

(a) If the fair and reasonable value of the farm, as certified by the County Committee, exceeds the applicable average value, or

(b) If the applicant's total investment in the farm will exceed either:

(1) The investment limit (in the absence of authority from the Administrator or the State Director as provided in § 311.28), or

(2) The fair and reasonable value of the farm, as certified by the County Committee.

(Secs. 3, 43, 44, 51, 60 Stat. 1074, 1067, 1069, 1070; 7 U. S. C. 1003, 1017, 1018, 1025)

§ 311.27 Limit on amount of insured loan. In addition to the limitations contained in § 311.26, no insured Farm Ownership loan for the acquisition, enlargement, or development of any farm will be approved in an amount which exceeds either:

(a) Ninety percent (90 percent) of the fair and reasonable value of the farm, as certified by the County Committee, or

(b) Ninety percent (90 percent) of the applicant's total investment in the farm, if such investment is less than the certified value.

(Sec. 12, 60 Stat. 1076; 7 U. S. C. 1005b)

§ 311.28 Action required regarding total investment in farm greater than $12,000 if county average value exceeds $12,000. In a county where the average value exceeds $12,000, each case involving a proposed total investment in a farm greater than $12,000 may be submitted to the State Director by the State Field Representative for consideration and action in conformity with paragraphs (a) or (b) of this section, whichever is applicable. Each such request for action will be accompanied by a detailed statement of the circumstances necessitating the request, with his recommendations, together with the original loan docket and recommendations of the County Supervisor and the County Committee. Pending determination by the State Director or by the Administrator, no commitment or statement which might be interpreted as a commitment will be made with respect to the proposed loan.

(a) Authorization by State Director of total investment greater than $12,000 but not greater than $15,000. The State Director may authorize a total investment in the farm greater than $12,000 but not greater than $15,000, provided the State Director determines all of the following conditions are satisfied:

(1) The applicant's total investment in the farm will not exceed the fair and reasonable value of the farm, as certified by the County Committee.

(2) The fair and reasonable value of the farm, as certified by the County Committee, does not exceed the county average value, as determined by the Secretary.

(3) It is not possible for the applicant to acquire, enlarge, or improve the farm and make it an efficient family-type farm-management unit with a total investment of $12,000 or less.

(4) The proposed loan will be an unusually sound investment and is safely within the applicant's ability to repay as evidenced by one or more of the following factors:

(i) The proposed total investment is substantially less than the normal earning capacity value of the farm.

(ii) The applicant has assets or debt-paying ability greater than the minimum required for a Farm Ownership loan.

(iii) The applicant has clearly established managerial ability or farming experience superior to the minimum required for a Farm Ownership loan.

(iv) The proposed long-time farm and home plan indicates debt-paying ability substantially in excess of either the amount required for Farm Ownership payment, or the net income available for Farm Ownership payment as shown on the earning capacity report, whichever is the greater.

(b) Authorization by Administrator of total investment greater than $15,000. Each case involving a proposed total investment in a farm greater than $15,000 which is submitted to the State Director may be submitted to the Administrator by the State Director for consideration if the State Director recommends a total investment greater than $15,000. In such a case, the loan docket and supporting statements submitted to the Administrator will include the State Director's recommendation. The Administrator may authorize a total investment in the farm greater than $15,000 provided the Administrator determines all of the conditions set forth in paragraph (a) (1) through (4) of this section are satisfied.

(c) Authorization by the Administrator or the State Director of a total investment greater than $12,000 in a farm in no way constitutes approval of the loan. The determination of the over-all fitness of the loan continues to be the responsibility of the loan approval officer, notwithstanding submission of the case to the State Director or Administrator for consideration of a proposed total investment greater than $12,000.

(Sec. 44, 60 Stat. 1069; 7 U. S. C. 1018)

§ 311.29 Farm situated in more than one county. For the purposes of this subpart, if a farm lies in more than one county, parish, or locality, it will be deemed to be located in the county, parish, or locality in which the residence building of the farm is located or is to be constructed.

Chapter I—Production and Marketing Administration (Standards, Inspections, Marketing Practices), Department of Agriculture

Subchapter C—Regulations and Standards Under the Farm Products Inspection Act

PART 53—MEATS, PREPARED MEATS, AND MEAT PRODUCTS (GRADING, CERTIFICATION, AND STANDARDS)

FEES FOR GRADING SERVICE

By virtue of the authority vested in me pursuant to § 53.35 of the regulations governing the grading and certification of meats, prepared meats, and meat products (7 CFR 1949 Supp. 53.35) under sections 203 and 205 of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (Secs. 203 and 205, 60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1622 and 1624) and the so-called Farm Products Inspection Act, consisting of provisions for the market inspection of farm products recurring in the annual appropriation act for the Department of Agriculture and currently found in the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1951 (Ch. VI, 64 Stat. 595, Pub. Law 759, 81st Cong.; 7 U. S. C. Supp. 414), the provisions appearing in 7 CFR 1949 Supp. 53.35a are hereby amended as follows:

1. Section 53.35a (a) is amended by changing the hourly rate for meat grading service from "$3.00" per hour to "$3.60" per hour and the minimum charge from "$1.50" to "$1.80."

2. Section 53.35a (b) is amended by changing the fees for meat grading on a weekly contract basis from "$102" to "$122.40" per calendar week as specified therein.

3. Section 53.35a (e) is amended by changing the hourly rate of "$3.00" for certain service as specified therein to "$3.60."

Fees for meat grading service are excepted from the General Ceiling Price Regulation by General Ceiling Price Regulation, Amendment 1, Supplementary Regulation 15, (16 F. R. 2903).

Since the statutory provisions under which the grading service is conducted authorize the collection of fees therefor which are reasonable and equal as nearly as may be to the cost of such service, and since the determination of the reasonableness of the fees and the cost of such service depends upon facts wholly within the knowledge of the United States Department of Agriculture, and it has been determined in the Department that the fees prescribed above are reasonable and necessary to provide revenue equal as nearly as may be to the cost of such service, it is found under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003) upon good cause that notice and public procedure concerning this order are impracticable and unnecessary, and it is found under said section that good cause exists for issuance of this order effective less than 30 days after its publication.

This order shall become effective April 23, 1951.

(Sec. 205, 60 Stat. 1090, Pub. Law 759, 81st Cong.; 7 U. S. C. 1624. Interprets or applies sec. 203, 60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1622)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 16th day of April 1951.

Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration.

(8) Estimated percentage of the aforesaid crop not meeting the requirements of the grade regulation then in effect and the reasons therefor;

(9) Estimated percentage of the aforesaid crop not meeting the minimum size requirements of the size regulation then in effect and the reasons therefor; and

(10) The aggregate number of bushels of the aforesaid crop which the applicant already (i) has shipped, and (ii) has had shipped for him.

(b) Issuance of exemption certificate; non-issuance. In the event the Industry Committee finds and determines, from proof satisfactory to the committee, that the applicant is entitled to an exemption certificate, the committee shall issue, or authorize the issuance of, an exemption certificate which shall permit the applicant to ship or have shipped the requisite quantity, as provided in § 962.62, of the particular variety of peaches. If the committee finds and determines that the applicant is not entitled to an exemption certificate, it shall so advise the applicant in writing, and give the reasons therefor.

(c) Shipments pursuant to an exemption certificate. Each grower who ships, or has shipped, any portion of his crop of such variety pursuant to an exemption certificate shall report the respective shipment promptly to the Industry Committee.

§ 962.122 Shipments by truck. Each handler who ships peaches in a truck during any period in which a regulation is in effect pursuant to § 962.54, § 962.55, § 962.60, or § 962.61 shall keep and maintain in the truck, until the shipment has been completed, a copy of the certificate or memorandum issued by the Federal Inspection Service or the Federal-State Inspection Service or any other inspection service designated by the Secretary, as the case may be, with regard to the respective shipment of peaches. Each such handler shall upon demand by an authorized agent or employee of the Industry Committee or any authorized agent or employee of the United States Department of Agriculture, make such copy of the certificate or memorandum available for examination by such agent or employee.

REPORTS AND SAFEGUARDS

§ 962.130 Peaches shipped to adjacent markets. Each handler who ships adjacent market peaches shall report daily to the Industry Committee, in such manner and on such forms as prescribed by that committee, the following information with respect to each such shipment:

(a) Name and address of the handler; and date;

(b) Originating point;

(c) Destination in adjacent markets;

(d) Truck license number, trailer license number, or other identification of the conveyance in which shipment was made;

(e) Number of bushels so shipped;

(f) The number of the inspection certificate or memorandum issued with respect to the shipment; and

(g) A certification that the information is complete and accurate.

§ 962.131 Peaches not subject to regulation. Each handler who ships peaches (except peaches shipped by express or parcel post, or peaches included in shipments of peaches to any person during any day by any handler if such shipments do not aggregate more than the equivalent of five (5) bushels) pursuant to § 962.71 shall report promptly to the Industry Committee, on forms provided by that committee, the following information with respect to each such shipment:

(a) Name and address of the handler; date;

(b) Shipping point;

(c) Name and address of consignee; destination;

(d) Truck license number, trailer license number, car initials and number; or other identification of the conveyance in which shipment was made;

(e) Signature of truck driver;

(f) Number and kind of containers;

(g) Total net weight of, or total number of bushels in, the shipment;

(h) Purpose for which shipped; and

(i) A certification that the information is complete and accurate.

SUBPART—MATURITY REGULATIONS

§ 962.400 Maturity regulation. (a) Unless otherwise indicated, terms used in this subpart shall have the same meaning as when used in the aforesaid marketing agreement and order.

(b) The regulatory provisions in § 962.54 are modified as follows: No handler shall ship peaches which do not meet the requirements for maturity set forth and defined in the U. S. Standards for Peaches (7 CFR 51.312) or as such standards may be modified, revised, or new standards promulgated: Provided, That not more than an average of 10 percent, by count, of the peaches contained in any bulk lot or in any lot of packages may fail to meet the said requirements for maturity, but not more than 15 percent, by count, of the peaches contained in any individual package in any lot may fail to meet the said requirements for maturity.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 16th day of April 1951, to become effective 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

PART 996—MILK IN THE SPRINGFIELD, MASSACHUSETTS, MARKETING AREA

ORDER AMENDING ORDER REGULATING HANDLING

§ 996.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon a proposed marketing agreement and certain proposed amendments to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Springfield, Massachusetts, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(b) Additional findings. It is hereby found and determined that good cause exists for making this order, amending the order, effective May 1, 1951. Such action is necessary in the public interest in order to reflect current marketing conditions and to insure the production of an adequate supply of milk. Any substantial consumer acceptance of concentrated milk would be reflected in a reduced volume of Class I sales in the marketing area and would result in a substantial reduction in the blend price of milk to producers. Accordingly, any further delay in the effective date of this order amending the order will seriously threaten the orderly marketing of milk in the Springfield marketing area. The provisions of the said order are well known to handlers, the public hearing having been held on March 12, 1951, the recommended decision having been published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (16 F. R. 2658) March 24, 1951, and the final decision having been executed by the Secretary on April 5, 1951. Therefore, reasonable time, under the circumstances, has been afforded persons affected to prepare for its effective date and it would be contrary to the public interest to delay the effective date of this amendment for 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. (See section 4 (c), Administrative Procedure Act, Public Law 404, 79th Congress, 60 Stat. 237.)

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that handlers (excluding cooperative associations of producers who are not engaged in processing, distributing or shipping milk covered by this order amending the order) of more than 50 percent of the volume of the milk covered by this order amending the order which is marketed within the said marketing area, refused or failed to sign the proposed marketing agreement regulating the handling of milk in the said marketing area, and it is hereby further determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of such handlers to sign said marketing agreement tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the act;

(2) The issuance of this order amending the order is the only practical means, pursuant to the declared policy of the act, of advancing the interests of producers of milk which is produced for sale in the said marketing area; and

(3) The issuance of this order amending the order is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who participated in a referendum on the question of its approval and who during the determined representative period (February 1951) were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the said marketing area.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Springfield, Massachusetts, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order as hereby amended and the aforesaid order is hereby amended as follows:

1. Amend § 996.1 (d) (4) by deleting the present language and substituting therefor the following:

(4) "Fluid milk products" means milk, flavored milk, cream, skim milk, flavored skim milk, cultured skim milk, buttermilk, and concentrated milk, either individually or collectively.

2. Amend § 996.1 (d) by adding a new subparagraph (7) as follows:

(7) "Concentrated milk" means any unsterilized liquid milk product, other than those products commonly known as evaporated milk and sweetened condensed milk, which is obtained by the evaporation of water from milk and milk to which any other milk product may be added in the process of manufacture. For purposes of this part the weight of the fluid milk products used to produce the concentrated milk shall be used rather than the actual weight of the concentrated milk.

3. Amend § 996.3 (a) (2) (i) by deleting the present language and substituting therefor the following:

(i) As being sold, distributed, or disposed of other than as or in milk, and other than as or in concentrated milk for fluid consumption, flavored milk or flavored skim milk, buttermilk, or cultured skim milk, for human consumption; and

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. and Sup., 608c)

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 16th day of April 1951, to be effective on and after the 1st day of May 1951.

ORDER AMENDING ORDER REGULATING HANDLING

§ 999.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. Therefore, reasonable time, under the circumstances, has been afforded persons affected to prepare for its effective date and it would be contrary to the public interest to delay the effective date of this amendment for 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. (See section 4 (c) Administrative Procedure Act, Public Law 404, 79th Congress, 60 Stat. 237.)

PART 6—ROTORCRAFT AIRWORTHINESS

SERVICE LIFE OF AUXILIARY ROTOR ASSEMBLIES AND MAIN ROTOR

The following interpretations and policies are hereby adopted:

§ 6.221–1 Service life of auxiliary rotor assemblies (CAA interpretations which apply to § 6.221). The requirement in § 6.221 that vibration stresses in highly stressed metal components of auxiliary rotors must not exceed safe values for continuous operation is interpreted to mean that the service life of such components should be determined by fatigue tests or by other methods found acceptable by the Administrator. The methods of service life determination for main rotor structure outlined under § 6.250–1 are considered to be acceptable in showing compliance with the pertinent portion of § 6.221.

§ 6.250–1 Service life of main rotors (CAA policies which apply to § 6.250 (a)). Several methods which have been found acceptable by the Administrator for determining the service life of main rotors are outlined in Appendix A [1] of this section for the guidance of the industry in complying with § 6.250 (a).

PART 33—FLIGHT RADIO OPERATOR CERTIFICATES

CONTENT AND SCOPE OF WRITTEN AND PRACTICAL EXAMINATIONS REQUIRED FOR FLIGHT RADIO OPERATOR AS PROOF OF AERONAUTICAL KNOWLEDGE AND SKILL

The following policies are hereby adopted:

§ 33.32–2 The content and scope of the written examination required for a flight radio operator certificate as proof of aeronautical knowledge (CAA policies which apply to § 33.32). The new policy of CAA–FCC coordination in preparing a single written examination for flight radio operator applicants is described in § 33.32–1. As a result of this change in examining procedure, United States citizens who are applicants for this certificate should take the written examination at FCC offices in the United States. This practice permits the applicant to take his written examination required by both FCC and CAA at one session, thereby avoiding duplication. FCC practices with regard to the actual administering of the examination apply in these cases.

The written examination is designed for the purpose of determining whether or not an applicant possesses the basic theoretical knowledge required for the safe performance of his duties as a flight radio operator. Since the desired aeronautical knowledge required of a flight radio operator is extensive in scope, complete coverage in the examination is not feasible. The written theoretical examination is, therefore, a sampling device wherein a limited number of questions are proposed for the purpose of determining this knowledge.

NOTE: The Administrator has compiled a study guide to aid applicants in preparing for the flight radio operator certificate written examination. This guide is contained in Appendix A [1] of Part 33.)

§ 33.33–1 The content and scope of the practical examination required for a flight radio operator certificate in proof of aeronautical skill (CAA policies which apply to § 33.33). All applicants for a CAA flight radio operator airman certificate must take the practical examination which is conducted by a CAA Aviation Safety Agent or a CAA designated flight radio operator examiner in the industry. The practical examination is designed for the specific purpose of determining whether or not an applicant possesses the necessary skill required for the safe performance of his duties as a flight radio operator.

NOTE: The Administrator has compiled a guide to aid applicants in preparing for the flight radio operator certificate practical examination. This guide is contained in Appendix B [1] of Part 33.

These policies shall become effective May 1, 1951.

[Civil Air Regs., Amdt. 61-4]

PART 61—SCHEDULED AIR CARRIER RULES

MECHANICAL INTERRUPTIONS

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 13th day of April 1951.

Section 61.294 of the Civil Air Regulations currently provides that, in the event of any mechanical failure or interruption which may involve the safety of the flight, a pilot shall proceed to and land at the nearest place where a safe landing can be effected. In practice, this section has been strictly construed so that the air carriers and the pilots believe it to be obligatory for the pilot to land the aircraft at the nearest suitable airport even in those instances where engines are stopped in flight for purely precautionary reasons, such as to eliminate roughness or to prevent any possible damage, and where flight beyond such an airport can be accomplished without prejudice to safety.

As a result, there is a strong compulsion on a pilot, on occasion, to fail to feather an engine as a precautionary measure because of the obvious desirability of continuing a flight to its destination. Such practice is undesirable not only because of possible engine damage but also because the failure to feather an engine as a precautionary measure might result in a fire or other serious hazard. We believe that in these and other circumstances a pilot of aircraft having four or more engines should have and, upon considerations of safety, should exercise discretionary authority to make an immediate landing or to proceed to an airport of his own selection.

To permit a pilot, where an engine fails or its rotation is stopped, to exercise such discretion, § 61.294a is added. In the proper exercise of this discretion, only factors bearing on the safe conduct of the flight may be considered; the economic convenience of continuing the flight to a base where repairs or replacements can easily be made is not a factor of safety and should not be considered. The regulations continue to require a pilot to make an immediate landing in those instances where a flight might not safely proceed to the point of next intended landing, and do not permit a pilot to land at an intermediate point after feathering an engine in flight and, without repairing the engine, to take off for a further point. It should be noted that no change has been effected in current procedure where mechanical failure other than powerplant failure is involved.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby amends Part 61 of the Civil Air Regulations as follows, effective May 18, 1951:

1. By amending § 61.294 to read as follows:

§ 61.294 Mechanical failure in flight. In the event of any mechanical failure or interruption which may involve the safety of the flight, except a powerplant failure, but including failure of a flight instrument, radio, or other essential component of the aircraft, the pilot shall proceed to and land at the nearest suitable airport in point of time where a safe landing can be effected.

2. By adding a new § 61.294a to read as follows:

§ 61.294a Powerplant failure or precautionary stoppage. (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, when one engine of an aircraft fails or where the rotation of an engine of an aircraft is stopped in flight as a precautionary measure to prevent possible damage, a landing shall be made at the nearest suitable airport in point of time where a safe landing can be effected.

(b) The pilot in command of an aircraft having 4 or more engines may, if not more than one engine fails or the rotation thereof is stopped, proceed to an airport of his selection, if, upon consideration of the following factors, he determines such action to be as safe a course of action as landing at the nearest suitable airport:

(1) The nature of the malfunctioning and the possible mechanical difficulties which may be encountered if flight is continued,

(2) The altitude, aircraft weight, and useable fuel at the time of engine stoppage,

(3) The weather conditions on route and at possible landing points,

(4) The air traffic congestion,

(5) The type of terrain, and

(6) The familiarity of the pilot with the airport to be used.

(c) When engine rotation is stopped in flight, the pilot in command shall immediately notify the proper control station and shall keep such station fully informed regarding the progress of the flight.

(d) In cases where the pilot in command selects an airport other than the nearest suitable airport in point of time, he shall, upon completion of the trip, submit a written report, in duplicate, to his operations manager setting forth his reasons for determining that the selection of an airport other than the nearest (in point of time) was as safe a course of action. The operations manager shall, within 7 days after completion of the trip, furnish a copy of this report with his own comments thereon to the Administrator.

APPROVAL OF CHANGE IN OFFICE LOCATIONS INVOLVING A MOVE OF MORE THAN ONE MILE OR OUTSIDE OF MUNICIPALITY

APRIL 13, 1951.

Resolved, That pursuant to Part 108 of the general regulations of the Home Loan Bank Board (24 CFR Part 108) and § 142.1 of the rules and regulations for the Federal Savings and Loan System (24 CFR 142.1), notice and public procedure having been duly afforded (16 F. § 145.16 Change of office location. A Federal association may not move any office from its immediate vicinity without prior approval by the Board. A move of more than one mile or move outside of the municipality in which the office is located will constitute a move of an office from its immediate vicinity. If a Federal association changes the location of its home office, as fixed in such association's charter, such charter shall be appropriately amended in accordance with the provisions thereof. Each application to the Board by a Federal association for permission to move any office of such association from its immediate vicinity shall be supported with a statement showing the need for such change of location, and the estimated expense of removal to and of maintenance at the new location. The provisions of the second sentence of this section shall not be applicable with respect to any Federal association which prior to April 19, 1951, in connection with a change of the location of any office not involving a move from the immediate vicinity of such office within the meaning of these rules and regulations and charter provisions in force and effect on such date, had purchased or leased or had legally bound itself to purchase or lease, the office quarters at the proposed new location of such office.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Supplementary Regulation 15, Amendment 1]

GCPR, SR 15 EXCEPTION FOR CERTAIN SERVICES

ADDED EXCEPTIONS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this amendment to Supplementary Regulation No. 15 (16 F. R. 2903), is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment 1 to Supplementary Regulation 15 suspends the rates, fees, charges and compensation for, or excepts additional services from the General Ceiling Price Regulation. In formulating this regulation, the Director of the Office of Price Stabilization has given due consideration to the standards of the Defense Production Act of 1950 and has determined that the suspensions and exceptions contained in this amendment are necessary and proper to effectuate the purposes of the act.

The amendment suspends the rates, fees, charges and compensation received by summer camps from the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation for a period of six (6) months, but provides that such summer camps must maintain their customary current records to justify the rates and other charges they make during the 1951 season, during which period the Director of Price Stabilization will make continuing studies of the charges made by such summer camps. The services rendered by such camps, generally, are of a quasi-educational nature, and in many instances are operated by non-profit or charitable religious and governmental organizations for the underprivileged. Due to the seasonal nature of such operations, few, if any, were operating during the base period, December 19, 1950 to January 25, 1951, inclusive, established by the General Ceiling Price Regulation. In view of the foregoing factors, of the rapid increase in the cost of supplies and materials used in the operation of such camps since the last period in which they were operating, of the imminence of the 1951 summer camp season, and of the consequent limited time available for the establishing of proper and separate summer camp rates and the publication thereafter of such rates or rate charges, the Director of the Office of Price Stabilization has determined to suspend the rates, fees, charges and compensation of such summer camps from the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation for a period of six (6) months from the effective date of this amendment to Supplementary Regulation 15 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation: Provided nevertheless, That such summer camps shall maintain during such period, or extension thereof, the current records required by the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

The amendment excepts from the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation the rates, fees and charges which are regulated under the Packers and Stockyards Act, as amended, because these services are now subject to supervision by the United States Department of Agriculture.

It also excludes from the scope of the General Ceiling Price Regulation fees or charges for grading, inspecting, classing, testing, weighing, analyzing, or licensing that are fixed, approved, or collected by the United States Department of Agriculture. The purpose of this exclusion is to enable the Department of Agriculture to comply with the acts of Congress under which these services are rendered, which require that such fees and charges shall be reasonable and shall, as nearly as may be, cover the cost of services rendered. Since such services also are frequently carried on cooperatively with State Departments and through organizations under the authorization of the United States Department of Agriculture, and the fees so charged are subject to its confirmation, paragraph (5) (ii) of this amendment to Supplementary Regulation 15 also exempts fees of this type fixed or approved by the Department.

Fees collected or charges made by the United States Department of Agriculture under its program, for example service charges (fees) collected from producers and others under price support and other programs of CCC, and fees charged for the measurement of acreage prior to planting under certain acreage allotment programs also are exempt. Such fees and charges are based on the amounts required to reasonably defray the cost to the Government of the services rendered.

Fees and service charges for financing operations paid directly by the United States Department of Agriculture under its program such as payments made to banks and other financing institutions for services rendered in loan and other operations also are exempt. In many instances financing operations under these programs differ from normal commercial operations and rates are negotiated by the Government on the basis of the special services performed.

The Director of the Office of Price Stabilization has received inquiries concerning the applicability of the General Ceiling Price Regulation to contracts for the drilling of oil and gas wells and related services. By the custom of the trade, persons engaged in performing such services are frequently compensated not only in cash but by the transfer of an interest in the well. This is brought about by the fact that there are many unknown factors involved in these operations which create fluctuations in drilling costs. For example, the depth of the well to be drilled, the thickness or type of rock, or rock strata to be drilled through, uncontrollable hazards of lost or broken drilling equipment are among the unforeseeable items encountered in the drilling of oil wells. Accordingly, no price used or formula followed in a contract for drilling a well in one location would necessarily be applicable in an adjoining location.

Putting out oil or gas well fires is a specialized hazardous service. The occupation is of an extra-hazardous nature and the price charged is attributable to a large extent to the hazards inherent in the nature, and in the rendering of the services, and to the risk which persons participating in the work are prepared to assume. In large measure, the cost of any job is based on an imponderable factor—i. e., the value which persons engaged in the work place upon the risk to life and limb to which they are exposed. Moreover, there are only a few professional fire fighting organizations of this type throughout the country.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

1. Section 2 (a) of Supplementary Regulation 15 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby amended by adding subparagraph (2), as follows:

[General Overriding Regulation 4]

GOR 4—EXEMPTIONS OF CERTAIN CONSUMER SOFT GOODS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Public Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this General Overriding Regulation No. 4 is issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This General Overriding Regulation 4 is an across-the-board regulation which creates exemptions of certain commodities from any ceiling price restrictions imposed by the Office of Price Stabilization.

The commodities exempted by this regulation are of minor significance which have but a trifling effect on the cost of living, the cost of the defense effort or general current industrial costs. These commodities are not so related to any other commodities which are important to the cost of living, the cost of the defense effort or to general current industrial costs as to have any effect on the controls of other commodities remaining under ceiling price restrictions. Furthermore, any ceiling price restrictions imposed on these commodities would involve an administrative and enforcement burden out of all proportion to the importance of keeping them under price control.

In view of the nature of the commodities exempted, this regulation will not have any material effect on the general level of prices.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This General Overriding Regulation 5 is an across-the-board regulation which creates exemptions of certain commodities from any ceiling price regulations imposed by the Office of Price Stabilization.

INT. 34—AUTOMOBILE APPRAISAL GUIDES

Automobile appraisal guides. In Interpretation 31 (16 F. R. 2037) the Board designated for purposes of Regulation W the specified editions and reprints of appraisal guides approved by the Office of Price Stabilization for purposes of ceiling price regulation. This designation was in addition to the Board's previous designation of regularly scheduled issues of the appraisal guides for purposes of Regulation W.

Since it is understood that some of the appraisal guide publishers propose to discontinue publication of their regularly scheduled issues for April and subsequent months, the Board's designation with respect to all such regular issues was withdrawn as of April 1, 1951, until further notice. Effective April 1, 1951, the Board's designation of appraisal guides for purposes of Regulation W is accordingly limited to those specified editions and reprints approved by the Office of Price Stabilization for purposes of the ceiling price regulation.

All other conditions of the Board's appraisal guide designations continue to apply, including the condition that the retail value to be used for purposes of Regulation W shall not include any added value for a radio or heater.

DORCHESTER HEIGHTS NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE

DESIGNATION

Whereas, the Congress of the United States has declared it to be a national policy to preserve for the public use historic sites, buildings and objects of national significance for the inspiration and benefit of the people of the United States; and

Whereas, The Advisory Board on National Parks, Historic Sites, Buildings, and Monuments has declared that Dorchester Heights in the City of Boston, Massachusetts, is of national significance as commemorative of the evacuation of Boston by the British troops under General Howe on March 17, 1776, the first great military success of the Americans in the War of the American Revolution; and

Whereas, a cooperative agreement has been made between the City of Boston of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the United States of America, providing for the designation, preservation, and use of Dorchester Heights as a national historic site:

Now, therefore, I, Oscar L. Chapman, Secretary of the Interior, by virtue of and pursuant to the authority contained in the act of August 21, 1935 (49 Stat. 666; 16 U. S. C. sec. 462), do hereby designate the following described lands, together with all historic structures thereon and all appurtenances connected therewith, to be a national historic site, having the name "Dorchester Heights National Historic Site":

The administration, protection, and development of this national historic site shall be exercised in accordance with the provisions of the above-mentioned cooperative agreement and the act of August 21, 1935.

Warning is expressly given to all unauthorized persons not to appropriate, injure, destroy, deface or remove any feature of this historic site.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the official seal of the Department of the Interior to be affixed, at the City of Washington, this 12th day of April 1951.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Production and Marketing Administration

RESPECTIVE ALLOCATION AND PRIORITY RESPONSIBILITIES OF DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE IN CONNECTION WITH FOODS WHICH HAVE INDUSTRIAL USES

MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT

Part A: General. The Administrator of the National Production Authority, United States Department of Commerce, and the Administrator of the Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, adopt the following principles as the basis of this agreement:

1. Pursuant to Executive Orders Nos. 10161 and 10200 (15 F. R. 6105; 16 F. R. 61) and Defense Production Administration Delegation No. 1 (16 F. R. 738), the Department of Agriculture (hereinafter referred to as "Agriculture") has the responsibility for food which is defined to include all commodities and products, simple, mixed, or compound, or complements to such commodities or products, that are capable of being eaten or drunk by either human beings or animals, irrespective of other uses to which such commodities or products may be put, at all stages of processing from the raw commodity to the products thereof in vendible form for immediate human or animal consumption. In the case of food for human or animal consumption, these responsibilities include that of effective distribution. For those foods which have industrial uses, jurisdiction would normally pass to the Department of Commerce (hereinafter referred to as "Commerce") at the point where the foods are no longer capable of being eaten or drunk.

2. There are also included within the definition of food, for which Agriculture has responsibility, starches, sugars, vegetable and animal fats and oils, cotton, tobacco, wool, mohair, hemp, flax fiber, and naval stores. As a rule, jurisdiction over such commodities will pass to Commerce when they lose their identity as food or agricultural commodities or products.

3. The provisions of this agreement insofar as fibers are concerned are limited to those specifically mentioned in Executive Order No. 10161 and have the purpose of defining the points at which the items named lose their identity as agricultural commodities or agricultural products.

4. Some major food commodities in which both Agriculture and Commerce have an interest are indicated in Part B of this agreement. For each of these commodities the point at which the jurisdiction of Agriculture will end is indicated; and it is to be assumed, without specific mention in all cases, that the jurisdiction of Commerce will begin at that point.

5. The points at which the jurisdiction of Agriculture will end are expressed in terms of particular stages of production or processing. In most cases, the points are merely a specific definition of the division of authority as provided in Executive Order No. 10161; in others, they represent the division of responsibility considered to be most reasonable and workable from an administrative point of view. It is understood that imports and exports of commodities in any form prior to the cut-off stage will be within the authority of Agriculture, subject, in the case of exports, to the exercise of any licensing functions vested in any other agency.

6. Agriculture will, with noted exceptions, allocate and exercise priority controls to the cut-off point, taking into account claims presented by the claimant agency. However, the sub-allocation of food and agricultural commodities and products to the specific firms responsible for converting these items into non-food and non-agricultural commodities or products will be made in accordance with the recommendations of the claimant agency.

7. It is understood that relationships in connection with particular functions and particular commodities may have to be amplified later, but it is agreed that unnecessary exceptions to the basic cut-off point should be avoided. It is recognized that there will be situations in which operations of the same firm will be affected by the exercise of the respective authorities of the two agencies under this agreement. To avoid overlapping and duplication of reporting and related operations in such situations, it is agreed that the two agencies will work out specific cooperative arrangements whereby the facilities of one of the agencies shall be utilized by the other or that other efforts will be made to provide the most feasible arrangements for administering necessary program controls. Nothing in this agreement is to be interpreted as precluding either agency from requesting revision hereof or from making such recommendations as it may deem desirable concerning matters within the jurisdiction of the other.

8. The allocation and priority functions of Commerce referred to above have been delegated to the Administrator of the National Production Authority by Department of Commerce Order 123 (as amended January 24, 1951). The allocation and priority functions of Agriculture referred to above have been delegated to the Administrator of the Production and Marketing Administration by Secretary's Memorandum No. 1270 (15 F. R. 6424), as amended (16 F. R. 2446).

Part B: Particular commodities. The following list identifies some major food and agricultural commodities and commodity groups in which both Agriculture and Commerce have some interest and gives the point at which Agriculture ceases to have jurisdiction and the jurisdiction of Commerce begins.

1. Commodities which are the responsibility of Agriculture until they enter any manufacturing process which results in their being neither food nor agricultural commodities or products (some examples of which are set forth in parentheses after the name of the commodity):

a. Egg products. (Shampoos, products used in printing, pharmaceuticals).

b. Fats and oils. (Paints, soap, varnishes, lacquers, printer's ink, cosmetics, pharmaceuticals).

c. Grain and grain products, including dextrin, corn syrups, grain sugars, lactic acid, gluten, and low-grade wheat flour. (Textiles, adhesives, leather, core binders, pharmaceuticals, nonbeverage alcohol).

d. Molasses, including blackstrap and high-test, and potatoes. (Non-beverage alcohol.)

e. Spices. (Cosmetics.)

f. Starches. (Adhesives, asbestos, textiles, explosives.)

g. Sugars. (Insecticides, plasticizing agents, adhesives.)

h. Tartaric acid. (Products used in photography, dyeing, textile printing.)

2. Commodities with specifically designated points of division of responsibility:

a. Cotton lint and linters, hemp and flax fiber. To be a responsibility of Agriculture until opening the bale for the purpose of processing in the mill in which it is opened. However, the responsibility of Agriculture shall extend to the delivery and distribution of soft types of cotton waste but shall not include control over the use of such waste in the mill producing it.

b. Skim milk for casein. To be a responsibility of Agriculture until it enters the precipitation process for manufacturing casein.

c. Wool and mohair. Agriculture shall be responsible for exercise of control over the delivery and distribution and inventories of wool and mohair (grease and scoured, shorn and pulled), except that inventories of scoured wool or scoured mohair held by manufacturers for their use in producing other products, whether by incorporation in to such products or otherwise, shall be controlled by Commerce. The responsibility of Agriculture shall extend to the delivery and distribution of noils but shall not include control over the use of noils in the mill producing them.

3. Commodities which are the sole responsibility of the designated Department:

a. Ice. To be a responsibility of Agriculture.

b. Naval stores. To be a responsibility of Commerce subject to prior consultation with Agriculture, provided that Agriculture has the responsibility for production of gum naval stores through the first processing of the gum.

c. Tobacco and tobacco products. To be a responsibility of Agriculture.

d. Miscellaneous commodities. Hides and leather, hair and bristles, feathers, soap, detergents, beeswax, pharmaceuticals (including medicines and vitamins), acetic acid, chemical leavening compounds (except as otherwise noted), salt—to be a responsibility of Commerce.

It is recognized that there may be needed for food use quantities of the commodities which, under this agreement, are the responsibility of Commerce, and that in connection with the production of some of these commodities raw materials may be needed which, under this agreement, are the responsibility of Agriculture. In cases of this kind and for other commodities which, for purposes of brevity, have not been mentioned in this list, cut-off points will be worked out as the need arises.

Part C: Explanatory Notes. This agreement deals only with food and agricultural commodities and products which involve industrial uses. The list of these commodities and products is not all-inclusive but it does cover the major items for which jurisdiction might become a problem. The agreement does not attempt to cover all relationships between the respective Departments.

Identification of basic point where responsibility is divided:

1. Commodities such as fats and oils, grain products, egg products, starch from all sources, spices, and tartaric acid are used for the manufacture of so many non-food or non-agricultural products that it seems impractical in a statement of policy to enumerate all of these products and to identify in each case the exact beginning process. Consequently, the principle for determining the respective jurisdiction of the two Departments in cases of this type is expressed broadly and supplemented by a few examples of non-food and non-agricultural products so as to clarify the application of the principle. These examples are not all-inclusive.

2. In determining the principle, consideration has been given wherever possible to the structure of the industry. The wet-milling industry, for example, is large and integrated and it is desirable that Agriculture have jurisdiction over the raw products while they are a part of this industry and until they enter the processes of other industries which result in their becoming non-food or non-agricultural products. As an illustration, corn starch for textile sizing would be under the jurisdiction of Agriculture while it is extracted from the corn and prepared for use by the textile industry. It would still be under the jurisdiction of Agriculture until it enters the textile manufacturing process which would be performed by a different industry and, in this case, a different plant.

3. In order to further clarify the dividing line on fats and oils, the following list shows major fats and oils and fat and oil products for which Agriculture has responsibility and the major products of fats and oils and products in the production of which fats and oils are used, which fall under the jurisdiction of Commerce:

a. Fats and oils and edible fat and oil products under jurisdiction of Agriculture:

i. Animal and fish fats and oils:

Cod oil.
Cod liver oil.
Dogfish oil.
Dogfish liver oil.
Fulachon oil.
Fatty acids.
Foots.
Herring oil.
Lard.
Marrow.
Menhaden oil.
Neat's-foot oil.
Oleic acid.
Oleo oil and oleo stearin.

Tuna fish liver oil.
Whale oil.
Wool grease and lanolin.
Other animal fats and oils.
Other fish and marine fats and oils.
Other fish and marine liver oils.
Combinations and mixtures of animal and/or fish and/or marine oils, or any of them.

ii. Vegetable fats and oils:

Babassu nut oil.
Cashew nut oil and nut shell oil.
Castor oil.
Coconut oil.
Cocoa butter.
Cohune oil.
Corn oil.
Cottonseed oil.
Essential oils.

iii. Combinations and mixtures of animal, fish, marine, and vegetable nut and seed fats and oils, or any of them.

iv. Edible fat and oil products:

Cooking oil and compounds.
Lard compounds.
Margarine.
Salad oils.
Shortenings.
Other edible fat and oil products.

b. Products of fats and oils and products in the production of which fats and oils are used, under the jurisdiction of Commerce:

Glycerine.
Paints, varnishes, lacquers.
Coated fabrics and floor coverings.
Soap.
Printer's ink.
Fatty alcohols, salts, gums.
Inedible products of fats and oils.

c. Division of responsibility with regard to tall oil. The production of tall oil shall be under the jurisdiction of Commerce and the distribution of tall oil shall be under the jurisdiction of Agriculture.

4. In the case of skim milk for casein, it is possible to identify more exactly the point at which responsibility is divided. Skim milk for casein would pass out of the jurisdiction of Agriculture when it enters the precipitation process.

5. Although it is provided that Commerce would be responsible for the overall allocation of all naval stores, it is recognized that Agriculture has, by reason of programs administered by it, a substantial interest in such allocations. Therefore, it is also provided that Commerce will consult with Agriculture in formulating policy in connection with any contemplated action in this field to insure to the extent possible the avoidance of conflict with programs administered by Agriculture. Agriculture will be responsible for the various functions relating to the production of gum naval stores until the gum is processed and the resultant rosin is in the drums ready for shipment and the turpentine is in bulk tanks. Commerce would be responsible for the production, distribution and processing of all wood naval stores.

6. While admittedly beyond the scope of Executive Order No. 10161, Agriculture is given jurisdiction over tobacco products. This assignment of responsibility reflects thinking on the part of tobacco specialists and apparent interests of the trade. However, salt, pharmaceuticals (including medicines and vitamines), hides and leather, and some other commodities and products named would be assigned to Commerce even though some of them have definite food implications.

In order to effectuate the provisions of this agreement, the parties hereto further agree to delegate to each other the requisite authority for the exercise of the allocation and priority functions vested in them in accordance with the understanding and agreement expressed herein.

[Docket Nos. G-1210, G-1236, G-1264]

EUGENE H. COLE ET AL.

ORDER GRANTING REHEARING IN PART AND WAIVING INTERMEDIATE DECISION PROCEDURE

APRIL 12, 1951.

In the matters of Eugene H. Cole (Erie Gas Service Company, Inc.), Docket No. G-1210; Lake Shore Pipe Line Company, Docket No. G-1236; Grand River Gas Transmission Company, Docket No. G-1264.

Grand River Gas Transmission Company (Grand River) on March 14, 1951, filed a petition for rehearing with respect to the Commission's Opinion No. 205 and accompanying order issued February 15, 1951, in which the Commission granted Lake Shore Pipe Line Company (Lake Shore) a certificate of public convenience and necessity, subject to certain conditions, to acquire, construct and operate natural-gas transmission facilities to provide natural-gas service in the Northeastern Ohio area. In the same opinion and order, the Commission denied the mutually exclusive applications of Grand River and Eugene H. Cole (Erie Gas Service Company, Inc.) for such certificate and dismissed the motion filed on January 29, 1951, by Grand River to reopen these proceedings for the purpose of taking additional evidence.

Eugene H. Cole (Erie Gas Service Company, Inc.) (Erie) on March 19, 1951, filed an application for reconsideration and vacation, or in the alternative, for a rehearing and vacation of the Commission's Opinion No. 205 and accompanying order.

In its petition, Grand River requests the Commission to reverse or vacate its Opinion No. 205 and accompanying order, and thereafter either: (1) Award a certificate of public convenience and necessity to Grand River, or (2) reopen these proceedings for the purpose of receiving evidence now required to be submitted by ordering paragraphs A (j) to A (iv) of the present order, and evidence of additional market requirements in the Painesville-Fairport (Ohio) area arising since the date of the hearing herein.

In its application, Erie requests the Commission to reconsider and vacate its Opinion No. 205 and accompanying order and thereafter either: (1) Grant a certificate of public convenience and necessity to Erie or (2) reopen the proceedings for the purpose of taking further evidence with respect to the proposed acquisition and operation by Lake Shore of the old pipe line between Ashtabula and Fairport, Ohio, together with the other issues raised by Erie in its application for reconsideration.

In their respective filings, both Grand River and Erie allege errors and omissions in the opinion and accompanying order relating to questions of fact. They also allege errors of law.

Grand River contends, among other things, that while the Commission's Opinion No. 205 and accompanying order purport to be a final decision, it cannot properly be so considered. In support of this contention, Grand River cites the caption of the Commission's order issued December 6, 1950, in these proceedings, "requiring certification of the record for initial decision;" and section (8) (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act, 60 Stat. 237, 5 U. S. C. 1001. No exceptions to the opinion and accompanying order, however, were filed by any party prusuant to § 1.31 of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.31). It also alleges that the so-called "90-day provisions" of the opinion and accompanying order—which require Lake Shore to conduct proper tests of the existing pipe line facilities proposed to be acquired and to submit to the Commission under oath within 90 days from the issuance of the order complete information with respect to the tests, together with a showing satisfactory to the Commission that the cost of service which appears in this record will not be appreciably increased as the result of such information—are contrary to due process of law and to the Administrative Procedure Act unless a full additional hearing is held thereunder.

Among Erie's contentions are that the so-called "90-day provisions" are contrary to provisions of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 7 (c) and 7 (e) thereof, and the intent of Congress at the time of the enactment of the act inasmuch as they negate the finding required by section 7 (e) that the applicant "is able and willing properly to do the acts and to perform the service proposed and to conform to the provisions of the act and the requirements, rules, and regulations of the Commission thereunder."

Although it was our intention by the order issued on December 6, 1950, to require the certification of the record in these proceedings to us for final decision, the proper finding required by § 1.30 (c) (2) of our rules of practice and procedure was not made. However, the record in these proceedings showed and we now find that the public convenience and necessity required that natural-gas service be made available to the Northeastern Ohio area as soon as possible. Delay in reaching a decision in these proceedings would correspondingly have delayed the construction of the facilities proposed to the detriment of the public in the area. It was and is desirable and in the public interest that there be an end to these proceedings as soon as practicable in order that natural-gas service may be provided to the Northeastern Ohio area within the calendar year 1951 to meet that area's urgent need. In view of the foregoing, it is reasonable that we, upon our own motion pursuant to § 1.30 (c) (2) of the rules, omit the intermediate decision in the proceedings heretofore held.

Upon consideration of the petition for rehearing filed by Grand River and the application of Erie for reconsideration and vacation or in the alternative for a rehearing and vacation, and upon further consideration of the evidence and all matters of record, particularly our findings and order in Opinion No. 205 and accompanying order issued on February 15, 1951, the Commission further finds:

(1) No new facts have been presented or alleged and no new questions of law other than those stated above, have been presented by the various assignments of error by Grand River and Erie in their respective filings which were not fully considered by the Commission before it entered its Opinion No. 205 and accompanying order or which would justify a revision thereof.

(2) Good cause has been shown by both Erie and Grand River for the granting of their respective applications to the extent only that a rehearing should be held with respect to the following issues:

(i) Whether Lake Shore is able and willing properly to do the acts and to perform the service proposed by means of the 27-year old pipeline extending from Ashtabula, Ohio, to Fairport, Ohio.

(ii) Whether such line is adequate to render the service proposed.

(iii) Whether the results of the tests required by the Commission to be made of such line show that Lake Shore's construction costs, rate base or cost of service will be higher than heretofore has appeared in the record.

(iv) In the event the results of the tests required by the Commission to be made of such line show that Lake Shore's construction costs, rate base or cost of service will be higher than heretofore has appeared in the record, whether the public convenience and necessity require the acquisition, construction and operation proposed by Lake Shore or the construction and operation proposed by Grand River or Erie.

(3) The applications of Grand River and Erie except to the extent herein granted should be denied.

(4) The Commission's Opinion No. 205 and accompanying order should be stayed, to the extent hereinafter provided.

(5) Due and timely execution of its functions imperatively and unavoidably required that the intermediate decision procedure in the proceedings already held in these consolidated dockets be omitted.

The Commission orders:

(A) A rehearing only on the issues enumerated in Finding No. 2 be and the same hereby is granted, such rehearing to be held at date and place to be fixed by the Commission.

(B) The petition of Grand River Gas Transmission Company for rehearing and the application of Eugene H. Cole (Erie Gas Service Company, Inc.) for reconsideration and vacation, or in the alternative, for a rehearing and vacation of the Commission's Opinion No. 205 and accompanying order, as to all matters other than those concerning which a rehearing is granted in paragraph (A) hereof, be and the same hereby are denied.

(C) The Commission's order accompanying Opinion No. 205, issued February 15, 1951, be and it is hereby stayed until further order of the Commission, except as to subsections (i) and (ii) of paragraph A.

(D) The intermediate decision in the proceedings herein already held is omitted in accordance with the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.30 (c) (2)).

Date of issuance: April 13, 1951.

By the Commission.

[Docket No. G-1655]

ATHOL GAS CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

APRIL 13, 1951.

Take notice that Athol Gas Company (Applicant), a Massachusetts corporation, with its principal place of business at Athol, Massachusetts, filed on April 5, 1951, an application pursuant to section 7 (a) of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, for an order of the Commission directing Northeastern Gas Transmission Company (Northeastern) to extend and to establish physical connection of its proposed transportation facilities, authorized by the Commission to be constructed and operated by Northeastern in Commission's Opinion No. 202 and accompanying order issued November 8, 1950, and to sell natural gas to Applicant.

Applicant is engaged in the business of manufacturing and distributing gas in the town of Athol, Massachusetts, by virtue of the acquisition on February 9, 1951, by Applicant of the gas properties of Athol Gas and Electric Company in connection with the separation of the latter's gas properties from its electric properties. Applicant serves approximately 1,654 customers in the Town of Athol only, which is in the territory proposed to be served by Northeastern in Docket No. G-1267 and Docket No. G-1568.

Applicant states that it is the contention of Northeastern that, although Athol Gas and Electric Company was among the companies Northeastern was authorized to serve in the Commission's Opinion No. 202 and accompanying order issued November 8, 1950, said order did not authorize any facilities with which to deliver gas to Athol.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before the 3d day of May 1951. The application is on file with the Commission for public inspection.

[Ex Parte No. 175, Ex Parte No. 175 (Sub-No. 1)]

INCREASED FREIGHT RATES, 1951

At a general session of the Interstate Commerce Commission, held at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 13th day of April A. D. 1951.

1. A petition was filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission on January 16, 1951, by the railroads listed in Appendix I thereof, being substantially all the class I railroads in the United States and many railroads of other classes, which requests the Commission to institute an investigation into the adequacy of railway freight rates and charges of the petitioners, with the object of effecting general increases in freight rates and charges as set forth in Appendix II thereof; and also seeks permission to make such increased rates and charges effective at the earliest possible date, upon less than statutory notice; and prays for the entry of a general order modifying all outstanding orders of the Commission to the extent necessary to enable the railroads to make the proposed increased rates and charges effective, and also for the entry of appropriate orders under sections 4 and 6 of the Interstate Commerce Act. A subsequent amendment modified the petition in certain matters of detail.

On January 19, 1951, the petitioners filed a "Motion for Immediate Increase in Freight Rates and Charges on an Interim Basis," which sought authority to put the increased freight rates and charges described into effect on an interim basis, on short notice, pending final determination of the proceeding. Other carriers concurred in the motion. After hearing, the Commission on March 12, 1951, sustained the motion in part, and, by its report and orders, authorized certain increases to be made by the petitioners and other carriers, parties to the proceeding. Tariff publications were filed by petitioners pursuant to the orders of the Commission.

By a "Petition of Railroads to Supplement and Amend Their Original Petition", filed with the Commission on March 28, 1951, the carriers named in Appendix B thereto asked leave to supplement and further amend their original petition, so as to seek authority to make effective much greater increases in their rates and charges than originally sought. By order April 12, 1951, leave to amend the petition was granted by the Commission, and the scope of the investigation under the above caption is understood to include such amended petition and any similar amended petitions that may be filed by interveners.

2. The proceeding has been assigned for further hearing at the offices of the Commission in Washington, D. C., commencing at 9:30 o'clock a. m., May 14, 1951. The Commission contemplates that at such hearing testimony will be produced on behalf of the petitioners and others in their behalf, and also testimony of a general or national character on the part of any party. Testimony will also be received with respect to particular commodities by parties who are prepared to proceed at that time. It is contemplated that additional hearings will be scheduled to be held as the progress of the proceeding indicates to be necessary or desirable.

3. Upon the further hearing, all matters of evidence already received will be considered as part of the record, and need not be reintroduced or duplicated.

4. For the orderly and convenient conduct of the proceeding: It is ordered, That in addition to the general rules of practice before the Commission, the appended special instructions and rules of procedure shall be followed.

By the Commission.

[SEAL] W. P. BARTEL,
Secretary.

APPENDIX—SPECIAL RULES OF PROCEDURE AND INSTRUCTIONS GOVERNING THE FURTHER HEARING

Interventions. Petitions of intervention by carriers, other than the petitioners, seeking similar relief should comply with the general rules of practice, Rule 72. It is not necessary for carriers which have already intervened to ask similar relief to that sought in the petition (as initially amended), to refile or amend their petitions unless other relief is asked.

Persons appearing in opposition to the petition herein, or in opposition to similar petitions of carriers other than those filing the original petition, will be considered as protestants, and may be heard without the filing of petitions of intervention.

Simplification of presentations. To conserve time and avoid expense, it is strongly urged that persons with common interests in the proceeding shall, to the greatest extent possible, endeavor to consolidate their presentation of testimony, and arrange for cross-examination by as few counsel as possible.

Evidence offered should be prepared carefully with conciseness and clarity, and so as to avoid extraneous, immaterial, and irrelevent matter, and undue cumulation of testimony or of witnesses upon any point. It should be factual in character, and argument should be reserved for the oral argument stage, and not be incorporated in the testimony.

Basic data of a voluminous character should not be submitted in evidence if it is possible to make it available for inspection by other parties, for instance, by temporarily lodging it with the Commission.

Exhibits. In the preparation of exhibits, Rules of Practice 81 to 84, inclusive, should be followed. If possible, all documents to be submitted by a witness should be embraced in a single exhibit, with pages consecutively numbered, suitably bound together. In order to supply the State Commissioners, members of this Commission, and counsel in the proceeding, at least 250 copies of each exhibit should be prepared. So far as possible exhibits should be made self-explanatory, in order to minimize the amount of time required for explanation by oral testimony.

Use of portions of record made in other proceedings. Parties desiring to present for the record a portion of the record in any other proceeding before the Commission should comply with Rule 82 of the general rules of practice.

Stipulation as to use of Commission's records, and other data. The petitioners have stipulated and agreed in writing, for all purposes in the proceeding, various documents filed with or issued by the Commission may be noticed and considered by it. That stipulation is considered as in force throughout this proceeding. The documents were described in the Appendix to the Special Rules of Procedure upon the hearing of the motion for interim relief, January 24, 1951, to which reference is made for particularity.

Prepared statements. Witnesses who expect in the course of their oral testimony to read from a written statement should comply with Rule 77 of the rules of practice. They should have sufficient copies thereof to supply opposing counsel present, the presiding officers and the official reporter. Such written statements should be furnished counsel a reasonable time before the appearance of the witness on the stand. To conserve time, it is suggested that such statements be prepared and offered in the manner indicated in the paragraph below, relating to verified statements, instead of being submitted orally by a witness on the stand.

Witnesses who will use prepared statements should remember that extensive tabular matter should be submitted separately, as an exhibit. Extensive tabular matter cannot be copied into the transcript of oral testimony.

Verified statements (affidavits). Evidence in the form of verified statements (affidavits) without personal appearance of the affiant as a witness may be received in the absence of objection, as hereinafter specified.

The Commission desires for its own use 20 copies of each verified statement, with accompanying exhibit or exhibits firmly attached. Copies for the Commission should be filed with the Secretary of the Commission by the dates herein stated. Verified statements of evidence in chief on behalf of petitioners and parties in support of petitioners should be filed on or before April 30, 1951. Evidence on behalf of protestants (parties other than respondents) should be filed with the Commission at or before the opening of the hearing.

Parties other than petitioners should also furnish 75 copies of each verified statement to E. H. Burgess, B. & O. Building, Baltimore, 1, Md., for distribution by him to the petitioners in the three rate territories, and should furnish 5 copies to W. S. Jermain, 140 Cedar Street, New York 6, N. Y., for the use of the steamship lines, petitioners in Sub-No. 1, and should furnish 20 copies to Giles Morrow, 1220 Dupont Circle Building, Washington 6, D. C., for the use of the freight forwarders, interveners on behalf of the petitioners and themselves. In addition, the petitioners and all other parties should be prepared with a sufficient number of copies for general distribution of verified statements to counsel present at the hearing.

Verified statements received will be open to public inspection promptly upon filing, at the office of the Commission in Washington, D. C.

Notice of objections to the receipt in evidence of any verified statement should be filed with the Commission and a copy be given to the affiant promptly, and if not so given, it will be considered that objection is waived. But objection to the weight to be accorded the statement of facts is reserved.

If cross-examination of a witness is desired by any party, written request therefor must be given to the Commission or to the witness or his attorney as promptly as circumstances permit, and in time to enable the witness to reach Washington not later than the third day of the hearing, otherwise the privilege of cross-examination will be deemed to be waived.

Witnesses receiving such notice of desire for cross-examination must report at the hearing, or their verified statements cannot be received.

Verified statements should conform to the rules of practice in respect of style, mimeographing or printing, etc. They should be limited strictly to statements of fact, and contain no argument, and if not so limited may be excluded. The Commission on its own motion or on objection may exclude a verified statement or any portion thereof which (a) is not material or relevant to the questions presented in this proceeding, (b) is obviously incompetent, or (c) is argumentative in character. If the affiant is produced and gives oral testimony at the hearing, in the discretion of the Commission the verified statement may be excluded. In the absence of objection to introduction of the verified statement it will be unnecessary for the affiant to appear personally at the hearing.

All verified statements previously or hereafter received in evidence will be part of the record in the proceeding, upon which the Commission will base its decision.

Notice of intention to produce testimony. Persons who desire to be heard will facilitate necessary arrangements by sending notice of their intention by letter or telegram to the Commission at Washington, so as to reach the Commission before May 8, 1951, which shall state the number of witnesses, and the approximate amount of time considered necessary for presentation of direct testimony.

Correspondence. Correspondence relative to this matter should be addressed to the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington 25, D. C., and not to a particular Commissioner, with a reference to the docket number, Ex Parte No. 175 or Ex Parte No. 175 (Sub-No. 1) or both, as the case may be.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

F. M. ANDREWS ET AL.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER REVOKING REGISTRATIONS

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 12th day of April A. D. 1951.

In the matter of F. M. Andrews, 258 Merchant Street, Abilene, Texas; Owen R. Cafferkey, 806 Ratcliffe Avenue, Shreveport Louisiana; W. H. Carraher, 218 East Third Street, Wichita, Kansas; Lum Clay d/b/a Clay Investment Company, 240 Key Building, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; J. F. Colley, 660 First National Building, El Paso, Texas; L. B. Embrey, Rex Hotel, Shreveport, Louisiana; John C. McKeel, 625 Northwest Eighteenth Street, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; Floyd S. Nelson d/b/a Floyd S. Nelson & Company, 606 Southwestern Life Building, Dallas, Texas.

These are proceedings pursuant to section 15 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("the act") to determine whether the registrants named above, each of whom is registered as a broker and dealer or as a dealer only, willfully violated section 17 (a) of the act and Rule X-17A-5 thereunder and, if so, whether it is in the public interest to revoke their registrations.[1]

The proceedings were instituted by separate notices and orders for hearing issued on January 12, 1951. On the same day copies of the notices and orders were sent by registered mail to the addresses last furnished us by the registrants. These registered notices were returned to us by the Post Office Department with notations indicating that the registrants could not be found at the addresses given.[2]

On November 28, 1942, we promulgated Rule X-17A-5 under section 17 (a) of the act, which provides, among other things, that every registered broker or dealer must file with this Commission a report of financial condition during each calendar year commencing with the year 1943. Promulgation of the rule was announced by publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, by release to the press, and by distribution to persons on our mailing list.

The registrants of the registrants became effective prior to 1943, and have not been withdrawn, cancelled, revoked or suspended. Our records show that none of the registrants filed the required reports during any year from 1943 through 1949.

Upon review of the records in these proceedings we have concluded that each of the registrants violated section 17 (a) of the act and Rule X-17A-5 thereunder as a result of his failure to file such reports. We conclude also that such violations were willful within the meaning of section 15 (b).[3]

We conclude, on the basis of the foregoing, that it is necessary in the public interest to revoke the registration of each of the registrants. However, in view of the fact that our records do not show whether any of them actually received personal notice of the scheduled hearings, and to avoid any possible prejudice to them, our order will provide that the revocation of registrations be without prejudice to a motion on the part of any registrant to reopen the proceedings and to seek, upon a proper showing, to set aside the order of revocation applicable to said registrant.[4]

Accordingly it is ordered, That the registrations of F. M. Andrews, Owen R. Cafferkey, W. H. Carraher, Lum Clay, doing business as Clay Investment Company, J. F. Colley, L. B. Embrey, John C. McKeel and Floyd S. Nelson, doing business as Floyd S. Nelson & Company, be, and they hereby are, revoked without prejudice to a motion by any of the said registrants to reopen the record in the proceeding and, upon a proper showing, to set aside the order of revocation applicable to said registrant.

By the Commission.

SUPPLEMENTAL ORDER GRANTING APPLICATION AND PERMITTING DECLARATION TO BECOME EFFECTIVE

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 12th day of April, A. D. 1951.

In the matter of National Fuel Gas Company, United Natural Gas Company, Ridgeway Natural Gas Company, St. Marys Natural Gas Company, Smethport Natural Gas Company, Mercer County Gas Company; File No. 70-2415.

By interim order dated June 30, 1950 (Holding Company Act Release No. 9956) this Commission granted and permitted to become effective, in part, a joint application-declaration filed by National Fuel Gas Company ("National"), a registered holding company, and its subsidiaries, United Natural Gas Company ("United"), Ridgeway Natural Gas Company ("Ridgeway"), St. Marys Natural Gas Company ("St. Marys"), Smethport Natural Gas Company ("Smethport") and Mercer County Gas Company ("Mercer"); and

Said interim order of the Commission permitted consummation of the following transactions as steps preliminary to the consolidation and merger of all of the applicants-declarants other than National, i. e., (i) the payment by Mercer and the receipt by National of a dividend of $3,707.48 constituting Mercer's "paid in" surplus; and (ii) the sale by National and the repurchase by Ridgeway, St. Marys and Smethport of 8,300, 3,550 and 1,200 shares, respectively, of their common stock; and

Said interim order reserved jurisdiction over all other aspects of the proposed transactions, including the exchange by National of the balance of the common stocks of the merging companies for new common stock of United and the proposed consolidation and merger which was subject to the approval of the Public Utility Commission of Pennsylvania and which approval had not then been obtained; and

The applicants-declarants having filed, as a further amendment in these proceedings, a copy of an order of the Public Utility Commission of Pennsylvania dated March 19, 1951, approving said consolidation and merger, and applicants-declarants having requested the Commission to enter its supplemental order granting and permitting the joint application-declaration to become effective for all purposes as soon as possible; and

The Commission finding that the requirements of the applicable provisions of the act are satisfied, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said joint application-declaration be granted and permitted to become effective with respect to all the transactions proposed:

It is hereby ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, and subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24, that the joint application-declaration be, and the same hereby is, granted and permitted to become effective forthwith.

NEW ENGLAND GAS AND ELECTRIC ASSN. AND ALGONQUIN GAS TRANSMISSION CO.

ORDER GRANTING APPLICATION AND PERMITTING DECLARATION TO BECOME EFFECTIVE

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 13th day of April A. D. 1951.

New England Gas and Electric Association ("Negea"), a registered holding company, and one of its subsidiaries, Algonquin Gas Transmission Company ("Algonquin"), having filed a joint application-declaration and amendments thereto pursuant to sections 6 (b), 7, 9 (a), 10 and 12 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("the act") and Rule U-43 promulgated thereunder with respect to the following proposed transactions:

Algonquin proposes to issue and sell not more than 77,500 additional shares of its $100 par value common stock by means of an offering to its stockholders, pursuant to preemptive rights, at a price of $100 per share, and under an arrangement which would permit Algonquin to receive the consideration from its accepting stockholders in the form of temporary, noninterest bearing advances on open account, to be subsequently converted into such common stock.

Negea proposes to acquire such number of shares of Algonquin's common stock as will increase the investment of Negea in such stock to an amount not exceeding $3,000,000, but in no event representing, in the aggregate, more than 37½ percent of Algonquin's presently authorized 100,000 shares of common stock.

The Commission having issued a notice of filing pursuant to Rule U-23 which directed that any interested person might, not later than April 11, 1951, at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the reasons for such request, the nature of his interest and the issues of fact or law raised by said application-declaration which he desires to controvert; and

A request for a hearing having been received on behalf of certain unnamed persons who are said to hold in excess of 500 common shares of Negea; and

The Commission having considered such request and not deeming it appropriate in the public interest or the interest of investors and consumers to issue an order for a hearing on said application-declaration; and

The Commission finding with respect to this application-declaration, as amended, that all of the applicable statutory standards are satisfied and that there is no basis for any adverse findings, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said application-declaration, as amended, be granted and permitted to become effective forthwith:

It is hereby ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that said joint application-declaration, as amended, be, and the same hereby is, granted and permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

It is further ordered, That the request for a hearing be, and the same hereby is, denied.

By the Commission.

(c) The flaxseed must grade No. 1 or No. 2. Flaxseed which contains more than 30 percent damage or more than 11 percent moisture, or which is musty, sour, heating, hot, or which has any commercially objectionable odor or which is otherwise of low quality is not eligible for purchase.

§ 601.860 Determination of quantity. (a) The number of bushels of flaxseed delivered shall be determined by weight at time of delivery. A bushel shall be 56 pounds of flaxseed free of dockage.

(b) The percentage of dockage shall be determined in accordance with the Official Grain Standards of the United States for Flaxseed, and the weight of said dockage shall be deducted from the gross weight of the flaxseed in determining the net quantity for purchase.

§ 601.861 Liens. The flaxseed must be free and clear of all liens and encumbrances, or, if liens and encumbrances exist on the flaxseed, proper waivers must be presented to the county committees at the time of application for delivery instructions.

§ 601.862 Service charge. A service charge of one-half cent per bushel or a minimum of $1.50, whichever is greater, shall be charged the producer on each purchase of flaxseed made by CCC under this program. The amount of the service charge shall be deducted from the purchase price at the time of settlement.

§ 601.863 Set-offs. If the producer is indebted to CCC on any accrued obligation, or if any installments past due or maturing within twelve months are unpaid on any loan made available by CCC on farm-storage facilities, whether held by CCC or a lending agency, he must designate CCC or such lending agency as the payee of the proceeds of the purchase to the extent of such indebtedness or installments, but not to exceed that portion of the proceeds remaining after deduction of service charges and amount due prior lienholders. If the producer is indebted to any other agency of the United States and such indebtedness is listed on the county debt register, he must designate such agency as the payee of the proceeds as provided above. Indebtedness owing to CCC or to a lending agency as provided above shall be given first consideration after claims of prior lienholders. Compliance with the provisions of this section shall not constitute a waiver of any right of the producer to contest the justness of the indebtedness involved either by administrative appeal or by legal action.

§ 601.864 Payment. Payment to the producer for flaxseed delivered under this program shall be made by the PMA State office through sight drafts drawn on CCC, and on the basis of the purchase documents indicated in § 601.859, subject to the provisions of set-offs and service charge.

Issued this 16th day of April 1951.

PART 601—GRAINS AND RELATED COMMODITIES

SUBPART—1951-CROP RYE LOAN AND PURCHASE AGREEMENT PROGRAM

A price support program has been announced for 1951-crop rye. The 1951 C. C. C. Grain Price Support Bulletin 1, 16 F. 601.1252 Availability of price support.
601.1253 Eligible rye.
601.1254 Warehouse receipts.
601.1255 Determination of quantity.
601.1256 Determination of quality.
601.1257 Maturity of loans.
601.1258 Determination of support rates.

AUTHORITY: §§ 601.1251 to 601.1260 issued under sec. 4, 62 Stat. 1070, as amended; 15 U. S. C. Sup., 714b. Interpret or apply sec. 5, 62 Stat. 1072, secs. 301, 401, 63 Stat. 1053, 1054; 15 U. S. C. Sup., 714c, 7 U. S. C. Sup., 1447, 1421.

§ 601.1251 Purpose. This subpart states additional specific requirements which, together with the general requirements contained in the 1951 C. C. C. Grain Price Support Bulletin 1, 16 F. R. 1987, apply to loans and purchase agreements under the 1951-Crop Rye Price Support Program.

§ 601.1252 Availability of price support—(a) Method of support. Price support will be made available through farm-storage and warehouse-storage loans and through purchase agreements.

(b) Area. Farm-storage and warehouse-storage loans and purchase agreements will be available wherever rye is grown in the continental United States, except that farm-storage loans will not be available in areas where the PMA State committee determines that rye cannot be safely stored on the farm.

(c) Where to apply. Application for price support should be made at the office of the PMA county committee which keeps the farm-program records for the farm.

(d) When to apply. Loans and purchase agreements will be available from the time of harvest through January 31, 1952, and the applicable documents must be signed by the producer and delivered to the county committee not later than such date.

(e) Eligible producer. An eligible producer shall be an individual, partnership, association, corporation, or other legal entity producing rye in 1951 as landowner, landlord, tenant, or sharecropper.

§ 601.1253 Eligible rye. At the time the rye is placed under loan or delivered under a purchase agreement, it must meet the following requirements:

(a) The rye must have been produced in the continental United States in 1951 by an eligible producer.

(b) The beneficial interest in the rye must be in the person tendering the rye for loan or for delivery under a purchase agreement, and must always have been in him, or must have been in him and a former producer whom he succeeded before the rye was harvested.

(c) Such rye must be rye grading No. 2 or better, or rye grading No. 3 on the factor of "test weight" only, but otherwise grading No. 2 or better. (If the rye is warehouse stored, the quality of the rye must be evidenced by a statement on the warehouse receipt, the inspection certificate, the supplemental certificate, or supplemental certificate and delivery order in the case of warehouses operated by eastern common carriers, substantially as follows: "This rye grades No. _____ because of _____")

(d) The rye must not grade tough, light smutty, smutty, light garlicky, garlicky, weevily or contain in excess of 1 percent ergot.

(e) If offered as security for a farm-storage loan, the rye must have been stored in the granary, at least 30 days prior to its inspection for measurement, sampling, and sealing, unless otherwise approved by the PMA State committee.

§ 601.1254 Warehouse receipts. Warehouse receipts, representing rye in approved warehouse storage to be placed under loan or delivered under a purchase agreement, must meet the following requirements of this section:

(a) Warehouse receipts must indicate that the rye is insured, must be issued in the name of the producer, must be properly endorsed in blank so as to vest title in the holder, and must be issued by a warehouse approved by CCC under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement (the rye must be insured by the warehouseman in accordance with the terms of the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement), or warehouses operated by eastern common carriers under tariffs approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission for which custodian agreements are in effect.

(b) Each warehouse receipt, or the warehouseman's supplemental certificate (in duplicate), properly identified with the warehouse receipt, must show: (1) Gross weight or bushels, (2) grade (including special grades), (3) percentage of ergot for rye containing in excess of 3/10 of 1 percent of ergot, (4) test weight, (5) dockage, and (6) any other grading factor(s) when such factor(s) and not test weight determine the grade. The warehouse receipt or supplemental certificate must show whether the rye arrived by rail, truck, or barge. The moisture content must also be shown, except that where it is not customary for country warehousemen to determine the exact moisture percentage, a warehouse receipt representing rye stored in a country warehouse will be accepted if the moisture content is not shown, provided the grade of rye does not show the word "tough". In such cases, the warehousemen will be responsible for delivering rye which does not grade "tough" or "sample" due to moisture content. In the case of warehouse receipts issued for rye delivered by rail or barge, the grading factors on the warehouse receipt must agree with the inbound inspection certificate for the car or barge when such certificate is issued.

(c) A separate warehouse receipt must be submitted for each grade of rye.

(d) The warehouse receipt may be subject to liens for warehouse charges only to the extent indicated in §601.1259.

(e) Warehouse receipts representing rye which has been shipped by rail or water from a country shipping point to a designated terminal point or shipped by rail or water from a country shipping point to a storage point and stored in transit to a designated terminal point, must be accompanied by registered freight bills, or by (1) a statement as indicated below signed by the warehouseman, (2) a certificate of the warehouseman, containing such information or (3) such form of certificate as may be approved by CCC.

§ 601.1255 Determination of quantity. The quantity of rye placed under farm-storage loan may be determined either by weight or by measurement. The quantity of rye placed under a warehouse-storage loan or delivered under a farm-storage loan or under a purchase agreement shall be determined by weight.

When the quantity is determined by weight, a bushel shall be 56 pounds of rye free of dockage. In determining the quantity of sacked rye by weight, a deduction of ¾ of a pound for each sack shall be made.

When the quantity of rye is determined by measurement, a bushel shall be 1.25 cubic feet of rye testing 56 pounds per bushel. The quantity determined shall be the following percentages of the quantity determined for 56-pound rye:

For rye testing	Percent
56 pounds or over	100
55 pounds or over, but less than 56 pounds	98
54 pounds or over, but less than 55 pounds	96
53 pounds or over, but less than 54 pounds	95
52 pounds or over, but less than 53 pounds	92

The percentage of dockage shall be determined and the weight of such dockage shall be deducted from the gross weight of the rye in determining the net quantity available for loan or purchase.

§ 601.1256 Determination of quality. The grade, grading factors, and all other quality factors shall be determined in accordance with the methods set forth in the Official Grain Standards of the United States for Rye, whether or not such determinations are made on the basis of an official inspection.

The quantity of ergot shall be stated in terms of tenths of one percent and, where applicable, the word "Ergoty" shall be added to, and made a part of, the grade designation.

§ 601.1257 Maturity of loans. Loans mature on demand but not later than April 30, 1952.

§ 601.1258 Determination of support rates. Basic support rates for rye will be set forth in 1951 CCC Grain Price Support Bulletin 1, Supplement 2, Rye, and will be established for rye grading No. 2 or better, or No. 3 or better on the factor of test weight only, but otherwise grading No. 2 or better. These support rates will be established for rye stored in approved warehouse storage at designated terminal markets, and by counties, for rye stored in approved country warehouses and in approved farm-storage. The support rate for the quality of rye placed under a loan or delivered under a purchase agreement shall be the applicable basic support rate adjusted in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(a) Support rates at designated terminal markets. Rye eligible for loan or purchase at the basic support rates established for designated terminal markets must have been shipped on a domestic interstate freight rate basis. On any rye shipped at other than the domestic interstate freight rate, the support rate at the designated terminal market shall be reduced by the difference between the freight paid (plus tax) and the domestic interstate freight rate (plus tax).

The basic support rates established for designated terminal markets will apply to rye which has been shipped by rail or water from a country shipping point to one of the designated terminal markets, as evidenced by paid freight bills duly registered for transit privileges: Provided, That in the event the amount of paid-in freight is insufficient to guarantee the minimum proportional domestic interstate freight rate from the terminal market, there shall be deducted from the applicable terminal market basic support rate the difference between the amount of freight actually paid in and the amount required to be paid in to guarantee outbound movement at the minimum proportional domestic interstate freight rate.

When shipped by rail or water and stored at any designated terminal market, rye for which neither registered freight bills nor such freight certificates are presented to guarantee outbound movement at the minimum proportional domestic interstate freight rate, shall have a support rate equal to the applicable terminal market basic support rate minus 8 cents per bushel.

For rye received by truck and stored at any designated terminal market, the support rate shall be determined by making a deduction from the applicable terminal market basic support rate as follows:

Terminal located in—	Amount of deduction (cents per bushel)
Area I: Arizona, California, Idaho, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Washington, Utah	12½
Area II: Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Wyoming, Wisconsin	13
Area III: Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia	14
Area IV: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas	14

(b) Support rates for rye in approved warehouse-storage at other than designated terminal markets. The support rate for rye stored in approved warehouses (other than those situated in the designated terminal markets) which is shipped by rail or water, shall be determined by deducting from the appropriate designated terminal market basic support rate an amount equal to the transit balance, if any (plus tax), of the through-freight rate from point of origin for such rye to such terminal market:

Provided, That in the case of rye stored at any railroad transit point, taking a penalty by reason of out-of-line movement, or for any other reason, to the appropriate designated market, there shall be added to such transit balance an amount equal to any out-of-line costs or other costs incurred in storing rye in such position.

(c) Discount for ergot. In the case of rye containing more than 3/10 of 1 percent but not more than 1 percent ergot, the basic support rates shall be discounted 1 cent per bushel for each 1/10 of 1 percent in excess of 3/10 of 1 percent ergot.

§ 601.1259 Warehouse charges. Warehouse receipts and the rye represented thereby stored in approved warehouses operating under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement may be subject to liens for warehouse handling and storage charges not to exceed the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement rates from the date the rye is deposited in the warehouse for storage.

Where the date of deposit (the date of the warehouse receipt if the date of deposit is not shown) on warehouse receipts representing rye stored in warehouses operating under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement is on or before April 30, 1952, the storage charges shown in the following table shall be deducted in computing the amount of the loan or purchase price.

Date of deposit	Area I: Ariz., Calif., Idaho, Minn., Mont., Nev., N. Dak., Oreg., S. Dak., Wash., Utah.	Area II: Col., Ill., Iowa, Kans., Mo., Nebr., Wyo., Wis. Warehouse receipts and the rye represented thereby stored in approved warehouses operated by eastern common carriers may be subject to liens for warehouse elevation (receiving and delivering) and storage charges from the date of deposit at rates approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

For rye stored in approved warehouses operated by eastern common carriers, there shall be deducted in computing the loan or purchase price the amount of the approved tariff rates for storage (not including elevation), which will accumulate from the date of deposit to the program maturity date. The county committee shall request the PMA commodity office to determine the amount of such charges. Where the producer presents evidence showing that the elevation has been prepaid, the amount of the storage charges to be deducted shall be reduced by the amount of the elevation charge prepaid by the producer.

§ 601.1260 Settlement—(1) Farm-storage loans. In the case of rye delivered to CCC from farm-storage under the loan program, settlement shall be made at the applicable support rate for the approved point of delivery. The support rate shall be for the grade and quality of the total quantity of rye delivered.

If the rye under farm-storage loan is, upon delivery, of a grade and/or quality for which no support rate has been established, the settlement value shall be the support rate established for the grade and/or quality of the rye placed under loan, less the difference, if any, at the time of delivery, between the market price for the grade and/or quality placed under loan and the market price of the rye delivered, as determined by CCC.

If farm-stored rye is delivered to CCC prior to April 30, 1952, upon request of the producer and with the approval of CCC, the loan settlement shall be reduced as set forth in the table in § 601.1259.

(2) Purchase agreement. Rye delivered to CCC under a purchase agreement must meet the requirements of rye eligible for loan. The purchase rate per bushel of eligible rye shall be the support rate established for the approved point of delivery, subject to deduction of warehouse charges in accordance with § 601.1259.

(3) Track-loading. A track-loading payment of 2 cents per bushel shall be made to the producer on rye delivered to CCC on track at a country point.

PART 668—MOHAIR

SUBPART—1951 MOHAIR PRICE SUPPORT PURCHASE PROGRAM

§ 668.1 Support prices for mohair. The Production and Marketing Administration and Commodity Credit Corporation hereby announce the 1951 Mohair Price Support Purchase Program. The program will be carried out under the general supervision and direction of the President of Comodity Credit Corporation in accordance with the by-laws of Commodity Credit Corporation through the Production and Marketing Administration. Prices of mohair will be supported by purchasing mohair offered by growers at a price which will yield an average return to growers equal to 74.1 percent of parity as of March 15, 1951. The parity price for mohair on that date was 72 cents a pound which results in a support level averaging 53.4 cents a pound. Purchases will be made through mohair dealers and cooperative associations who enter into agreements with Commodity Credit Corporation to purchase, store, handle, and sell mohair for the account of Commodity Credit Corporation. Purchases will be made generally under terms and conditions similar to those announced for the purchase of wool in the 1950 Wool Price Support Purchase Program. (15 F. R. 4431); except that they will be limited to mohair that is owned by the original grower. Only mohair produced in the continental United States or territories and offered prior to April 1, 1952, will be eligible for purchase. Information regarding the program can be obtained from the Wool Division, Livestock Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

The program will be carried out under the general supervision and direction of the President of Commodity Credit Corporation in accordance with the bylaws of Commodity Credit Corporation through the Production and Marketing Administration. Prices of wool will be supported by purchasing wool offered by growers at a price which will yield an average return to growers equal to 90 percent of parity as of March 15, 1951. The parity price for wool on that date was 56.3 cents a pound which results in a support level averaging 50.7 cents a pound. Purchases will be made through wool dealers and cooperative associations who enter into agreements with Commodity Credit Corporation to purchase, store, handle, and sell wool for the account of Commodity Credit Corporation. Purchases will be made generally under the terms and conditions announced in the 1950 Wool Price Support Purchase Program (15 F. TITLE 14—CIVIL AVIATION

Chapter II—Civil Aeronautics Administration, Department of Commerce

[Amdt. 46]

PART 600—DESIGNATION OF CIVIL AIRWAYS

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

The application of 1950 isogonic lines to aeronautical charts will cause the magnetic variation at the station of certain radio ranges to be changed, necessitating a change in the magnetic bearings of the radio range courses as depicted on aeronautical charts. In order to provide uniformity in designation and to avoid the necessity of revising this part of the regulations of the Administrator when other radio range stations are affected by changes in magnetic variations, the following amendments to the affected sections of Part 600 are made to substitute "True" bearings wherever reference to "magnetic" bearings appear therein. Compliance with the notice, procedures, and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act would serve no useful purpose and therefore is not required. Part 600 is amended as follows:

1. Section 600.204 is amended to read:

§ 600.204 Red civil airway No. 4 (Albuquerque, N. Mex., to Las Vegas, N. Mex.). From the Albuquerque, N. Mex., omnirange station via the intersection of the Albuquerque, N. PART 601—DESIGNATION OF CONTROL AREAS, CONTROL ZONES, AND REPORTING POINTS

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

The application of 1950 isogonic lines to aeronautical charts will cause the magnetic variation at the station of certain radio ranges to be changed, necessitating a change in the magnetic bearings of the radio range courses as depicted on aeronautical charts. In order to provide uniformity in designation and to avoid the necessity of revising this part of the regulations of the Administrator when other radio range stations are affected by changes in magnetic variations, the following amendments to the affected sections of Part 601 are made to substitute "True" bearings wherever reference to "magnetic" bearings appear therein. Compliance with the notice, procedures, and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act would serve no useful purpose and therefore is not required. Part 601 is amended as follows:

1. Section 601.103 is amended to read:

In the Matter of Joelle Coats, Inc., a Corporation, and Nat Propos, Individually and as President of Joelle Coats, Inc.; William Varaeska, Julia Varaeska, and Gertrude Obropta, Individually and as Copartners Trading and Doing Business as Ridgeley Sportswear Manufacturing Company

Decision of the Commission and order to file report of compliance. Pursuant to the provisions of the Federal Trade Commission Act and the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, and by virtue of the authority vested in it by said acts, the Federal Trade Commission, on March 9, 1950, issued and subsequently served its complaint in this proceeding upon the respondents named in the caption hereof, charging them with the use of unfair and deceptive acts and practices in commerce in violation of the provisions of those acts. After the filing of respondents' answer, a hearing was held before a trial examiner of the Commission theretofore duly designated by it, at which hearing there was read into the record a stipulation as to the facts by and between counsel supporting the complaint and counsel for the respondents, in lieu of all other evidence. On October 26, 1950, the trial examiner filed his initial decision, which was served on the respondents on November 7, 1950.

The Commission, having reason to believe that the initial decision was deficient in certain material respects, subsequently placed this case on its own docket for review, and on December 6, 1950, it issued, and thereafter served upon the parties, its order affording the respondents an opportunity to show cause why said initial decision should not be altered in the manner and to the extent shown in a tentative decision of the Commission attached to said order. Respondents not having appeared in response to the leave to show cause, this proceeding regularly came on for final consideration by the Commission upon the record herein on review; and the Commission, having duly considered the matter and being now fully advised in the premises, finds that this proceeding is in the interest of the public and makes this its findings as to the facts, conclusion drawn therefrom, and order, the same to be in lieu of the initial decision of the trial examiner.

Findings as to the Facts

PARAGRAPH 1. The respondent Joelle Coats, Inc., is a corporation organized, existing, and doing business under and by virtue of the laws of the State of New York, with its principal office and place of business located at 265 West 37th Street, New York, New York.

The respondent Nat Propos is president of the respondent Joelle Coats, Inc.

The respondents William Varacska, Julia Varacska, and Gertrude Obropta are copartners trading and doing business as Ridgeley Sportswear Manufacturing Company, with their factory and place of business located in Perth Amboy, New Jersey.

All of the respondents have acted in concert in performing and carrying out the acts and practices hereinafter set forth and described.

PAR. 2. The respondents are now, and since 1947 have been, engaged in the introduction and manufacture for introduction into commerce as "commerce" is defined in the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 and in the Federal Trade Commission Act, and in the offering for sale, sale, transportation, and distribution in said commerce, of wool products, as such products are defined in the said Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939. The respondents William Varacska, Julia Varacska, and Gertrude Obropta, copartners trading as Ridgeley Sportswear Manufacturing Company, receive fabrics used in the manufacture of the garments involved in this proceeding from the respondent Joelle Coats, Inc., and manufacture the garments therefrom, label them, and ship them to Joelle Coats, Inc. Many of respondents' said products are composed in whole or in part of wool, reprocessed wool, or reused wool, as those terms are defined in the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, and such products are subject to the provisions of said act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder. Since September 10, 1947, respondents have violated the provisions of said act and rules and regulations in the introduction and manufacture for introduction into commerce, and in the sale, transportation, and distribution in commerce, of said wool products by causing said wool products to be misbranded within the intent and meaning of said act and rules and regulations.

PAR. 3. Among the wool products introduced and manufactured for introduction into commerce and sold, transported, and distributed in said commerce, as aforesaid, were coats and other products. Among such coats were a number of coats, carrying style number 702, which were labeled as 100 percent wool. Such coats, which were manufactured by Ridgeley Sportswear Manufacturing Company and which bore fabric content tags of Joelle Coats, Inc., actually contained 10 percent wool and 90 percent reprocessed wool. Said coats were thus misbranded in that they did not have affixed a stamp, tag, label, or other means of identification showing the constituent fibers, and percentages thereof, of such products, and other information required by the Wool Products Labeling Act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

Conclusion. The acts and practices of the respondents, as hereinabove found, were in violation of the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 and the rules and regulations thereunder, and constituted unfair and deceptive acts and practices in commerce within the intent and meaning of the Federal Trade Commission Act.

It is ordered, That the respondents, Joelle Coats, Inc., a corporation, and its officers, Nat Propos, individually, and William Varacska, Julia Varacska, and Gertrude Obropta, individually and as copartners trading as Ridgeley Sportswear Manufacturing Company or under any other name, and their respective representatives, agents, and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the introduction or manufacture for introduction into commerce, or the offering for sale, sale, transportation, or distribution in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the aforesaid acts, of coats or other wool products, as such products are defined in and subject to the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, which products contain, purport to contain, or in any way are represented as containing "wool", "reprocessed wool", or "reused wool", as those terms are defined in said act, do forthwith cease and desist from misbranding such coats or other products by failing to affix securely to or place on such products a stamp, tag, label, or other means of identification, showing in a clear and conspicuous manner:

(a) The percentage of the total fiber weight of such wool product, exclusive of ornamentation not exceeding five percentum of said total fiber weight, of (1) wool, (2) reprocessed wool, (3) reused wool, (4) each fiber other than wool where said percentage by weight of such fiber is five percentum or more, and (5) the aggregate of all other fibers.

(b) The maximum percentage of the total weight of such wool products of any non-fibrous loading, filling, or adulterating matter.

(c) The name or the registered identification number of the manufacturer of such wool product or of one or more persons engaged in introducing such wool product into commerce, or in the offering for sale, sale, transportation, or distribution thereof in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act and in the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939.

Provided, That the foregoing provisions concerning misbranding shall not be construed to prohibit acts permitted by paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 3 of the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939; And provided further, That nothing contained in this order shall be construed as limiting any applicable provisions of said act or the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

It is further ordered, That the respondents shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report, in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with this order.

Issued: February 26, 1951.

By the Commission.

TITLE 29—LABOR

Chapter V—Wage and Hour Division, Department of Labor

PART 617—KNITTED OUTERWEAR INDUSTRY, MINIMUM WAGE ORDER, HOME WORKERS

DEFINITION OF CERTAIN TERMS

The Administrator of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, pursuant to section 8 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended, issued a minimum wage order for the Knitted Outerwear Industry, effective April 20, 1942. In conjunction with the issuance of this wage order the Administrator found that in order to carry out the purpose of the order and to prevent the circumvention or evasion thereof it was necessary to include in the order a provision restricting home work in the industry. To accomplish this restriction the Administrator issued regulations which provided that "no work" in the industry "shall be done in or about a home, apartment, tenement, or room in a residential establishment," except under special certificates to be issued only under specified conditions, and which, among other things, defined the term "industrial home work" as the "production by any person in or about a home, apartment, tenement, or room in a residential establishment for an employer of goods from materials furnished directly by or indirectly for such employer."

The Administrator is of the opinion that the regulations were intended to apply to all employment in home work whereby goods are produced for or on behalf of members of this industry, regardless of the source of the materials used by the homeworkers, and has been enforcing the regulations on the basis that homeworkers employed in this industry were subject to the act and the regulations whether they produced directly for an employer or distributor, or under a so-called "purchase and sale" or "agency" arrangement or other devices designed to disguise the employment relation. The fact that the regulations have been so construed and enforced has been well known to the members of the industry through the institution of court proceedings by the Administrator and the Secretary of Labor (Tobin v. Wagner, infra; Tobin v. Harwood, 10 W. H. Cases 73 (W. D. Tenn.); Tobin v. Van Wagemen-Sager, Inc. (N. D. N. Y. No. 3129)), and through court decisions upholding such construction (Tobin v. Harwood, 10 W. H. Cases 73 (W. D., Tenn.); Cf. Walling v. Wolff, 63 Fed. Supp. 605 (N. D. N. Y.)).

Most of the members of this industry who formerly used or dealt with homeworkers have for years been under court injunction prohibiting the employment of homeworkers except in accordance with the statutory minimum and overtime requirements, and from using any "purchase and sales arrangements with any home workers" to avoid the requirements of the Act or the injunction "whether the materials are furnished by defendants or by others" (Jacobs v. Hand Knitcraft Institute, Civil 6-354 (S. D. N. Y.) 2 Wage and Hour Reporters 499, decree entered November 21, 1939).

The administrative authority to regulate or prohibit such home work clearly exists, particularly since the addition of section 11 (d) to the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 by the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1949 (63 Stat. 910, 29 U. S. C. sec. 211 (d)). In a recent decision by the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in the case of Tobin v. Wagner Company, Inc., (March 21, 1951), the Court expressly recognized the administrative authority to regulate such home work, but questioned the intended scope of the present regulations on the ground that the language defining "industrial home work" is not sufficiently clear in the absence of "published rulings" giving notice of the administrative construction of such language as being applicable to situations where the homeworkers obtain their materials from a source independent of the person for whom the goods are being produced.

Accordingly, the Administrator finds that immediately effective clarification of the regulations is essential in order to accomplish the intent of the present regulations to safeguard the wage standards in the industry, to eliminate the unfair competitive situation, and to provide for adequate enforcement of the home work restrictions. For the above reasons and because this amendment undertakes to clarify, not to change the consequences intended by the present regulations, advance notice and public procedure thereon is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest. (Sec. 4, Administrative Procedure Act, 60 Stat. 237, 5 U. S. C. 1004.)

Now, therefore, pursuant to authority vested in me by section 11 (d) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended, § 617.101 is amended to read as follows:

§ 617.101 Definitions. The meaning of the terms "person," "employ," "employer," "employee," "goods," and "production" as used in this part is the same as in the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended.

"Industrial homeworker" and "homeworker," as used in this part, mean any employee employed or suffered or permitted to perform industrial home work for an employer.

"Industrial home work," as used in this part, means the production by any person in or about a home, apartment, tenement, or room in a residential establishment of goods for an employer who suffers or permits such production, regardless of the source (whether obtained from an employer or elsewhere) of the materials used by the homeworker in such production.

This amendment shall be effective immediately upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 16th day of April 1951.

WM. R. MCCOMB, Administrator, Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions.

GCPR, SR 14—SALES BY COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION

CEILING PRICES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Amendment No. 1 to Supplementary Regulation 14 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (16 F. R. 809) is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATION

Supplementary Regulation 14 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation was issued to enable the Commodity Credit Corporation to sell its stocks of agricultural commodities in accordance with the provisions of section 407 of the Agricultural Act of 1949. Since the issuance of that regulation, the Director of Price Stabilization has been informed that additional restrictions on the prices at which the Commodity Credit Corporation may sell the agricultural products it owns are contained in section 112 (e) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1948. Moreover, the supplementary regulation, in providing new ceiling prices for sales by the Commodity Credit Corporation of agricultural commodities acquired in connection with its price support program, failed to give full consideration to that agency's operating methods, which necessarily differ from usual and normal business and trade practices. Supplementary Regulation 14 is therefore amended to permit the Corporation to sell those agricultural commodities at prices no lower than (1) the minimum prices required by the Agricultural Act of 1949 or by the Foreign Assistance Act of 1948 and (2) the full fair market value of the commodity.

Under the provisions of section 112 (e) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1948, the Commodity Credit Corporation is required, in making sales to other Government agencies which are purchasing for the purpose of furnishing assistance to foreign countries, to sell a surplus agricultural commodity at a price which is equal to the lower of (1) the cost of the commodity to it at the time and place of delivery, and (2) the domestic market price at the time and place of delivery. In the operation of its price support program, the Commodity Credit Corporation acquires agricultural commodities during the course of a relatively short period of time and disposes of these commodities when circumstances permit such disposition without disruption of commercial markets or price support policies. To avoid Government retention of excessively large surpluses, which would require increased use of marketing quotas and other production controls, the Commodity Credit Corporation has, in effect, previously subsidized sales both for export and to specialized outlets by selling at greatly reduced prices. Thus the Agency does not operate in the market in the day-to-day manner normal to the commercial trade. As a consequence, the ceiling prices established by Supplementary Regulation 14 for sales by the Corporation were, in those instances where the Corporation sold at greatly reduced prices during the base period, below those generally prevailing for commercial sellers of the same commodity.

In addition, because the Commodity Credit Corporation is not currently buying many of the agricultural products it has stockpiled, it cannot avail itself of the advantages of the parity pass-through provisions of section 11, as can commercial purchasers and sellers. Many of the commodities which the Corporation owns have not been purchased by the Corporation since January 25, 1951 (the last day of the GCPR base period), a period during which these commodities have been consistently rising in price. Consequently, commercial operators sustaining higher current costs have been able to increase their ceiling prices pursuant to the parity pass-through provisions of section 11, while the Commodity Credit Corporation, under the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation, has been restricted to the ceiling prices established by December 19, 1950 to January 25, 1951, base period sales. To require the Corporation to sell these commodities at prices no higher than its base period ceiling prices would not only preclude it from obtaining the full market value of these commodities, but would afford windfall profits to those purchasers who had previously obtained increased ceiling prices through the operation of section 11 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

This Amendment No. 1 to Supplementary Regulation 14 is therefore issued to provide that ceiling prices for sales by the Commodity Credit Corporation may be the higher of (1) the highest ceiling price that the particular purchaser of the commodity could pay under the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation, as amended and as supplemented, to any of his customary suppliers or (2) the minimum sales price authorized by section 407 of the Agricultural Act of 1949 (7 U. S. C. 1427) or by section 112 (e) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1948.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Section 2 of Supplementary Regulation 14 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 2. Ceiling prices. The sale by the Commodity Credit Corporation of unprocessed and processed agricultural commodities acquired in connection with its price-support program shall be at a price not to exceed the higher of (a) the highest ceiling price the purchaser could pay any of his usual suppliers for the commodity in the quantity and at the place and season that delivery is made, or, (b) the minimum sales price authorized by section 407 of the Agricultural Act of 1949 (7 U. S. C. 1427) or by section 112 (e) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1948.

(Sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong. Interprets or applies Title IV, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong., E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105, 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.)

Effective date. This Amendment No. 1 to Supplementary Regulation 14 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation shall become effective April 23rd 1951.

Director of Price Stabilization.

GCPR, SR 20—MILK, CREAM, AND MILK PRODUCTS FOR FLUID CONSUMPTION

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Supplementary Regulation No. 20 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (16 F. R. 809) is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

The General Ceiling Price Regulation permits sellers of the "listed agricultural commodities", or commodities processed from them, to increase their ceiling prices in certain cases. The increases permitted may not exceed the dollars and cents difference between the current unit cost to the seller and the highest unit cost to him for a customary purchase in the base period.

Under section 22 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation, as amended, fractions of a cent remaining after the total price for a quantity sold has been calculated are dropped if they amount to less than one-half cent. Similarly, if the fractions amount to one-half cent or more, the price may be increased to the next highest cent. In the fluid milk industry, however, it is customary to establish unit prices expressed in fractions. Thus, a quart of milk may be priced at 24½¢. It appears then that the provisions of the regulation for dealing with fractions are inconsistent in this regard with the practice in the fluid milk industry.

This supplementary regulation is issued in order to avoid confusion and uncertainty in the determination of ceiling prices for milk, cream, and milk products for fluid consumption.

While recognizing the need for removing the inconsistencies between the General Ceiling Price Regulation and the pricing practices of the fluid milk industry, it is necessary to make provision against ceiling price increases resulting from the addition of new increased costs to ceiling prices previously increased by the rounding off of fractions. This supplementary regulation contains provisions designed to prevent this type of accumulation by requiring all "parity" adjustment price increases to be determined in relation to the base period.

FINDINGS OF THE DIRECTOR OF PRICE STABILIZATION

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the provisions of Supplementary Regulation No. 20 to General Ceiling Price Regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purpose of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

So far as practicable the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950; to prices prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950, to June 24, 1950, inclusive; and to relevant factors of general applicability.

REGULATORY PROVISIONS

Sec.
1. What this regulation does.
2. Rounding of fractions of a cent in ceiling prices for milk, cream, and milk products for fluid consumption.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 and 2 issued under sec. 704, Public Law 774, 81st Cong. Interpret or apply Title IV, Public Law 774, 81st Cong., E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105, 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.

SECTION 1. What this regulation does. The purpose of this regulation is to provide a method for dealing with fractions of a cent in the computation of increased ceiling prices under the parity adjustment provision of section 11 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation by sellers of milk, cream, and milk products for fluid consumption.

SEC. 2. Rounding of fractions of a cent in ceiling prices for milk, cream, and milk products for fluid consumption. (a) If you are seller of milk, cream, and milk products for fluid consumption and in computing an increased ceiling price you arrive at a unit price which involves a fraction of a cent you may round it off only as follows despite the provisions of section 22 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation:

MILK AND MILK PRODUCTS

Range in the fraction (cents per quart)	Permissive increase in ceiling price (cents per quart)
0.751–and over	1

CREAM

Range in the fraction (cents per one-half pint)	Permissive increase in ceiling price (cents per one-half pint)
0.751–and over	1

(b) Your ceiling price for milk or milk products sold for fluid consumption in units smaller than quarts may not be increased except in direct proportion to the ceiling price increase for quarts. Your ceiling price for cream for fluid consumption in units larger than in half-pints may not be increased except in direct proportion to the ceiling price increase for half-pints.

(c) Irrespective of whether you have previously increased your ceiling price above your base period ceiling price, you must nevertheless make the "parity" adjustment on the basis of your highest unit cost for a customary purchase during the base period.

Effective date. This supplementary regulation is effective April 23, 1951.

MICHAEL V. DISALLE,
Director of Price Stabilization.

Chapter VI—National Production Authority, Department of Commerce

[NPA Order M-45, Schedule 3]

M-45—ALLOCATION OF CHEMICALS AND ALLIED PRODUCTS

SCHED. 3—SULFURIC ACID

This schedule is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued under NPA Order M-45 pursuant to the authority of section 101 of the Defense Production Act of 1950. In the formulation of this schedule there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

SECTION 1. Definitions. (a) "Sulfuric acid" means all grades, strengths, and qualities of sulfuric acid, both virgin and fortified, and includes oleum and recovered or spent sulfuric acid.

(b) "Supplier" means any person who produces sulfuric acid for his own use or for sale, or who purchases sulfuric acid for redelivery as sulfuric acid with or without concentration or refinement, or who purchases sulfuric acid for his own use and redelivers recovered or spent sulfuric acid.

SEC. 2. General provisions. Sulfuric acid is hereby made subject to NPA Order M-45 as an Appendix B material. The initial allocation date is June 1, 1951. The allocation period is the calendar month. The small order exemption without use certificate is 60 tons (net tons, basis 100 percent H_2SO_4) per person per month.

SEC. 3. Limited allocation. Specific authorization by NPA on Form NPAF-47 to deliver or use any sulfuric acid, including spent sulfuric acid, is required only in the states of Washington, Oregon, California, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, and Montana. Suppliers in all other states must nevertheless file applications with NPA on Form NPAF-47, in accordance with the provisions of NPA Order M-45 and of this schedule, and may not deliver sulfuric acid to a purchaser who has not filed a certified statement of proposed use as required by NPA Order M-45. Such suppliers may, however, deliver and use sulfuric acid without express authorization unless otherwise directed by NPA.

SEC. 4. Filing date and unit of measure. The filing date is the 10th day of the month before the proposed delivery month. The filing date for the allocation period commencing June 1, 1951, is May 5, 1951. The unit of measure is the net ton of 2,000 pounds, basis 100 percent H_2SO_4.

SEC. 5. Spent sulfuric acid. (a) Any person who has received sulfuric acid on a purchase order certified for a particular purpose or who has been specifically authorized to use sulfuric acid for a particular purpose may use the spent or recovered sulfuric acid which is no longer suitable for such particular purpose for any other purpose, except that he shall not use such spent sulfuric acid in chemical combination with any other material to produce a salable product without specific authorization by NPA.

(b) Any person may, without authorization by NPA, deliver spent sulfuric acid to or for the account of the person who supplied him with the original acid. In such event, however, the original supplier may not use such acid for any purpose except fortification or decomposition without specific authorization by NPA. If delivery is to be made to another for the account of the original supplier, such supplier must obtain specific authorization from NPA as in the case of a delivery made directly from his own plant. Any other delivery of spent sulfuric acid must be specifically authorized by NPA upon application pursuant to section 10 of this schedule.

SEC. 6. Exemption for ordnance plants. Any ordnance plant owned and operated by the United States Government may use its own production of sulfuric acid in the manufacture of military explosives without application to or specific authorization by NPA. Such plant may not, however, deliver virgin or spent sulfuric acid to another ordnance plant or to any purchaser without specific authorization by NPA.

SEC. 7. Termination of NPA authorization to use. An authorization by NPA to any person to use sulfuric acid shall terminate at the close of the calendar month immediately following the allocation period for which such use was authorized.

SEC. 8. Limitation on inventory. No person (notwithstanding any allocation made to him) shall place an order for sulfuric acid calling for delivery, and no person shall accept delivery of sulfuric acid, at a time when his inventory of sulfuric acid exceeds, or by acceptance of such delivery would be made to exceed, his minimum requirements for the allocation period in which delivery is sought at his then scheduled rate and method of operation. The placing of such an order is prohibited even though the purchaser intends to cancel all or part thereof or to reduce the quantity of sulfuric acid ordered to an amount which would be lawful under this section before the entire amount originally ordered is delivered. The provisions of this section are applicable throughout the United States.

SEC. 9. Certified statement of proposed use. Every person who purchases sulfuric acid from a supplier is required to enter on or attach to each purchase order a certified statement of proposed use as provided in section 7 of NPA Order M-45. This statement should specify end-uses in terms of those listed in this section. Where an end-use falls under the classifications "Miscellaneous" or "Chemicals (not elsewhere classified)," the specific end-use must be indicated in parentheses following the words "Miscellaneous" or "Chemicals n. e. c." For example, such end-uses should be indicated as "Miscellaneous (milk testing)" or "Chemicals n. e. c. (oxalic acid)." Purchasers who certify to an end-use specifically listed in this section may—although not required to—furnish additional end-use information, as for example: "Hydrochloric acid (tetraethyl lead)." Where "Export" is stated as an end-use it is not necessary to indicate the proposed end-use of the foreign purchaser:

Aluminum sulfate for other purposes.
Ammonium sulfate (byproduct).
Ammonium sulfate (synthetic).
Aviation gasoline.
Other petroleum products (except sulfonated hydrocarbons).

SEC. 10. Supplier's application on Form NPAF-47. Every supplier of sulfuric acid is required to apply on Form NPAF-47 for authorization to deliver or to use any quantity of sulfuric acid in excess of the small order exemption. General instructions on the preparation of Form NPAF-47 are set forth in Appendix D of NPA Order M-45. Fill in Form NPAF-47 as indicated, subject to the following special instructions:

(a) Heading. Insert in grade space "all grades."

(b) Table I. List each customer, specifying end-use in terms of the end-uses listed in section 9 of this schedule and specifying the quantity ordered for each such use. DO rated orders should be listed separately from nonrated orders under each end-use classification and the applicable DO number should be specified. In column (7) specify whether each acid referred to in column (3) is virgin, spent, or fortified; specify the strength in terms of percent H_2SO_4; and set forth any further pertinent information. Each supplier must apply for authorization to deliver an aggregate quantity of exempt small orders, without listing individual customers' names. Specify in column (2) "exempt small orders."

(c) Table II. Fill in as indicated. In column (8) list each strength separately in terms of percent H_2SO_4 and indicate whether the acid is virgin, spent, or fortified. SECTION 1. What this order does. This order sets forth limitations on inventories of binder twine and baler twine. It thus supplements NPA Reg. 1, but only those provisions of that regulation which are inconsistent with this order are superseded, and all other provisions of Reg. 1 shall apply to binder twine and baler twine.

SEC. 2. Definitions. As used in this order:

(a) "Person" means any individual, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons, and includes agencies of the United States or any other Government.

(b) "Binder twine" means a single yarn twine usually containing agave, but sometimes containing manila, istle, jute, coir, hemp, cotton, or paper, suitable for use in a harvesting machine and of the type customarily heretofore manufactured. It is put up in balls of approximately 5 to 8 pounds, packed 6 to 10 to the bale. It measures 500 feet to the pound with a plus or minus tolerance of 5 percent, and contains a lubricant of at least 10 percent of the weight of the twine and an insect repellant. It is also known as "binding twine."

(c) "Baler twine" means a single yarn twine usually made of agave fiber and used in a self-tying machine for baling hay, straw, or other fodder crops.

(d) "Import" means to transport in any manner into the continental United States from areas outside the continental United States. It includes shipments into foreign trade zones, customs bonded warehouses, and customs custody, except when such shipments are merely in transit through the continental United States, to destinations outside the continental United States, as shown by the bills of lading or other shipping documents. However, if any such material in transit is halted or diverted to a destination in the continental United States or subjected to processing or manufacture in the continental United States, it becomes an "import" for the purposes of this order.

(e) "NPA" means National Production Authority.

SEC. 3. Inventories. (a) No person shall receive or accept delivery of binder twine or baler twine if his inventory of such material is, or by such receipt would become, more than the smallest quantity of such material which he reasonably requires to meet his deliveries or maintain his currently scheduled rate of operations during the next succeeding 60-day period, or in excess of a "practicable minimum working inventory" as defined in NPA Reg. 1, whichever is less.

(b) Any person engaged in a seasonal business or industry who normally stocks his inventory of binder twine or baler twine in advance of the season may, notwithstanding the restriction in paragraph (a) of this section, accept such advance delivery of his seasonal requirements of that twine: Provided, That the deliveries accepted are no greater and no further in advance than those which he would normally accept in the ordinary course of his business to meet reasonably anticipated seasonal requirements.

SEC. 4. Adjustments and exceptions. Any person affected by any provision of this order may file with NPA a request for adjustment or exception upon the ground that such provision works an undue or exceptional hardship upon him not suffered generally by others in the same trade or industry or that its enforcement against him would not be in the interest of the national defense or in the public interest. In considering requests for adjustment which claim that the public interest is prejudiced by the application of any provision of this order, consideration will be given to the requirements of public health and safety, civilian defense, and dislocation of labor and resulting unemployment that would impair the defense program. Each such request shall be in writing and shall set forth all pertinent facts, the nature of the relief sought, and the justification thereof.

SEC. 5. Records. Each person participating in any transaction covered by this order shall retain in his possession for at least 2 years records of receipts, deliveries, inventories, and use, in sufficient detail to permit an audit that determines for each transaction that the provisions of this order have been met. This does not specify any particular accounting method and does not require alteration of the system of records customarily maintained, provided such records supply an adequate basis for audit. Records may be retained in the form of microfilm or other photographic copies instead of the originals.

SEC. 6. Audit and inspection. All records required by this order shall be made available at the usual place of business where maintained for inspection and audit by duly authorized representatives of NPA.

SEC. 7. Reports. Persons subject to this order shall make such records and submit such reports to NPA as it shall require, subject to the terms of the Federal Reports Act of 1942 (Pub. Law 831, 77th Cong., 5 U. S. C. 139-139F).

SEC. 8. Communications. All communications and reports concerning this order shall be addressed to National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M-58.

SEC. 9. Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order or any other order or regulation of NPA, or who wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information in the course of operation under this order, is guilty of a crime and, upon conviction, may be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. In addition, administrative action may be taken against such person to suspend his privilege of making or receiving further deliveries of materials or using facilities under priority or allocation control and to deprive him of further priorities assistance.

NOTE: All reporting and record-keeping requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

This order shall take effect on April 19, 1951.

Persons who have access to such individual company information are subject to penalties for unauthorized disclosure.

ORDER EXTENDING FILING DATES AND DATE OF HEARING

In the matters of amendment of § 3.606 of the Commission's rules and regulations; Docket Nos. 8736 and 8975. Amendment of the Commission's rules, regulations and Engineering Standards Concerning the Television Broadcast Service; Docket No. 9175. Utilization of frequencies in the Band 470 to 890 Mcs. for Television Broadcasting; Docket No. 8976.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held in its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 11th day of April 1951:

The Commission having under consideration a petition filed by the Television Board of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters (NARTB), filed on April 4, 1951, requesting (1) that the date for the filing of comments pursuant to the Commission's third notice of further proposed rule making (FCC 51-255) be extended for 10 days; and (2) that the dates for the filing of oppositions and commencement of hearing be continued accordingly; and

It appearing, that the petitioner alleges it is an association representing television broadcasters and is a party to the above-entitled proceeding; that it desires to consider the Commission's third notice in detail and file appropriate comments with respect thereto; that the nature of the third notice is such as to require consultations, advice and recommendations from various facets of the industry; that the industry convention has been calendered for April 16 to 19, 1951, in Chicago; that it is anticipated that such consultations, advice and recommendations cannot be feasibly accomplished and would not permit counsel a reasonable time to complete proposed comments by April 23, 1951; that "numerous representations have been received from counsel for various interested parties to the effect that the extent of the matters encompassed in the third notice, plus the advent of the Convention activities, make it difficult if not impossible to meet the presently designated filing date"; and that these parties urge and support the filing of the instant petition by the Television Board; and

It further appearing, that good and sufficient cause has been shown for the extensions requested in the instant petition;

It is ordered, That the date for the filing of comments as provided for in paragraph "12 (a)" of the Commission's third notice of further proposed rule making herein be extended to May 7, 1951; that the date for the filing of oppositions as provided for in paragraph "12 (b)" of said third notice be extended to May 22, 1951; and that the date for commencement of the hearing as provided for in paragraph "13 (a)" of the said third notice be extended to June 11, 1951.

On February 23, 1951, Applicants filed with the Commission certain data and material in support of their application, together with a request that a date be fixed for hearing under the shortened procedure provided by the Commission's rules.

The Commission finds: This proceeding is a proper one for disposition under the provisions of § 1.32 (b) (18 CFR 1.32 (b)) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, Applicants having requested that their application be heard under the shortened procedure provided by the aforesaid rule for non-contested proceedings, and no request to be heard, protest or petition having been filed subsequent to the giving of due notice of the filing of the application, including publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER on January 11, 1950 (15 F. [Docket No. G–1448]

SHENANDOAH GAS CO.

ORDER POSTPONING HEARING

By order of the Commission dated March 15, 1951, and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on March 21, 1951 (16 F. R. 2586), this proceeding was set for hearing to commence at 10:00 a. m. on April 16, 1951.

On March 30, 1951, Virginia Gas Transmission Corporation, the respondent herein, filed a motion requesting that the hearing fixed for April 16, 1951, be postponed. As grounds for its motion, said respondent states that estimates of its gas requirements and gas available show that during the next winter there will be a serious gas shortage in the Columbia Gas System of which respondent is a member and from which respondent procures its gas supplies. This shortage, respondent states, makes it necessary to control its growth of load and makes it essential that no new load be taken on respondent's system until such gas supplies as are necessary to serve new loads become available. Respondent states that an early hearing would not serve any useful purpose with respect to any gas supply for Shenandoah Gas Company (Applicant) during the next winter and that the public interest would be best served by deferring a hearing in this proceeding until the present emergency conditions have passed and further adequate supplies of gas become available to respondent. On April 10, 1951, Applicant filed its answer to said motion stating that it has no objection to the motion, but requests an early hearing when adequate gas supplies become available.

The Commission finds: Good cause exists and it would be in the public interest to postpone such hearing to a date to be fixed by further order of the Commission.

The Commission orders: The public hearing in this proceeding fixed by order of the Commission dated March 15, 1951, to commence on April 16, 1951, at Washington, D. C., be and the same hereby is postponed to a date to be fixed by further order of the Commission.

Date of Issuance: April 16, 1951.

In the matters of Tennessee Gas Transmission Company, Docket No. G–1573, United Natural Gas Company, Docket No. G–1614, National Gas & Oil Corporation, Docket No. G–1599.

On December 27, 1950, Tennessee Gas Transmission Company (Tennessee), a Delaware corporation having its principal place of business in the Commerce Building, Houston, Texas, filed an application in Docket No. G–1573 for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act authorizing the construction and operation of certain facilities for the transportation and sale of natural gas, as described in the application and amendments thereto and the notices of application which were published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (16 F. Notice of the application was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on February 13, 1951 (16 F. R. 1482).

In its application, National Coal & Oil Corporation requested that its application be consolidated with the proceedings in Docket Nos. G–1573 and G–1614 for purpose of hearing.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

APRIL 16, 1951.

Take notice that on March 30, 1951, the Natural Gas Service Company (Applicant), a Maryland corporation with its principal place of business in Frederick, Maryland, filed an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, authorizing the construction and operation of a 4½-inch O. SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File Nos. 52-28, 54-183]

PITTSBURGH RAILWAYS CO. AND PHILADELPHIA CO.

SUPPLEMENTAL ORDER GRANTING AND PERMITTING APPLICATIONS—DECLARATIONS TO BECOME EFFECTIVE

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 12th day of April 1951.

In the matter of Elmer E. Bauer, Trustee of Pittsburgh Railways Company, Debtor; and Philadelphia Company, File No. 52-28; Philadelphia Company, File No. 54-183.

The Commission, by orders dated March 27, 1950, August 23, 1950, and December 27, 1950 (Holding Company Act Release Nos. 9759, 10058 and 10318), and the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania, by orders dated May 1, 1950, September 15, 1950, and December 29, 1950, having approved a plan ("Combined Plan") filed jointly by Elmer E. Bauer ("Bauer"), Trustee of Pittsburgh Railways Company ("Railways"), Debtor, and by Philadelphia Company, a registered holding company, for the reorganization of the Railways system under Chapter X of the Bankruptcy Act and section 11 (f) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("Holding Company Act") and for the discharge, pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Holding Company Act, of Philadelphia Company's guarantees affecting certain securities of companies included in the Railways system; and

Said orders of the Commission having also granted and permitted to become effective applications and declarations with respect to the transactions involved in consummation of said Combined Plan, including (a) the issuance of fractional shares of new stock by the reorganized company ("New Company"), in denominations of 1/10 share or multiples thereof, as necesary to effectuate the exchanges provided for in the Combined Plan, and (b) the right of New Company to make arrangements for the purchase, sale or exchange of such fractional shares for the purpose of eliminating such fractions as expeditiously as possible; and

Applicants-declarants, Bauer and Philadelphia Company, having filed, pursuant to Rule U-24 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Holding Company Act, a post effective amendment to said applications-declarations in connection with said Combined Plan, wherein it is proposed by New Company that in lieu of the issuance of any such fractional shares New Company will take the following action:

(1) New Company will purchase in the over-the-counter market interim certificates for 100 shares of its common stock at the prevailing market price. When common stock certificates are available for exchange, New Company may exchange its interim certificates for common stock certificates. New Company may purchase from time to time on the market in which its common stock or interim certificates are traded, at the then current price, such additional shares or certificates as may be necessary to effect the transactions described in the following paragraphs.

(2) For 60 days after the date on which the exchange of interim certificates for common stock certificates may begin, persons entitled to receive fractional shares will be given the option of (a) receiving from New Company cash at the rate of $10 per share for any fractional shares to which they may be entitled, or (b) purchasing from New Company for cash, at the rate of $10 per whole share, the additional fractions required to augment their fractions into one whole share. The filing states that the consideration for purchase or sale of fractional shares has been fixed at $10 per share because that amount represents the stated value of New Company's common stock and is a convenient round amount, reasonably related to the current market price of such stock.

(3) After the option described above expires, persons entitled to receive fractional shares will be given the option of (a) receiving from New Company cash at the rate of a price per whole share represented by the closing price of the common stock as quoted on a national securities exchange, on which the common stock is listed, on the date preceding receipt of notice by the Exchange Agent of the exercise of the option, or (b) purchasing from New Company for cash, the additional fractions required to augment such fractions into one whole share, at the rate of a price per whole share represented by the closing market price of the common stock on the date preceding receipt of notice by the Exchange Agent of the exercise of the option.

(4) New Company will, from time to time as requested by the Exchange Agent, supply the cash and interim certificates or shares required to execute the aforesaid options. New Company will receive the interim certificates, shares and cash delivered to the Exchange Agent. New Company may sell on the market in which its common stock is listed, at the then current price, such common stock acquired by it through the transactions described herein as may not be needed for eliminating fractional shares.

(5) Immediately upon acquiring any shares under paragraph (1) above, New Company will cancel three-tenths (0.3) of a share, thereby reducing the aggregate issued stock to 1,076,097 shares.

(6) All necessary authorizations will be secured from the Bankruptcy Court having jurisdiction over the proposed transactions.

The Commission having examined the post-effective amendment and finding with respect to said applications-declarations, as further amended, that the requirements of the Combined Plan, the applicable provisions of the Holding Company Act, and the rules thereunder are satisfied, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that the said applications-declarations, as further amended, be granted and permitted to become effective forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-24 and the applicable provisions of the Holding Company Act, that the said applications-declarations, as further amended, be, and the same hereby are, granted and permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

By the Commission.

[SEAL] ORVAL L. DUBOIS,
Secretary.

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS the Congress, by a joint resolution of May 18, 1928 (45 Stat. 617), has authorized and requested the President of the United States to issue annually a proclamation setting apart May 1 as Child Health Day; and

WHEREAS it is recognized that our children embody our most cherished hopes:

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter VII—Production and Marketing Administration (Agricultural Adjustment), Department of Agriculture

PART 729—PEANUTS

DETERMINATION WITH RESPECT TO TYPES IN INSUFFICIENT SUPPLY FOR 1951–52 MARKETING YEAR

The purpose of this proclamation is to establish the types of peanuts for which the supply for the marketing year beginning August 1, 1951, will be insufficient to meet the estimated demand for cleaning and shelling purposes, to establish the extent of increase in State allotments for States producing peanuts of such types required to meet such demand, and to apportion such increase to such States. These determinations are made in order to comply with certain changes made in the peanut marketing quota provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended (7 U. S. C. 1357–1359) by Public Law 17, 82d Congress, approved April 12, 1951. Section 358 (c) of the act as amended by the aforesaid Public Law, reads in part as follows:

358 (c) (2) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, if the Secretary of Agriculture determines, on the basis of the average yield per acre of peanuts by types during the preceding five years, adjusted for trends in yields and abnormal conditions of production affecting yields in such five years, that the supply of any type or types of peanuts for any marketing year, beginning with the 1951–1952 marketing year, will be insufficient to meet the estimated demand for cleaning and shelling purposes at prices at which the Commodity Credit Corporation may sell for such purposes peanuts owned or controlled by it, the State allotments for those States producing such type or types of peanuts shall be increased to the extent determined by the Secretary to be required to meet such demand but the allotment for any State may not be increased under this provision above the 1947 harvested acreage of peanuts for such State. The total increase so determined shall be apportioned among such States for distribution among farms producing peanuts of such type or types on the basis of the average acreage of peanuts of such type or types in the three years immediately preceding the year for which the allotments are being determined.

The additional acreage so required shall be in addition to the national acreage allotment, the production from such acreage shall be in addition to the national marketing quota, and the increase in acreage allotted under this provision shall not be considered in establishing future State, county, or farm acreage allotments.

1. Section 729.204 defines each of the four commonly known basic types of peanuts—Runner, Spanish, Valencia, and Virginia—by describing the outstanding physical characteristics of each type and the areas of the United States in which each is most commonly grown. The definition of Virginia type peanuts includes a requirement that each lot or load of peanuts having Virginia type characteristics must contain a minimum percentage of large so-called "Fancy" size peanuts, otherwise such lot or load will be considered Runner type peanuts.

2. Section 729.205 establishes the types of peanuts for which the supply for the marketing year beginning August 1, 1951, will be insufficient to meet the estimated demand for cleaning and shelling purposes at prices at which Commodity Credit Corporation may sell for such purposes peanuts owner or controlled by it. This determination is based on the estimated production of each type of peanuts on the State allotments previously announced for the 1951 crop, on the basis of the average yield per acre of peanuts by types in the five years 1946–1950, adjusted for trends in yields and for abnormal conditions of production affecting yields in those years. Section 729.205 also establishes the total increase in State allotments required to meet the prescribed demand for peanuts of the types for which an increase is provided.

3. Section 729.206 apportions the increase determined under § 729.205 to States producing peanuts of the types for which such increase is provided. Such increase is prorated to such States on the basis of the average acreage of peanuts (excluding acreage in excess of farm allotments) of such types grown in each State in the three years 1948–1950, but the allotment for no State is increased above the 1947 harvested acreage of peanuts for the State. The 1948-1950 average acreages used for the purposes of the aforementioned apportionment were determined by the State and county committees, in accordance with instructions issued by the Assistant Administrator, on the basis of data reported by farm operators and county office records of peanut acreages and production. The same data will be used as the basis for apportioning the State acreage to farms in accordance with the provisions of § 729.230.

4. Section 729.207 specifies that the increase in acreage allotted to States under § 729.206 shall not be considered in establishing future State, county, or farm acreage allotments.

Farmers throughout the peanut-producing States have begun planting peanuts for the 1951 crop. It is therefore imperative that the increases in State acreage allotments become effective at the earliest possible date in order that State and county Production and Marketing Administration committees in affected States may determine the increases in farm acreage allotments and notify farm operators of the additional acreage which may be grown in 1951 within the farm allotment. Accordingly, it is hereby determined and found that compliance with the notice, procedure, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (7 U. S. C. 1003) is impracticable and contrary to the public interest. The provisions of this proclamation shall be effective upon filing of this document with the Director, Division of the Federal Register.

AUTHORITY: §§ 729.204 to 729.208 issued under sec. 375, 52 Stat. 66, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1375. Interpret or apply sec. 358, 55 Stat. 89, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1358.

§ 729.204 Definitions of types of peanuts. For the 1951 crop of peanuts, the generally known types of peanuts are defined as follows:

(a) Runner type peanuts means peanuts commonly known as African Runner, Alabama Runner, Georgia Runner, Carolina Runner, Wilmington Runner, Dixie Runner, or Runner, produced principally in the Southeastern peanut producing area of the United States and identified by the following characteristics: Typically two-seeded pods which are practically cylindrical, medium sized, stem end round and the other pointed with a slight keel, having shells fairly thick and strong, with shallow veining and corrugation; and seeds crowded in pod with adjacent ends sharply shouldered. Runner type peanuts will also include lots or loads of peanuts having Virginia type characteristics but not meeting size requirements specified in paragraph (d) of this section for Virginia type peanuts.

(b) Spanish type peanuts means peanuts commonly known as White Spanish, Small Spanish, Medium-Small Spanish, or Spanish; produced principally in the Southeastern and Southwestern peanut producing areas of the United States and identified by the following general characteristics: Typically two-seeded pods, which are small, with both ends rounded, the end opposite the stem having an inconspicuous point or keel, and the waist slender; shells very thin, with veining and corrugation conspicuous but not deep; and seeds globular to oval and practically smooth.

(c) Valencia type peanuts means peanuts commonly known as New Mexico Valencia, Tennessee Valencia, Tennessee White, Tennessee Red, or Valencia, produced principally in Tennessee and New Mexico, and identified by the following general characteristics: Typically three or four and sometimes five-seeded pods which are long and slender, with the end opposite the stem having a definite point or keel with conspicuous veining and corrugation; and seeds globular to oval.

(d) Virginia type peanuts means peanuts commonly known as Virginia Runner, Virginia Bunch, North Carolina Runner, North Carolina Bunch, Jumbo, or Virginia, produced principally in North Carolina, Virginia, northeastern South Carolina, and Tennessee, and identified by the following general characteristics: Typically two-seeded pods which are of an average size larger than any other type; pods are roughly cylindrical, with veining and corrugation deep; and seeds cylindrical with pointed ends, length two or three times diameter, and practically smooth. Any lot or load of peanuts which contains less than 16 percent "Fancy" size (peanuts riding a $\frac{31}{64}$" x 3" slotted screen) will be considered Runner type peanuts.

§ 729.205 Designation of types for which increases are needed and determination of total increase. The State acreage allotments for peanuts of the 1951 crop for States which produced Valencia type peanuts or Virginia type peanuts during any one or more of the years 1948, 1949, and 1950, shall be increased by a total of 83,266 acres, which is determined to be the total increase required to meet the demand for Valencia type peanuts and Virginia type peanuts for cleaning and shelling purposes at prices at which the Commodity Credit Corporation may sell for such porposes peanuts owned or controlled by it.

§ 729.206 Apportionment of increase to States. The acreage established in § 729.205, less a reserve of one-fourth of one percent (208 acres) of such acreage which shall be used for adjusting increases in State allotments determined on the basis of incomplete or inaccurate data in accordance with instructions issued by the Assistant Administrator, is hereby apportioned to States on the basis of the average acreage (excluding acreage in excess of farm allotments) of Valencia type peanuts and Virginia type peanuts in each State in 1948, 1949, and 1950:

State	1947 harvested acreage of peanuts	1948–50 average acreage	Increase in State allotment	Previous State allotment	Revised State allotment
Alabama	463,000	1,400	281	243,321	243,602

The above increases do not result in increasing the State allotment for any State above the 1947 harvested acreage of peanuts for such state.

§ 729.207 No credit for future allotments. The increase in acreage allotted to States and farms pursuant to §§ 729.206 and 729.230, respectively, shall not be considered in establishing future State, county, or farm acreage allotments.

§ 729.208 Definitions and miscellaneous provisions. The applicable definitions and provisions in §§ 729.210 to 729.227 (15 F. R. 7292) shall apply to §§ 729.204 to 729.207.

Subchapter H—Determination of Wage Rates

[Sugar Determination 861.4, Amdt. 1]

PART 861—SUGAR BEETS: CALIFORNIA, SOUTHWESTERN ARIZONA, AND SOUTHERN OREGON

1951 CROP

Pursuant to the provisions of section 301 (c) (1) of the Sugar Act of 1948, the determination of fair and reasonable wage rates for persons employed in the production, cultivation, or harvesting of the 1951 crop of sugar beets in California, southwestern Arizona, and southern Oregon, issued December 26, 1950, as Part 861, § 861.4 (15 F. R. 9376) is hereby amended by deleting § 861.4 (a) (1) (i) (c) and substituting in lieu thereof the following:

§ 861.4 Fair and reasonable wage rates for persons employed in the production, cultivation, or harvesting of the 1951 crop of sugar beets in California, southwestern Arizona, and southern Oregon—

(a) Wage requirements. • • •

(1) Wage rates. • • •

(i) For work performed on a time basis. • • •

(c) For workers certified by the local County Production and Marketing Administration Committee as being handicapped because of age or physical or mental deficiency, and for workers between 14 and 16 years of age, the above rates may be reduced by not more than one-third. Maximum employment per day for workers between 14 and 16 years of age, without deduction from Sugar Act payments to the producer, is 8 hours.

STATEMENT OF BASES AND CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment sets forth the minimum requirements for the employment on sugar beet farms of the workers whose productivity or earning capacity is impaired by reason of age or physical or mental deficiency. It provides that where such workers are employed the basic time rates of 65 cents per hour for thinning, hoeing or weeding and 70 cents per hour for pulling, topping or loading may be reduced by not more than one-third. The minimum hourly earnings of such workers on piecework may not be less than the applicable time rates. As with other sugar beet workers, producers are required to furnish, without charge, customary housing, garden plot, and similar items.

The Department understands that employment has been denied such workers because they have been unable to earn on piecework the minimum hourly guaranties required by the 1951 wage determination. In view of this and the present and prospective manpower needs, this amendment should afford added work opportunities for such workers.

Workers who desire to qualify under this amendment are required to obtain a certificate of qualification from the local County PMA Committee. This certificate must be presented to the producer who desires to hire such worker prior to the commencement of work on the farm.

Accordingly, I hereby find and conclude that the foregoing amendment to the wage determination will effectuate the wage provisions of the Sugar Act of 1948.

(Sec. 403, 61 Stat. 932; 7 U. S. C. Sup. 1153. Interprets or applies sec. 301, 61 Stat. 929; 7 U. S. C. Sup. 1131)

Issued this 17th day of April 1951.

[SEAL] CHARLES F. BRANNAN,
Secretary of Agriculture.

[Lemon Reg. 379]

PART 953—LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

§ 953.486 Lemon Regulation 379—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 53, as amended (7 CFR Part 953; 14 F. R. 3612), regulating the handling of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Lemon Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of the quantity of such lemons which may be handled, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective as hereinafter set forth. Shipments of lemons, grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, are currently subject to regulation pursuant to said amended marketing agreement and order; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein was promptly submitted to the Department after an open meeting of the Lemon Administrative Committee on April 18, 1951, such meeting was held, after giving due notice thereof, to consider recommendations for regulation, and interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit their views at this meeting; the provisions of this section, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such lemons; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period hereinafter specified; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject thereto which cannot be completed by the effective time thereof.

(b) Order. (1) The quantity of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona which may be handled during the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., April 22, 1951, and ending at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., April 29, 1951, is hereby fixed as follows:

(i) District 1: Unlimited movement;

(ii) District 2: 350 carloads;

(iii) District 3: Unlimited movement.

(2) The prorate base of each handler who has made application therefor, as provided in the said amended marketing agreement and order, is hereby fixed in accordance with the prorate base schedule which is attached hereto and made a part hereof by this reference.

(3) As used in this section, "handled," "handler," "carloads," "prorate base," "District 1," "District 2," and "District 3," shall have the same meaning as when used in the said amended marketing agreement and order.

PART 966—ORANGES GROWN IN CALIFORNIA OR IN ARIZONA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

Findings. 1. Pursuant to the provisions of Order No. 66 (7 CFR Part 966) regulating the handling of oranges grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of the quantity of such oranges which may be handled, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

2. It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, is insufficient; and this amendment relieves restrictions on the handling of oranges grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona.

Order, as amended. The provisions in paragraph (b) (1) (i) (c) and (b) (1) (ii) (b) of § 966.513 (Orange Regulation 367, 16 F. R. 3331) are hereby amended to read, respectively, as follows:

Chapter I—Civil Aeronautics Board

Subchapter A—Civil Air Regulations

[Supp. 1, Amdt. 1]

PART 26—AIR-TRAFFIC CONTROL-TOWER OPERATOR CERTIFICATES

AIR TRAFFIC CONTROL RULES

Air traffic control rules were published on June 21, 1949, in 14 F. R. 3327 to implement § 26.50 and were republished on July 16, 1949, in 14 F. R. 4213 to implement § 26.26. Those rules are hereby revised and transferred to a new Part 617 of this title.[1] The revision is made effective without delay in order to promote safety of the flying public. Compliance with the notice, procedures, and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act would be impractical and contrary to the public interest and it is not required.

1. Section 26.26–1 is revised to read:

§ 26.26–1 Control of air traffic (CAA rules which apply to § 26.26). A certificated air-traffic control-tower operator shall control traffic in compliance with Part 617 of this title.

2. Sections 26.26–2 through 26.26–104 are revoked.

(Sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984, as amended; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interpret or apply sec. 601, 52 Stat. 1007, as amended; 49 U. S. C. 551)

This amendment shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

§ 617.2 Basis and purpose. Section 26.26 of this chapter provides that a certificated air-traffic control-tower operator shall control traffic in accordance with rules prescribed by the Administrator to provide for the safe, orderly, and expeditious flow of air traffic. The purpose of this part is to prescribe such rules.

§ 617.3 Scope. The rules contained in this part shall be uniformly applied by all persons controlling air traffic under authority of an air-traffic control-tower operator's certificate issued by the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

§ 617.4 Air traffic control service. The primary objective of the air traffic control service shall be to promote the safe, orderly, and expeditious movement of air traffic. This shall include:

(a) Preventing collisions between aircraft and between aircraft and obstructions on the movement area.

(b) Expediting and maintaining an orderly flow of air traffic.

(c) Assisting the person in command of an aircraft by providing such advice and information as may be useful for the safe and efficient conduct of a flight.

(d) Notifying appropriate organizations regarding aircraft known to be or believed to be in need of search and rescue aid, and assisting such organizations as required.

§ 617.5 Airport traffic control. Airport traffic control is established to provide adequate supervision of all traffic on the movement area and aircraft flying in visual reference to the ground in the immediate vicinity of an airport. Airport traffic control may operate either within the boundaries of a control area or at locations not supervised by a center.

§ 617.6 Allocation of responsibility. (a) The only separation of air traffic not operating on an IFR flight plan in weather conditions equal to or better than the VFR minimums shall be that effected by a tower.

(b) The airport operator is responsible for the establishment of adequate traffic patterns.

§ 617.7 Coordination between centers and towers. Coordination between centers and towers shall be effected as follows:

(a) Authority. Towers shall observe such instructions as are issued by the appropriate center.

(b) Towers. The tower may authorize VFR flight in a control zone in weather conditions lower than the VFR minimums after coordination with the center.

(c) Division of control. (1) The center shall retain control of arriving aircraft until such aircraft have been cleared to the tower and are in communication with the tower. Not more than one arrival shall be cleared to the tower during IFR conditions.

(2) After coordination with the tower, a center may clear arrivals to visual holding points to hold until further advised.

(3) Towers shall keep centers promptly advised of pertinent data on IFR traffic such as:

(i) Arrival and departure times.

(ii) Available information relating to overdue or unreported aircraft.

§ 617.8 Standard phraseologies. Clearances shall be issued in accordance with the phraseologies herein. It is expected that personnel receiving a clearance for transmission to an aircraft will transmit such clearance in the exact phraseology in which it is received. It is essential that each clearance contain positive and concise data, phrased in a standard manner.

(a) Each traffic clearance shall be prefixed with the phrase "ATC clears (Ident.)" whenever a clearance limit is contained in the clearance.

Example: "ATC clears eastern four to the Richmond Airport. Cruise six thousand. • • •"

(b) The phrase "ATC advises (Ident.)" shall be used whenever information such as expected approach time, undetermined delay, and essential traffic is issued.

§ 617.9 Emergency rules. Since the circumstances surrounding emergencies vary considerably, exact detailed rules cannot be adopted to apply uniformly in emergencies. Established emergency procedures should be followed whenever possible. Centers and towers shall maintain full and complete coordination, and personnel shall use their best judgment in handling emergency situations.

SUBPART B—AIRPORT TRAFFIC CONTROL

§ 617.21 General responsibility. (a) Responsibility of airport traffic control towers. (1) An airport traffic control tower is responsible for the issuance of clearances and information to pilots of aircraft for the purpose of preventing collision between:

(i) Aircraft operating on the ground at the landing area.

(ii) Aircraft and vehicles operating on the landing area.

(iii) Aircraft in the traffic pattern, and landing and taking off at the landing area.

(iv) Aircraft operating under instrument flight rules after control of such aircraft has been delegated to the tower by the appropriate air route traffic control center.

(2) An airport traffic control tower is also responsible for the issuance and relay of information and clearances which will prevent unnecessary delays to aircraft using a landing area, and which will permit the proper use of the landing area by aircraft.

(b) Responsibility of pilots. (1) When flying in visual flight rule weather conditions it is considered the direct responsibility of the pilot to avoid collision with other aircraft. Under such conditions, the information and clearances issued by the control tower are intended to aid pilots to the fullest extent in avoiding collisions.

(2) When flying in instrument flight rules weather conditions it is obviously impossible for the pilot to assume the responsibility of avoiding collision with other aircraft except as directed by the ground control agency. Therefore, it is of the utmost importance that all clearances issued by a control tower to pilots of aircraft under its jurisdiction be adequate, concise, and definite inasmuch as the pilot has no other means of ascertaining the proximity of other aircraft.

§ 617.22 Control of traffic on and in vicinity of landing area.—(a) General. Airport traffic controllers shall maintain a continuous watch on all visible flight operations in the control zone, including aircraft, vehicles, and personnel on the landing area, and shall control such traffic in accordance with the procedures set forth herein and all applicable air traffic rules. If there are other landing areas within the zone, traffic at all landing areas within the zone shall be coordinated so as to eliminate any hazardous conflictions of traffic patterns.

(b) Critical positions of aircraft in the traffic and taxi patterns. The following positions of aircraft in the traffic and taxi patterns (illustrated in Figure 1) are the positions where the aircraft normally receives airport traffic control clearances. The aircraft should be watched closely as they approach these positions so that proper clearances may be issued without delay. Where practicable all such clearances should be issued without waiting for the pilot to initiate the call:

(1) Pilot initiates call to taxi for departing flight. Runway-in-use information and taxi information given.

(2) If there is conflicting traffic the departing aircraft will be held at this point. The pilot will normally run up motors here.

(3) Take-off clearance is issued here, if not practicable at position 2.

(4) Clearance to land or landing sequence number is issued here.

(5) Clearance to taxi to hangar line or parking area is issued here.

(6) Parking directions issued here if necessary.

(c) Determination of proper runways to use for landings and take-offs. (1) When surface wind velocity is six miles per hour or more, aircraft shall ordinarily be authorized to use the runway most nearly aligned into the wind, and the tetrahedron shall, if controllable, be set so as to indicate such runway. (See Figure 2 (b).)

(2) The tetrahedron, if controllable, will release automatically and swing into the wind when the velocity reaches a predetermined value. Ordinarily this will be between 10 and 15 miles per hour.

(3) When the surface wind velocity is less than 6 miles per hour, aircraft shall be authorized to use the runway which has been designated as the "calm wind" runway. The actual wind direction and velocity shall be stated since, under certain conditions, some types of aircraft are not approved for take-off or landing with a tail wind component. The "calm wind" runway shall normally be the runway having the most advantages such as greater length, shorter taxiing distance, better approach, etc. The tetrahedron shall be set so as to indicate such runway under these conditions. (See Figure 2 (a).)

(4) If the runway in use is not considered suitable for the operation involved, the controller may offer a choice of runway or the pilot may request clearance to use another runway.

primary responsibility of the aircraft operator and/or airport management, as well as the pilot.

(6) It shall not be the responsibility of towers to control areas not visible from the tower. Due to local obstructions, there are many airports where portions of usable runways, taxi strips and loading areas are not visible from the tower. At such locations it is expected that control tower personnel will take appropriate action to advise all concerned of those areas which are not visible from the tower. The airport management should be encouraged to place appropriate signs at such locations and publicize their existence by displaying suitable charts or diagrams in shops, hangars and operations offices.

(d) Control of taxiing aircraft. (1) The importance of issuing definite, concise directions to pilots of taxiing aircraft cannot be overemphasized. The visibility problem in an airplane is most acute when taxiing. Very few aircraft afford any forward vision for several yards directly in front of the airplane and the pilot must depend to a large degree upon the control tower to issue necessary information which will assist him in determining the proper taxi route and preventing collision with other aircraft or objects.

(2) It is particularly difficult for the pilot to determine the best taxi route on a strange airport. Clearances and information to pilots concerning taxi routes should be simple and direct such as "Turn left at first intersection, taxi straight ahead to the end of the runway. Then turn right," etc. The pilot should also be warned of parked aircraft or other objects along or near his taxiing route.

(3) Aircraft should not be permitted to taxi on the runway if at all possible to provide other taxiing routes. The guiding principle in handling taxiing traffic is "keep the runway-in-use ready for use as much as possible."

(4) Aircraft shall not be permitted to hold on the end of the runway-in-use whenever another aircraft is effecting a landing. At those airports where there are no intersecting taxiways at the approach end of the runway, aircraft shall be held clear of the edge of the runway and at an angle of 90 degrees from the landing direction until cleared to take-off position. (See fig. 3.)

(5) The direction of taxiing aircraft and avoidance of collision within loading and parking areas is considered the

(7) The use of radio frequencies for communication between the tower and aircraft shall be as follows:

(i) Arriving aircraft. After landing and clearing the active runway or area, aircraft shall guard the appropriate ground control frequency (121.9 or 121.7 mc).

(ii) Departing aircraft. Prior to taxiing, aircraft shall communicate with the tower on the appropriate ground control frequency (121.9 or 121.7 mc), for taxi and clearance information and remain tuned to this frequency until ready for take-off. Take-off clearance, and further communication with the tower if necessary, shall be handled on the appropriate airborne frequency.

(iii) When aircraft and tower are not both equipped with the VHF ground control frequency, the appropriate tower low frequency (or military VHF channel), shall be used for communications between the tower and aircraft on the ground.

(e) Control of traffic in the traffic pattern. (1) Aircraft in the traffic pattern shall be controlled to provide the separation minimums outlined below except that:

(i) Formation flights of aircraft are exempted from the separation minimums with respect to separation from other aircraft of the same flight.

(ii) Aircraft operating in different areas or lanes on airports equipped with runway or mat facilities suitable for simultaneous landings or take-offs are exempted from the separation minimums.

(iii) Separation minimums shall not apply to aircraft operating under military necessity as determined by competent authority.

(2) Sufficient separation shall be effected between arriving aircraft to insure that the succeeding landing aircraft on the same runway will not cross the airport boundary in its final glide until the preceding aircraft has cleared the runway-in-use. (See fig. 4.)

(3) Sufficient separation shall be effected between departing aircraft to insure that an aircraft will not commence take-off until the preceding departing aircraft has crossed the end of the runway-in-use or has started a turn.

(4) Sufficient separation shall be effected between arriving and departing aircraft to insure:

(i) That a landing aircraft will not cross the airport boundary in its final glide until the preceding departing aircraft has crossed the far end of the runway-in-use.

(ii) That an aircraft taking off will not commence take-off until the preceding landing aircraft has cleared the runway-in-use.

(5) During periods of congestion whenever traffic can be safely and efficiently controlled thereby, control may be exercised to effect the following minimum separation between arriving and/or departing light-weight single-engine aircraft of similar operating characteristics.

(i) Landing: Sufficient separation shall be effected between arriving aircraft to insure that succeeding landing aircraft on the same runway will not cross the airport boundary until the preceding landing aircraft has landed and is clear of the runway, or if the preceding landing aircraft is making a touch and go landing, is airborne on taking off (as defined in subdivision (iii) (a) of this subparagraph.)

(ii) Take-off: Sufficient separation shall be effected between departing aircraft to insure that an aircraft will not commence take-off until the preceding departing aircraft is airborne (as defined in subdivision (iii) (a) of this subparagraph.)

(iii) Landings and take-offs:

(a) That a landing aircraft will not cross the airport boundary until the preceding aircraft taking off is definitely airborne, i. e., has traversed at least the first 3,000 feet of the runway. The determining factor in each case should be whether the following aircraft has sufficient area available to land or take off safely in the event the preceding aircraft, through unforeseen circumstances, blocks a portion of the useable runway.

(b) An aircraft taking off will not commence take-off until the preceding landing aircraft has cleared the runway-in-use.

(6) Sufficient separation should be effected between aircraft in flight in the traffic pattern to allow the spacing of arriving and departing aircraft as outlined in the foregoing. In no event shall separation between aircraft in flight be less than the minimums specified.

NOTE: At many airports the location of the control tower will not permit accurate determination of separation between the paths of successive aircraft in the pattern, landing or taxiing on the same runway or taxiway, particularly when the movement of these aircraft is at an angle to the controller's line of vision. Extreme caution, therefore, should be exercised in the issuance of specific control instructions which are used to prevent collision. For example, when a succeeding aircraft is overtaking the aircraft ahead a specific control instruction might turn the preceding aircraft into the path of the other.

(7) Nothing contained herein is to be construed as relieving a pilot of the responsibilities imposed upon him by Chapter I, Subchapter A of this title or any other regulations, nor is it to be construed that the airport traffic controller on duty is obligated to effect control in accordance with subparagraph (5) of this paragraph when, in his opinion, these procedures might constitute a hazard.

(8) Normally, traffic shall be controlled in accordance with established patterns unless unusual circumstances dictate otherwise. However, when deviations from the normal pattern are required, due consideration shall be given to local regulations, prohibited areas and local noise abatement programs when authorizing such deviations.

(f) Control of other than aircraft traffic on the landing area. (1) The movement of personnel or vehicles on the landing area proper shall not be permitted unless permission has been granted for such movement by the airport traffic controller on duty in the control tower. Such authorized personnel, including drivers of all vehicles, shall be required to stop and wait for radio clearance or light signal from the control tower before crossing any runway or taxi strip unless on a portion of the landing area marked off by lights, flags, or other conventional warning signals. In radio conversation to pilots, the airport traffic controller shall identify personnel or vehicles on the landing area as distinctly as possible.

(2) The maintenance of any landing area requires considerable use of vehicular traffic, such as snow plows, tractors, mowers, maintenance trucks, official cars for inspections, and miscellaneous other equipment in addition to the working parties and other personnel required for maintenance. Considerable care and judgment must be exercised in the dispatch of personnel or vehicles on any portion of the landing area since a collision with a fast-moving aircraft would be disastrous. At certain points during the take-off and landing of aircraft, a change of direction to avoid an obstacle will almost certainly result in ground-looping or overturning the aircraft with probable serious results. Another difficulty connected with the dispatch of personnel and vehicular traffic on the landing area is that the operators of the equipment and the personnel on foot are not always aware of the difficulties and limitations of handling heavily loaded aircraft and may fail to surrender sufficient right of way for safe operation.

(3) In a few cases airport managers require all vehicular traffic to be equipped with radio receivers so that they may receive control tower signals, but in the majority of instances all pedestrian and vehicular traffic are controlled by light signals.

(4) Where continuous vehicular movement is involved over limited portions of the landing area, such as mowing the grass, the mowing is usually accomplished in a portion of the field not being used for landing operations with the particular wind condition at that time. The mowing equipment is marked with appropriate flags or lights, and the mower may not cross the taxi strips or runways without receiving the proper light signal.

(5) When construction work is in progress, the normal procedure is to close the entire construction area to aircraft operations and permit pedestrian and vehicular traffic to move at will within the marked-off area. Construction areas are usually marked off with appropriate flags in the daytime and appropriate lights at night.

(g) Authorizing use of landing area by pilots of arriving aircraft. (1) If a pilot enters a control zone without proper authorization, he shall be permitted to land if his actions indicate he so desires. If circumstances warrant, an airport traffic controller may ask pilots of aircraft with whom he is in contact to give way so as to remove as soon as possible the hazard introduced by such unauthorized operation. In no case shall permission to land be withheld indefinitely.

(2) In cases of emergency, such as loss of radio communication, a pilot may be required, in the interests of safety, to enter a control zone and effect a landing without proper authorization. Airport traffic controllers should recognize the possibilities of emergency action and render all assistance possible. The entire concept of air traffic control is service to the flying public. While it is true that in some isolated instances a pilot might deliberately disregard regulations and enter a control zone in an unauthorized manner while not under stress of an emergency, the airport traffic controller should assist the pilot and take steps toward possible disciplinary action after the pilot has landed. Under no circumstances should discussions which have no relation to traffic control be carried on over the radio.

§ 617.23 Visual Signals—(a) Portable traffic light. The portable traffic control light is a directive light which emits an intense, narrow beam of light. The color of the light (white, green or red) is controlled by the operator through a system of levers and triggers in the two handles. Signals are readily discernible to the pilot of any aircraft visible to the operator.

(b) Advantages and disadvantages of the portable traffic signal light. (1) The controller should be thoroughly familiar with the limitations of the traffic control light, and evaluate its capabilities in connection with its use.

(2) The portable traffic light has the following advantages:

(i) No radio equipment is required in the aircraft and therefore all aircraft can be controlled whether or not they possess radio.

(ii) The traffic light provides an emergency method of control in the event of radio failure—either in the tower or the aircraft.

(3) The disadvantages are:

(i) The pilot may not be looking at the control tower at the time a signal is directed toward him.

(ii) The information transmitted by a light signal is limited. One may only transmit an approval or disapproval of the pilot's anticipated actions to him. No explanatory or supplementary information can be transmitted.

(c) Operation of portable traffic light. (1) The portable traffic light shall be used to control the movement of personnel and vehicles on the landing area and the landings and take-offs of any aircraft not equipped with radio unless such movements or landings and take-offs have been prearranged with the traffic controller.

(2) Signals from a portable traffic light shall mean the following:

Color and type of signal	On the ground	In flight
Steady green	Cleared for take-off	Cleared to land.
Flashing green	Cleared to taxi	Return for landing.
Steady red	Stop	Give way to other aircraft and continue circling.
Flashing red	Taxi clear of landing area in use	Airport unsafe—do not land.
Flashing white	Return to starting point on airport.
Alternating red and green	General warning signal—exercise extreme caution (see figs. 5 and 6).

NOTE: A pilot wishing to attract the attention of the airport traffic controller during the hours of darkness may turn on a landing light and taxi the aircraft in a position so that the light is visible to the airport traffic controller. The landing light should remain on until appropriate signals are received from the tower, after which acknowledgment may be expected from the pilot as provided for in non-radio equipped aircraft. Pilots of aircraft not equipped with landing lights may blink their navigation lights to attract the attention of the tower.

(d) Light signals to indicate restriction of visual flight rule operations in the control zone. (1) During the hours of daylight, the rotating airport beacon shall be operated to mean that the ground visibility in the control zone is less than 3 miles and/or the ceiling is less than 1,000 feet and that a traffic clearance is required for landings, take-offs, and flight in the traffic pattern. (See fig. 7.)

(2) Between sunset and sunrise, flashing lights outlining the traffic direction indicator shall be operated to mean that ground visibility in the control zone is less than 3 miles and/or the ceiling is less than 1,000 feet and that a traffic clearance is required for landings, take-offs, and flight in the traffic pattern.

(e) Light signals to indicate clockwise (to the right) flow of traffic. (1) A flashing amber light shall be operated to mean that a clockwise flow of traffic around the airport is required unless otherwise authorized by the control tower. (See fig. 7.)

(f) Use of flag signals. (1) Flag signals are used by the military and naval services for special signals which usually apply only to the local activities at a particular landing area. Since these signals are not standard and usually have a special meaning at a particular location, it is not expected that an itinerant pilot will know their meaning or be guided by them. Accordingly, flag signals may be used for special local activities (such as primary or secondary training flights) as directed by the local commanding officer, but should not be used to govern flight of other than local aircraft unless it is known that the itinerant pilot is familiar with the flag signals and their meaning.

(i) General warning signal. A series of alternating red and green flashes from a directed traffic control light shall be used as a general warning signal to advise a pilot or driver of a vehicle on the landing area to be on the alert for hazardous or unusual conditions. As an example, the warning signal may be directed to a pilot in flight to indicate a change of runway since this can prove hazardous if the pilot attempts to land cross traffic or cross wind.

(a) In controlling airport traffic by means of visual signals, the general warning signal shall be directed to pilots of the aircraft concerned as follows:

(1) When aircraft are converging and there is a possibility of collision.

(2) When hazardous conditions are present and the pilot must be unusually alert in order to complete the operation safely. Such conditions include obstructions, soft field, ice on runway, and many others.

(3) When mechanical trouble is apparent to the controller and he has reason to believe that the pilot may not be aware of it.

(4) At any other time when believed necessary in the opinion of the controller. (See fig. 6.)

(b) Attention is directed to the fact that the warning signal is not a prohibitive signal and may be followed by either a red or green light as circumstances warrant.

(g) Special light signals. (1) Some military and naval establishments have special light signals, such as "course lights," which indicate landing direction, runway-in-use, traffic pattern to use, and other similar information for local activities. These lights are to be used as directed by competent authority, but as in the case of flag signals are to be confined to direction of pilots known to be familiar with the meaning of the special light signals.

§ 617.24 Radiotelephone technique—(a) General. The operation of the radiotelephone facilities of an airport traffic control tower shall be accomplished in accordance with rules outlined herein.

(b) Calls and replies. (1) Airport traffic control towers shall be identified during radiotelephone communication as follows:

(i) Air Force and civil towers—by the name of the airport followed by the word "Tower." Examples:

"Bolling Tower."
"Washington Tower."
"Norfolk Tower."

(ii) Navy towers—by the name of the service followed by the name of the airport and the word "Tower." Examples:

"Navy Norfolk Tower."
"Navy Patuxent Tower."

(2) Airway communication stations shall be identified during radiotelephone communication in the following manner:

(i) CAA interstate airway communication stations—by the name of the location followed by the word "Radio." Examples:

"Washington Radio."
"Norfolk Radio."

(ii) Air Force communication stations associated with radio range facilities—by the name of the airport followed by the word "Airways." Examples:

"Andrews Airways."
"Mitchel Airways."

(iii) Navy communication stations associated with radio range facilities—by the name of the facility followed by the word "Radio." Examples:

"Navy Norfolk Radio."
"Navy Jacksonville Radio."

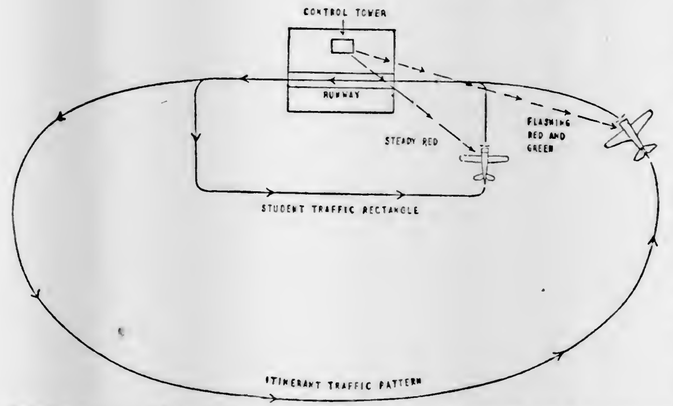

FIGURE 6. Example of the use of general warning light when two airplanes are on converging courses.

(3) Aircraft shall be identified during radiotelephone communications in the following manner:

(i) Military aircraft—by the name of the service followed by the service serial number. Examples:

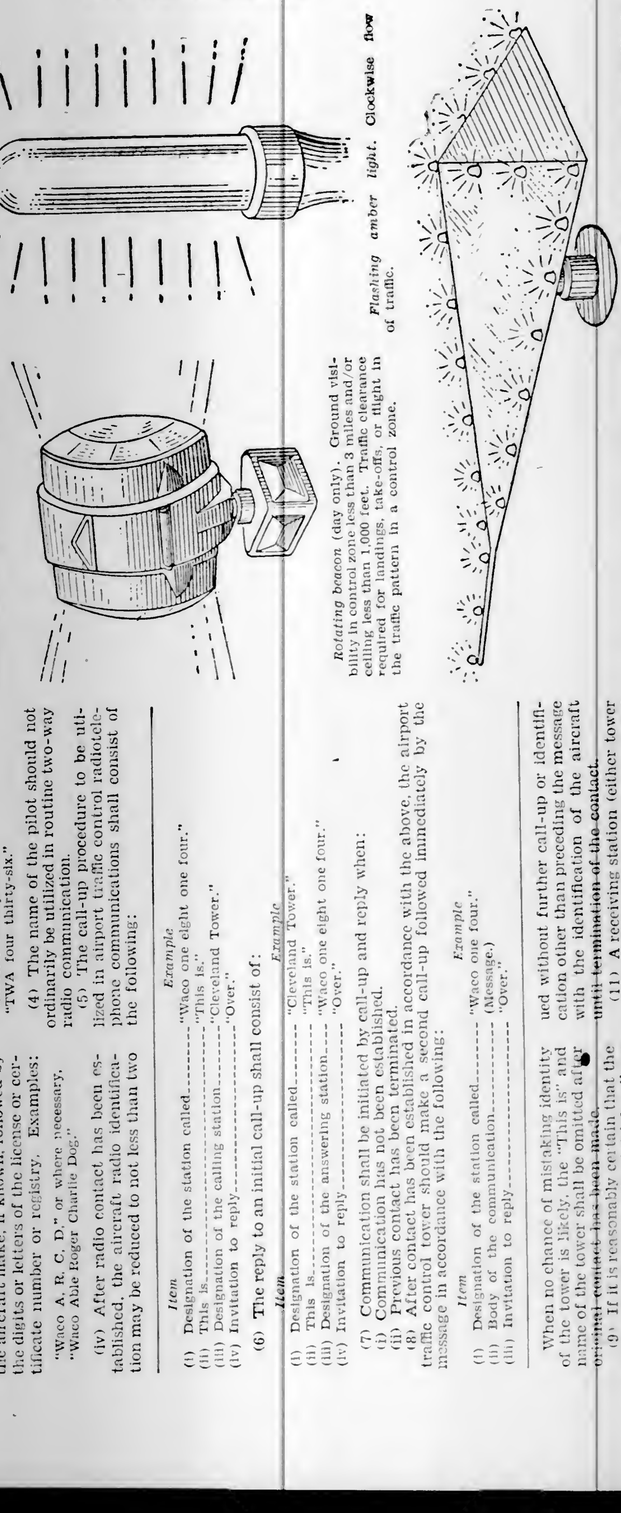
"Air Force seven eight two nine four."
"Navy four three six one."
"National Guard two one six one."

(ii) Civilian aircraft—by the aircraft make, if known, followed by the certificate number. Examples:

"Waco two one six eight five."
"Stinson three seven two yoke."

(iii) Aircraft of foreign registry—by the aircraft make, if known, followed by the digits or letters of the license or certificate number or registry. Examples:

"Waco A. R. C. D." or where necessary,
"Waco Able Roger Charlie Dog."



(iv) After radio contact has been established, the aircraft radio identification may be reduced to not less than two digits or letters provided there is no possibility of error. Examples:

"Stinson two three one five, roger."
"Air Force six seven two four, roger."

NOTE: The examples given above could be transmitted by either the tower or the aircraft since the object is to identify the aircraft concerned and to acknowledge the message received. It is usually unnecessary to identify the tower concerned as no mistake in tower identity is likely, but the aircraft concerned should be identified in every instance to prevent any possible mistake in aircraft identity.

§ 617.25 Standard traffic clearances and phraseologies.—(a) Traffic clearances. (1) General: An airport traffic controller shall issue such traffic clearances and other information as are necessary for the prevention of collisions between aircraft under his jurisdiction.

(2) A clearance issued by an airport traffic control tower is authority for a pilot to proceed only insofar as known air traffic conditions and field conditions are concerned and does not constitute authority for a pilot to violate any provision of Chapter I, Subchapter A of this part. The relay of information or advice to pilots from the airport management or a commanding officer is permitted. When such relay of advice is

Rotating beacon (day only). Ground visibility in control zone less than 3 miles and/or ceiling less than 1,000 feet. Traffic clearance required for landings, take-offs, or flight in the traffic pattern in a control zone.

Flashing amber light. Clockwise flow of traffic.

Flashing lights outlining traffic direction indicator (night only). Ground visibility in control zone less than 3 miles and/or ceiling less than 1,000 feet. Traffic clearance required for landings, take-offs, or flight in the traffic pattern in a control zone.

When no chance of mistaking identity of the tower is likely, the "This is" and name of the tower shall be omitted after original contact has been made.

(9) If it is reasonably certain that the aircraft will receive the initial call-up the tower may follow the first call-up with the message without waiting for the reply from the aircraft.

(10) After communication has been definitely established it may be continued without further call-up or identification other than preceding the message with the identification of the aircraft until termination of the contact.

(11) A receiving station (either tower or aircraft) shall acknowledge receipt of a radiotelephone message by transmitting the aircraft identification followed by the word, "Roger" or other applicable procedure word. Examples:

Item	Example
(i) Designation of the station called	"Waco one eight one four."
(ii) This is	"This is."
(iii) Designation of the calling station	"Cleveland Tower."
(iv) Invitation to reply	"Over."

Item	Example
(1) Designation of the station called	"Cleveland Tower."
(ii) This is	"This is."
(iii) Designation of the answering station	"Waco one eight one four."
(iv) Invitation to reply	"Over."

(7) Communication shall be initiated by call-up and reply when:

(i) Communication has not been established.

(ii) Previous contact has been terminated.

(8) After contact has been established in accordance with the above, the airport traffic control tower should make a second call-up followed immediately by the message in accordance with the following:

Item	Example
(i) Designation of the station called	"Waco one four."
(ii) Body of the communication	(Message.)
(iii) Invitation to reply	"Over."

(4) The name of the pilot should not ordinarily be utilized in routine two-way radio communication.

(5) The call-up procedure to be utilized in airport traffic control radiotelephone communications shall consist of the following:

Item	Example
(1) Designation of the station called	"Waco one eight one four."
(ii) This is	"This is."
(iii) Designation of the calling station	"Cleveland Tower."
(iv) Invitation to reply	"Over."

(6) The reply to an initial call-up shall consist of:

Item	Example
(1) Designation of the station called	"Cleveland Tower."
(ii) This is	"This is."
(iii) Designation of the answering station	"Waco one eight one four."
(iv) Invitation to reply	"Over."

(7) Communication shall be initiated by call-up and reply when:

(i) Communication has not been established.

(ii) Previous contact has been terminated.

(8) After contact has been established in accordance with the above, the airport traffic control tower should make a second call-up followed immediately by the message in accordance with the following:

Item	Example
(1) Designation of the station called	"Waco one four."
(ii) Body of the communication	(Message.)
(iii) Invitation to reply	"Over."

When no chance of mistaking identity of the tower is likely, the "This is" and name of the tower shall be omitted after original contact has been made.

(9) If it is reasonably certain that the aircraft will receive the initial call-up the tower may follow the first call-up with the message without waiting for the reply from the aircraft.

(10) After communication has been definitely established it may be continued without further call-up or identification other than preceding the message with the identification of the aircraft until termination of the contact.

(11) A receiving station (either tower or aircraft) shall acknowledge receipt of a radiotelephone message by transmitting the aircraft identification followed by the word, "Roger" or other applicable procedure word. Examples:

undertaken by controllers, the pilot shall be informed of the source of the message. However, denial of clearance for take-off shall be based only on considerations of traffic. No violations of 60.19 of this chapter shall be reported unless a take-off is made contrary to a controller's clearance based solely on traffic conditions.

(i) Clearances issued by airport traffic controllers are predicated upon known traffic and field conditions which affect safety in aircraft operations. Such traffic conditions will include not only aircraft in the air within the control zone and on the landing area over which control is being exercised, but also any vehicular traffic or other obstructions not permanently installed on the landing area in use.

(ii) Should a clearance issued by the airport traffic controller not be acceptable to the pilot, he may request and, if practicable, receive an alternate clearance.

(b) Standard phraseologies for traffic clearances. (1) In order to reduce the transmission time for each tower message, and to decrease misunderstandings, phraseologies have been standardized for use in airport traffic control. However, unusual situations will occur and the controller will have to exercise his best judgment in the use of additional phraseologies. In such cases he should use supplementary rather than substitute phrases.

(i) The standard phraseologies and clearances are listed in accordance with the purpose phrased by them, such as "clearance to enter traffic pattern," "clearance to land," "clearance to taxi," and other similar authorizations.

NOTE: Words capitalized shall be read as written, accompanied by values required by words in parentheses.

(2) Clearance to enter traffic pattern: (i) Clearance governing flight from a visual reporting point, holding point or fix, or other outlying point to the traffic pattern at the landing area shall be in the following form:

(a) (Flight identification.)
(b) "This is (name of tower) tower."
(c) (Reporting point.)
(d) (Time—minutes only.)
(e) At (altitude in thousands and hundreds of feet).
(f) "Cleared to enter traffic pattern."
(g) "At (specified altitude) (if necessary)."
(h) "Runway (number of runway in use)."
(i) "Wind (direction and velocity)."
(j) (Any special information.)

Example: "Air Force seven eight three four this is Nashville Tower, Lebanon four six at two thousand, cleared to enter traffic pattern, runway two seven, wind west eight."

NOTE: When parallel runways are available, the runway in use shall be designated in the following manner.

Examples:
"Runway two three, left."
"Runway one eight, center."

(ii) The clearance to enter traffic pattern is issued to a pilot whenever it is desired that the aircraft approach the landing area in accordance with current traffic patterns. If clearance to enter traffic pattern is not appropriate for the existing traffic conditions, alternate clearance such as "cleared to land," or "cleared to (specified holding point)," may be issued at the discretion of the controller.

(iii) The clearance to enter traffic pattern should not be confused with the clearance to land since the former is issued when the aircraft is some distance from the field and traffic conditions will not permit the issuance of a landing clearance.

(iv) When it is desired to clear an aircraft to enter a traffic pattern which is not a conventional left-turn pattern, or where more than one pattern exists, the phraseology may be modified to include the designation of the pattern desired. An example for clearance into a right-turn pattern:

"Cleared to enter right traffic pattern."

(3) Clearance to land: (i) A clearance to land shall be in the following form:

(a) "(Flight identification.)"
(b) "This is (name of tower) tower."
(c) "(Position.)"
(d) "At (altitude)."
(e) "Cleared to land."
(f) "Runway (number of runway in use)."
(g) "Wind (direction and velocity)."
(h) (Any special information.)

NOTE: Item (b) may usually be omitted whenever the aircraft is under direct observation of the airport traffic controller. Items (c) and (d) may be omitted if the aircraft is in a well-defined traffic pattern. Items (f) and (g) may be omitted if previously given and no revision is necessary.

Example: "Navy seven eight four three cleared to land."

(ii) Another example would be when a pilot reports in the control zone as follows:

"Tulsa Tower this is Stinson one two three four, two miles south at eight hundred."

The tower would respond:

"Stinson one two three four this is Tulsa Tower, two miles south at eight hundred. Cleared to land, runway three, wind south, four."

since no previous information concerning traffic direction and runway had been transmitted to this pilot.

(4) Clearance to taxi: Clearance to taxi shall be in the following form:

(i) Inbound aircraft:

(a) "(Flight identification)."
(b) "This is (name of tower) tower."

(May usually be omitted whenever the aircraft is under direct observation of the airport traffic controller).

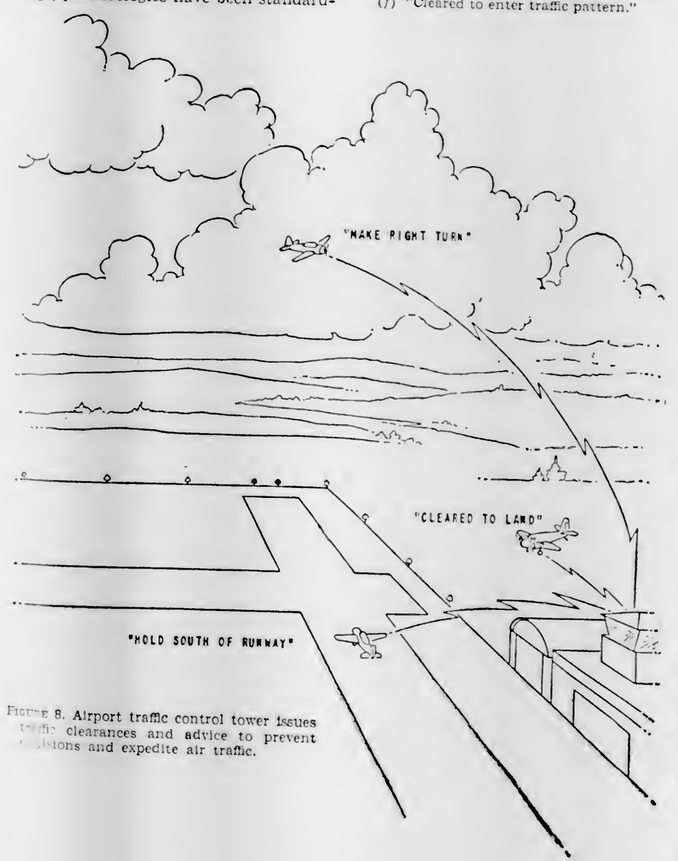

FIGURE 8. Airport traffic control tower issues traffic clearances and advice to prevent collisions and expedite air traffic.

(c) "Cleared to (gate, loading ramp, hangar, parking space, etc.)."

(d) (Any special information relative to the use of taxi strips, intersecting runways, obstructions, maintenance operations, or other field activity or condition.)

Example: "United seven cleared to gate five, use caution, gate five area not visible from tower."

(ii) Outbound aircraft—

(a) "(Flight identification)."

(b) "This is (name of tower) tower." (May usually be omitted whenever the aircraft is under direct observation of the airport traffic controller).

(c) "Cleared to runway (number of runway to be used)."

(d) "Wind (direction and velocity)."

(e) (Any special information relative to use of taxi strips, intersecting runways, obstructions, maintenance operations, or other field activity or field condition. Include under this item altimeter setting and time check unless an aircraft operator has indicated in writing to the chief airport traffic controller that this service is not desired.)

Example: "Air Force one five two seven cleared to runway three two. Wind northwest one five, altimeter three zero zero four. Time zero nine five six."

(iii) Clearance to taxi from one point to another on landing area:

(a) "(Flight identification.)"

(b) "This is (name of tower) tower." (May usually be omitted whenever the aircraft is under direct observation of the airport traffic controller.)

(c) "Cleared to (gate, loading ramp, hangar, parking space, etc.)."

(d) (Any special information.)

Example: "United thirty-four cleared to hangar four."

(5) Clearance for take-off: (i) Clearance for take-off shall be in the following form:

(a) "(Flight identification.)"

(b) "This is (name of tower) tower." (May usually be omitted whenever the aircraft is under direct observation of the airport traffic controller.)

(c) (Any special information.)

(d) "Cleared for take-off."

Example: "Air Force six seven three four, cleared for take-off."

(ii) When an ATC clearance is required prior to take-off, the take-off clearance described above shall not be issued until such ATC clearance has been transmitted to and acknowledged by the pilot concerned.

(iii) The take-off clearance, as the name implies, is issued after the pilot has taxied to the end of the runway in use, tested his engines, and is ready for take-off. The pilot has previously received information on the runway in use, wind direction and velocity, the altimeter setting, time check, and the appropriate air route traffic control clearance. He is now interested in obtaining authorization to commence his take-off, and he needs information on such local traffic as may affect his flight or which he may approach while in flight within the control zone.

(a) Immediately after take-off, many pilots want their time off the ground. When this is requested, it may be given separately in the following form, or combined with a clearance to leave tower frequency:

(1) "(Flight identification.)"

(2) "Off at (time—minutes only)."

Example: "American six off at three one."

(6) Clearance to change frequency: Normally the pilot of a departing aircraft will guard the control tower frequency until outside the control zone, at which time he may leave the tower frequency without further contact. If, however, a pilot requests approval to leave the tower frequency before he is out of the zone, or if an airport traffic controller desires to authorize a pilot to leave the tower frequency before he is out of the zone, a clearance to leave the tower frequency shall be transmitted in the following form:

(i) "(Flight identification.)"

(ii) "This is (name of tower) tower." (May usually be omitted whenever the aircraft is under direct observation of the airport traffic controller.)

(iii) (Any supplemental information).

(iv) "Cleared to leave tower frequency."

Example: "Eastern five this is Washington Tower, American Convair reported over Mt. Vernon four six at two thousand, cleared to leave tower frequency."

(7) Special clearances:

(i) Clearance to engage in other than routine operations in the control zone shall be in the following form:

(a) "(Flight identification.)"

(b) "This is (name of tower) tower." (May usually be omitted whenever the aircraft is under direct observation of the airport traffic controller).

(c) "Cleared to make right turn; practice low approach to airport; cleared to Columbus Navy GCA; etc."

NOTE: Special clearances are provided so that unusual situations, as well as routine range practice, etc., may be properly handled.

(ii) Phraseologies for certain frequently used special clearances are as follows:

(a) Clearance for right turn after take-off shall be at the discretion of the controller. In the event it is not possible to approve the right turn when issuing clearance for take-off and the pilot has requested such right turn, the following phraseology will be used:

"Will advise later, cleared for take-off."

(b) In the event right turn can be approved at the time of issuance of clearance for take-off, the following phraseology will be used:

"Right turn approved. Cleared for take-off."

(c) Whenever it is desired that a pilot make a straight-in approach, although he cannot yet be cleared to land, the following phraseology will be used:

"Cleared to make straight-in approach."

(d) In the event aircraft are landing and taking off at an airport without coming to a stop during their landing roll, such operations shall be described as "touch and go" landings. Pilots shall be required to request approval of same by at least the time they are turning on their final approach leg. Approval for such operation shall be issued by use of the following phraseology:

"Cleared to make touch and go landing."

(e) In the event it is not possible to approve such an operation due to other air traffic, the following phraseology shall be used:

"Make full stop landing."

(f) If an aircraft cannot be cleared onto the runway in use or whenever otherwise desired that the aircraft not move, the following phraseology shall be used:

"Hold your position."

(g) If an aircraft can be cleared onto the runway in use but not cleared for take-off, the following phraseology will be used:

"Cleared into position and hold."

(h) When it is desired that a taxiing aircraft hold at a specific position, the following phraseology will be used:

"Hold clear of (position); or hold on taxi strip."

(i) Whenever pilots have indicated that they are not ready for take-off, although they have taxied onto the landing area, possibly due to their engine temperature being too low, etc., the following phraseology will be used:

"Advise when ready for take-off."

(j) Whenever it is desired that a pilot shorten the downwind leg, the following phraseology will be used:

"Make short approach."

(k) Whenever it is desired that the pilot lengthen the downwind leg, the following phraseology will be used:

"Make long approach."

(l) In the event it is desired to indicate to pilots in the traffic pattern which aircraft they are to follow in the landing sequence, the following phraseology will be used:

"Number (number) to land, follow (type of aircraft) (location of aircraft to follow)."

NOTE: When describing location, descriptions such as "to your right," "above you," "one mile ahead of you," etc., are much more satisfactory than "north of you," "one mile east of you," etc.

(m) In the event an aircraft is on final approach and there is still sufficient time to clear a departing aircraft for take-off, the following phraseology will be used:

"Cleared for immediate take-off."

(n) In the event an aircraft is on final approach and there is still sufficient time to clear a departing aircraft which is in take-off position, but some doubt exists as to whether or not the departing aircraft will take off immediately, the following phraseology will be used.

"Take off immediately or clear the runway."

(o) In the event it is believed desirable to advise landing pilots of other aircraft in close proximity to the runway in use, the following phraseology will be used:

"Aircraft to (right or left); or aircraft on both sides of runway (number)."

(p) In the event an aircraft has encountered landing gear difficulty and has proceeded to close proximity to the control tower for control tower personnel to observe the landing gear, the following phraseology will be used.

(1) If the gear appears to be in a normal position to the control tower personnel:

"Landing gear appears to be down and in place."

(2) If it does not appear to be normal a description of the appearance should be given, such as:

(q) If an aircraft cannot be cleared to land and it is desired that it continue to circle the field, the following phraseology will be used:

"Circle the field."

(r) When it is desired to delay an aircraft to effect separation and a circle of the field would take more than the required time, the following phraseology will be used if circumstances permit:

"Make a short circle to your (right or left) from present position."

(s) When an aircraft is on final approach and it becomes necessary to cancel the landing clearance, the following phraseology will be issued:

"Go around."

(c) Description of essential local traffic. Essential local traffic shall be described so as to facilitate recognition by pilots, as follows:

(1) Military Traffic. Military traffic shall be described by the service classification, such as: "Bomber," "Navy Transport," "Basic Trainer," "Fighter," "Attack," "Patrol Landplane," "Patrol Seaplane," etc. Jet propelled aircraft shall be so described.

(i) Military traffic may be described by military type designation to military and other pilots known to be familiar with such designations. The military type designation of military aircraft shall be spoken as a group figure (instead of a serial figure) in radio-telephone communications in accordance with the following examples:

"F Eighty"	"PBY"
"B Seventeen"	"SNJ"
"C Fifty-four"	"TBF"

(2) Air carrier traffic. Air carrier traffic shall be described by the use of the abbreviated name of the air carrier operator followed by the type of aircraft. Examples:

"American DC–6" "TWA Constellation"

(3) Civil nonscheduled traffic. Civil nonscheduled traffic shall be described by at least the name of the manufacturer. The model, type, or color of the aircraft also may be used to facilitate identification. Examples:

"Waco-cabin" "Beechcraft" "Green Stinson"

(d) Phonetic alphabet. (1) When necessary to identify any letter of the alphabet the standard phonetic alphabet is to be used. This alphabet is listed below:

Letter:	Spoken as—	Letter:	Spoken as—
A	"Able"	N	"Nan"
B	"Baker"	O	"Oboe"
C	"Charlie"	P	"Peter"
D	"Dog"	Q	"Queen"
E	"Easy"	R	"Roger"

(e) Statement of figures in radiotelephone transmissions.—(1) Statement of figures to indicate ceiling heights, flight levels, and upper air levels. These figures in numbers smaller than 12,000 shall be spoken in even hundreds and thousands of feet. These figures in the number 13,000 and larger numbers shall be spoken as, example, "one three thousand". Examples follow:

Number:	Statement
500	"Five hundred."
1,300	"One thousand three hundred."

(i) The figure "0" shall be spoken "Zero" when it occurs alone or in a group of figures other than those described in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

(3) Time shall be stated in exactly four figures (except as noted in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph utilizing the 24-hour clock basis. The hour shall be stated by the first two figures and the minutes by the last two figures. Examples:

Time:	Statement
0000 (midnight)	"Zero zero zero zero."
0920 (9:20 a. m.)	"Zero nine two zero"
12 (noon)	"One two zero zero."
1643 (4:43 p. m.)	"One six four three."

(i) Time may be stated in minutes only (two figures) in airport traffic control radiotelephone communications when no misunderstanding is likely to occur.

(ii) Time shall be stated to the nearest minute unless a time check is required in which case the time should be stated to the nearest quarter minute. Example:

11:05.17—"One one zero five and one quarter."

(iii) The 24-hour clock day begins and ends at 0000 (midnight). The last minute of the last hour begins at 2359 and ends at 0000, which is the beginning of the first minute ending at 0001 of the first hour of the next day.

(4) Field elevations shall be stated in feet in accordance with the following examples:

10 ft.—"Field elevation one zero."
75 ft.—"Field elevation seven five."
583 ft.—"Field elevation five eight three."
600 ft.—"Field elevation six zero zero."
1,850 ft.—"Field elevation one eight five zero."

(g) Abbreviation for CAA air traffic control. The abbreviation "ATC" will be used to indicate CAA Air Traffic Control, for example, "ATC clears Eastern four" etc.

(h) Identification of aircraft at night. In addition to the prescribed provisions for identification of aircraft in the radiotelephone procedure, further identification and location of aircraft may be established during the hours of darkness, by requesting the pilot to show a landing light, as "TWA nine show a landing light."

(i) Radio control of aircraft not transmitter equipped. In addition to the prescribed radio operating procedure, the following procedure is established for use in connection with control of aircraft in which radio equipment is limited to receivers.

(1) Broadcasts of airport traffic control clearances or information to VFR traffic, requiring acknowledgment from the pilot, shall provide for such acknowledgment in the following manner:

(i) When the aircraft is on the ground within the range of vision of the controller, the pilot shall be requested to acknowledge receipt of the broadcast by movement of ailerons or rudder, whichever action may be observed more readily, as:

"Acknowledge by moving ailerons."
"Acknowledge by moving rudder."

(ii) When the aircraft is in the air the same purpose will be achieved by including a request to acknowledge receipt of the broadcast by rocking the wings, as:

"Acknowledge by rocking your wings."

(iii) When the aircraft is either in the air or on the ground, during the hours of darkness, the same purpose will be achieved by requesting the pilot to blink his landing lights, as:

"Acknowledge by blinking your landing or navigation lights."

§ 617.26 Local traffic information—(a) Essential local traffic. (1) When operating under visual flight rules it is the responsibility of the pilot to avoid collision with other aircraft. However, due to the restricted space on and around landing areas, it is often essential that traffic information be issued to aid the pilots to avoid collision between aircraft. Essential local traffic shall be considered to consist of the following:

(i) Traffic within the control zone.

(ii) Ground traffic.

(2) Essential traffic within the zone shall include all known traffic in the control zone which might constitute a hazard to the operation of the aircraft concerned.

(3) Essential ground traffic shall include any aircraft, vehicle or personnel on the landing area or in a designated loading or parking area which might constitute a hazard to the operation of the aircraft concerned.

(b) Issuance. (1) Detailed essential local traffic information shall be issued when, in the judgment of the controller, such information is necessary in the interests of safety, or when requested by a pilot.

§ 617.27 Information on field conditions—(a) General. (1) Essential information on field conditions is information necessary to safety in the operation of aircraft, which pertains to the landing area or any facilities usually associated therewith. For example, construction work on a taxi strip not connected to the runway-in-use would not be essential information to any pilot except one who might wish to taxi in the vicinity of the construction work. As another example, if all traffic must be confined to runways, that fact should be considered as essential field information to any pilot not familiar with the airport. (See fig. 9.)

(2) The following field conditions shall be included as essential field information to all pilots:

(i) Construction work along or near the runway-in-use.

(ii) Rough portions of the landing area proper whether marked or not.

(iii) Any maintenance apparatus or workmen on or near any portion of the landing area a pilot might elect to use.

(iv) Slippery condition of runways or taxiways.

(v) Snow piled or drifted on the landing area proper, and width and length of cleared runway, if known.

(vi) Failure or irregular functioning of any portion of the field lighting system.

(vii) Aircraft parked close to runways or taxiways.

(b) Responsibility for notification of field conditions. (1) The agency which operates the airport shall be responsible for notifying the chief airport traffic controller of current field conditions.

(c) Description. (1) Information on field conditions shall be stated concisely and clearly. Examples:

(i) "Mower on west side of field."
(ii) "Construction work on north end of field."
(iii) "Repair trucks near center of field."

(d) Issuance. (1) Essential information on field conditions shall be given to every pilot concerned, either directly or indirectly, in sufficient time for the pilot to make proper use of such information.

§ 617.28 Preventive control—(a) Description. (1) "Preventive control" may be defined as a system of control whereby useful preventive advice is given to pilots of aircraft in the air and a routine approval of the pilot's anticipated actions is eliminated. In other words, the pilot is expected to continue flight including landing in a normal manner unless otherwise advised by the airport traffic controller.

(b) Control of ground traffic. (1) The airport traffic controller is concerned with the movements of taxiing aircraft, personnel, and vehicular traffic in exercising ground control. Taxiing aircraft offer the greatest problems due to the fact that the visibility is so limited in most aircraft while in a taxiing position that obstructions such as personnel, vehicles or other aircraft may not be readily seen even by the most careful pilots. Therefore, the controller must issue explicit warnings as to the proximity of other obstructions for all taxiing traffic. This requires that the control of ground traffic be identical with the control of ground traffic previously outlined in § 617.22

(c) Control-zone procedures. (1) Procedures for controlling traffic within and entering the control zone may be subdivided as follows:

(i) Traffic joining the traffic pattern. Traffic joining the traffic pattern is primarily interested in obtaining information as to field conditions, runway-in-use, and the wind direction and velocity. This information should be given when the aircraft makes its initial radio contact at the contact reporting point, or approximately 15 miles from the airport. It is expected that the pilot of the aircraft joining the traffic pattern will properly space himself so that the proper separation will be maintained on the final glide for landing.

(ii) Traffic in the traffic pattern. The traffic in the traffic pattern must be properly spaced at all times. This may be accomplished by advising one pilot to make a wider turn, and another pilot to make a shorter turn, or any other pertinent information. The aircraft which are actually in the traffic pattern should be aware of the runway-in-use by the time the traffic pattern is entered and, therefore, the only clearances which should be issued to such traffic are those necessary to obtain proper spacing.

(iii) Landing traffic. If the aircraft in the traffic pattern are properly spaced it will be unnecessary to issue detailed clearances to the landing traffic, such as "cleared to land." Rather, only prohibitive signals which will prevent collision will be issued. For example, one of two aircraft on final approach should be advised to "go around" if their separation is less than the prescribed minimum.

(iv) Taking-off traffic. All taking-off traffic shall be positively controlled inasmuch as such aircraft are taxiing traffic until the actual take-off is commenced.

(d) Conditions under which preventive control may be applied. Preventive control has an immediate application at locations which have one or more of the following types of activities:

(1) Air Force or Navy primary flying schools.

(2) Air Force or Navy transitional schools.

(3) Locally based squadrons or groups of military aircraft.

(4) Local civilian operators or schools.

(e) Mutual agreements and arrangements. In such cases mutual agreements and arrangements must be made with the responsible heads of these groups prior to the inauguration of preventive control. Such control is not to be employed for transient aircraft.

§ 617.29 Authorizing VFR operations in a control zone clear of clouds and/or when the ceiling or visibility is below basic VFR minimums. (a) When the ground visibility is less than three miles and/or the ceiling is less than 1000 feet, a traffic clearance must be obtained before flying in the traffic pattern or landing or taking off at an airport in the control zone. When flight visibility is less than three miles and/or the ceiling is reported less than 1000 feet, a traffic clearance must be obtained before flying in the control zone.

(b) Visual Flight Rule operations (flight "clear of clouds") will be authorized in a control zone "if traffic conditions permit," when the official weather is reported below the basic VFR minimums. (The official weather observation for the airport about which the control zone is centered, should be used where observations are made at more than one airport in the zone). As a guide for controllers in authorizing VFR operations under these conditions, the following should be observed:

(1) When the ground visibility is less than three miles but not less than one mile, local VFR flights may be authorized in the zone (shooting landings, etc.) if provision is made for the recall of these aircraft when traffic conditions become too congested to permit continuance of the local flights. The most practical method of doing this is to require the locally flying aircraft to be equipped with a functioning receiver and require the pilot to guard the control tower frequency. Thus, the pilot can be recalled or directed away from other traffic as necessary.

(2) When ground visibility is less than one mile, VFR operations may be authorized, provided aircraft are equipped with a functioning two-way radio and IFR separation minimums are provided between such aircraft, and between such flights and any IFR flights operating on a traffic clearance.

(3) Aircraft not equipped with radio may be permitted to enter the zone and land if traffic conditions permit. NORDO aircraft may also be authorized to depart from the control zone if the restriction to visibility is known to be a local condition.

(4) VFR operations clear of any cloud formation (less than 500 feet vertically and 2,000 feet horizontally) will be authorized in the control zone provided separation between the VFR aircraft and any IFR flights operating on a traffic clearance is maintained in accordance with IFR separation standards.

NOTE: Controllers should be guided generally by subparagraphs (1), (2), (3) and (4) of this paragraph. However, when the ground visibility is less than 1 mile, controllers should exercise individual judgment with respect to the release of non-radio equipped aircraft with due regard to anticipated traffic.

(c) Operation of signal to indicate ground visibility of less than three miles and/or a ceiling of less than 1,000 feet:

(1) The following procedures shall be observed when the ground visibility is officially reported to be less than three miles and/or the ceiling less than 1,000 feet.

(i) Operate the appropriate light signal.

(a) Rotating beacon during daylight hours.

(b) Flashing wind direction indicator lights between sunset and sunrise.

(ii) Recall all aircraft operating in the traffic pattern without a clearance.

(d) Authority for issuance of traffic clearances to VFR operations: The airport controller shall coordinate with the appropriate center prior to issuing traffic clearances for VFR flight in a control zone at less than the basic VFR weather minimums (500 feet vertically and 2,000 feet horizontally from clouds and 3 miles visibility and a ceiling of 1,000 feet).

§ 617.30 Operating instructions for airport traffic control towers—(a) General—(1) Purpose. The purpose of these instructions is to provide standard operating instructions for all airport traffic control towers. Only the broad phases of operation are included herein and it is expected that each operating agency will provide such additional detailed instructions as are necessary for efficient operation.

(2) Supervision of towers. Each operating agency shall establish and designate a person responsible for the supervision and operation of each airport traffic control tower. All other airport traffic control personnel, when on official duty in an airport traffic control tower, will be responsible to and governed by the person in charge. When more than one person is on watch in the tower, one controller shall be designated as the "supervising controller" in charge of the watch.

(b) Positions of operation—(1) General. Each person on duty in an airport traffic control tower shall, while controlling or aiding in the control of air traffic, occupy one or more positions of operation. These positions of operation shall be established for the purpose of defining specific duties and fixing responsibility for the performance of prescribed functions, and shall be defined as follows:

(i) Local control position. The following are specific duties of this position of operation in addition to such supplementary duties as may be assigned by the chief controller:

(a) To issue airport traffic control clearances and information, in accordance with applicable Civil Air Regulations, governing all air traffic and vehicular traffic on the landing area, air traffic departing from the landing area and air traffic operating in accordance with VFR in the control zone.

(b) To guard radio frequencies of all aircraft regularly using the landing area and such special frequencies as may be required from time to time.

(c) To issue essential local traffic information, as required, to pilots of aircraft taxiing on or in the vicinity of the landing area.

(d) To furnish to pilots of aircraft taxiing on, and in the vicinity of the landing area, information concerning field conditions, altimeter settings, and time checks as required.

(e) To forward to the local Weather Bureau Office and the appropriate center pilot weather reports as received and reports based upon personal observation of weather conditions from the control tower.

(f) To notify operations offices, fire departments, police and ambulance services, as necessary, in the event of an accident or fire on or in the vicinity of the airport.

(g) To study and initial all weather reports, notices to airmen and reports pertaining to the condition of the landing area or tower operating equipment.

(h) To operate the appropriate airport lighting facilities as required by aircraft using the airport.

(ii) Flight data position. The following are specific duties of this position of operation in addition to such supplementary duties as may be assigned by the chief controller:

(a) To assist, as directed by the supervising controller, in the issuance of airport traffic control clearances and information and in the operation of control tower equipment.

(b) To copy and relay as necessary, all communications received over the interphone or telephone facilities.

(c) To relay air route traffic control clearances and other control messages as instructed by an air route traffic control center.

(d) To copy and relay, as directed, reports and information received by radio.

(e) To properly post all required flight plans, flight progress reports, arrival reports, and departure reports.

(f) To study and initial all weather information and notices to airmen and post such material on the designated board.

(g) To provide for the continuous recording of radio transmissions by changing voice records promptly, as they are completed, at locations where voice recorders are installed.

(h) To record air route traffic control messages and clearances on appropriate forms.

(i) To record flight plans received from pilots (either by radio, interphone, or telephone) on appropriate forms.

(j) To maintain airport traffic control operating forms.

(c) Radio procedures—(1) Guarding radio frequencies. The supervising controller shall be responsible for maintaining a continuous guard of standard military, naval, and civil aircraft radio frequencies. He shall also maintain a guard, when necessary, on any special frequencies that may be required. The supervising controller shall also provide for the maintenance of a continuous guard of control tower transmissions from any other landing area in the control zone in which he is controlling traffic.

(i) Normally, the volume control on receivers guarding aircraft frequencies shall be adjusted so as to permit the easy reception of normal calls from aircraft over or in the vicinity of all contact reporting points. The volume shall not be reduced on any receiver on which a continuous guard is being maintained, except as follows:

(a) The volume on any receiver or speaker may be momentarily reduced to permit the separate reception of transmissions which might be otherwise unintelligible.

(b) The volume may be reduced momentarily when transmission from an aircraft might be annoyingly loud because of the nearness of the aircraft.

(c) The volume may be reduced when either local or general electrical disturbances make it advisable in order to hear any transmissions at all but should be increased to normal volume as soon as possible.

(ii) Tower personnel should check the receivers at least once during each watch to ascertain whether they are operating since failure of this equipment may occur without the knowledge of the personnel on duty. The receiver check may be accomplished by turning the noise suppressor off and increasing the volume until background noise is heard.

(2) Transmission of radiotelephone messages. An airport traffic controller on duty shall be responsible for all radiotelephone transmissions emanating from the position, or positions, of operation under his jurisdiction.

(i) The following types of radiotelephone messages shall ordinarily be transmitted by the local control position:

(a) Airport traffic control clearances and instructions.

(b) Essential traffic information.

(c) Field conditions, altimeter settings, and time checks.

(d) Any message pertaining to safety of aircraft.

(e) Instructions to radio equipped vehicular traffic on the landing area.

(ii) The following types of radiotelephone messages may be transmitted by the flight data position at the discretion of the supervising controller:

(a) Relay of air route traffic control clearances and control messages.

(b) Acceptance and confirmation of flight plans filed by radio.

(c) Any other message authorized by the supervising controller.

(3) Relaying information or advice not directly associated with traffic control. In addition to traffic control communications which are associated with prevention of collision between aircraft within the control zone, the following communications are authorized for handling by an airport traffic controller:

(i) Messages pertaining to the operation of the aircraft authorized for transmission by the commanding officer or the representative of the airport management.

(ii) Messages pertaining to the operation of the aircraft authorized for transmission by a representative of an aircraft operator to the aircraft of such operator.

(iii) Any message pertaining to safety of aircraft.

(d) Operation of interphone facilities—(1) General. Interphone facilities are maintained to provide rapid voice communications service between agencies, for the exchange of information pertinent to the control of air traffic.

(i) The interphone system is divided into two categories: "local" circuits, which may consist of individual circuits between airport traffic control towers and various agencies in the vicinity, or may consist of a single circuit connecting all the agencies in the immediate vicinity of an airport, and "long lines" circuits which may connect two or more widely separated communications stations, towers, operations offices, and air route traffic control centers.

(ii) An airport traffic control tower shall be the coordinating office of any local interphone system originating in the control tower. If such system also serves an airway communications station, coordination shall be effected jointly by both the station and tower.

(2) Communications authorized for transmission on interphone systems. Interphone systems are maintained to permit the rapid handling of communications required to effect the control of air traffic. Authorized communications are those required for the control and safety of air traffic. A partial list of authorized material follows in the general order of importance. Priority shall be determined by the relative importance of a message to the control of air traffic, rather than by strict adherence to the order as listed herein.

(i) Emergency communications are communications concerning accidents, suspected accidents, and situations directly endangering life and property. Communications relative to accidents may be continued until essential information has been transmitted to all concerned, but shall not receive emergency classification after the emergency period has passed.

(ii) Movement and control messages and plain English equivalents of "Q" signals pertaining to aircraft movements shall receive priority over other than emergency communications.

(a) When two or more movement or control messages are on hand for transmission their priority shall be in the following order, except that the order may be modified by consideration of the time element involved and their relative importance to the control of air traffic:

(1) Clearances and control instructions.

(2) IFR movement messages.

(i) Flight plans.

(ii) Progress reports.

(iii) Arrival reports.

(3) VFR movement messages.

(iii) Notice to airmen: Each control tower shall compile a list of local aids to air navigation which may affect its operations. Malfunctioning of such aids shall be reported to the appropriate communications station for issuance of a notice to airmen and to the appropriate center for information.

(3) Interphone operating procedures. Conversations shall be as brief and concise as possible without undue hesitation and in a uniform flow of language. Every effort shall be made to enunciate clearly and distinctly, paying special attention to numerals. Use of such words as "guess" and "think" is undesirable.

(i) When any doubt exists concerning the accuracy of a received message, the complete message or the essential parts should be repeated back to the sender for verification. Transmitting personnel may also request that a message be repeated back by the receiving personnel.

(ii) "Q" signals shall be transmitted by means of their plain English equivalents. Station identifications shall not be spelled, but the name of the location spoken.

(iii) Low priority traffic may be interrupted for the transmission of high priority traffic, not subject to delay. For example, the continuous transmission of a series of flight plans may be interrupted for the transmission of a traffic control clearance.

(iv) The domestic phonetic alphabet should be used to indicate single letters, initials, or for spelling words whenever similar sounds or difficulties in transmission make such use necessary.

(v) When the origin and destination of a message are on the same circuit, the message shall be filed with the air route traffic control center, which will then make delivery to all concerned. However, local arrangements may be made with the appropriate air route traffic control center to depart from this principle when desired.

(vi) Operating initials: All personnel using interphone circuits shall use two-letter operating initials. The first and last initials of the operator's name should be used when appropriate. Any two letters, however, may be used to avoid confusion due to similarity of sounds. Letters having similar sounds, such as "B" and "P" and letter combinations which are difficult to pronounce should be avoided.

(4) Methods of originating and completing interphone contacts. The following outlined procedures and phraseologies shall be used when initiating and completing contacts on standard interphone facilities.

(i) Voice calls and answers: Drops on the long-line interphone system shall be known by the name of the location followed by the name or standard abbreviation of the organization or facility. (On local interphone circuits, the "location" may be omitted). Examples:

"Memphis control."
"Westover tower."
"Patterson operations."
"Norfolk Navy tower."
"Fort Wayne TWA."
"Casper radio."

(a) Initiate the call by use of prescribed procedures. If voice signaling is used, state the voice call of the organization desired, followed by the word "from" and the voice call of the organization calling.

(1) All calls shall be answered by stating the voice call of the organization answering the call.

(2) Each communication shall be preceded by a term indicating the type of message to follow, such as "flight plan," "clearance," "arrival," "progress report," etc. Messages of an emergency nature shall be preceded by the word "emergency." In voice signaling the descriptive term shall be incorporated in the call, as the last item of the call.

(3) Each message shall be terminated by the operating initials of the transmitting personnel.

(4) Personnel shall acknowledge receipt of messages by stating their operating initials.

(5) All contacts are completed by air route traffic control center personnel, by stating the time in two figures to the nearest minute.

Example: Mechanical signaling (inbound to center).

(Tower) "Buffalo tower, arrival report."
(Center) "HN, four six."

(b) Except in the transmission of "emergency" messages, continuous calling should be tempered by good judgment. Stations should realize that air route traffic control centers often have only one person assigned to answer calls on two or more circuits. Air route traffic control centers should understand that communications stations, towers and operations office personnel are often engaged in duties such as weather observations, radio contacts, or outside telephone calls, which may delay the answering of interphone calls.

(5) Connection of circuits. Circuits will be connected only upon request or approval being received from an air route traffic control center, except that circuits may be connected at the request of a communications station or control tower adjacent to a control boundary, so located that a connection is necessary in order to communicate with the adjacent air route traffic control center.

(i) Request for connection of circuit shall be made in accordance with the following:

"Fresno radio this is Burbank control, connect Oakland control." (Fresno signals Oakland Control and connects circuits. Message is completed in accordance with standard procedures.)

"Fresno radio this is Burbank control, release Oakland control." (Fresno disconnects circuits.)

(6) Reporting arrivals and departures. The times of arrival and departure of all aircraft for which flight plans or clearances have been received, shall be reported promptly to the appropriate air route traffic control center or communications station.

(i) The times of arrival and departure as required above shall be exact as established upon the following basis:

(a) Arriving aircraft shall be reported as "arrived" at the time the wheels touch the ground and it is apparent that the landing will be completed.

(b) Departing aircraft shall be reported as "departed" at the time the wheels leave the ground.

(7) Relaying position reports from pilots of aircraft en route. Normally, pilots of aircraft en route will make position reports to U. S. Interstate Airway Communications Stations, Air Force or Navy Communications Stations, or private facilities. While pilots should be encouraged to continue this practice, airport traffic controllers shall not hesitate to relay such reports when they are addressed to the control towers. Pilots shall be referred to other communications agencies only if the service they request or need can be obtained in no other manner.

(8) Relaying reports on condition of field or associated facilities. When abnormal conditions concerning facilities which are pertinent to safety in the operation or traffic control of aircraft are observed by an airport traffic controller or are brought to the attention of the controller, such information shall, if warranted, be forwarded to the appropriate operations office, Civil Aeronautics Administration Communications Station and, if advisable, to the air route traffic control center within whose control area the tower is located.

(e) Operation of field lighting system. (1) Boundary and obstruction lights and the rotating airport beacon shall be lighted continuously between sunset and sunrise, and in addition, the rotating beacon shall be lighted as necessary during the hours of daylight to indicate restriction of VFR operations within the control zone. At airports where no boundary lights are installed (or when boundary lights are inoperative), runway lights on the runway most nearly aligned with the wind, or the "calm wind" runway when appropriate, shall be lighted between sunset and sunrise.

(i) With the exception of rotating airport beacons, the airport manager at locations where a CAA control tower is in operation, may establish hours of operation of the field lighting system not in accordance with the above, provided, however, that field lighting is available on a request basis. In such cases, the airport manager shall assume the responsibility for such operations.

(2) Floodlights and runway lights: Floodlights and runway lights, except as outlined above, shall be used in accordance with the following:

(i) As soon as the pilot of an aircraft is cleared to taxi out, the taxiways which he is to use shall be illuminated and as the pilot approaches the take-off position, the runway lights for the runway-in-use shall be switched on. The floodlights shall not be turned on until the pilot has taxied onto the runway and is facing the direction for take-off. The floodlights and the runway lights shall not be turned off until the pilot has cleared the edge of the field or requests that they be turned off.

(ii) When a pilot is approaching to land, the runway lights shall be turned on as soon as the pilot reports in the control zone. The floodlights for the runway-in-use shall be lighted as soon as the aircraft is identified near the field unless the pilot requests that they be left off. In the latter event they shall be lighted briefly, before the aircraft enters the landing glide, to ascertain that the landing area to be used is clear of obstacles. If the floodlights are used for landing, they shall not be turned off before the pilot has turned on to a taxi strip, or intersecting runway, unless it is necessary for the pilot to taxi toward an unshadowed floodlight unit.

(iii) As far as practicable, the airport traffic controller shall light only those portions of intersecting runways and taxi strips which the pilot must use in taxiing to the administration building, hangar line, or parking area.

(f) Altimeter settings—(1) Recording and using altimeter settings: The "altimeter setting" issued by the weather reporting station at 0130, 0730, 1330, and 1930 Eastern Standard Time shall be recorded on a suitable altimeter setting record form. The "altimeter setting indicator" shall be the primary instrument for obtaining altimeter settings in the tower and all personnel shall refer to the "indicator" for this data. No altimeter settings are to be obtained from the aircraft type altimeter (except where altimeter setting indicators are not installed). The aircraft type altimeter is to be used only as a secondary means of checking the altimeter setting indicator or as a primary instrument in case of malfunctioning of the latter.

(2) The altimeter setting indicators are a special form of aneroid barometer so designed that after installation and proper adjustment, the altimeter setting may be read directly from the scale of the instrument. The instrument is designed to indicate the altimeter setting when the elevation scale is set to the actual elevation of the instrument above sea level. The mechanism is enclosed in a sealed case with provision for the connection of a venting tube to outside free air.

(3) Comparisons between the readings of the indicator and the official altimeter setting issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau are necessary each six hours as in the case of the aircraft type altimeter. This shall be accomplished by completion of a separate altimeter record form for the indicator. The "correction factor" should be entered on this form. For example, an altimeter setting of 30.01 is received from the Weather Bureau. The altimeter setting indicator reads 30.00 The correction factor, "+.01" is entered on the form. Thus, the actual altimeter setting is the value indicated by the instrument, plus or minus the correction factor. In the event the average wind velocity at the stated hours (0130, 0730, 1330, 1930) exceeds 45 miles per hour, the instructions relative to obtaining the correction factor will not be effective and the previously determined correction factor will remain in use until a correction factor can be obtained when the average wind velocity is less than 45 miles per hour.

(i) Should the correction factor consistently exceed two one-hundredths of an inch (.02), either plus or minus, the maintenance technician should be advised and requested to reset the instrument. Should the correction factor exceed four one-hundredths of an inch (0.04), plus or minus, the instrument should be removed from service and the maintenance technician advised.

(ii) The procedures for recording and using altimeter settings obtained from the aircraft type altimeter will continue in accordance with the following: Immediately following receipt of the "altimeter setting" issued by the weather reporting station, provided the average wind velocity does not exceed 45 miles per hour, the knob on the tower altimeter shall be turned until the reading on the barometric scale is exactly the same as the official altimeter setting. The "height setting" shall also be recorded and this will be used for reference data until the next official altimeter setting is received from the weather reporting station. In the event the average wind velocity at the stated hours exceeds 45 miles per hour, the instructions relative to turning the knob on the altimeter and the determination of the height setting will not be effective and the previously determined height setting will remain in use until a height setting can be obtained when the average wind velocity is less than 45 miles per hour.

(iii) When the existing altimeter setting is requested by a pilot, the airport traffic controller shall obtain the setting in accordance with the procedure outlined in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph. In the event it is necessary to utilize the aircraft type altimeter to obtain the altimeter setting, the airport traffic controller shall turn the knob of the altimeter until the hands of the instrument indicate the same altitude as the last determined height setting. The existing altimeter setting will then be indicated on the barometric scale of the altimeter.

(iv) Whenever adjusting the aircraft type altimeter to obtain a reading, the vibrator shall be operated so as to eliminate any lag in movement of the altimeter needle.

(4) Pressure-altitude, when required, shall be obtained from a table of altimeter settings and pressure altitudes complied for the local land area. If no such table is available, the pressure-altitude may be obtained in the following manner:

(i) Determine the existing "altimeter setting."

(ii) From N. A. C. A. Report No. 538, "Altitude-Pressure Tables based on United States Standard Atmosphere," or similar tables, obtain the altitude corresponding to the existing altimeter setting.

(iii) Add the altitude obtained from the altitude-pressure table to the field elevation. The algebraic sum will be the "pressure-altitude."

(g) Visual reporting zone. (1) It shall be the responsibility of all airport traffic controllers to be fully apprised concerning exact locations of prominent landmarks which may be used by pilots as visual reporting points upon entering a reporting zone of 15 miles radius surrounding the airport. (See Figure 10.)

(h) Reporting information concerning aircraft in difficulty, aircraft accidents and known hazardous conditions of flight. (1) Whenever information becomes available to an airport traffic controller concerning aircraft in difficulty, an aircraft accident or known conditions which are or may be hazardous to aircraft operations, such information shall be reported immediately to the air route traffic control center within whose control area the tower is located, to the airway communications station at the same location as the tower and to the local military offices if appropriate. The control tower shall render every possible assistance to the aircraft involved.

FIGURE 10. Report over a visual reporting point, and clearance to enter traffic pattern.

(i) In the event military aircraft are reported to be in difficulty, the airport traffic controller will also notify the local operations office and such other local military offices as the commanding officer may specify.

(2) Local airport emergency procedures: Appropriate written operations instructions covering in detail local airport emergency procedures shall be prepared by competent authority. These instructions shall clearly define the duties of airport traffic control personnel during emergency conditions, such as the invoking of emergency procedures for an aircraft accident on the landing area, and shall be prepared in collaboration with a representative of the agency which operates the airport (airport manager or commanding officer, or both).

(3) Reporting imminent and unexpected weather changes: An airport traffic controller shall assist the local Weather Bureau observer by calling to his attention:

(i) Any differences between the actual weather conditions as observed from the tower and those indicated by the current report, and

(ii) Imminent changes in the weather whenever, because of their unexpectedness, there is some likelihood that they may not be observed immediately by the regular Weather Bureau personnel.

(4) Dissemination of weather information observed by airport traffic control tower personnel: Airport traffic control tower personnel may transmit to pilots and air route traffic control centers, without prior reference to the U. S. or Service Weather Bureau, elements of weather information which can be directly observed in the control tower by means of instruments, such as wind direction, wind velocity, and altimeter settings.

(i) The airport traffic control tower personnel may not transmit any observed elements of weather information requiring judgment of the observer as to value, such as ceiling, amount of cloudiness and visibility unless such weather report has either been composed or verified by the U. S. or Service Weather Bureau, or unless the controller is acting as an official weather observer and is properly certificated for the elements being reported.

(ii) Airport traffic control tower personnel may advise an air route traffic control center of observed weather information simultaneously with advising the Weather Bureau by means of conference on the interphone circuit.

(iii) The airport traffic controller may advise the appropriate center or pilots of observed weather in general terms, such as "thunderstorm east of the field," "large breaks in the overcast," "visibility is lowering to the west," or any other such general statements which do not give actual values of the elements. In such cases the U. S. or Service Weather Bureau station shall also be advised of such information.

(iv) Airport traffic control tower personnel shall secure weather information, for use in responding to requests from pilots, from the nearest Weather Bureau station or from official weather reports. In no case shall one tower request distant weather information from a distant tower via long line interphone for transmission to pilots when such information is available from an official source at the location desiring the information.

(v) In order that the best possible visibility reports may be given to pilots in the vicinity of an airport, visibility observations will be taken from the control tower during periods when the visibility is less than 3 miles. Such observations will be taken by Weather Bureau personnel when available, and by control tower personnel when Weather Bureau personnel are not available. Stations where airway communications station personnel make airway observations will be considered as stations where Weather Bureau personnel are not available for assignment to the tower.

(a) Control tower personnel who make official visibility observations must be properly certificated by the Weather Bureau.

(b) Whenever the visibility is reduced to less than 3 miles and this is first noted by control tower personnel, the Weather Bureau shall be notified immediately by interphone or other appropriate means.

(c) The Weather Bureau, upon notification or observation of a visibility of less than 3 miles, will assign an observer to the control tower if sufficient personnel are available. In the event that Weather Bureau personnel are not available, the Weather Bureau will notify the control tower to assume the duty of taking visibility observations.

(d) When the visibility has risen to 3 miles or more and indications are that it will remain 3 miles or more for an appreciable period, visibility observations shall revert to the Weather Bureau Office. The Weather Bureau Office shall be so notified by the Weather Bureau observer in the tower or the airport traffic controller.

(e) Visibility observations by tower personnel are considered official by the Weather Bureau as soon as the observation is recorded in the tower. Therefore "single element" observations (visibility) may be transmitted to pilots of aircraft whenever such information is necessary in connection with aircraft arrivals or departures. These "single element" observations must also be transmitted to the local Weather Bureau.

(f) A record shall be maintained in the control tower of all visibility observations made from the control tower including the times of such observations. Each time observational duties are transferred from the Weather Bureau to the control tower or returned, or transferred from one observer to another in the control tower, the time and the initials of the observers involved shall be recorded in the control tower.

(5) Reporting failure or irregularity of operation of equipment: The airport traffic controller on duty shall immediately report any failure or irregularity of operation of any apparatus, light or other device, used in controlling airport traffic as directed by competent authority.

(i) Competent authority shall be responsible for the issuance, through the adjacent communications station, of a suitable notice to airmen relative to any failure or irregularity of equipment which affects the operation of the airport traffic control tower.

(6) Maintaining file of permanent records of tower transmissions: A file of permanent records of control tower radio transmissions shall be maintained where permanent-type recorders are furnished for this purpose. Completed records shall be filed chronologically and indexed for easy reference. Records may be disposed of only as prescribed by the operating agency.

(7) Maintaining traffic tabulation with mechanical traffic counters: Mechanical counters are normally used to record the number of local aircraft operations. However, where sufficient counters are provided, a tabulation of other types of operation may be so maintained.

This part shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

In the Matter of Lasser Garment Company, Inc., a Corporation, and Joseph C. Lasser, Kenneth J. Lasser, and Sidney Locks, Individually and as Officers of said Corporation

Pursuant to the provisions of the Federal Trade Commission Act and the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, and by virtue of the authority vested in it by said acts, the Federal Trade Commission on March 22, 1950, issued and subsequently served its complaint in this proceeding upon the respondents named in the caption hereof, charging them with the use of unfair and deceptive acts and practices in commerce in violation of the provisions of those acts. Said respondents not having filed an answer to the complaint, a trial examiner of the Commission was duly designated by it and a hearing was subsequently held at which there was read into the record a stipulation as to the facts by and between counsel supporting the complaint and counsel for the respondents, in lieu of all other evidence. On October 26, 1950, the trial examiner filed his initial decision, which was served on the respondents on November 7, 1950.

The Commission, having reason to believe that the initial decision was deficient in certain material respects, subsequently placed this case on its own docket for review, and on December 8, 1950, it issued, and thereafter served upon the parties, its order affording the respondents an opportunity to show cause why said initial decision should not be altered in the manner and to the extent shown in a tentative decision of the Commission attached to said order. Respondents having appeared in response to the leave to show cause and having filed certain objections to the proposed alterations in said initial decision, which objections were answered by counsel in support of the complaint, this proceeding regularly came on for final consideration by the Commission upon the record on review; and the Commission, having duly considered the matter and being now fully advised in the premises, finds that this proceeding is in the interest of the public and makes this its findings as to the facts, conclusion drawn therefrom, and order, the same to be in lieu of the initial decision of the trial examiner.

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS

Paragraph 1: The respondent, Lasser Garment Company, Inc., is a corporation organized, existing and doing business under and by virtue of the laws of the State of New York, with its principal office and place of business located at 247 West 37th Street, in the City of New York, State of New York.

The respondents, Joseph C. Lasser, Kenneth J. Lasser and Sidney Locks are officers of the respondent, Lasser Garment Company.

Paragraph 2: The respondents are now, and for a number of years last past have been, engaged in the introduction and manufacture for introduction into commerce, and in the offering for sale, sale, transportation, and distribution in said commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 and in the Federal Trade Commission Act, of wool products, as such products are defined in said Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939. Many of respondents' said products are composed in whole or in part of wool, reprocessed wool, or reused wool, as those terms are defined in the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, and such products are subject to the provisions of said act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder. In the course and conduct of their business, respondents have violated the provisions of the aforesaid Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 and the rules and regulations thereunder, and constituted unfair and deceptive acts and practices in commerce within the intent and meaning of the Federal Trade Commission Act.

It is ordered, That the respondents, Lasser Garment Company, Inc., a corporation, and its officers, and Joseph C. Lasser, Kenneth J. Lasser, and Sidney Locks, individually, and their respective representatives, agents and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the introduction or manufacture for introduction into commerce, or the offering for sale, sale, transportation, or distribution in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the aforesaid acts, of coats, or other wool products, as such products are defined in and subject to the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, which products contain, purport to contain, or in any way are represented as containing "wool", "reprocessed wool", or "reused wool", as those terms are defined in said act, do forthwith cease and desist from misbranding such coats or other products by failing to affix securely to or place on such products a stamp, tag, label or other means of identification showing in a clear and conspicuous manner:

(a) The percentage of the total fiber weight of such wool product, exclusive of ornamentation not exceeding five percentum of said total fiber weight, of (1) wool, (2) reprocessed wool, (3) reused wool, (4) each fiber other than wool where said percentage by weight of such fiber is five percentum or more, and (5) the aggregate of all other fibers.

(b) The maximum percentage of the total weight of such wool product of any non-fibrous loading, filling, or adulterating matter.

(c) The name or the registered identification number of the manufacturer of such wool product or of one or more persons engaged in introducing such wool product into commerce, or in the offering for sale, sale, transportation, or distribution thereof in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act and in the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939.

Provided, That the foregoing provisions concerning misbranding shall not be construed to prohibit acts permitted by paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 3 of the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939: And provided further, That nothing contained in this order shall be construed as limiting any applicable provisions of said act or the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

It is further ordered, That the respondents shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with this order.

In the Matter of Salable Coat Co., Inc., a Corporation, and Sol Karesh, Hannah Karesh, and Sam Karash, Individually and as Officers of Salable Coat Co., Inc.

Pursuant to the provisions of the Federal Trade Commission Act and the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, and by virtue of the authority vested in it by said Acts, the Federal Trade Commission on April 4, 1950, issued and subsequently served its complaint in this proceeding upon the respondents named in the caption hereof, charging them with the use of unfair and deceptive acts and practices in commerce in violation of the provisions of those acts. Said respondents not having filed an answer to the complaint, a trial examiner of the Commission was duly designated by it and a hearing was subsequently held at which there was read into the record a stipulation as to the facts by and between counsel supporting the complaint and counsel for the respondents, in lieu of all other evidence. On October 26, 1950, the trial examiner filed his initial decision, which was served on the respondents on November 7, 1950.

The Commission, having reason to believe that the initial decision was deficient in certain material respects, subsequently placed this case on its own docket for review, and on December 8, 1950, it issued, and thereafter served upon the parties, its order affording the respondents an opportunity to show cause why said initial decision should not be altered in the manner and to the extent shown in the tentative decision of the Commission attached to said order. Respondents having appeared in response to the leave to show cause and having filed certain objections to the proposed alterations in said initial decision, which objections were answered by counsel in support of the complaint, this proceeding regularly came on for final consideration by the Commission upon the record on review; and the Commission, having duly considered the matter and being now fully advised in the premises; finds that this proceeding is in the interest of the public and makes this its findings as to the facts, conclusion drawn therefrom, and order, the same to be in lieu of the initial decision of the trial examiner.

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS

Paragraph 1: The respondent, Salable Coat Co., Inc., (incorrectly designated in the complaint as Salable Coat Company, Inc.) is a corporation organized, existing and doing business under and by virtue of the laws of the State of New York, with its principal office and place of business located at 520 Eighth Avenue, in the City of New York, State of New York.

The respondents, Sol Karesh, Sam Karash (incorrectly designated in the complaint as Sam Karesh), and Hannah Karesh, are president, vice president, and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the respondent Salable Coat Co., Inc.

Paragraph 2: The respondents are now, and for a number of years past have been, engaged in the introduction and manufacture for introduction into commerce, and in the offering for sale, sale, transportation, and distribution in said commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 and in the Federal Trade Commission Act, of wool products, as such products are defined in said Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939. Many of respondents' said products are composed in whole or in part of wool, reprocessed wool, or reused wool, as those terms are defined in the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, and such products are subject to the provisions of said act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder. In the course and conduct of their business, respondents have violated the provisions of the aforesaid Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 and the rules and regulations thereunder in the introduction and manufacture for introduction into commerce and in the sale, transportation, and distribution in commerce of their wool products, by causing said wool products to be misbranded within the intent and meaning of said act and rules and regulations.

Paragraph 3: Among the wool products introduced and manufactured for introduction into commerce and sold, transported and distributed in said commerce, as aforesaid, have been coats and other products made wholly or in part of reprocessed wool which were labeled 100 percent wool, girls' coats and legging sets composed of 8 percent rayon and the balance of wool which were labeled 100 percent wool, and outfits or suits of two or more pieces, each piece of which, in some instances, did not bear any statement of fiber content at all. Said products were thus misbranded in that they did not have affixed to them a stamp, tag, label, or other means of identification showing the constituent fibers, and percentages thereof, of such products, and other information required by the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

Conclusion. The acts and practices of the respondents, as hereinabove found, were in violation of the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 and the rules and regulations thereunder and constituted unfair and deceptive acts and practices in commerce within the intent and meaning of the Federal Trade Commission Act.

It is ordered, That the respondents, Salable Coat Co., Inc., a corporation, and its officers, and Sol Karesh, Sam Karash and Hannah Karesh, individually, and their respective representatives, agents and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the introduction or manufacture for introduction into commerce, or the offering for sale, sale, transportation, or distribution in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the aforesaid acts, of coats or other wool products, as such products are defined in and subject to the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, which products contain, purport to contain, or in any way are represented as containing "wool", "reprocessed wool", or "reused wool", as those terms are defined in said act, do forthwith cease and desist from misbranding such coats or other products by failing to affix securely to or place on such products a stamp, tag, label or other means of identification showing in a clear and conspicuous manner:

(a) The percentage of the total fiber weight of such wool product, exclusive of ornamentation not exceeding five percentum of said total fiber weight, of (1) wool, (2) reprocessed wool, (3) reused wool, (4) each fiber other than wool where said percentage by weight of such fiber is five percentum or more, and (5) the aggregate of all other fibers.

(b) The maximum percentage of the total weight of such wool product of any nonfibrous loading, filling, or adulterating matter.

(c) The name or the registered identification number of the manufacturer of such wool product or of one or more persons engaged in introducing such wool product into commerce, or in the offering for sale, sale, transportation, or distribution thereof in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act and in the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939.

Provided, That the foregoing provisions concerning misbranding shall not be construed to prohibit acts permitted by paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 3 of the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939: And provided further, That nothing contained in this order shall be construed as limiting any applicable provisions of said act or the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

It is further ordered, That the respondents shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with this order.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[Ceiling Price Regulation 5, Amdt. 2]

CPR 5—IRON AND STEEL SCRAP

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this amendment 2 to Ceiling Price Regulation 5 (16 F. R. 1061) is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

The changes made in Ceiling Price Regulation 5 by this amendment fall into three broad categories. First, the regulation is clarified by changes in certain definitions, by making more exact the titles and specifications for some grades, by adding new grades, and by other modifications hereinafter described. Secondly, some changes are made in the restrictions on use now embodied in the regulation and new restrictions are added in accordance with the recommendations of the National Production Authority. And, finally, revisions are made in some ceiling prices and pricing methods.

CLARIFYING REVISIONS

The amendments in this category make no changes in either the level of ceiling prices established by the regulation or in the methods by which such prices are computed. They are designed merely to remove ambiguities and to simplify the regulation.

Section 1 of the regulation has been revised to indicate clearly the transactions covered and a definition of "industrial producer" has been added in section 28 (l) to indicate clearly the persons who come within this classification.

Section 28 (b) of CPR 5 as originally written defined "iron and steel scrap" as all ferrous materials, either alloyed or unalloyed, of which iron and steel is a principal component, which are the waste of industrial fabrication or objects that have been discarded on account of obsolescence, failure or other reason, when sold to a consumer, as defined in section 28 (c), or his broker. The reference to sales to a consumer or his broker in this definition resulted in some confusion as to the scope of the regulation, since the list of transactions covered by the regulation set forth in section 1 includes interdealer sales of prepared scrap and sales of unprepared scrap by industrial producers, railroads, and governmental agencies regardless of whether the purchaser is a consumer. In order to correct this discrepancy, reference to sales to a consumer or his broker has been removed from the definition of "iron and steel scrap."

Furthermore, although the definition as originally written was broad enough to include sales of waste or obsolescent materials which are re-usable, the regulation was neither designed, nor intended, to apply to such commodities. Accordingly, material whose condition qualifies it as a re-usable product has been excluded from CPR 5 under conditions which are designed to prevent evasion of the regulation through the designation of material as re-usable when it is in fact scrap.

Section 7(a)(2) which sets forth the price differentials for various grades of steel scrap of railroad origin has been amended to make the titles of Grades 4, 8, 9, and 24 more descriptive of the material which may be included in each and to add four previously unlisted grades. Appropriate corresponding changes have been made in section 24 which contains the specifications for the various grades of steel scrap of railroad origin. The four new grades, their respective specifications, and the applicable price differentials reflect practices followed in the industry. In some cases ceiling prices for these grades have been set forth in letter orders issued to individual sellers.

In section 23, the specifications for Grade 14 (punchings and plate scrap) have been clarified to indicate that stampings and punchings included therein may be of any gauge while the specifications in section 25 for unstripped motor blocks (Grade 8) have been amended to eliminate a meaningless reference to differentials.

Section 16 (a) has been revised to indicate clearly that the fees for intransit preparation set forth therein may be charged whenever such preparation is permissible under section 15.

Section 20 (a) has been amended to exclude specifically from the description of "unprepared scrap" demolition projects involving rail abandonments, vessels, and locomotives, cranes, freight cars and similar equipment on its own wheels, and to indicate that such projects must be priced in accordance with the General Ceiling Price Regulation. These changes reflect interpretations which have been made heretofore.

Iron and steel scrap is used to a substantial extent in forging operations to supplement the supply of new material and the regulation is applicable to purchases for such use. "Forging" was not included in the list of operations of a "consumer" as defined in section 28 (c) and this omission has been corrected to remove any misunderstanding which may have arisen.

In addition to the foregoing, certain changes have been made in various other provisions in order to remove minor inconsistencies or to state more clearly the meaning intended.

CHANGES IN RESTRICTIONS ON USE

The amendments to the regulation falling within this category are designed to encourage the processing of iron and steel scrap into certain specialized grades and to assist the National Production Authority in allocating such material to consumers who require it in their operations. All of the additional restrictions are based upon recommendations of the National Production Authority.

Section 3 (b) (1) originally permitted the pricing of Grade 24 (heavy turnings) as an electric furnace or foundry grade only when it was shipped directly to a consumer from an industrial producer and in effect limited dealers who sold such material to the lower ceiling price applicable to the corresponding open hearth or blast furnace grade. In many industrial plants heavy turnings are mixed with other turnings and the restriction noted inhibited their separation because producers are not in a position, and dealers had no incentive, to perform such operations. In order to remove this obstacle to the segregation of heavy turnings, section 3 (b) (1) has been amended to remove Grade 24 (heavy turnings) from restrictions imposed therein thus permitting dealers to charge the higher ceiling price applicable under the regulation.

Because of the desirability of directing the flow of Grade 27 (No. 2 chemical borings) to consumers who can use it for briquetting and direct charge into an electric furnace, the restrictions on the use of such material set forth in section 3 (b) (2) have been amended accordingly.

To encourage the movement of electric furnace, acid open hearth, and foundry grades to consumers whose melting facilities require such material, appropriate restrictions on use have been included in the regulation in section 3 (b) (4). Similarly, restrictions on the use of Grade 29 (shafting), listed in section 3 (a) (2), and Grade 25 (solid steel axles) listed in section 7 (a) (2), have been added to encourage their utilization in forging and rerolling operations.

CHANGES IN CEILING PRICES AND PRICING METHODS

Ceiling Price Regulation 5 covers sales of unprepared scrap by a dealer only when they are made to a consumer or his broker and as a consequence other dealer sales of such material are covered by the General Ceiling Price Regulation. A considerable tonnage of unprepared scrap moves from peddlers through small dealers' yards to large dealers who have the necessary preparation equipment and the imposition of price ceilings to peddler to dealer or dealer to dealer sales involves an administrative burden which need not be assumed. Because of the nature of the commodity and the channels through which it moves, prices for peddler-dealer or inter-dealer transactions are determined on the basis of the ultimate prices which the consumer may pay, and the objectives of the stabilization program can be achieved by establishing ceiling prices for unprepared scrap only on those transactions covered by CPR 5. Accordingly, a specific provision has been included to exempt all other transactions from price controls until such time as the Director finds it necessary to reestablish price controls on these transactions.

The descriptions of the various switching districts set forth in section 5 of the regulation were designed to include in the basing points covered only the immediately surrounding area in which consumers of scrap were located. Federal, Illinois, a switching district adjacent to St. Louis, Missouri, was inadvertently omitted from the description of the St. Louis basing point in paragraph (c) and this has been corrected. On the other hand, Firestone, a scrap producing rather than consuming area was mistakenly included in the description of the Los Angeles, California, basing point in paragraph (h) and this has also been corrected.

Section 3 (c) (2) has been amended to lower the ceiling price for scrap of low iron content to establish a proper relationship between such price and the percentage of iron content. It has been found expedient to provide special pricing provisions for cast iron foundry runouts, spills, and cupola drops to correspond to the above provision in regard to steel. This has been done in section 11 (c).

After careful study, the use of accumulation points as a basis for computing on-line ceiling prices for iron and steel scrap sold by operating railroads not operating in a basing point has been discarded. By appropriate changes in section 8 (b) such railroads are required to determine their ceiling on-line prices by deducting from the basing point price at their most favorable basing point the lowest established foreign line charge for transporting scrap by rail from the nearest junction point on the originating railroad to such basing point. The nearest junction point is determined on the basis of transportation charges. This change eliminates the artificiality involved in the computation of prices by reference to accumulation points and makes it clear that the railroads affected, in computing ceiling delivered prices, may add to their ceiling on-line prices only the foreign line proportion of the established rail charge for transporting scrap from the junction point nearest, in terms of foreign line freight charges, to the point of delivery.

Under the provisions of section 8 (b) no railroad affected by the new pricing technique will be able to sell, or offer to sell, iron and steel scrap until it has filed, and received approval of, the statement described in such provisions.

Section 8 (c) as orginally written required non-operating railroads to compute their ceiling on-line prices in the same manner as that used by operating railroads not operating in a basing point. Insofar as iron and steel scrap is concerned, most non-operating railroads are more like dealers then operating railroads and it is considered appropriate that their method of ceiling price computation be changed accordingly. This has been accomplished by revisions in section 8 (c). Provision has been made, however, for any non-operating railroad whose handling of scrap resembles that of an operating railroad to apply for permission to use the pricing methods employed by the latter.

Section 10 has been amended to permit three additional grades of steel scrap of railroad origin, namely, Grade Nos. 9, 28, and 29, to be sold by dealers at the higher level of ceiling prices applicable to railroad scrap. This will promote more widespread distribution of these grades and since they are readily identifiable as to their source there appears to be little danger of evasion through the sale of non-railroad material at prices applicable to scrap of railroad origin.

By amendments to sections 11, 12 and 13, a shipping point pricing method has been substituted for on-line pricing for cast iron scrap of railroad origin. While the on-line technique remains effective for steel scrap of railroad origin it has been decided that this should not apply in the case of cast iron where railroad scrap has not received any price differtial over similar scrap of dealer and industrial origin. The on-line pricing method required freight absorption by the railroads and discouraged the shipment of cast iron scrap out of the areas in which it was collected to the numerous scattered foundries requiring such material. It was because of this scattered pattern in cast iron consumption that a uniform shipping point price was adopted instead of the basing point pricing method which takes into consideration the transportation costs to centralized consuming areas. Consistently with the shipping point pricing method, the railroads have been permitted to charge for their movement of cast iron scrap over their own lines.

A number of changes have been made in the ceiling charges for intransit preparation of steel scrap of dealer or industrial origin set forth in section 16 of the regulation in order to encourage the processing of such material into the smaller sized grades needed by electric furnace and other consumers whose facilities cannot accommodate large sized scrap. Heretofore the same ceiling charge has applied to intransit preparation of Grade No. 16 (cut structural and plate scrap, 3 feet and under), Grade No. 17 (cut structural and plate scrap, 2 feet and under), and Grade No. 18 (cut structural and plate scrap, 1 foot and under) and there has been no incentive for preparation of the smaller sized material. This has been corrected by increasing the intransit preparation charge for Grade No. 17 by $1.00 per gross ton and that for Grade No. 18 by $2.00 per gross ton. Similarly, the charge for intransit preparation of Grade No. 21 (foundry steel, 1 foot and under) is increased $1.00 per gross ton over that for Grade No. 20 (foundry steel, 2 feet and under). For like reasons, a new intransit preparation charge of $7.00 per gross ton has been allowed, by revision in section 16 (c), for the processing of cast iron scrap Grade No. 3 (heavy breakable cast) into Grade No. 11 (drop broken machinery cast).

As originally written, section 17 in effect prevented the charging of premiums for nickel, molybdenum, and chromium contained in specialty grades of iron and steel scrap and there was no incentive to segregate such material on the basis of its content of these alloys. In view of the enhanced demand for alloys arising out of the defense program, it was considered necessary to prevent further loss of such material contained in scrap by permitting the charging of the established premiums in addition to the ceiling price applicable to the grade of scrap sold.

Certain changes have been made in section 19 which contains the provisions relating to the brokerage commissions in order to take account of trade practices which prevailed prior to the issuance of the regulation. Thus, section 19 (a) (5) has been amended to permit a broker to pay up to 50 percent of his commission to a sub-broker, and section 19 (b) has been modified to permit a broker to receive a commission on scrap which he prepares in transit. Section 19 (c) prohibits the payment of brokerage commissions when there is a substantial financial relationship, direct or indirect, between the broker and the person who prepares the scrap, but it appears that under normal market conditions brokerage commissions were paid where such relationship existed. Indeed, not infrequently brokers have financed a dealer to assure themselves a readily available source of prepared scrap. This, of course, had the salutary effect of increasing the supply of such material and it is considered desirable to permit such arrangements where they do not involve an evasion of the regulation. Accordingly, section 19 (c) has been amended to provide for the granting of authority, upon application, for the payment of brokerage commissions otherwise prohibited where it is shown that the broker and preparer of the scrap are performing their customary functions and their financial relationship does not arise out of an attempt to avoid the prohibition against payment of a brokerage commission to a person for scrap which he prepares.

Finally, changes have been made in the specifications for various grades of scrap to permit more satisfactory utilization of different kinds of material. The specifications for No. 1 heavy melting steel of dealer or industrial origin have been modified to include chemical detinned material and new pipe ends even though they are not mashed and regardless of their diameter. The specifications for No. 2 bundles have been revised to include any bundles which are excluded from the No. 1 bundle classification because they contain painted, lacquered, lithographed or galvanized material. The regulation now also permits wrought iron and pipe to be included in foundry steel (Grade Nos. 20 and 21).

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the ceiling prices established by this regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

So far as practicable the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in the furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950, and to relevant factors of general applicability.

In the formulation of this amendment there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and their recommendations have been considered.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

The Ceiling Price Regulation 5 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 1 is amended to read as follows:

SECTION 1. What this regulation does, exemptions, and prohibitions. (a) This regulation establishes ceiling prices and fees for:

(1) All sales and deliveries of prepared iron and steel scrap;

(2) All sales and deliveries of unprepared iron and steel scrap to a consumer or his broker;

(3) All sales of iron and steel scrap by an industrial producer, railroad, or governmental agency (whether Federal, State or local), regardless of the nature of the ultimate use of the scrap;

(4) Commissions for brokerage service on sales of iron and steel scrap;

(5) All exports and sales to exporters of iron and steel scrap.

(b) Exemptions. Notwithstanding the provisions of any price regulation or order heretofore issued by the Office of Price Stabilization or any regulation or order hereafter issued by the Office of Price Stabilization, except an amendment to this regulation, all sales, purchases and deliveries of iron and steel scrap which are not described in paragraph (a) of this section are exempt from price control.

(c) Prohibitions against dealing in iron and steel scrap at prices above the ceiling. On and after April 24, 1951, regardless of any contract or other obligation:

(1) No person shall sell, deliver, buy, receive, or prepare iron or steel scrap or agree, offer, solicit, or attempt to do any of the foregoing at prices above those established in this regulation;

(2) No person shall sell or deliver iron or steel scrap upon condition that the buyer shall sell or deliver to any person any other commodity. No person shall buy or receive iron or steel scrap upon the conditions that he shall sell or deliver to any person any other commodity;

(3) No person shall act as both broker and dealer in the purchase of any single lot or item of iron or steel scrap where the price paid for such lot or item of iron or steel scrap would exceed the applicable ceiling price established by this regulation.

2. Section 3 (b) (1) is amended to read as follows:

(1) The prices established for Grade 11 (billet, bloom, and forge crops) and Grade 23 (alloy free turnings) may be charged only when shipped to a consumer directly from an industrial producer of such grades; otherwise the ceiling prices for Grade 11 shall not exceed the price established for Grade 12 (bar crops and plate scrap) and the ceiling price for Grade 23 shall not exceed the price established for Grade 8 (shoveling turnings).

3. Section 3 (b) (2) is amended to read as follows:

(2) The prices established for Grade 26 (No. 1 chemical borings) and Grade 27 (No. 2 chemical borings) may be charged only when such grades are sold for use for chemical or annealing purposes, and in the case of Grade 27, for briquetting and direct charge into an electric furnace; otherwise the ceiling prices for such grades shall not exceed the price established for Grade 10 (cast iron borings).

4. A subparagraph (4) is added to section 3 (b), to read as follows:

(4) The premiums established for Grades 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 20, and 21 may be charged only when sold for use in electric furnaces, acid open hearth furnaces, or foundries. No person shall charge, and no person shall pay, when purchasing such grades for use in basic open hearth or blast furnaces, a price in excess of the price for the corresponding basic open hearth or blast furnace grades unless the material is allocated to such person by the National Production Authority.

5. A subparagraph (5) is added to section 3 (b) to read as follows:

(5) The price established for Grade 29 (shafting) may be charged only when sold for forging or rerolling purpose; otherwise the ceiling price for such grade shall not exceed the ceiling price established for the corresponding basic open hearth, electric furnace or foundry grade.

6. That part of section 3 (c) (2) after the colon is amended to read as follows:

Where the iron content is 85 percent and over	−$6.00
Where the iron content is 75 percent and over	−10.00
When the iron content is less than 75 percent	−12.00

7. Section 5 is amended by adding Federal, Illinois, to the St. Louis basing point in paragraph (d) and by deleting paragraph (h).

8. Grade No. 4 in section 7 (a) (2) is amended to read as follows:

8. Cast Steel No. 2 and Uncut Wheel-centers	−6.00

10. Grade No. 9 in section 7 (a) (2) is amended to read as follows:

9. Uncut Frogs and Switches with or without manganese	Base

11. Grade No. 24 in section 7 (a) (2) is amended to read as follows:

31. Fireboxes, cut and uncut	−8.00
32. Boilers, cut and uncut	−6.00
33. No. 2 Sheet Scrap	−13.00
34. Carsides, Doors, Car Ends, cut apart	−6.00

13. A subparagraph (3) is added to section 7 (b) to read as follows:

(3) The price established for Grade 25 (Solid Steel Axles) may be charged only when sold for rerolling and forging purposes; otherwise, the ceiling price for such grade shall not exceed the ceiling price established for the base grade, No. 1 railroad heavy melting steel.

14. Section 8 (b) is amended to read as follows:

(b) On-line prices for operating railroads not operating in a basing point. The ceiling on-line price of any grade of steel scrap originating from an operating railroad not operating in a basing point named in section 7 of this regulation shall be the price established for the scrap at the most favorable basing point named in that section minus the lowest established foreign line charge for transporting scrap by rail from the nearest junction point on the originating railroad to such basing point. The "most favorable basing point" is the basing point named in section 7 of this regulation which will yield the highest ceiling on-line price. The "nearest junction point" means such point on the originating railroad nearest to the most favorable basing point in terms of transportation charges.

The ceiling on-line price of No. 1 railroad heavy melting steel need not fall below $34.00 per gross ton (with differentials established in section 7 of this regulation for all other grades).

On and after the effective date of this regulation, as amended, no railroad covered by this paragraph (b) may sell or offer to sell iron and steel scrap to a consumer or his broker (without obtaining prior approval from the Office of Price Stabilization) unless it has filed with the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., a statement in writing setting forth its ceiling on-line price for No. 1 railroad heavy melting steel and describing the method by which the said ceiling on-line price was calculated and such statement has been approved in writing by the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington, D. C. The statement shall include: the most favorable basing point selected, the price at such basing point, the point on the originating line from which the foreign line charge is determined, and the lowest established foreign line charge for transporting scrap by rail to the named basing point.

15. Section 8 (c) is amended to read as follows:

(c) Ceiling shipping point (or on-line) prices for non-operating railroads. (1) For shipping points located within a basing point named in section 7 of this regulation, the ceiling shipping point price for any grade of steel scrap originating from a non-operating railroad shall be the price established for the scrap at such basing point minus the applicable switching charge deduction set forth in section 5 of this regulation.

(2) For shipping points located outside the basing points named in section 7 of this regulation, the ceiling shipping point price of any grade of steel scrap originating from a non-operating railroad shall be the price established for the scrap at the most favorable basing point named in section 7 of this regulation, minus the lowest established charge for transporting scrap by rail from the shipping point of the railroad to such basing point.

The ceiling shipping point price of No. 1 railroad heavy melting steel need not fall below $34.00 per gross ton (with differentials established in section 7 of this regulation for all other grades). The "most favorable basing point" is the basing point named in section 7 of this regulation which will yield the highest ceiling shipping point price.

(3) Where a non-operating railroad believes that the shipping point method of pricing is not appropriate for its operations, it may request permission to price on an on-line basis from the Director of Price Stabilization. The request should set forth: (i) The nature of the non-operating railroad; (ii) the points from which its scrap is shipped; (iii) the basing point from which it would determine its price under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section; and (iv) the reasons which make it difficult to price under provisions of this paragraph.

36. Section 19 (b) is amended to read as follows:

38. Section 20 (a) is amended to read as follows:

(a) The term "unprepared scrap" shall have its customary trade meaning and shall not include such demolition projects as automobiles, bridges, rail abandonments, vessels, and locomotives, cranes, freight cars and similar equipment on its own wheels. Prior to demolition such projects are not iron and steel scrap and must be priced under the applicable provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

[General Overriding Regulation 6]

GOR 6—EXEMPTIONS OF CERTAIN SALES OF MERCHANDISE BEARING BRAND OR INSIGNIA OF SPECIFIED NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738) this General Overriding Regulation 6 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This General Overriding Regulation exempts from any ceiling price restrictions imposed by the Office of Price Stabilization certain sales of articles bearing the insignia or brand of the Girl Scouts of the U. S. A. or Boy Scouts of America and sales by the Future Farmers of America. These organizations are nonprofit organizations. The manner of distribution and the prices of the merchandise are strictly controlled by the organizations. The sales which are exempted by this regulation are generally made at prices lower than prevailing market prices for similar merchandise. The profits which are earned are used to further the work of the respective organizations. Subjecting these sales to price control would have no appreciable benefit to the program of price stabilization and would impose an unnecessary burden upon the Office of Price Stabilization. In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, it is not necessary for ceilings to be applied to these transactions.

Sec.

SECTION 1. Sales of Girl Scout and Boy Scout supplies. No price regulation issued by the OPS applies to sales at wholesale or retail of articles bearing the official emblem, motto, pledge, or other distinguishing mark of the Girl Scouts of the U. S. A., or of the Boy Scouts of America.

SEC. 2. Sales by Future Farmers of America. No price regulation issued by the OPS applies to sales at retail by the Future Farmers of America.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Production and Marketing Administration

[7 CFR, Part 51]

PECANS IN THE SHELL

REVISING OF U. S. STANDARDS

Notice is hereby given that the United States Department of Agriculture is considering the issuance of United States Standards for Pecans in the Shell under the authority contained in the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1951 (Pub. Law 759, 81st Cong., approved September 6, 1950) to supersede United States Standards for Unshelled Pecans issued August 9, 1943, and reissued October 4, 1946. The standards are proposed to become effective October 1, 1951.

All persons who desire to submit written data, views or arguments for consideration in connection with the proposed standards should file the same with M. W. Baker, Deputy Director, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, South Building, Washington 25, D. C., not later than 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., on the 30th day after the publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposed standards are as follows:

§ 51.342 Standards for pecans in the shell—(a) General. The pecan grading chart to which reference is made in paragraph (f) of this section is the pecan grading chart which was issued in 1942 by the United States Department of Agriculture. Such pecan grading chart is annexed [1] hereto and made a part hereof.

(b) Grades—(1) U. S. No. 1. U. S. No. 1 consists of pecans in the shell which shells are fairly uniform in color, fairly well shaped, free from foreign material, and from damage caused by stains or adhering hulls, split or broken shells, or other means. The kernels shall be well cured, free from rancidity, mold, decay, insect injury, and from damage caused by shriveling, leanness, hollowness, discoloration, or other means. (See paragraph (d) of this section.)

(i) In order to allow for variations incident to proper grading and handling, the following tolerances shall be permitted:

(a) For external defects not more than 10 percent, by count (except that the percentage of foreign material shall be determined by weight), for pecans which fail to meet the requirements of the grade: Provided, That not more than:

1 percent shall be allowed for foreign material;

3 percent shall be allowed for pecans which are seriously damaged by stains or adhering hulls, or by split, broken or punctured shells.

(b) For internal defects (defects of the kernel) not more than 15 percent, by count, for pecans which fail to meet the requirements of the grade: Provided, That not more than two-fifths of this amount, or 6 percent, shall be allowed for kernels which are not well cured, rancid, moldy, decayed, injured by insects, or seriously damaged by shriveling, leanness, discoloration, or other means.

(2) U. S. Commercial. U. S. Commercial consists of pecans in the shell which shells are free from foreign material and from serious damage caused by stains or adhering hulls, split, broken or punctured shells, or other means. At least 65 percent, by count, of the pecans in any lot shall have kernels which meet the requirements of U. S. No. 1 grade; and the remainder shall have kernels which are well cured, free from rancidity, mold, decay, insect injury, and from serious damage caused by shriveling, leanness, discoloration, or other means. (See paragraph (d) of this section.)

(i) In order to allow for variations incident to proper grading and handling, the following tolerances shall be permitted:

(a) For external defects not more than 10 percent, by count (except that the percentage of foreign material shall be determined by weight), for pecans which fail to meet the requirements of the grade: Provided, That not more than one-tenth of this amount, or 1 percent, shall be allowed for foreign material.

(b) For internal defects (defects of the kernel) not more than 15 percent, by count, for pecans which fail to meet the requirements of the grade: Provided, That not more than two-thirds of this amount, or 10 percent, shall be allowed for kernels which are very seriously damaged. No part of any tolerance shall be allowed to reduce for the lot the percentage of U. S. No. 1 kernels required in this grade.

[1] The pecan grading chart was filed with these United States Standards for Pecans in the Shell and it is available for inspection in the Division of the Federal Register. Copies may be obtained upon request from the Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, South Building, Washington 25, D. C.

(c) Unclassified. Unclassified consists of pecans in the shell which have not been classified in accordance with either of the foregoing grades. The term "unclassified" is not a grade within the meaning of these standards but is provided as a designation to show that no definite grade has been applied to the lot.

(d) Size. The size of pecans may be designated on the basis of the following table:

Size designation	Number of nuts per pound	The 10 smallest nuts in a representative 100-nut sample must weigh at least: [1]
		Ounces	Equivalent in grams
Oversize	Not more than 52	2.50	71
Extra large	Not more than 60	2.25	64
Large	61 to 73	1.75	50
Medium	74 to 90	1.50	43
Small	91 to 115	1.25	36

[1] When the sample for inspection consists of more than 100 nuts, the 10 percent, by count, which are smallest will be segregated and weighed. For example, if the sample consists of 300 nuts, as will generally be the case when a carload is being inspected, the 30 smallest nuts must weigh at least three times the amount shown for any size designation. In selecting the smallest nuts, those which are by observation the smallest in appearance are segregated. In deciding which is the smallest among two or more nuts which appear to be about equal in size, the lightest in weight shall be used.

(1) In addition to having the requisite count per pound for any size designation shown in this table, the lot must comply with the restrictions as to the smallest nuts as indicated. No tolerance shall be allowed.

(2) In lieu of the size designations in the table herein, the size of pecans in any lot may be described in accordance with the maximum number per pound or the range in number per pound without restrictions as to the smallest nuts in the lot. When this method of size specification is used, no tolerance shall be allowed. The size may also be described as an exact number per pound as 65, 80, etc. When this method is used, the actual number per pound may not vary by more than 12 percent from the specified number.

(3) The size may also be described in terms of the diameter of the smallest nuts, or range in diameters of the nuts in a lot stated in sixteenths of an inch. When so specified, not more than 12 percent, by count, of the pecans in any lot may be below the minimum diameter specified and not more than 12 percent may be above the maximum diameter specified.

(e) Application of tolerances. The tolerances for these grades are on a lot basis and a composite sample customarily is taken for inspection purposes. However, any container or group of containers in which the pecans are found to be materially inferior to those in the majority of the containers shall be considered as a separate lot.

(f) Definitions. (1) "Fairly uniform in color" means that the shells do not show sufficient variation in color to materially detract from the general appearance of the lot. Natural markings (usually in dark streaks and heaviest near the ends) shall not be considered as detracting from the appearance of the lot.

(2) "Fairly well shaped" means that the pecan is not crescent-shaped nor otherwise materially misshapen.

(3) "Foreign material" means loose hulls, pieces of shell which are separated from the kernel, or any other substance which is not adhering to the pecan shell.

(4) "Damage" means any defect which materially affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality. Any one of the following defects, or any combination thereof, the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one defect, shall be considered as damage:

(i) Stains or adhering hulls, when stains of dark color or adhering hulls, caused by shuck worms or other means, affect an aggregate area of more than 5 percent of the surface of the shell.

(ii) Split or broken shells, when the parts of the shell spread upon application of slight pressure near the split or crack.

(iii) Shriveling, when materially affecting more than 5 percent of the kernel including both halves. The shriveling may be on one or both halves. In judging the percentage affected by shriveling the flat or inner sides of the kernel are disregarded. The maximum percentage of shriveling (5 percent including both halves) on two half-kernels not considered damaged is illustrated in the upper left hand corner of the pecan grading chart.

(iv) Leanness, when either half of the kernel has more than a moderately lean or undeveloped appearance. A half-kernel and cross-section showing moderately lean or undeveloped appearance not considered damaged is illustrated in the center of the upper row of the pecan grading chart.

(v) Hollowness, when a cross-section of either half of the kernel shows more than a moderate hollowness, or the half-kernel is not fairly firm and "meaty". A half-kernel and cross-section showing moderate hollowness not considered damaged is illustrated in the upper right-hand corner of the pecan grading chart.

(vi) Discoloration:

(a) When either half of the kernel is darker than indicated for undamaged half-kernels in the lower left-hand corner of the pecan grading chart. The inner or flat side of the half-kernel is disregarded in judging color. Natural markings, including dark lines, specks or mottling shall not be considered as damage if the ground color is not too dark according to the chart.

(b) When more than one dark kernel spot is present on either half of the kernel, or one such spot when more than one-eighth inch in greatest dimension.

(c) When there is brownish or grayish material from the inside of the shell adhering to more than one-fourth of the surface, including both halves, which was adjacent to the shell.

(d) When there is reddish or brownish dust, from the inside of the shell, present in sufficient quantity to materially affect the appearance, or the edible quality.

(e) Discoloration which is readily noticeable in the interior of the kernel when it is broken.

(5) "Well cured" means that the kernel separates freely from the shell and from the corky partitions inside the shell, breaks at a definite point without splintering, shattering, or tearing the meat or loosening the skin, and appears to be in good shipping and storage condition as to moisture content.

(6) "Rancidity" means that the kernel is distinctly rancid to the taste.

(7) "Mold" means any mold growth which noticeably affects the exterior or interior of the kernel.

(8) "Decay" means that the kernel is putrid or decomposed.

(9) "Insect injury" means that the insect, web, or frass is present, or that the kernel shows other noticeable evidence of insect injury.

(10) "Serious damage" means any defect which seriously affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality. Any one of the following defects, or any combination thereof, the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one defect, shall be considered as serious damage:

(i) Stains or adhering hulls, when stains of dark color or adhering hulls, caused by shuck worms or other means, affect an aggregate area of more than 20 percent of the surface of the shell.

(ii) Split, broken, or punctured shells, when a fragment of the shell is broken out, when the kernel is plainly visible through a punctured, split, or cracked shell without the application of any pressure, or when a worm hole penetrates the shell wall.

(iii) Shriveling, when materially affecting more than one-third of the kernel including both halves. In judging the percentage affected by shriveling the flat or inner sides of the kernel are disregarded. The maximum percentage of shriveling (one-third of the kernel including both halves) not considered seriously damaged is illustrated in the left side of the middle row of the pecan grading chart.

(iv) Leanness, when either half of the kernel has a more lean or undeveloped appearance than shown on the right side of the middle row of the pecan grading chart.

(v) Discoloration:

(a) When the color of either half of the kernel is as dark in color, or darker, than indicated as seriously damaged on the kernel in the center of the lower row of the pecan grading chart. The inner or flat side of the half-kernel is disregarded in judging color.

(b) When there are more than three dark kernel spots on either half of the kernel, or when such spots affect an aggregate area of more than 10 percent of the surface of the half-kernel which was adjacent to the shell.

(c) When there is brownish or grayish material from the inside of the shell adhering to more than one-half of the surface, including both halves, which was adjacent to the shell.

(d) When the interior of the kernel is so discolored that it is unacceptable as food.

(11) "Very serious damage" means any defect which very seriously affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality. Any one of the following defects shall be considered as very serious damage:

(i) Kernels which are distinctly rancid to the taste.

(ii) Kernels which are noticeably affected by mold on the exterior or interior.

(iii) Kernels which are decayed (putrid or decomposed).

(iv) Kernels with insects, web, or frass present, or which show other noticeable evidence of insect injury.

(v) Kernels which are so shriveled that they have virtually no food value.

MAPLE SIRUP

U. S. STANDARDS FOR GRADES [1] [2]

Notice is hereby given that the United States Department of Agriculture is considering the revision, as herein proposed, of the current United States Standards for Grades of Table Maple Sirup, and the current United States Standards for Grades of Maple Sirup for Reprocessing, pursuant to the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.) and the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1951 (Pub. Law 759, 81st Cong., approved September 6, 1950). This revision, if made effective, will be the third issue by the Department of Standards for this product.

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments for consideration in connection with the proposed revision should file same, in duplicate, with the Chief, Processed Products Standardization and Inspection Division, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than 90 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposed revision is as follows:

§ 52.438 Maple sirup. Maple sirup is the sirup made by the evaporation of the sap of the sugar maple tree (Acer saccharum and similar varieties) or by the solution of maple sugar (maple concrete), contains not less than 65 percent soluble solids,[3] and is prepared and packed in accordance with good commercial practice.

(b) Tolerance for certification of color of officially drawn samples. (1) When certifying the color of samples that have been officially drawn and which represent a specific lot of maple sirup, the lot shall be considered as of one color if not more than one-sixth of the containers comprising the sample contains maple sirup of a different color; Provided, however, That the maple sirup in none of the containers falls below the next darker color designation.

TABLE NO. I—COLOR DESIGNATION OF MAPLE SIRUP AND RANGE FOR EACH COLOR

U. S. D. A. color standards	Color range U. S. D. A. color standards
Light amber	Maple sirup that is light amber or lighter in color than light amber color standard.
Medium amber	Maple sirup that is darker than light amber but not darker than medium amber color standard.
Dark amber	Maple sirup that is darker than medium amber color standard but not darker than dark amber color standard.

(c) Recommended fill of container. The recommended fill of container is not incorporated in the grades of the finished product since fill of container, as such, is not a factor of quality for the purpose of these grades. It is recommended that each container be filled with maple sirup as full as practicable, and with respect to containers of 1 gallon or less the maple sirup shall occupy not less than 93 percent of the total capacity of the container.

(d) Grades of maple sirup. (1) "U. S. Grade A" or "U. S. Fancy" is the quality of maple sirup that is not darker than light amber color standard, possesses a good flavor, is practically free from defects, is practically clear, and scores not less than 90 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(2) "U. S. Grade B" or "U. S. Choice" is the quality of maple sirup that is not darker than medium amber color standard, possesses a reasonably good flavor, is reasonably free from defects, is reasonably clear, and scores not less than 80 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(3) "U. S. Grade C" or "U. S. Standard" is maple sirup for reprocessing that is not darker than dark amber color standard, possesses a fairly good flavor, is fairly free from defects, and is of such quality with respect to clarity as to score not less than 70 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(4) "U. S. Grade D" or "Substandard" is the quality of maple sirup that fails to meet the requirements of "U. S. Grade C" or "U. S. Standard."

(e) Ascertaining the grade. (1) The grade of maple sirup is ascertained by considering in conjunction with the other requirements of the respective grade, the respective ratings of the factors of flavor, absence of defects, and clarity.

(2) The soluble solids content of maple sirup means the soluble solids as determined by means of the refractometer at 20 degrees C. (68 degrees F.). The refractive indices and corresponding percent soluble solids and equivalent specific gravity and percent moisture may be ascertained from Table No. II of this section. The soluble solids content of maple sirup and equivalent values may be determined by any other method which gives equivalent results.

(3) The relative importance of each factor which is scored is expressed numerically on a scale of 100. The maximum number of points that may be given each such factor is:

Factors:	Points
(i) Flavor	40
(ii) Absence of defects	30
(iii) Clarity	30
Total score	100

(4) Partially crystallized maple sirup shall be liquefied by heating to approximately 130 degrees F. and cooled to approximately 20 degrees C. (68 degrees F.) before ascertaining the grade of the product.

(f) Ascertaining the rating for each factor. The essential variations within each factor are so described that the value may be ascertained for each factor and expressed numerically. The numerical range for the rating of each factor is inclusive (for example, "24 to 26 points" means 24, 25, or 26 points).

(1) Flavor. (i) Maple sirup that possesses a good flavor may be given a score of 36 to 40 points. "Good flavor" means a good characteristic maple sirup flavor and that such maple sirup is free from objectionable flavor including but not limited to objectionable flavors caused by scorching, buddy or fermented sirup or any foreign or disagreeable flavor or odor.

(ii) If the maple sirup possesses a reasonably good flavor a score of 32 to 35 points may be given. Maple sirup that falls into this classification shall not be graded above "U. S. Grade B" or "U. S. Choice" regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably good flavor" means a reasonably good characteristic maple sirup

[1] The requirements of these standards shall not excuse failure to comply with the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

[2] These grades have been so drafted that they may be used in grading blends of maple sirup and sirup made from sugar and maple sugar sirup.

[3] Percent soluble solids and other equivalents may be ascertained from Table No. II of this section.

flavor and that such maple sirup is free from objectionable flavor including but not limited to objectionable flavors caused by scorching, buddy or fermented sirup or any foreign or disagreeable flavor or odor.

(iii) Maple sirup that possesses a fairly good flavor may be given a score of 28 to 31 points. Maple sirup that falls into this classification shall not be graded above "U. S. Grade C" or "U. S. Standard" regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good flavor" means a fairly good maple sirup flavor and such maple sirup may possess a slightly caramelized or buddy sirup flavor, is free from objectionable flavor, including but not limited to objectionable flavors caused by fermentation or any foreign or disagreeable flavor or odor, and may possess not more than a slightly objectionable flavor from other causes.

(iv) Maple sirup that fails to meet the requirements of subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph or is off flavor for any reason may be given a score of 0 to 27 points and shall not be graded above "U. S. Grade D" or "Substandard" regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(2) Absence of defects. The factor of absence of defects refers to the degree of cleanliness and to the degree of freedom from extraneous material such as pieces of bark, soot, or any particles of earthy material or other defects which may be in suspension or deposited as sediment in the container.

(i) Maple sirup that is practically free from defects may be given a score of 27 to 30 points. "Practically free from defects" means that any defects which may be present do not affect the appearance or edibility of the product.

(ii) If the maple sirup is reasonably free from defects a score of 24 to 26 points may be given. Maple sirup that falls into this classification shall not be graded above "U. S. Grade B" or "U. S. Choice" regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably free from defects" means that the maple sirup may contain defects which do not materially affect the appearance or edibility of the product.

(iii) Maple sirup that is fairly free from defects may be given a score of 21 to 23 points. Maple sirup that falls into this classification shall not be graded above "U. S. Grade C" or "U. S. Standard" regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly free from defects" means that the maple sirup may contain defects which may materially but do not seriously affect the appearance or edibility of the product.

(iv) Maple sirup that fails to meet the requirements of subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 20 points and shall not be graded above "U. S. Grade D" or "Substandard" regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(3) Clarity. The factor of clarity has reference to the degree of freedom from fine particles of mineral matter such as malate of lime, "nitre," "sugar sand," or of any suspended material that may affect the clearness of the maple sirup.

(i) Maple sirup that is practically clear may be given a score of 27 to 30 points. "Practically clear" means that the maple sirup may contain not more than a trace of finely divided particles of suspended material which do not affect the appearance of the product.

(ii) If the maple sirup is reasonably clear a score of 24 to 26 points may be given. "Reasonably clear" means that the maple sirup may contain finely divided particles of suspended material which do not materially affect the appearance of the product.

(iii) Maple sirup that is fairly clear may be given a score of 21 to 23 points. Maple sirup that falls into this classification shall not be graded above "U. S. Grade C" or "U. S. Standard" regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly clear" means that the appearance of the maple sirup may be materially but not seriously affected by the presence of finely divided particles of suspended material.

(iv) Maple sirup that fails to meet the requirements of subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 20 points and shall not be graded above "U. S. Grade D" or "Substandard" regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(ii) None of the containers comprising the sample falls more than 4 points below the minimum score for the grade indicated by the average of the total scores; and

(iii) All containers comprising the sample meet all applicable standards of quality promulgated under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act and in effect at the time of the aforesaid certification.

POULTRY AND DOMESTIC RABBITS AND EDIBLE PRODUCTS THEREOF

GRADING AND INSPECTION AND UNITED STATES SPECIFICATIONS FOR CLASSES, STANDARDS, AND GRADES WITH RESPECT THERETO

Notice is hereby given that the Department is considering, pursuant to the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.) and the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1951 (Pub. Law 759, 81st Cong., Approved Sept. 6, 1950), an amendment to the regulations (7 CFR Part 70) governing the grading and inspection of poultry and domestic rabbits and edible products thereof and United States specifications for classes, standards, and grades with respect thereto.

The proposed amendment provides for an additional two months' exemption from § 70.16 and § 70.17 with respect to dressed poultry, as such; and permits an applicant who operates an official plant to bring into said official plant such dressed poultry and dressed domestic rabbits owned as of July 1, 1951, for processing under grading or inspection service. The currently effective regulations provide that after May 1, 1951, only dressed poultry and dressed domestic rabbits from an official plant may be brought into another official plant for grading, inspection or processing thereof. The proposed amendment also provides for the granting of conditional approval to poultry processing plants as official plants under the conditions prescribed herein.

This proposed amendment is necessary in order to provide a supply of dressed poultry which will be eligible for processing under grading or inspection service after July 1, 1951, so that those plants which are currently operating under the services provided by the aforesaid regulations may continue the service without interruption.

The Department has received numerous requests for this proposed amendment and the period granted during which interested persons may submit data, views or arguments with respect to the proposed amendment is relatively short, but deemed reasonably sufficient because of the general industry request for the proposed amendment and the anticipated industry approval thereof. In order to carry out the intent and provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 the final rule, if approved, will become effective as of May 1, 1951.

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments with respect to the proposed amendment should file the same with the Chief of the Marketing Services Division, Poultry Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, Washington 25, D. C., not later than five days after the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposed amendment is as follows:

1. Revise the heading and provisions of § 70.3 (h) Exemption for one year from the provisions of § 70.16 and § 70.17 to read as follows:

§ 70.3 Grading and inspection programs and services. * * *

(h) Exemption from the provisions of § 70.16 and § 70.17. The provisions of § 70.16 and § 70.17 shall not become applicable to the production of dressed poultry and dressed domestic rabbits, as such, until July 1, 1951. Prior to this date, dressed poultry and dressed domestic rabbits which have been produced in other than official plants may be brought into official plants for grading, inspection, or processing thereof. On and after July 1, 1951, except with respect to dressed poultry which is owned by the applicant on that date, only dressed poultry and dressed domestic rabbits from an official plant may be brought into another official plant for grading, inspection, or processing thereof.

2. Revise the provisions of § 70.4 (e) (3) Final survey and plant approval to read as follows:

§ 70.4 Application for inspection service or grading service. * * *

(e) Application for inspection service or grading service in official plants; approval. * * *

(3) Final survey and plant approval. Prior to the inauguration of the grading service, or inspection service, a final survey of the plant and premises shall be made by the regional supervisor or his assistant to determine if the plant is constructed and facilities are installed in accordance with the approved drawings and the regulations in this part. The plant may be approved only when these requirements have been met, except that conditional approval for a specified limited time may be granted only under emergency conditions of restricted availability of facilities and construction materials, provided practices suitable to the Administrator are employed to effect adequate sanitary conditions in the plant.

[Docket No. AO 198-A 1]

HANDLING OF RAISINS PRODUCED FROM RAISIN VARIETY GRAPES GROWN IN CALIFORNIA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), hereinafter referred to as the "act", and the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held at Fresno, California, during the period May 10–16, 1950, inclusive, with respect to proposed amendments to the marketing agreement and order (7 CFR Part 989) regulating the handling of raisins produced from raisin variety grapes grown in California, hereinafter referred to as the "order", which order was issued pursuant to the act.

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing, and the record thereof, the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, on March 13, 1951, filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Room 1353, South Building, Washington 25, D. C., his recommended decision in this proceeding. Notice of such recommended decision, in connection with which opportunity to file written exceptions was afforded, was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER issue of March 16, 1951 (16 F. R. 2476). The last day for filing such written exceptions has expired.

The material issues presented on the record of the hearing were whether the proposed amendments, or appropriate modifications thereof, to the order should be made effective. In said recommended decision, it was found and concluded that substantial changes have occurred in the economic and marketing conditions affecting the raisin industry since the hearing was held in May 1950, and these changes raise a serious question as to whether the evidence in the record of that hearing is reflective of current conditions and as to whether any of the proposed amendments to the order or any modifications thereof will effectuate the policy of the act upon the basis of current conditions; and that, since changes likely will continue to occur in the economic and marketing conditions affecting the raisin industry, there is no reason to assume that the evidence adduced at the hearing will reflect future conditions so that a sound basis will exist later for making such amendments effective. In these circumstances, it was concluded that no amendments should be issued as a result of this proceeding, and the proceeding should be terminated.

Ruling on exception. An exception to the recommended decision was filed on behalf of the Raisin Growers' Protective Association, an organization of certain producers of raisins, located at Fresno, California. In its exception, the Association protested the termination of action with respect to the 17 amendments which were proposed by it and considered at the hearing, particularly those in respect to the proposed creation of a raisin sales agency which would have authority to dispose of surplus tonnage raisins, and the deletion of existing provisions in the order relating to reserve tonnage raisins. It was stated that the proposed amendments relating to these particular provisions "go to the basic morals of operating the program and should be put into effect irrespective of the changing market conditions". Such exception overlooks the fact that the amendments proposed by this Association, including those in respect to the establishment of a raisin sales agency and the deletion of provisions in the order relating to reserve tonnage, were the subjects of considerable controversy at the hearing, there being strong opposition to them. It is particularly important that decisions to issue amendments involving controversial material issues be made in the light of evidence which is reflective of current conditions. In view of this situation, and the general finding and conclusion respecting the desirability of terminating this proceeding, as set forth herein, such exception is denied.

Finding and conclusion. Upon the basis of the evidence adduced at such hearing, it is hereby found and concluded that an order in connection with the proposed amendments involved herein should not be issued. The reasons for said finding and conclusion which were set forth in the Assistant Administrator's recommended decision in connection with this proceeding are hereby adopted and considered as set forth in full herein.

In view of such finding and conclusion, there is no need for discussion of the issues relating to the several amendments of the order which were proposed and considered at the said hearing.

It is hereby ordered, That this decision be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 18th day of April 1951.

[SEAL] CHARLES F. BRANNAN,
Secretary of Agriculture.

ELECTRIC BOND AND SHARE CO. AND AMERICAN POWER & LIGHT CO.

ORDER GRANTING APPLICATION FOR EXTENSION OF TIME IN PART AND RESERVING JURISDICTION IN PART

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 16th day of April A. D. 1951.

Electric Bond and Share Company ("Bond and Share"), a registered holding company, has filed with this Commission, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, an application to extend the time within which it must dispose of its remaining holdings of securities received pursuant to the Plan of Reorganization of American Power & Light Company ("American").

Under the reorganization plan of American, which became effective on February 15, 1950, Bond and Share received 7.8 percent of the new common stock of American, 7.8 percent each of the common stocks of Florida Power & Light Company ("Florida"), The Montana Power Company ("Montana"), and Texas Utilities Company ("Texas"), and 6.6 percent of the common stock of Minnesota Power & Light Company ("Minnesota"). The acquisition of such stocks was subject to a commitment by Bond and Share to dispose of such securities by February 15, 1951. Since the effective date of the American Plan Bond and Share has disposed of all of its holdings of the common stocks of Texas and Minnesota and a part of its holdings of the common stocks of Florida and Montana. As a result Bond and Share now owns 5.61 percent of the common stock of Florida, 5.59 percent of the common stock of Montana, and 7.81 percent of the new common stock of American. In its application Bond and Share has requested an extension of time with respect to its commitment to dispose of these securities and in this connection has requested permission to retain its present holdings of Florida until June 30, 1951, and of Montana until December 31, 1951, so that it may distribute such common stocks as dividends. No specific program is set forth with respect to the American new common stock, but it is requested that the Commission extend until December 31, 1951 the time within which Bond and Share is required to dispose of such stock.

Notice of said filing having been duly given, and the Commission having received a request from American Power & Light Company that a hearing be held with respect to the said application; and

The Commission having considered the allegations set forth by American in connection with its request that a hearing be held and having also considered the record in the section 11 (e) proceeding relating to the reorganization of American, and deeming it appropriate to grant Bond and Share's application for an extension of time with respect to the disposition of its present holdings of Florida until June 30, 1951, and of Montana until December 31, 1951, in order to permit Bond and Share to distribute such common stocks as dividends, and the Commission having determined to reserve jurisdiction over the request of Bond and Share to extend until December 31, 1951, the time within which it is required to dispose of the new common stock of American:

It is ordered, That the time within which Electric Bond and Share Company must dispose of its holdings of Florida Power & Light Company and The Montana Power Company, pursuant to the commitment contained in the plan of reorganization of American Power & Light Company be, and hereby is, extended until June 30, 1951, in respect of Florida Power & Light Company, and until December 31, 1951, in respect of The Montana Power Company.

It is further ordered, That jurisdiction is hereby reserved with respect to the request for an extension of time within which Bond and Share is required to dispose of its interest in the new common stock of the American Power & Light Company.

By the Commission.

EASTERN UTILITIES ASSOCIATES

NOTICE OF FILING OF AMENDED PLAN AND ORDER FOR HEARING ON STEP 2 (A) THEREOF

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 16th day of April A. D. 1951.

Notice is hereby given that Eastern Utilities Associates ("EUA"), a registered holding company, has filed an application for approval of an Amended Reorganization Plan ("Plan") for it and its direct subsidiary companies, Brockton Edison Company ("Brockton"), Blackstone Valley Gas and Electric Company ("Blackstone"), and Fall River Electric Light Company ("Fall River"), and its indirect subsidiary company, Montaup Electric Company ("Montaup"), pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935. The stated purpose of the Plan is to comply with an order of this Commission, dated April 4, 1950, issued in proceedings under sections 11 (b) (1), 11 (b) (2), 15 (f) and 20 (a) of the act. (See Eastern Utilities Associates and its Subsidiary Companies, Holding Company Act Release No. 9784).

Step 1 of the Plan was approved by order of this Commission, dated August 17, 1950 (see Eastern Utilities Associates and New England Electric System, Holding Company Act Release No. 10040). Pursuant to the terms of Step 1 of the Plan and this Commission's order of August 17, 1950, EUA borrowed from the First National Bank of Boston $9,094,000 evidenced by 2½ percent promissory notes maturing October 10, 1951 and with the proceeds EUA has acquired from New England Electric System 118,161 shares of Fall River capital stock and 11,721 shares of such stock from other Fall River stockholders and now holds 98.5 percent of the total voting power of Fall River stock.

Subsequent to the consummation of Step 1 of the Plan, EUA caused to be organized, under the laws of Massachusetts, Eastern Edison Electric Company, Inc. ("New Company") as an operating-holding company.

The proposals under Step 2 (a) are:

1. The registration of New Company as a holding company under the act.

2. The acquisition by New Company of the property and assets of Brockton, Fall River and Montaup, all of Blackstone's Common Stock and the entire issue of new Blackstone Bonds.

3. The issue and sale to the public at competitive bidding of $28,000,000 principal amount of bonds and $12,500,000 par value of preferred stock of New Company and the making of a $3,500,000 bank loan.

4. The payment of all bank loans of Brockton, Montaup and EUA.

5. The redemption of all outstanding bonds of Brockton and Fall River and the redemption of the presently existing bonds of Blackstone and the Preferred Stock of Blackstone, all at their regular redemption prices.

6. The making by EUA of a 45-day offer to the minority holders of Blackstone Common Stock to purchase their stock at $110 per share.

7. The elimination of all minority interests by the distribution to minority stockholders of the number of shares of New Company common stock (or scrip in lieu of fractional shares) hereinafter set forth in exchange for each share held by them:

	Shares
Fall River capital stock	2.9
Fall River employees' stock	1.2
Brockton capital stock	2.4
Blackstone common stock[1]	5.2

[1] Not tendered to EUA at $110 per share.

After the effective date of Step 2 (a), minority holders of Blackstone Common Stock who do not elect to take cash as provided herein will have no rights as stockholders, but only the right to receive New Company common stock upon the surrender of their stock certificates. After such date all rights as such stockholders of Blackstone will be in New Company. After the effective date of Step 2 (a), minority holders of Fall River Capital Stock and Brockton Capital Stock, and holders of Fall River Employees' Stock, will have no rights as stockholders, but only their respective rights to receive New Company common stock upon the surrender of their stock certificates. After such date all such rights as stockholders of the respective companies will be in New Company.

8. The distribution of the balance remaining of New Company's 1,500,000 shares of common stock to EUA to be held by EUA for distribution to its Common and Convertible shareholders as provided in Step 2 (b).

9. The dissolution of Brockton, Fall River and Montaup.

The Plan contemplates that Step 2 (a) will be consummated before hearings are commenced on Step 2 (b) which is briefly summarized as follows:

Under Step 2 (b) EUA proposes to distribute to its Common and Convertible shareholders the New Company common stock then held by it so that the amount exchangeable for each share of EUA common stock will be 3½ times the amount to which each share of EUA Convertible Stock will be entitled. Thereafter EUA will transfer its remaining assets to New Company and dissolve.

It appearing to the Commission that it is appropriate to grant the request of EUA that any and all issues or questions which may arise in connection with Step 2 (a) be separated for hearing and decision from the other issues and questions of the Plan and it being appropriate that notice be given and a hearing be held for the purpose of ascertaining what action should be taken on Step 2 (a) of the Plan:

It is hereby ordered, That the transactions set forth as Step 2 (a) of the Plan and all issues or questions which may arise in these proceedings in connection therewith be, and the same are, separated from the other transactions of the Plan for hearing and disposition.

It is further ordered, That a hearing be held on the transactions set forth as Step 2 (a) of the Plan filed by EUA and its subsidiary companies pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Act and on all questions and issues which may arise in connection therewith.

It is further ordered, That said hearing on Step 2 (a) of the Plan be held on May 8, 1951 at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., at the offices of the Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street, NW., Washington 25, D. C., in such room as may be designated on such date by the hearing room clerk. Any person, other than those who previously have been granted the right to participate in the hearings on the Plan, desires to be heard in connection with any transaction set forth in Step 2 (a) of the Plan or any other transaction of this Plan or proposes to intervene in this proceeding should file with the Secretary of the Commission, on or before May 7, 1951, a written request relative thereto as provided by Rule XVII of the Commission's rules of practice.

It is further ordered, That James G. Ewell or any other officer or officers of the Commission designated by it for that purpose shall preside at the hearing in such matter. The officer so designated to preside in any such hearing is hereby authorized to exercise all of the powers granted to the Commission under section 18 (c) of said Act and to a hearing officer under the Commission's rules of practice.

The Division of Public Utilities of the Commission having advised the Commission that it has made a preliminary examination of the Plan, as amended, and that, upon basis of said examination, the following matters and questions are presented for consideration with respect to Step 2 (a) of said Plan, without prejudice to its specifying additional matters and questions upon further examination:

Monongahela proposes to issue and sell $10,000,000 principal amount of its First Mortgage Bonds, -- percent series, due 1981, to be issued under and secured by Monongahela's present indenture dated as of August 1, 1945, as heretofore supplemented, and to be supplemented by an indenture to be dated as of April 1, 1951. The bonds are to be sold pursuant to the competitive bidding requirements of Rule U-50 and for a price to the company of not less than 100 percent nor more than 102¾ percent of the principal amount thereof, plus accrued interest. Monongahela has requested that the ten-day period for the solicitation of bids with respect to the offering of these bonds, required by the provisions of Rule U-50, be shortened to not less than six days.

The Commission finding with respect to the joint application-declaration, as amended, that all of the applicable statutory standards are satisfied and that there is no basis for any adverse findings and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said joint application-declaration, as amended, be granted and permitted to become effective forthwith:

It is hereby ordered, Pursuant to said Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that said joint application-declaration, as amended, be, and the same hereby is, granted and permitted to become effective forthwith subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24 and to the following additional terms and conditions:

LONG ISLAND LIGHTING CO.

NOTICE OF FILING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 16th day of April 1951.

Notice is hereby given that an application-declaration has been filed with this Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") by Long Island Lighting Company ("Long Island"), an operating public utility company and formerly a public utility holding company, which is registered as a public utility holding company. The filing has designated sections 6, 7, 9, 10, and 12 (c) of the act and Rule U-42 promulgated thereunder as being applicable to the transactions therein proposed.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than April 27, 1951, at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. At any time after said date, this application-declaration, as filed or as amended, may be granted and permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules U-20 and U-100 thereof. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C.

All interested persons are referred to said application-declaration which is on file in the office of this Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which are summarized as follows:

Long Island proposes to issue 524,949 additional shares of its common stock without par value pursuant to a subscription rights offering to its common stockholders of record at the close of business on May 2, 1951, at the rate of one share of new common stock for each six shares held, at a price to be determined by the company. The subscription rights, which are to be issued on the basis of one right for each share held, are to be evidenced by warrants. No fractional shares will be issued in exchange for rights. The warrants provide that persons subscribing for stock may direct the subscription agent to purchase additional rights required to complete a full share subscription or to sell rights in excess of full share subscriptions. In each case, the purchase or sale is to be at the company's expense, but may not exceed five rights for any single stockholder. Long Island also proposes to offer to its employees a non-transferable privilege to subscribe, at the subscription price, for the shares of the new common stock not issued upon the exercise of the rights to subscribe. This employee right of purchase is to be limited to a maximum of 200 shares for each employee. Such shares as remain after subscription by the stockholders and employees and such shares, if any, as are acquired by Long Island in connection with stabilizing the price of the common stock, as described more fully below, are to be available to stockholders under an over-subscription privilege of the warrants.

While the offer of shares of common stock will not be underwritten, Long Island, to facilitate the common stock offering, proposes to obtain the assistance of security dealers and to pay certain fees for their services. After requesting six investment banking houses to make proposals to act as Dealer Manager, Long Island selected Blyth & Co., Inc. as the Dealer Manager to form and manage a group of security dealers who are members of the National Association of Security Dealers. The base fee of Blyth & Co., Inc. is to be $4,000, in addition to which it is to be reimbursed for its reasonable out-of-pocket expenses including counsel fees.

Participating dealers (including Blyth & Co., Inc.) will receive from the Company 20 cents a share for each share of common stock delivered upon the exercise of rights where the name of the dealer appears upon the face of the warrant (or where the Company is satisfied that such fees should be paid). Such dealers will also receive 35 cents for each share of common stock purchased by the participating dealer from Blyth & Co., Inc. and resold in sales off national exchanges at prices of not less than the subscription price and not more than the last sale or offering price, whichever is greater, of the common stock in the previous session of the New York Stock Exchange plus an amount equivalent to the New York Stock Exchange commission on such sale. The amount payable on account of the subscription of any one stockholder is to be limited to $300 irrespective of the number of shares subscribed, but this limitation is not to apply to payments for shares issued on over-subscriptions. Blyth & Co., Inc. may purchase and exercise rights and sell to dealers the shares of common stock received therefrom and also any shares of common stock acquired by Long Island pursuant to stabilizing transactions and made available to it for sale.

Long Island proposes that, during the subscription period, it may, through Blyth & Co., Inc., stabilize the price of its common stock through the purchase of common stock or rights on the New York Stock Exchange, or otherwise, and sell any such common stock or rights either on or off such Exchange. In connection therewith, the Company will at no time acquire in excess of 50,000 shares in the aggregate; for this purpose, six rights are to be deemed the equivalent of one share.

According to the filing, the proceeds from the sale of the common stock will be used to reduce temporary bank loans made to finance its construction program. At February 28, 1951, these bank loans aggregated $10,750,000. The Company states that it is engaged in an extensive construction program which will require it to raise, through 1954, approximately $105,000,000 in addition to funds provided by accruals to reserves and retained earnings.

The filing requests that the order of the Commission herein granting the application and permitting effectiveness to the declaration become effective forthwith upon the issuance thereof.

By the Commission.

Washington, Tuesday, April 24, 1951

TITLE 3—THE PRESIDENT

EXECUTIVE ORDER 10233

AMENDING EXECUTIVE ORDER 10161[1] WITH RESPECT TO WAGE STABILIZATION AND SETTLEMENT OF LABOR DISPUTES

WHEREAS the maintenance of wage stabilization under the Defense Production Act of 1950 is essential at this time in the interest of the national defense; and

WHEREAS the maintenance of effective wage stabilization imposes limitations on the processes of free collective bargaining, making necessary the development of machinery to facilitate the settlement of labor disputes in conjunction with the administration of wage stabilization; and

WHEREAS on April 17, 1951, the National Advisory Board on Mobilization Policy made the following recommendation to the President:

"1. The Wage Stabilization Board shall be reconstituted as an 18 man tripartite Board with six representing the public, six representing management, and six representing labor.

"2. The reconstituted Wage Stabilization Board shall be empowered to assume jurisdiction of any labor dispute which is not resolved by collective bargaining or by the prior full use of conciliation and mediation facilities and which threatens an interruption of work affecting the national defense where:

"(i) The parties to any such dispute jointly agree to submit such dispute to the Board, or

"(ii) The President is of the opinion that the dispute is of a character which substantially threatens the progress of national defense and certifies such dispute to the Board.

"3. In any such case certified to the Board by the President or in any such case where the parties jointly agree to submit the case to the Board for their recommendations, the Board shall investigate and inquire into the issues in dispute and promptly report to the President thereon with their recommendations to the parties as to fair and equitable terms of settlement.

"4. In any such case where the parties jointly agree to be bound by the decision of the Board, the Board shall render a decision on the issues in dispute which decision shall be binding on the parties."

AND WHEREAS I deem it necessary and desirable that such recommendation be carried out,

NOW, THEREFORE, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and statutes, including the Defense Production Act of 1950, and as President of the United States and Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces, it is hereby ordered as follows:

SECTION 1. Part IV of Executive Order No. 10161 of September 9, 1950, is hereby amended by revoking sections 403 and 404 thereof and by inserting after section 402 thereof the following new sections:

SEC. 403. (a) There shall be in the Agency a Wage Stabilization Board (hereafter in this Part referred to as the Board) composed of eighteen members who shall be appointed by the President. Six of the members so appointed shall be representative of the public, six shall be representative of labor, and six shall be representative of business and industry. There shall be a chairman and a vice chairman of the Board, each of whom shall be designated by the President from among the members representative of the public.

(b) In addition to the functions assigned to it by the provisions of the following sections of this Part IV, the Board shall perform such other functions with respect to wage stabilization as may be determined by the Administrator after consultation with the Board.

SEC. 404. To the maximum extent consistent with the maintenance of effective economic stabilization, the provisions of this Part shall be administered in such a way as to preserve collective bargaining between labor and management.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter IX—Production and Marketing Administration (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

PART 960—HANDLING OF IRISH POTATOES GROWN IN MICHIGAN, WISCONSIN, MINNESOTA, NORTH DAKOTA AND CERTAIN COUNTIES OF IOWA AND OF INDIANA

REESTABLISHMENT OF DISTRICTS WITHIN WISCONSIN AND MICHIGAN

Pursuant to section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.), a notice of a proposed rule to reestablish, pursuant to § 960.27 of Order No. 60, as amended, Wisconsin and Michigan districts initially described and established in and by § 960.25 of said order, which order regulates the handling of Irish potatoes grown in the States of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, and certain counties of Iowa and of Indiana, was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (16 F. R. 2639). Such order was issued under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31 as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.). After consideration of all relevant matters presented, including the rule set forth in the aforesaid notice, which rule was adopted and submitted for approval by the North Central Potato Committee, established pursuant to said order, the following rule is hereby approved.

§ 960.106 Reestablishment. (a) Pursuant to § 960.27 the geographical districts of Wisconsin, and Michigan are reestablished as follows:

Wisconsin District No. 1. The counties of Oconto, Langlade, Lincoln, Taylor, Eau Claire, Pepin and all counties lying north thereof in Wisconsin.

Wisconsin District No. 2. The counties of Door, Kewaunee, Brown, Outagamie, Green Lake, Marquette, Adams, Juneau, Monroe, La Crosse, and all counties lying north to Wisconsin District No. 1 in Wisconsin.

Wisconsin District No. 3. The remaining counties in Wisconsin not included in Wisconsin District No. 1 and Wisconsin District No. 2, Michigan District No. 1. All counties in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Machigan District No. 2. The counties of Mason, Lake, Osceola, Clare, Gladwin, Arenac, and all counties lying north thereof in Michigan, but not including the Upper Peninsula.

Michigan District No. 3. The remaining counties in Michigan not included in Michigan District No. 1, and Michigan District No. 2.

(b) The reestablishment of districts set forth in this section shall not effect the specific geographic application of grade and size limitations in § 960.309 Limitation of shipments which terminates June 30, 1951.

It is hereby found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give 30-day notice of the effective date of this section in that (1) more representative committee nominations will be brought about if meetings for such purpose are held on the basis of the reestablished districts; (2) meetings for the purpose of nominating prospective committee members will begin soon; (3) notice has been given of the proposed rule by publication thereof as required by law (16 F. R. 2639); (4) the rule should be approved upon publication of this section in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 608c)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 19th day of April 1951, to be effective on publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

[SEAL] CHARLES F. BRANNAN,
Secretary of Agriculture.

[Orange Reg. 368]

PART 966—ORANGES GROWN IN CALIFORNIA OR IN ARIZONA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

§ 966.514 Orange Regulation 368—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the provisions of Order No. 66, as amended (7 CFR Part 966; 14 F. R. 3614), regulating the handling of oranges grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said amended order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of the quantity of such oranges which may be handled, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions of this section effective as hereinafter set forth. Shipments of oranges, grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, are currently subject to regulation pursuant to said amended order; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein was promptly submitted to the Department after an open meeting of the Orange Administrative Committee on April 19, 1951, such meeting was held, after giving due notice thereof to consider recommendations for regulation, and interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit their views at this meeting; the provisions of this section, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such oranges; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period hereinafter specified; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject thereto which cannot be completed by the effective time thereof.

(b) Order. (1) The quantity of oranges grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona which may be handled during the period beginning 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., April 22, 1951, and ending at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., April 29, 1951, is hereby fixed as follows:

(i) Valencia oranges. (a) Prorate District No. 1: 100 carloads;

(b) Prorate District No. 2: No movement;

(c) Prorate District No. 3: 90 carloads;

(d) Prorate District No. 4: Unlimited movement.

(ii) Oranges other than Valencia oranges. (a) Prorate District No. 1: Unlimited movement;

(b) Prorate District No. 2: 1,200 carloads;

(c) Prorate District No. 3: Unlimited movement;

(d) Prorate District No. 4: Unlimited movement.

(2) The prorate base of each handler who has made application therefor, as provided in the said amended order, is hereby fixed in accordance with the prorate base schedule which is set forth below and made a part hereof by this reference.

(3) As used in this section, "handled," "handler," "varieties," "carloads," and "prorate base" shall have the same meaning as when used in the said amended order; and the terms "Prorate District No. 1," "Prorate District No. 2," "Prorate District No. 3," and "Prorate District No. 4" shall each have the same meaning as given to the respective terms in § 966.107, as amended (15 F. R. 8712), of the current rules and regulations (7 CFR 966.103 et seq.), as amended (15 F. R. 8712).

Done at Washington, D. C., this 20th day of April 1951.

Director, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration.

TITLE 28—JUDICIAL ADMINISTRATION

Chapter I—Department of Justice

[Order 4173]

PART 3—GAMBLING DEVICES

REGISTRATION AND FILING OF REPORTS: DESIGNATION OF OFFICERS TO PERFORM CERTAIN FUNCTIONS

APRIL 16, 1951.

The following regulations are hereby prescribed for carrying out certain provisions of the act of January 2, 1951, entitled "An Act to prohibit transportation of gambling devices in interstate and foreign commerce" (Public Law 906, 81st Congress):

Sec.

3.1 Registration and filing of reports by manufacturers of and dealers in gambling devices having places of business in Illinois.
3.2 Registration and filing of reports by manufacturers of and dealers in gambling devices having places of business in States other than Illinois.
3.3 Seizures.
3.4 Custody and forfeiture.

AUTHORITY: §§ 3.1 to 3.4 issued under R. S. 161; 5 U. S. C. 22. Interpret or apply secs. 3, 7, Pub. Law 906, 81st Cong.

3.1 Registration and filing of reports by manufacturers of and dealers in gambling devices having places of business in Illinois. Manufacturers of and dealers in gambling devices having places of business in the State of Illinois shall (a) register as required by section 3 of the act of January 2, 1951, entitled "An Act to prohibit transportation of gambling devices in interstate and foreign commerce" (Public Law 906, 81st Congress) with the Attorney General at the office of the United States Attorney, 219 South Clark Street, Chicago, Illinois, and (b) file the monthly reports required by that section with the Attorney General at the same place.

§ 3.2 Registration and filing of reports by manufacturers of and dealers in gambling devices having places of business in States other than Illinois. Manufacturers of and dealers in gambling devices having places of business in States other than the State of Illinois shall (a) register as required by section 3 of the said act of January 2, 1951, with the Attorney General at the Department of Justice Building, Washington, D. C., and (b) file the monthly reports required by that section with the Attorney General at the same place. The term "States" as used in this section includes Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and Guam.

§ 3.3 Seizures. The Director, Associate Director, Assistant to the Director, Assistant Directors, inspectors, and agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice are hereby authorized and designated to make seizures of gambling devices under the said act of January 2, 1951.

§ 3.4 Custody and forfeiture. (a) All gambling devices seized pursuant to § 3.3 shall be held for, or turned over to, the United States marshal for the district in which the seizure is made. Other than the authority granted in § 3.3, United States marshals are hereby authorized and designated as the officers to perform the various duties with respect to seizures and forfeitures of gambling devices under the said act of January 2, 1951, as are imposed upon collectors of customs or any other persons with respect to the seizure and forfeiture of vessels, vehicles, merchandise, and baggage under the customs laws.

(b) The Attorney General will perform, with respect to the seizure and forfeiture of gambling devices under the said act of January 2, 1951, the functions and duties now performed by the Secretary of the Treasury in regard to the seizure and forfeiture of vessels, vehicles, merchandise, and baggage under the customs laws.

This order shall become effective on the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulations prescribed by the order are necessary for carrying out certain provisions of the act of January 2, 1951, entitled "An Act to prohibit transportation of gambling devices in interstate and foreign commerce" (Public Law 906, 81st Congress), which became effective upon the date of its approval. Compliance with the provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 238; 5 U. S. C. 1003) with respect to notice of proposed rule making and delayed effective date is impracticable and contrary to the public interest in this instance because such compliance would unduly delay and impede the administration and enforcement of the said act.

J. HOWARD MCGRATH,
Attorney General.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter VI—National Production Authority, Department of Commerce

[NPA Order M-7, as Amended Apr. 20, 1951]

M-7—ALUMINUM FOR CIVILIAN USE

This order as amended is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950. In the formulation of this order, there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. However, in the formulation of this amendment, consultation with representatives of all trades and industries affected has been rendered impracticable by the fact that the order affects a very substantial number of different trades and industries.

This amendment affects NPA Order M-7 as amended April 6, 1951, as follows: It amends sections 4 and 6 in their entirety, paragraphs (a) and (c) of section 8, and List A; List B is deleted. As so amended, NPA Order M-7 reads as follows:

Sec.
1. Purpose and scope.
2. Definitions.
3. Aluminum forms and products to which this order applies.
4. Application of order.
5. Use of aluminum.
6. Use of aluminum for certain purposes.
7. Maintenance, repair, and operating supplies.
8. Exemptions.
9. Inventories.
10. Application for adjustment.
11. Records and reports.
12. Communications.
13. Violations.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 13 issued under sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong. Interpret or apply sec. 101, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.; sec. 101, E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105, 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.; sec. 2, E. O. 10200, Jan. 3, 1951, 16 F. R. 61.

SECTION 1. Purpose and scope. The purpose of this order is to describe how the aluminum remaining after allowing for the requirements of national defense may be distributed and used in the civilian economy. It is the policy of the National Production Authority that aluminum and articles made of aluminum, not required to fill rated orders, shall be distributed equitably through normal channels of distribution, and that due regard shall be given by suppliers to the needs of new and small business.

SEC. 2. Definitions. As used in this order:

(a) "Person" means any individual, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons and includes any agency of the United States or any other government.

(b) "Base period" means the 6-month period ending June 30, 1950.

(c) "Manufacture" means to put into process, machine, fabricate, or otherwise alter materials by physical or chemical means: Provided, however, That as applied to "castings (foundry products as shipped by the producer)" specified in section 3 of this order the word "manufacture" also means the assembly of said items into components or end products, and that as applied to "powder (including atomized, flake, paste, and pigments)," the word "manufacture" also means segregating, weighing, or packaging for sale or resale by persons other than producers.

(d) "Maintenance" means the minimum upkeep necessary to continue a building, machine, piece of equipment or facility in sound working condition, and "repair" means the restoration of a building, machine, piece of equipment, or facility to sound working condition when the same has been rendered unsafe or unfit for service by wear and tear, damage, failure of parts or the like: Provided, however, Neither maintenance nor repair includes the improvement of any such item with material of a better kind, quality, or design.

(e) "Operating supplies" means any aluminum forms or products listed in section 3 of this order which are normally carried by a person as operating supplies according to established accounting practice and are not included in his finished product, except that materials included in such product which are normally chargeable to operating expense may be treated as operating supplies.

SEC. 3. Aluminum forms and products to which this order applies. The word "aluminum" as used in this order means only the following aluminum forms and products obtained from either domestic or foreign sources:

Rod and bar.
Wire (under ⅜ inch).
Cables (electrical transmission only).
Rivets.
Forgings and pressings (before machining).
Impact extrusions.
Castings (foundry products as shipped by the producer).
Rolled structural shapes (angles, channels, zees, tees, etc.).
Extruded shapes.
Sheet (coiled and flat), plate, circles and blanks.
Slugs.
Plain coil foil.
Tubing (extruded, drawn, and roll formed).
Tube blooms.
Powder (including atomized, flake, paste, and pigments).
Ingot, pig, billets, slabs, granulated.
Purchased scrap.

SEC. 4. Application of order. Subject to the exemptions stated in section 8 of this order, this order applies to the use of aluminum for purposes of manufacture or construction, or for maintenance, repair, or operating supplies. It does not apply to (a) the production of aluminum in or the conversion of aluminum to the forms and products listed in section 3 of this order; or (b) the use of aluminum in the production of other metals (including aluminized steel), or of metal alloys, the chief constituent of which is not aluminum, or of chemical salts of aluminum and compositions of aluminum used as a catalyst.

SEC. 5. Use of aluminum. Subject to the exemptions stated in section 8 of this order, and unless specifically directed by the National Production Authority, no person shall use in manufacture or construction:

(a) During December 1950, a quantity by weight of aluminum in excess of 100 percent of his average monthly use of aluminum during the base period.

	Percent
January 1951	80
February 1951	75
March 1951	65

(c) During the calendar quarter commencing on April 1, 1951, a total quantity by weight of aluminum in excess of 65 percent of his average quarterly use of aluminum during the base period. Any person who was authorized by the National Production Authority to use an adjusted monthly base to determine permitted use of aluminum during January, February, or March 1951, shall not use during the second calendar quarter of 1951 a quantity by weight of aluminum in excess of 65 percent of three times such adjusted monthly base. The National Production Authority reserves the right to review and modify or revoke any such adjustment. An authorization by the National Production Authority to use a specific quantity of aluminum in any specified month or months or in the first quarter of 1951 shall not be considered an adjusted base for the purposes of this paragraph.

SEC. 6. Use of aluminum for certain purposes. In addition to the limitations on the use of aluminum set forth in section 5 of this order:

(a) No person shall use in manufacture, assembly, or construction a greater quantity or better grade of aluminum than is necessary for functional or operational purposes.

(b) No person shall use aluminum in manufacture, assembly, or construction for decorative or ornamental purposes.

(c) Subject to the exemptions stated in section 8 of this order, or unless specifically directed by the National Production Authority, no person shall use during each of the months of May and June 1951, in the manufacture of any item included in List A or, in construction for any item in List A, a total quantity by weight of aluminum in excess of 50 percent of his average monthly use of aluminum in such item during the base period: Provided, however, That no person shall use any aluminum in the manufacture of windows of the nonresidential type during said period except to complete orders received by him prior to February 20, 1951, and the use of aluminum for such purpose shall not be subject to the provisions of this paragraph or of section 5 of this order. However, any person who, during the months of May or June 1951, purchases parts made wholly or partly of aluminum for incorporation in an item in List A, which parts he manufactured during the base period, shall deduct, to the extent that he purchases such parts, the quantity of aluminum he used in such manufacture during the base period in computing his permitted use during said months. During each of the months of May and June 1951, any person who does not use aluminum in the manufacture of an item in List A, but who assembles parts made wholly or partly of aluminum into such item in List A, shall not assemble a total number of units of such item in excess of 50 percent of the average monthly number of such units which he assembled during the base period.

(d) Any person who was authorized by the National Production Authority to use an adjusted monthly base to determine permitted use of aluminum during January, February, or March 1951, shall not use during either of the months of May or June 1951, in the manufacture of any item in List A, a total quantity by weight of aluminum in excess of 50 percent of such adjusted monthly base. The National Production Authority reserves the right to review and modify or revoke any such adjustment. An authorization by the National Production Authority to use a specific quantity of aluminum in any specified month or months or in the first quarter of 1951 shall not be considered an adjusted base for the purposes of this paragraph.

(e) Any person who has placed an order with a supplier for aluminum for use in the manufacture of an item in List A, which order is included in such supplier's mill schedule for the second quarter, may accept delivery thereof after the end of the quarter, and may use such aluminum during the third quarter of 1951 subject to such restrictions as the National Production Authority may prescribe.

SEC. 7. Maintenance, repair, and operating supplies. Unless specifically directed by the National Production Authority, during the 6-month period commencing on December 1, 1950, and each 6-month period thereafter, no person shall use for maintenance, repair, and operating supplies a quantity by weight of aluminum in excess of the quantity of aluminum that he used for such purposes during the base period.

SEC. 8. Exemptions. (a) The use of aluminum required by any person to fill an order that is rated under the priorities system established by NPA Reg. 2 (excluding orders for items included in List A), or to meet any other mandatory order of the National Production Authority, is permitted in addition to the use of aluminum authorized by the provisions of sections 5 or 7 of this order. The use of aluminum required by any person to fill a rated order for any item included in List A which is marked by an asterisk is permitted in addition to the use of aluminum authorized by the provisions of section 5, 6, or 7 of this order where such item is for the use of the Armed Forces of the United States, including the United States Coast Guard, in the construction, fitting, or furnishing of ships (other than pleasure craft), aircraft, and hospitals, or to supply military specification organizational equipment items. The use of aluminum required to fill an order, whether or not rated, for any item in List A which is not marked by an asterisk shall be subject to the limitations on use stated in section 6 of this order.

(b) The procurement and use by electric utilities of aluminum conductor and aluminum conductor accessories as those terms are defined in NPA Order M-50, is subject to order M-50 and is accordingly exempt from this order. The use by electric utilities of forms and shapes of aluminum listed in section 3 of this order, other than aluminum conductor and aluminum conductor accessories, remains subject to the restrictions of this order, and in computing permitted use of such other forms and shapes of aluminum, use of aluminum conductor and conductor accessories during the base period shall be excluded.

(c) The provisions of sections 5, 6, and 7 of this order do not apply to persons who use less than 1,000 pounds of aluminum during any period of 12 consecutive months: Provided, however, That persons who by reason of the provisions of section 5 or 6 would be permitted to use less than 1,000 pounds during any period of 12 consecutive months may use during such period a quantity up to 1,000 pounds.

(d) The provisions of section 5 of this order will not apply, commencing on February 1, 1951, to the use of aluminum in the manufacture of collapsible tubes as defined in NPA Order M-27, nor, commencing on April 6, 1951, to the use of aluminum in the manufacture of packaging closures as defined in NPA Order M-26.

SEC. 9. Inventories. In addition to the provisions of NPA Reg. 1 (15 F. R. 6253), relating to inventory control, it is considered that a more exact requirement applying to users of aluminum is necessary. No person obtaining aluminum for use in manufacture or construction, or for maintenance, repair, or operating supplies, may receive or accept delivery of a quantity of aluminum if his inventory is, or by such receipt would become, in excess of that necessary to meet his deliveries or supply his services on the basis of his scheduled method and rate of operation pursuant to this order during the succeeding 60-day period, or in excess of a "practicable minimum working inventory" (as defined in NPA Reg. 1), whichever is less. For the purpose of this section, aluminum shapes and forms listed in section 3 of this order in which only minor changes or alterations have been effected shall be included in inventory. NPA Reg. 1 will apply to aluminum except as modified by this section.

SEC. 10. Application for adjustment. Any person affected by any provision of this order may file a request for adjustment or exception upon the ground that his business operation was commenced during or after the base period, or because any provision otherwise works an undue and exceptional hardship upon him not suffered generally by others in the same trade or industry or that its enforcement against him would not be in the interest of the national defense or in the public interest. Each request shall be in writing and shall set forth all pertinent facts and the nature of the relief sought, and shall state the justification therefor.

SEC. 11. Records and reports. (a) Persons subject to this order shall preserve the records which they have maintained and will maintain of inventories, receipts, deliveries, and uses of aluminum forms and products commencing with January 1, 1950.

(b) Persons subject to this order shall make records and submit such reports to the National Production Authority as it shall require, subject to the terms of the Federal Reports Act (P. L. 831, 77th Cong., 5 U. S. C. 139–139F).

SEC. 12. Communications. All communications concerning this order shall be addressed to the National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C., Ref.: M–7.

SEC. 13. Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order or any other order or regulation of the National Production Authority or who wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information in the course of operation under this order is guilty of a crime and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. In addition, administrative action may be taken against any such person to suspend his privilege of making or receiving further deliveries of materials or using facilities under priority or allocation control and to deprive him of further priorities assistance.

NOTE: All reporting requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

This order, as amended, shall take effect on May 1, 1951.

Issued April 20, 1951.

MANLY FLEISCHMANN,
Administrator.

SECTION 1. What this order does. This order applies to paper manufacturers and provides rules for placing, accepting, and scheduling Government orders for paper. Its purpose is to make possible maximum production of paper and reduce to a minimum any disruption of normal distribution by providing for the equitable sharing of Government orders among paper manufacturers. It supplements NPA Reg. 2, but only those provisions of Reg. 2 which are contradictory to this order are superseded, and all other provisions of Reg. 2 continue to apply to the paper industry.

SEC. 2. Definitions. As used in this order:

(a) "Grade" means any kind of paper as listed in Form M–14–A, as revised February 24, 1951 (U. S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census), or any particular type of paper of such a kind even though not specifically mentioned in such form.

(b) "Produce" and "manufacture" mean and include all making and finishing operations necessary to the production of primary paper prior to packing or packaging.

(c) "Schedule" means the completion of all steps ordinarily taken by the manufacturer preliminary to actual manufacture, including acknowledgment to buyer, establishment of detailed specifications, and determination of the time when the order will be manufactured and shipment made.

(d) "Government order" means (1) any DO rated order and (2) any order, whether rated or not, for direct or indirect delivery to any activity on List A except those orders for paper intended for resale at retail, such as supplies for post exchanges, etc.

SEC. 3. Reserve production. (a) Each manufacturer shall reserve for the month of February 1951, and for each calendar month thereafter, machine time, material, and supplies sufficient to produce and deliver within such month a total amount of paper to be calculated by applying the percentage specified for each grade in List B of this order to his average monthly production of such grade during the most recent calendar quarter, as originally reported on Form M–14–A as revised. Each manufacturer shall furnish the NPA with a record of his paper production for the fourth quarter 1950 and January 1951, on the basis of instructions to be issued by NPA pursuant thereto.

(b) The National Production Authority may from time to time increase or decrease manufacturers' reserve production by changing the percentages in List B of this order or applying the same or different percentages to other types, grades, or combinations of grades. Each such increase or decrease will be effected by notice in writing to each manufacturer or by notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER at least 10 days prior to the first day of the month to which it applies.

SEC. 4. Directives. On or before the tenth day of any month, the National Production Authority may direct any manufacturer to produce during such month any grade of paper which such manufacturer is qualified to produce, in total tonnage not exceeding the amount of his reserve production for such month less the Government orders he has already scheduled for that month. The National Production Authority may direct a manufacturer to sell and deliver such tonnage to fill any Government order or orders that it may designate.

SEC. 5. Release of reserve production. If on or before the tenth day of any month a manufacturer has not received from the National Production Authority directives as to the disposition of all production reserved for such month, in excess of the Government orders he has already scheduled for such month, he may apply that production for which no directives have been received as he may desire, subject to the provisions of this order and other orders and regulations of National Production Authority.

SEC. 6. Report of Government orders. (a) Each manufacturer shall report at the close of each month on Form M–14–A, as provided therein, such Government orders, including directed tonnage, as are qualified under this order which he has produced in such month and those Government orders, excluding directed tonnage, which he has scheduled for production in the second and third subsequent months. For example, the February 1951 report will show the actual total of Government orders produced in February and the Government orders, excluding directed tonnage, for April and May production. Having once reported a qualified order as scheduled in a given forward month, the manufacturer shall produce such orders as scheduled and so reported, and shall report the same order as scheduled for a different month only if requested by the buyer to so reschedule.

(b) If in any month a manufacturer's total scheduled Government orders for a subsequent month shall change materially (25 percent of his reserve production or 10 tons, whichever is greater) from his previous report, he may file Form NPAF–27 showing his revised schedule of Government orders, excluding directed tonnage.

(c) He shall initially file Form NPAF–27 by February 20, 1951, to show his Government order schedule for the month of March 1951.

(d) The manufacturer's reserve tonnage position as shown in the monthly Form M–14–A, in the interim reports, NPAF–27, if any, and directives will be taken into consideration by the National Production Authority in issuing such directives as may be found necessary under this order.

SEC. 7. Rated orders. (a) No manufacturer shall be required to accept DO rated orders for paper for shipment in any one month in excess of his reserve production for that month less his tonnage of Government orders already scheduled for that month.

(b) Unless specifically directed by the National Production Authority, no manufacturer need accept a DO rated order which is received less than 40 days prior to the first day of the month in which shipment is requested.

SEC. 8. Adjustment. Any person affected by any provision of this order may file a request for adjustment or exception upon the ground that such provision works an undue or exceptional hardship upon him not suffered generally by others in the same trade or industry, or that its enforcement against him would not be in the interest of the national defense or in the public interest. In considering requests for adjustment claiming that the public interest is prejudiced by the application of any provision of this order, consideration will be given to the requirements of public health and safety, civilian defense, and dislocation of labor and resulting unemployment that would impair the defense program. Each request shall be in writing, shall set forth all pertinent facts and the nature of the relief sought, and shall state the justification therefor.

SEC. 9. Communications. All communications concerning this order shall be addressed to National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M–36.

SEC. 10. Records. Each person participating in any transaction covered by this order shall retain in his possession for at least 2 years records of receipts, deliveries, inventories, and use, in sufficient detail to permit an audit that determines for each transaction that the provisions of this order have been met. This does not specify any particular accounting method and does not require alteration of the system of records customarily maintained, provided such records supply an adequate basis for audit. Records may be retained in the form of microfilm or other photographic copies instead of the originals.

SEC. 11. Audit and inspection. All records required by this order shall be made available at the usual place of business where maintained for inspection and audit by duly authorized representatives of the National Production Authority.

SEC. 12. Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order or any other order or regulation of the National Production Authority or who wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information in the course of operation under this order is guilty of a crime and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. In addition, administrative action may be taken against any such person to suspend his privilege of making or receiving further deliveries of materials or using facilities under priority or allocation control and to deprive him of further priorities assistance.

NOTE: The reporting and record-keeping requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

This order as amended shall take effect on April 20, 1951.

§ 106.1 Opportunity for hearing. (a) Any applicant whose application under Public Law 815, 81st Congress (secs. 101–210, 64 Stat. 967; 20 U. S. C. 251–255, 271–280) or under Public Law 874, 81st Congress (secs. 1–9, 64 Stat. 1100, 20 U. S. C. 236–244) is disapproved by the Commissioner of Education, in whole or in part, or which is dissatisfied with the Commissioner's action or failure to act upon its application under such Public Law shall be entitled to a hearing thereon.

(b) In the event the Commissioner of Education has reason to believe that clause (1), (2), or (3) of section 207 of Public Law 815, 81st Congress (sec. 207, 64 Stat. 974; 20 U. S. The time and place so fixed shall be subject to change for cause.

§ 106.2 Procedure in requesting hearing. A request for a hearing in accordance with this part must be addressed to the Commissioner of Education and must be in writing; but it need not be formalized.

§ 106.3 Reconsideration after request or order for hearing. The request for a hearing or the fact that any matter or issue has been scheduled for hearing under this part shall not prejudice any request for reconsideration of any determination made by the Commissioner or submission of an issue for such reconsideration, but the pendency of any such request for reconsideration shall not constitute a basis upon which postponement of the hearing can be demanded as of right either by the State or local educational agency or by the Commissioner.

§ 106.4 Time and place of hearing. Hearings on any matter included in § 106.1 shall be held at the offices of the Office of Education in Washington, D. C., or such other place set by the Commissioner of Education; but in setting the time and place of the hearing, due regard shall be given to the convenience and necessity of the local educational agency concerned.

The application in question and all amendments and exhibits submitted therewith shall be deemed to be a part of the hearing record. Both the Office of Education and the State or local educational agency involved, shall be entitled to introduce all relevant facts on the issues as stated in the notice or request for hearing or as determined at the outset of or during the hearing.

(b) Technical rules of evidence shall not apply to hearings conducted pursuant to this part, but rules or principles designed to assure production of the most credible evidence available, and to subject testimony to test by cross-examination or by other means, shall be applied by the hearing officer where reasonably necessary. All documents and other evidence offered or taken for the record shall be open to examination by the parties and ample opportunity given to refute facts and arguments advanced on either side of the issues. All decisions shall be based entirely upon facts adduced from the record and written findings shall be made.

§ 106.6 Decisions and notices. If the hearing is held by a person other than the Commissioner of Education, such person shall either make an initial decision, if so authorized, or certify the entire record including his recommended findings and proposed decision to the Commissioner for a final decision, and written notice of such initial decision or certification shall be mailed to the State or local educational agency involved. Where the initial decision is made by the hearing officer, and in the absence of either an appeal to the Commissioner or review upon motion of the Commissioner within time limits stated in this section, such decision shall without further proceedings constitute the final decision of the Commissioner. The State or local educational agency may within 30 days of the mailing of such notice of initial decision request the Commissioner to review it. The Commissioner may grant or deny such request, or may within 45 days after the decision review it on his own motion. Written notice of the Commissioner's action granting or denying a request for review or of his determination to review it on his own motion shall be mailed promptly to the State or local educational agency involved.

§ 106.7 Decisions on record or review by Commissioner of Education. Whenever a record is certified to the Commissioner of Education for decision or the Commissioner determines to review the decision of another person pursuant to § 106.6, the State or local educational agency involved shall be given reasonable opportunity to file with the Commissioner briefs or other written statements of its contentions, and notice of the final decision of the Commissioner in such cases promptly shall be given to

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[47 CFR, Parts 2, 3]

[Docket Nos. 8736, 8975, 8976, 9175]

TELEVISION BROADCAST SERVICE

ORDER EXTENDING DATE FOR FILING OBJECTIONS TO APPENDICES A AND B OF THIRD NOTICE OF FURTHER PROPOSED RULE MAKING

In the matters of amendment of § 3.606 of the Commission's rules and regulations, Dockets Nos. 8736 and 8975; amendment of the Commission's rules, regulations and Engineering Standards Concerning the Television Broadcast Service, Docket No. 9175; utilization of frequencies in the band 470 to 890 Mcs. for television broadcasting, Docket No. 8976.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 12th day of April 1951;

The Commission having under consideration a petition filed on April 12, 1951, by the Television Board, National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters (NARTB), and a joint petition filed on April 12, 1951, by American Broadcasting Stations, Inc., Governor Dongon Broadcasting Corporation, Hampden-Hampshire Corporation, Lee Broadcasting Corporation, Milwaukee Broadcasting Company, Pittsburgh Radio Supply House, Inc., and Saginaw Broadcasting Company, both requesting that the time for filing statements of objections as provided for in paragraph "11" of the Commission's Third Notice of Further Proposed Rule Making (FCC 51-244) be extended from April 23, 1951, to May 7, 1951; and

It appearing, that in its petition NARTB alleges that on April 11, 1951, the Commission extended the date for the filing of comments with respect to Appendices C and D of said Third Notice from April 23, 1951, to May 7, 1951; that said extension did not apply to the date of filing of statements of objections with respect to Appendices A and B as provided for in paragraph "11" of said Third Notice; that NARTB and attorneys for many parties are interested in the general issues and policies enunciated in Appendices A and B; that said paragraph "11" requires that objections must relate the volume and page number of transcripts and exhibits; that NARTB desires to consider the Third Notice in detail and file appropriate comments with respect thereto; that the nature of the Third Notice is such as to require consultations, advice and recommendations from various facets of the industry; that the industry convention has been calendered for April 16 to 19, 1951, in Chicago; that it is anticipated that such consultations, advice and recommendations cannot be feasibly accomplished and would not permit counsel a reasonable time to complete proposed comments by April 23, 1951; and that a simultaneous filing date of May 7, 1951, for statements of objections and comments with respect to Appendices A, B, C, and D of said Third Notice would be more efficacious and would not delay the instant proceedings; and

It further appearing, that in its joint petition the above-named parties allege that Appendices A and B are the most important parts of the Third Notice; that the hearings upon which said Appendices are based occupied some thirty days; that, presumably, said Appendices were prepared after many weeks of study by Commission personnel; that counsel for petitioners have found it impossible to adequately study the many hundreds of pages of testimony and exhibits to permit them to submit the citations required by paragraph "11" of said Third Notice; and that the requested extension will not delay final action in these proceedings; and

It further appearing, that good and sufficient cause for the requested extension has been shown by the instant petitioners;

It is ordered, That the date for the filing of statements of objections as provided for in paragraph "11" of the Commission's Third Notice of further proposed rule making herein be extended from April 23, 1951 to May 7, 1951.

Released: April 13, 1951.

RADIOLOCATION SERVICE

SUPPLEMENTAL NOTICE OF HEARING AND NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

In the matter of providing for a Radiolocation Service, particularly one to establish locations accurate to within a few feet from distances beyond line of sight, on a permanent basis. Amendment of the Table of Frequency Allocations to provide for the use of frequencies in the band 1750–1800 kc by the Radiolocation Service. Promulgation of rules to govern a Radiolocation Service on a Developmental basis, said rules to be designated Subpart M of Part 11, Rules Governing Industrial Radio Services.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 13th day of April 1951;

The Commission having under consideration the question of further proceedings incident to the investigation of the above-entitled matter in accordance with its motion and order of February 24, 1949, and its supplemental order and Notice of Hearing of December 7, 1949;

It appearing, that, pursuant to the terms of the Commission's decision in the matter of applications of the Seismograph Service Corporation and the Frost Geophysical Corporation (Docket 8989), experimental radiolocation operations have been, and by subsequent orders, are presently being conducted in the Gulf of Mexico in connection with geophysical prospecting for petroleum;

It further appearing, that the current national emergency makes it desirable to expedite the determination of the eventual status of the Radiolocation Service; that information received by the Commission subsequent to the date of the original order designating this matter for hearing makes feasible a more specific statement of issues as well as the issuance of proposed rules looking toward the allocation of frequencies in the band 1750–1800 kc for use by the Radiolocation Service and to govern such a service in the event the Commission finds that such allocation would be in the public interest in the light of the hearing record;

It further appearing, that authority for this action is contained in section 4 (i), 303 (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), (j) and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended; Article 7 of the Cairo (1938) General Radio Regulations; and Article 3 of the Atlantic City (1947) Radio Regulations.

It is ordered, That the issues set forth in the Supplemental Order and Notice of Hearing of December 7, 1949, are cancelled and the following are substituted in lieu thereof:

1. Whether frequencies in the band 1750–1800 kc should be allocated at this time for a Radiolocation Service in the manner proposed as set forth below, in the light of the possibility of interference to and from the Disaster Communications Service.

2. The nature and extent of any plans for the development and use of a Radiolocation Service on these frequencies in the near future.

3. Whether in the event such an allocation is authorized, the proposed rules for a developmental Radiolocation Service as set forth below should be adopted.

It is further ordered, That interested persons may file with the Commission written comments in support, opposition or urging modification, on or before May 25, 1951, and that a hearing will be held in the above-entitled matter before a member of the Commission to be designated later on June 4, 1951, in Washington, D. C., for the purpose of hearing testimony and receiving evidence regarding the issues set forth above and the Commission's proposals set forth below;

It is further ordered, That any person desiring to participate in the hearing shall file a notice of intention to do so on or before May 25, 1951.

Released: April 16, 1951.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] T. J. SLOWIE,
Secretary.

It is proposed to amend § 2.104 (a) of the Table of Frequency Allocations, Part 2, Rules Governing Frequency Allocations and Radio Treaty Matters as follows:

§ 2.104 Frequency allocations—(a) Table of frequency allocations. • • •

NG 21. For the purpose of off-shore surveys in the Gulf of Mexico area only, stations in the Radiolocation (other than radionavigation) Service may be authorized to use frequencies in this band subject, internationally, to the provisions of paragraph 88 of the Atlantic City, 1947, Radio Regulations and to the use-in-derogation provisions of Article 7 of the Cairo General Radio Regulations. Stations in the Radiolocation Service shall not cause harmful interference to stations in the Disaster Communications Service between the times at New Orleans of sunset and sunrise or at any time during an actual or imminent disaster in any area. Stations in the Disaster Communications Service shall not cause harmful interference to stations in the Radiolocation Service between the times at New Orleans of sunrise and sunset except during an actual or imminent disaster in any area.

SUBPART M—RADIOLOCATION SERVICE

It is proposed to add to new Subpart M, Radiolocation Service, to Part 11, Rules Governing Industrial Radio Services, said subpart to read as follows:

§ 11.601 Nature of service. The rules in this subpart are designed to facilitate the eventual establishment, on a regular basis, of a Radiolocation Service to be used primarily in connection with meteorological, geographical, geological, or geophysical activities. Since there does not appear to be, at this time, any single radiolocation system which is satisfactory in all respects, all operations licensed under this subpart will be on a developmental basis. Inasmuch as the particular type or types of service ultimately established on some permanent basis will, to a large extent, depend upon the distance and degree of accuracy with which it is necessary to establish a position or direction by means of radio, the kind of equipment developed, and the service to be performed, it is not unlikely that different systems will develop in various parts of the spectrum.

§ 11.602 Eligibility. The following persons are eligible to hold authorizations to operate radio stations in the Radiolocation Service:

(a) Any person having a substantial need to establish a position or direction, for other than navigational purposes, by means of radio.

(b) A corporation or association organized for the purpose of furnishing a radiolocation service to persons eligible under paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 11.603 Service authorized. (a) Stations licensed under this subpart to operate on frequencies within the band 1750–1800 kc shall provide service on a just and reasonable basis and without discrimination to all persons eligible under the provisions of § 11.602 (a) of this subpart.

(b) Stations licensed under this subpart to operate on frequencies in bands other than 1750–1800 kc may be required by the Commission to provide service on a just and reasonable basis and without discrimination to all persons eligible under the provisions of § 11.602 (a) of this subpart.

§ 11.604 Showing required for authorization. (a) Applications to operate stations in the Radiolocation Service will be granted only in those cases where it is shown that the applicant is legally, technically, and financially qualified to render the proposed service and that a grant of the application would serve the public interest, convenience or necessity. A showing with respect to technical qualifications should include information which indicates the applicant's ability to construct and operate the proposed facilities; the availability of qualified operating and maintenance personnel; and complete details as to the manner in which the service will be made available to those seeking it under the provisions of § 11.603 of this subpart.

(b) Each application for a new station in this service shall be accompanied by:

(1) A functional description of the manner in which the system will operate including the interrelationship and function of each unit in the system;

(2) Complete technical description of equipment to be used including:

(i) Emission bandwidth;

(ii) Modulation;

(iii) Power input to final stage;

(iv) Pulse width and pulse repetition rate (where applicable);

(v) Physical and radiation characteristics of the antenna system;

(3) A map of the area which it is proposed to serve, showing location of each station; and

(4) A statement signed by the applicant in which it is agreed that any authorization issued pursuant thereto will be accepted with the express understanding that it is subject to change in any of its terms or to cancellation in its entirety at any time, upon reasonable notice but without a hearing, if, in the opinion of the Commission, circumstances should so require.

§ 11.605 Report of operation. (a) A report of the results of the operation of developmental stations in this Service shall be filed within 60 days of the expiration of such authorization. Pursuant to the following-listed determinations of the Federal Power Commission, and in accordance with Departmental Order No. 2583, section 2.22 (a) of August 16, 1950 (15 F. R. 5643), it is ordered as follows:

Subject to valid existing rights and the provisions of existing withdrawals, the public lands hereinafter described, so far as they are withdrawn or reserved for power purposes, are hereby opened to disposition under the public-land laws as provided below, subject to the provisions of section 24 of the Federal Power Act of June 10, 1920 (41 Stat. 1075; 16 U. S. C. 818) as amended, and as to DA-737 and DA-742, California, DA-292, Colorado, and DA-103, Washington, subject to the stipulation that, if and when the lands are needed for power development, any structures or improvements located thereon that may be found to interfere with such development will be removed or relocated without expense to the United States, its licensees or permittees:

Determination No.	Dates and types of withdrawals	Type of restoration	Land

The character of the above-described lands outside of national forests is as follows:

DA-737, California, is rough and semi-mountainous. There is no evidence or indication that it contains any mineral of value. It is suitable for public sale, State selection, or exchange.

DA-742, California, is mountainous land, mineral in character, with no agricultural or small-tract value, and with only limited value for grazing and timber production.

DA-284, Colorado, due to rough topography is non-agricultural and of only limited value for grazing by domestic livestock. It is most suitable for recreation uses under the Small Tract Act.

DA-103, Washington, is dry native grazing land, suitable for disposal by public sale, State or private exchange, or State selection.

§ 502.2 Definitions. • • •

(j) The term "parties" includes the claimant and the Chief of the Claims Branch.

§ 502.22 Hearing Examiners decision. • • •

(d) Unless review has been taken in accordance with § 502.23, or unless an objection has been filed pursuant to § 502.202 (d), the decision of the Hearing Examiner shall be final and shall be the decision of this Office.

2. Part 502, Subpart C—Debt Claims, is hereby amended by the deletion of § 502.200 (g) and § 502.202 through § 502.208, and the substitution thereof of new § 502.202 through § 502.206 as follows:

§ 502.202 Claims against debtors' insolvent estates. (a) Notices of claims filed with this Office against a particular debtor's insolvent estate shall be available for inspection by all claimants in respect of such estate in accordance with the provisions of § 503.1 (b) of this chapter.

(b) With respect to claims against a particular debtor's insolvent estate, the Chief of the Claims Branch may submit to the Director a recommendation for allowance of any claim, or a separable part thereof, which he deems entitled to allowance. The record shall include the notice of claim, any evidence submitted by the claimant with respect thereto, and proposed findings and conclusions. If the Director shall disagree with the recommendation of the Chief of the Claims Branch, the claim shall be remanded by the Director and restored to its former status.

(c) Where the Chief of the Claims Branch concludes for any reason that he cannot recommend allowance of a claim against a particular debtor's insolvent estate, the claim may be docketed for hearing and a hearing shall be held thereon as ordered by the Chief Hearing Examiner. At such hearing, any other claimant against the particular debtor's insolvent estate may file a request for leave to be heard in accordance with the provisions of § 502.5. The decision of a Hearing Examiner is subject to appeal in accordance with the provisions of § 502.23.

(d) The Director shall consider the recommendations for allowance submitted by the Chief of the Claims Branch and any appeals from decisions of a Hearing Examiner in respect of a claim against a particular debtor's insolvent estate and may issue a tentative schedule showing all debt claims proposed to be allowed by him with the priorities assigned thereto and the payment to be made to each claimant. Notice of the issuance of the tentative schedule shall be served on all claimants listed therein, together with notice that objections to such tentative schedule may be filed within the period prescribed in the notice, which period shall not be less than thirty days. The tentative schedule shall be made available for inspection at the Office of Alien Property, Washington, D. C. With the consent of all claimants, the tentative schedule may be omitted.

(e) The Director shall consider any objection to the tentative schedule that may have been timely filed, and may (1) modify or affirm the tentative schedule, (2) remand any claims listed therein to the Chief Hearing Examiner for rehearing, or (3) take such other action as may be appropriate. As soon thereafter as appropriate, the Director shall prepare and serve by registered mail on all claimants in respect of a particular debtor's insolvent estate, a final schedule of the debt claims allowed, with the priorities assigned thereto, and the proposed payment to each claimant.

(f) The Director may issue a tentative schedule and a final schedule limited to claims, payment of which, in accordance with the priorities assigned thereto by the Director pursuant to the provisions of section 34 (g) of the act, would not adversely affect the payment of any other claim in respect of the particular debtor's insolvent estate.

(g) Notwithstanding the provisions of § 502.28, service may be made in all proceedings relating to insolvent estates by ordinary mail, except that the final schedule of the Director shall be served by registered mail.

§ 502.203 Requirement for hearing. No claim shall be disallowed except after opportunity for hearing unless hearing has been waived by the parties.

§ 502.204 Cases of no vested property of debtor. Where there does not exist any vested property of a debtor with respect to which debt claims have been filed, the claimant shall be notified thereof and the claim, after opportunity for hearing before a Hearing Examiner, shall be ordered dismissed.

§ 502.205 Payment of allowed claims. As soon as practicable after the allowance of a claim, in whole or in part, the claim will be paid to the extent allowed: Provided however, That with respect to claims against a debtor's insolvent estate, pending determination of any complaint for review filed under section 34 (f) of the act, payment may be made only to an extent, if any, consistent with the contentions of all claimants for review.

§ 502.206 Future payments. If additional monies become available for the payment of claims after the first payment on allowed claims in respect of a debtor's insolvent estate, the Director shall order further payments in accordance with the final schedule theretofore issued by him, or as modified on review under section 34 (f) of the act.

TITLE 9—ANIMALS AND ANIMAL PRODUCTS

Chapter I—Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture

Subchapter F—Animal Breeds

[BAI Order 379; Amdt. 15]

PART 151—RECOGNITION OF BREEDS AND BOOKS OF RECORD OF PUREBRED ANIMALS

DOGS

Pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by section 201, Paragraph 1606 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (19 U. S. C. and Supp. III, sec. 1201, par. 1606), the Secretary of Agriculture hereby withdraws recognition of the book of record of purebred dogs entitled "Newfoundland Live Stock Register," published by the Department of Natural Resources, St. John's, Newfoundland (Kenneth J. Carter, Secretary), and hereby amends § 151.10 (a), Chapter I, Title 9, Code of Federal Regulations, as amended, by removing the name of the said stud book from the list of books of record named under the subheading "Dogs."

The above action is necessary because the Newfoundland Live Stock Register no longer exists. The purebred registrations for dogs contained in this stud book have been taken over by the Canadian National Live Stock Records, Ottawa, Canada, and incorporated in the Stud Book of the Canadian Kennel Club, Incorporated, which is currently recognized under § 151.10 (b) (3), Chapter I, Title 9, Code of Federal Regulations, as amended. Accordingly, pursuant to the provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003), it is found, upon good cause, that notice and public procedure in connection with this amendment are impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest, and good cause is found for the issuance of this amendment effective less than thirty days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Such notice or hearing is not required by any other statute.

(Sec. 201, par. 1606, 46 Stat. 673, as amended; 19 U. S. C. 1201, par. 1606)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 19th day of April 1951.

Secretary of Agriculture.

In the Matter of Emerson Coat Company, Inc., a Corporation, and Abraham Mink, Individually and as an Officer of Emerson Coat Company, Inc.

Decision of the Commission and order to file report of compliance. Pursuant to the provisions of the Federal Trade Commission Act and the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, and by virtue of the authority vested in it by said acts, the Federal Trade Commission, on April 4, 1950, issued and subsequently served its complaint in this proceeding upon the respondents named in the caption hereof, charging them with the use of unfair and deceptive acts and practices in commerce in violation of the provisions of those acts. After the filing of respondents' answer, a hearing was held before a trial examiner of the Commission theretofore duly designated by it, at which hearing there was read into the record a stipulation as to the facts by and between counsel supporting the complaint and counsel for the respondents, in lieu of all other evidence. On October 26, 1950, the trial examiner filed his initial decision, which was served on the respondents on November 7, 1950.

The Commission, having reason to believe that the initial decision was deficient in certain material respects, subsequently placed this case on its own docket for review, and on December 8, 1950, it issued, and thereafter served upon the parties, its order affording the respondents an opportunity to show cause why said initial decision should not be altered in the manner and to the extent shown in a testative decision of the Commission attached to said order. Respondents not having appeared in response to the leave to show cause, this proceeding regularly came on for final consideration by the Commission upon the record herein on review; and the Commission, having duly considered the matter and being now fully advised in the premises, finds that this proceeding is in the interest of the public and makes this its findings as to the facts, conclusion drawn therefrom, and order, the same to be in lieu of the initial decision of the trial examiner.

Findings as to the Facts

PARAGRAPH 1. The respondent Emerson Coat Company, Inc., is a corporation organized, existing, and doing business under and by virtue of the laws of the State of New York, with its principal office and place of business located at 247 West 37th Street, New York, New York.

The respondent Abraham Mink is president and treasurer of the respondent Emerson Coat Company, Inc.

PAR. 2. The respondents are engaged in the introduction and manufacture for introduction into commerce as "commerce" is defined in the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 and in the Federal Trade Commission Act, and in the offering for sale, sale, transportation, and distribution in said commerce, of wool products, as such products are defined in the said Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939. Many of respondents' said products are composed in whole or in part of wool, reprocessed wool, or reused wool, as those terms are defined in the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, and such products are subject to the provisions of said act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder. Since July 15, 1941, respondents have violated the provisions of said act and rules and regulations in the introduction and manufacture for introduction into commerce, and in the sale, transportation, and distribution in commerce, of said wool products by causing said wool products to be misbranded within the intent and meaning of said act and rules and regulations.

PAR. 3. Among the wool products introduced and manufactured for introduction into commerce and sold, transported, and distributed in said commerce, as aforesaid, were coats which were labeled as "100% All Wool". Some of the coats so labeled actually contained 100 percent reprocessed wool. The coats which contained 100 percent reprocessed wool and which were labeled as "100% All Wool" were thus misbranded in that they did not have affixed a stamp, tag, label, or other means of identification showing the constituent fibers, and percentages thereof, of such products, and other information required by the Wool Products Labeling Act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

Conclusion. The acts and practices of the respondents, as hereinabove found, were in violation of the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 and the rules and regulations thereunder, and constituted unfair and deceptive acts and practices in commerce within the intent and meaning of the Federal Trade Commission Act.

It is ordered, That the respondents, Emerson Coat Company, Inc., a corporation, and its officers, and Abraham Mink, individually, and their respective representatives, agents, and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the introduction or manufacture for introduction into commerce, or the offering for sale, sale, transportation, or distribution in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the aforesaid acts, of coats or other wool products, as such products are defined in and subject to the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, which products contain, purport to contain, or in any way are represented as containing "wool", "reprocessed wool", or "reused wool", as those terms are defined in said act, do forthwith cease and desist from misbranding such coats or other products by failing to affix securely to or place on such products a stamp, tag, label, or other means of identification, showing in a clear and conspicuous manner:

(a) The percentage of the total fiber weight of such wool product, exclusive of ornamentation not exceeding five per centum of said total fiber weight, of (1) wool, (2) reprocessed wool, (3) reused wool, (4) each fiber other than wool where said percentage by weight of such fiber is five percentum or more, and (5) the aggregate of all other fibers.

(b) The maximum percentage of the total weight of such wool product of any non-fibrous loading, filling, or adulterating matter.

(c) The name or the registered identification number of the manufacturer of such wool product or of one or more persons engaged in introducing such wool product into commerce, or in the offering for sale, sale, transportation, or distribution thereof in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act and in the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, Provided, That the foregoing provisions concerning misbranding shall not be construed to prohibit acts permitted by paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 3 of the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939: And, provided further, That nothing contained in this order shall be construed as limiting any applicable provisions of said act or the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

It is further ordered, That the respondents shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report, in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with this order.

Issued: February 26, 1951.

In the Matter of Jack Klein, Inc., a Corporation; and Jack Klein and Herman Rothstein; Individually and as Officers of Jack Klein, Inc.

This proceeding was heard by Frank Hier, trial examiner, upon the complaint of the Commission and the substitute answer of respondents in which respondents Jack Klein, Inc., and Jack Klein individually and as an officer of said corporation admitted all the material allegations of facts set forth in said complaint and waived all intervening procedure and further hearing as to the said facts.

Thereafter the proceeding regularly came on for final consideration by the above named trial examiner, theretofore duly designated by the Commission, upon said complaint and substitute answer thereto, and said trial examiner, having duly considered the record in the proceeding and having found that the same was in the interest of the public, made his initial decision comprising certain findings as to the facts, conclusion drawn therefrom, and order to cease and desist, and order of dismissal as to respondents Herman Rothstein, individually and as an officer of respondent corporation, pursuant to and based on facts stated into the record, and agreed to by counsel on both sides and motion for such dismissal, which was made by counsel in support of the complaint and granted by said trial examiner.

No appeal having been filed from said initial decision of said trial examiner as provided for in Rule XXII, nor any other action taken as thereby provided to prevent said initial decision becoming the decision of the Commission thirty days from service thereof upon the parties, said initial decision, including said order to cease and desist, accordingly, under the provisions of said Rule XXII, became the decision of the Commission, January 13, 1951.

The said order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondents Jack Klein, Inc., a corporation, and its officers, and Jack Klein, individually and as an officer of Jack Klein, Inc., their representatives, agents and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the introduction or manufacture for introduction into commerce, or the sale, transportation or distribution of such products in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the aforesaid acts, do forthwith cease and desist from misbranding ladies' coats or other "wool products," as defined in and subject to the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939, which contain, purport to contain or in any way are represented as containing "wool," "reprocessed wool" or "reused wool," as those terms are defined in said act, by failing to securely affix to or place on such products a stamp, tag, label or other means of identification showing in a clear and conspicuous manner:

(a) The percentage of the total fiber weight of a wool product, exclusive of ornamentation not exceeding five per centum of said total fiber weight of (1) wool, (2) reprocessed wool, (3) reused wool, (4) each fiber other than wool where said percentage by weight of such fiber is five per centum or more and (5) the aggregate of all other fibers;

(b) The maximum percentage of the total weight of such wool products of any nonfibrous loading, filling or adulterating matter;

(c) The percentages in words and figures plainly legible by weight of the wool contents of such wool product where said wool product contains a fiber other than wool;

(d) The name of the manufacturer of the wool product or the name of one or more persons subject to section 3 of the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 with respect to such wool product, or the registered identification number of such person or persons, as provided for in Rule 4 of the regulations to such act, as amended;

Provided, That the foregoing provisions concerning misbranding shall not be construed to prohibit acts permitted by paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 3 of the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939; And provided further, That nothing contained in this order shall be construed as limiting any applicable provisions of said act or the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

It is further ordered, That the complaint herein be, and the same hereby is, dismissed as to Herman Rothstein, individually and as an officer of Jack Klein, Inc.

By "Decision of the Commission and order to File Report of Compliance", Docket 5810, February 7, 1951, which announced fruition of said initial decision on January 13, 1951, report of compliance with the order was required as follows:

It is ordered, That the corporate respondent, Jack Klein, Inc., and the individual respondent Jack Klein shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist.

SALE OF OBLIGATIONS TO THE PUBLIC

Resolved that, pursuant to Part 108 of the general regulations of the Home Loan Bank Board (24 CFR Part 108) and § 167.1 of the rules and regulations for insurance of accounts (24 CFR 167.1), Part 166 of the rules and regulations for insurance of accounts (24 CFR Part 166) is hereby repealed, effective April 25, 1951.

Resolved further that inasmuch as section 6 of Public Law No. 576, 81st Congress, approved June 27, 1950, provided for the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation to obtain funds through borrowing from the Treasury of the United States rather than from the public and as section 5 of Public Law No. 797, 81st Congress, approved September 21, 1950, authorized payment of insurance by cash in lieu of negotiable noninterest bearing debentures and since there are no obligations now outstanding under the provisions of Part 166 of the rules and regulations for insurance of accounts (24 CFR Part 166), the Home Loan Bank Board hereby finds that the repeal of said Part 166 of the rules and regulations for insurance of accounts may be effected under the provisions of § 108.11 of the general regulations of the Home Loan Bank Board (24 CFR 108.11) and that deferment of the effective date would serve no useful purpose.

TITLE 36—PARKS, FORESTS, AND MEMORIALS

Chapter II—Forest Service, Department of Agriculture

PART 231—GRAZING

CONSTITUTING AND ELECTING LOCAL ADVISORY BOARDS

Notice has been published in accordance with section 18 of the Act of April 24, 1950 (Public Law 478, 81st Cong., 2d Sess.), stating the terms of proposed Regulation G-10 governing the constituting and electing of local advisory boards (15 F. R. 7525, November 9, 1950).

The local advisory board for each area that will be affected by said regulation has been afforded an opportunity to file data, views or recommendations pertaining to the proposed regulation, due consideration has been given to relevant matter presented, and certain revisions based upon such data, views or recommendations have been made in the proposed regulation.

In consideration of the foregoing, the following regulation is hereby issued:

§ 231.10 Local Advisory Boards—(a) Functions delegated to Forest Service. The authorities, powers, functions, and duties vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by Section 18 of the Act of April 24, 1950 (Public Law 478, 81st Cong., 2d Sess.), are being delegated to the Forest Service to be exercised by the Chief thereof and such officers and employees as he may designate. The Chief and his designees are being authorized and directed to issue such instructions to the officers and employees of the Forest Service with respect to local advisory boards as may be necessary to carry out this regulation and to deal with such local advisory boards.

(b) Petitions for Local Advisory Boards. A majority of the grazing permittees of any national forest or administrative subdivision thereof may file with the forest supervisor a petition that a local advisory board, as provided for in section 18 of the act of April 24, 1950 (Public Law 478, 81st Cong., 2d Sess.), be constituted and elected to function with respect to the management and administration of the grazing resource of such national forest or administrative subdivision thereof and on behalf of the grazing permittees thereof. Such petitions shall set forth:

(1) The area for which the local advisory board is desired;

(2) The number of members (not less than 3 nor more than 12) of which the petitioners desire that the local advisory board shall consist;

(3) Such other information as the petitioners desire to have considered in connection with the constituting and electing of the local advisory board which may include an expression of the desires of the petitioners (i) as to whether the several members of the board should be elected from and within various zones of the national forest or administrative subdivision thereof with respect to which the board is to be established, or whether such members should be elected from such national forest or administrative subdivision thereof as a whole; (ii) as to whether the several members of the board should be elected from and by the different kinds of grazing permittees; and (iii) as to the manner in which the election of the members of the board shall be held; that is, by a vote at an assembly of the permittees, by ballot at various polling places, or otherwise.

(c) Constituting and electing Local Advisory Board. (1) Upon receipt of a petition pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section the forest supervisor shall examine the petition and determine the validity of the signatures thereon and whether or not a majority of the grazing permittees of the national forest or administrative subdivision thereof covered by the petition has signed the same. If a majority of such grazing permittees has not signed the petition the forest supervisor shall reject it. If a majority of such grazing permittees has signed the petition the forest supervisor shall determine, if the petition covers less than a national forest, whether or not the area covered thereby constitutes a feasible administrative subdivision of the national forest, taking into consideration the size and location of the area, the number of grazing permittees thereon, the number and kind of livestock grazing thereon, and such other factors as he may deem appropriate. If the petition covers less than a national forest, and if the forest supervisor determines that the area covered thereby is a feasible administrative subdivision of the national forest or if the petition covers a national forest, the forest supervisor shall determine:

(i) The number (not less than 3 nor more than 12) of members which the local advisory board shall consist of, taking into consideration the desires of the grazing permittees as expressed in the petition and as otherwise ascertained by the forest supervisor, the size of the area for which the board is to be constituted, the number of permittees thereon, the number and kind of livestock grazed thereon, and such other factors as he may deem appropriate;

(ii) Whether the members of the board shall be elected from and within various zones of the area for which the board is to be established or from the area as a whole, and whether the members of the board shall be elected to represent various interests of the grazing permittees, taking into consideration the desires of the permittees, as expressed in the petition and as otherwise ascertained by the forest supervisor, the size, location, and dispersal of the area for which the board is to be constituted, the number and dispersal of the grazing permittees on such area, the number and kind of livestock grazed thereon, and such other information as he may deem appropriate;

(iii) The manner in which the members of the local advisory board are to be nominated and elected, taking into consideration the desires of the grazing permittees of the area for which the board is to be constituted as expressed in the petition and as otherwise ascertained by the forest supervisor, the number of members of which the board is to consist, the number and places of residence of the grazing permittees on such area, and such other factors as he may deem appropriate.

(2) Such determinations shall be announced to the grazing permittees on the area for which the local advisory board is to be constituted, and the election of the members of the board shall be called within 60 days from the date the petition is received by the forest supervisor: Provided, That if nominations are provided for in advance of the date of the election such nominations shall be made and announced at least 10 days prior to the date of the election. Grazing permittees of the area for which the board is to be constituted shall be eligible to vote in the election. All persons nominated and elected as members of the local advisory board shall be grazing permittees in the area for which such board is constituted, except that a wildlife representative may be appointed as a member of such board by the State Game Commission or the corresponding public body of the State in which the advisory board is located to advise on wildlife problems, but such representative shall not be a voting member of the board.

(3) The forest supervisor or his designee shall ascertain and announce the results of the election of the members of the local advisory board.

(4) Each elected member of the board and the appointed wildlife representative shall hold office for a term of three years or until his successor has been elected and qualified: Provided, however, that grazing permittees elected members of the board at the first election shall be divided as evenly as may be into three groups, by the forest supervisor, one group to hold office one year, one group to hold office two years, and one group to hold office three years. The members to be assigned to each group shall be determined by lot. Thereafter each newly elected member will serve three years. Vacancies shall be filled for an unexpired term. The election of members to fill unexpired terms or for succeeding full terms shall be in same manner in which the original members of the board were elected, unless the forest supervisor, in announcing any such election, shall, after consideration by him of any changes in circumstances or other factors as may have occurred, provide for a different manner.

(5) A member of the local advisory board shall not receive from the Federal Government any compensation for his services or expenses incurred in the discharge of his duties.

(6) The members of the board shall designate a chairman and secretary and may, from time to time, change such designations.

(7) The board shall meet at least annually, with quorum present, and at such time or times as its members may determine or on call of the chairman thereof or the forest supervisor or his designee.

(8) The board, in its discretion, may, with the concurrence of the forest supervisor, and shall, upon a petition signed by two-thirds of the grazing permittees of the area which the board represents, remove from office any board member for failure to perform his duties as a board member.

(9) Any board may be dissolved by a two-thirds majority vote of the qualified grazing permittees of the area which the board represents by using the same procedure of petition and election that was used when the board was originally constituted and elected.

(Sec. 18, Pub. Law 478, 81st Cong.)

Production and Marketing Administration

[7 CFR, Part 70]

ADMINISTRATION OF POULTRY INSPECTION WHERE A FEDERAL-STATE SERVICE IS DESIRED

NOTICE OF PROPOSED INSTRUCTIONS

Notice is hereby given that the Administrator is proposing the issuance, as hereinafter set forth, of instructions governing administration of poultry inspection where a Federal-State service is desired. This action is desirable in order that States, which enter into cooperative agreements with the Administration for the conduct of poultry inspection service on a cooperative Federal-State basis, may know the procedures of the Administration with respect to the manner in which such services are to be administered. This action is being taken under the regulations governing the grading and inspection of poultry and edible products thereof and United States specifications for classes, standards, and grades with respect thereto, which regulations will be issued as Part 70 of the Code of Federal Regulations, pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.) and the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act 1951 (Pub. Law 759, 81st Cong., approved September 6, 1950).

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments for consideration in connection with the proposed instructions should file the same in triplicate with the Chief of the Marketing Services Division, Poultry Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Room 2099 South Building, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the close of business on the 15th day after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposal is as follows:

§ 70.305 Instructions governing administration of poultry inspection where a Federal-State service is desired—(a) Basis of providing Federal-State inspection service. Inspection service rendered pursuant to the regulations governing the grading and inspection of poultry and edible products thereof (Subpart B of this part) may be furnished on a Federal basis or on a Federal-State basis as provided herein. Inspection service in accordance with the regulations shall be furnished on a Federal basis in any State where arrangements have not been made with cooperating State agencies for service on a Federal-State basis. Inspection service shall be furnished on a Federal-State basis in any State in which the cooperating State agency makes a request, and becomes a party to a cooperative agreement which provides for such Federal-State service. Such cooperating parties within the State may be any responsible and qualified agency interested in promoting orderly marketing of poultry products.

(b) Supervision. All inspection service which is provided under the aforesaid regulations and cooperative agreements shall be technically and administratively supervised by the Production and Marketing Administration (hereafter referred to as PMA) through its national and regional supervisory organization. It shall be the responsibility of PMA to determine that the services rendered pursuant to any cooperative agreement under the regulations are conducted in a satisfactory manner, that the actual post-mortem inspection of poultry is adequate, and that uniform procedures and policies are followed in all plants in accordance with the requirements of the regulations. In a State where a Federal-State supervisor of inspection is provided, this supervisor shall be immediately responsible for the activities within the State. However, any supervisory official of PMA at a higher administrative level shall have the authority to observe independently of or in conjunction with the Federal-State supervisor, any particular station or the official activities of any particular inspector at any time he deems it advisable; and shall have the authority to supervise such activities as may be desirable and necessary. Supervisory direction should be applied through the Federal-State supervisor.

(c) Federal-State inspection service when provided, shall be subject to the following conditions—(1) Regulations. The regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture governing the grading and inspection of poultry and edible products thereof and instructions of the Administrator governing the inspection of products shall apply to both Federal-State inspection service and to Federal inspection service. PMA shall assume the responsibility for developing the regulations and any instructions issued pursuant thereto and for the supervision of inspection work carried on under the service.

(2) Qualifications of Federal-State supervisor. The Federal-State supervisor of inspection service shall meet the following qualifications.

(i) He shall have a veterinary degree from an accredited school.

(ii) He shall have such technical knowledge, aptitudes, attitudes, experience, and administrative and supervisory ability as will qualify him for satisfactorily performing the duties of a Federal-State supervisor. These qualifications shall be checked by and be acceptable to PMA.

(iii) He shall have had experience in the Federal poultry inspection service or have successfully completed a course of training at an interne station which is under the supervision of the Federal poultry inspection service of PMA.

(iv) He shall be given a joint Federal-State or a full Federal appointment.

(v) He shall perform supervisory functions in a manner satisfactory to PMA. The Federal-State supervisor may at the discretion of PMA be removed from his position and replaced by another qualified employee whenever such action is in the best interests of PMA.

(3) Duties of the Federal-State supervisor. The Federal-State supervisor of inspection service shall be responsible for the supervision and proper conduct of inspection service within the State or States to which he is assigned. He may be assigned to supervise inspection service in a single State or in two or more adjoining States providing this is agreed to by PMA and the cooperating agencies in such States, except that a Federal-State supervisor shall not have more than 35 plants under his supervision. He shall examine each prospective State inspector and recommend acceptable applicants for a license. Such recommendation shall be in writing and be accompanied by a statement of the qualifications of the applicant. He shall be responsible for making surveys of plants applying for service within his State and present his recommendation for action on such applications in writing accompanied by appropriate supporting evidence to the Federal office of the inspection service. The assignment of State employed inspectors to plants shall be mutually agreeable to the State agency and PMA. Insofar as practicable inspectors will not be assigned to plants where they have been previously employed.

(4) Employment and licensing of State inspectors. (i) The cooperating State agency shall assume responsibility for recruitment and employment of State inspectors for plants under the Federal-State Service, and the salaries of such inspectors shall be paid by the State. Such inspectors may be employed only when licensed by PMA, and it shall be understood that PMA shall have the authority to withdraw such license at any time (and thus terminate the services of any such inspector), in accordance with the provisions of the regulations. The licensed State inspector shall not under any circumstances, while a licensed inspector, accept employment, money or remuneration of any kind from the company to which assigned.

(ii) Each prospective State inspector shall complete a period of training under the immediate supervision of a Federally employed training supervisor. The license issued to the prospective State inspector shall be a limited license authorizing him to perform inspection work only under the supervision of the inspector-in-charge of the station to which he is assigned. A license authorizing the State inspector to serve as inspector-in-charge of a station may be issued when it has been determined by the officer-in-charge of the poultry grading and inspection service of PMA that the inspector is qualified for such a position.

(5) Duties of State-employed inspectors. The duties of the State-employed inspectors shall be the same as the duties of Federally-employed inspectors. Inspectors shall make proper, accurate and adequate post-mortem examinations of poultry carcasses and shall thoroughly familiarize themselves with and adhere to the inspection procedures and the applicable provisions of the Federal regulations governing inspection service.

(6) Replacement of Federal inspectors. When Federal-State inspection service is inaugurated in a State, and when such service will replace Federal inspection service furnished in the State at that time, the replacement of Federal inspectors by State inspectors shall not be carried out until satisfactory transfers of the Federal inspectors to plants out of the State can be accomplished by PMA.

(7) Collection of fees. Either the cooperating State agency or PMA, as agreed upon, may assume the responsibility for the collection of all fees for Federal-State inspection service in the State. The contract providing for Federal-State inspection service shall be between each firm under Federal-State inspection service and the agency responsible for the collection of fees, and each such contract, in either case, shall be approved or concurred in by PMA.

(8) Reimbursement of PMA by State cooperating agency. When the cooperating State agency assumes the responsibility for the collection of fees, it shall reimburse PMA from fees collected or from State appropriations, or both, for the following:

(i) An amount equal to that part of the Federal-State supervisor's salary paid by PMA.

(ii) An amount equal to salaries of any Federally employed inspectors who perform inspection service in any plant operating under Federal-State inspection service, such salary costs to cover the periods of such assignments. (Such assignments to meet emergency needs only.)

(iii) An amount to cover accrued leave both annual and sick and travel costs incurred by persons referred to in subdivisions (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph, during periods such persons are performing Federal-State service.

(iv) An amount sufficient to cover overhead, general supervision and other costs and expenses incurred by the Administration in rendering the inspection service.

(9) Reimbursement of cooperating State agency by PMA. When PMA assumes the responsibility for the collection of fees, it shall reimburse the cooperating State agency for the salaries of the State inspectors, for periods during which such inspectors perform Federal-State inspection service, and for such annual and sick leave as may be authorized by the State, and agreed to by PMA.

(10) Additional provisions. The cooperating State agency shall, without cost to PMA, furnish office space, office furniture and equipment, heat, light, clerical assistance, and telephone service for use by the Federal-State supervisor.

[Docket Nos. G-1325, G-1338, G-1367]

METROPOLITAN UTILITIES DISTRICT OF OMAHA AND NORTHERN NATURAL GAS CO.

ORDER GRANTING MOTION FOR ORAL ARGUMENT

APRIL 18, 1951.

Metropolitan Utilities District of Omaha, complainant, v. Northern Natural Gas Company, respondent; Docket Nos. G-1325 and G-1338. In the matter of Northern Natural Gas Company, Docket No. G-1367.

On November 27, 1950, Northern Natural Gas Company (Northern) filed exceptions to the intermediate decision of the Presiding Examiner issued in the above-styled proceedings on November 6, 1950, together with a motion requesting (1) opportunity to present oral argument to the Commission with respect to such exceptions, and (2) reopening of the hearing for the purpose of enabling Northern to present additional testimony.

With respect to that portion of the motion requesting reopening of the hearing for the purpose of enabling Northern to present additional testimony, it appears that the additional testimony would pertain to matters and issues raised by the pleadings in Docket Nos. G-1325 and G-1338 and concerning which testimony was presented during the hearing in such proceedings. Northern does not allege that the testimony proposed to be offered relates to material changes of fact or law which have arisen since the conclusion of the hearing in the proceedings.

The Commission finds:

(1) It is appropriate that the aforesaid motion be granted insofar as it requests oral argument before the Commission with respect to the issues raised by the exceptions of Northern to the Presiding Examiner's intermediate decision.

(2) Northern has not shown that the public interest requires reopening of the hearing for purpose of enabling the presentation of additional testimony by Northern, and the motion insofar as it requests reopening of the hearing should be denied.

The Commission orders:

(A) Oral argument be had before the Commission on May 14, 1951, at 10:00 a. m., in the Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 1800 Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D. C.

(B) The motion of Northern Natural Gas Company filed November 27, 1950, insofar as it requests reopening of the hearing, be and same hereby is denied.

Date of issuance: April 19, 1951.

By the Commission.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

APRIL 18, 1951.

Take notice that Pacific Gas and Electric Company (Applicant), a California corporation, address 245 Market Street, San Francisco 6, California, filed on April 3, 1951, an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, authorizing the construction and operation of certain transmission pipeline facilities hereinafter described. These facilities will increase, by approximately 150,000,000 cubic feet per day, the capacity of Applicant's Topock-Milpitas pipeline which extends from a point on the boundary line of California near Topock, Arizona, to a point near the town of Milpitas, California, at the southern end of San Francisco Bay.

Applicant proposes to construct approximately 142 miles of loop lines on its existing Topock-Milpitas pipeline and to install 22,780 horsepower of additional compressor capacity in its existing compressor stations. The proposed additions will increase the capacity of the Topock-Milpitas pipeline to 550,000,000 cubic feet per day.

The estimated cost of the proposed facilities is $19,391,000, which will be financed from funds on hand and proceeds from the sale of bonds, preferred stock and common stock.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before the 9th day of May 1951. The application is on file with the Commission for public inspection.

[Docket No. G–1654]

UNITED NATURAL GAS CO. AND EQUITABLE GAS CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

APRIL 18, 1951.

Take notice that United Natural Gas Company (United), a Pennsylvania corporation, of 308 Seneca Street, Oil City, Pennsylvania, and Equitable Gas Company (Equitable), a Pennsylvania corporation, of 435 Sixth Avenue, Pittsburgh 19, Pennsylvania, filed on April 4, 1951, a joint application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act authorizing the exchange of gas for a limited period pursuant to the terms of an agreement between the applicants dated April 2, 1951.

The application recites that United and Equitable are separate parties to service agreements with Tennessee Gas Transmission Company (Tennessee) and Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation (Texas Eastern) under which separate agreements Tennessee is obligated to deliver to United 10,000 Mcf and to Equitable 30,000 Mcf of natural gas daily and Texas Eastern is obligated to deliver to United 45,000 Mcf and to Equitable 30,000 Mcf of natural gas daily. The application further states that because of the national defense program, the demands of Equitable's customers for natural gas are expected to continue at a high level during the summer of 1951 and during the 1951-52 winter heating season. For this reason, the application states, it is essential that Equitable secure as much gas as possible for storage and sale during the summer of 1951. However, studies made by Equitable indicate that, contrary to prior expectations, Equitable will not be able to take into its distribution system the full daily contract quantity of 30,000 Mcf of gas which it is now receiving from Tennessee, during the summer of 1951, the first summer during which deliveries are to be made by Tennessee to Equitable.

It is further stated that during the summer of 1951 Equitable will be able to take gas from Texas Eastern over and above the 30,000 Mcf per day covered by its service agreement. During the same period United expects to have facilities available which will enable it to take gas from Tennessee over and above the 10,000 Mcf of gas per day covered by its service agreement with Tennessee. Under the terms of the agreement between United and Equitable, United has agreed, in its sole discretion, to release to Equitable a portion of the gas United would otherwise receive from Texas Eastern and to take in lieu thereof a portion of the gas which Equitable would otherwise receive from Tennessee. Equitable has agreed, in turn, to release to United a portion of the gas it would otherwise receive from Tennessee and to take in lieu thereof an equivalent amount of gas from Texas Eastern.

No new construction is required under the proposed arrangement.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before the 9th day of May 1951. The application is on file with the Commission for public inspection.

OHIO POWER CO. AND UNION CITY ELECTRIC CO.

NOTICE OF FILING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 19th day of April A. D. 1951.

Notice is hereby given that The Ohio Power Company ("Ohio") and Union City Electric Company ("Union"), both electric utility subsidiaries of American Gas and Electric Company, a registered holding company, have filed a joint declaration pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 (the "act"), and have designated sections 12 (c), 12 (f) and 12 (g) of the act and Rules U-42 and U-43 promulgated thereunder as being applicable to the proposed transactions, which are summarized as follows:

The Commission, in its Order dated March 31, 1950, Holding Company Act Release No. 9776 (File No. 70–2322), authorized the acquisition by Ohio of 525 shares of the common stock of Union, which shares represent all of Union's issued and outstanding securities. In that proceeding, it was represented that the properties of Union would ultimately be acquired and become a part of the properties of Ohio. The power requirements of Union are furnished entirely by Ohio, and the declarants state that Union no longer serves a useful purpose as a separate corporate entity.

The joint declarants now propose that Union be dissolved and that its properties be transferred to and be acquired by Ohio, the sole stockholder of Union. It is represented that the properties of Union to be acquired by Ohio will be recorded on the books of Ohio on the basis of an original cost study, which is now being made, and that any excess over such original cost will be disposed of by a charge to earned surplus, assuming that such accounting procedure is permitted by the regulatory authorities having jurisdiction with respect thereto.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than May 1, 1951, at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., or e. d. s. t., whichever is then currently in effect, request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law raised by said joint declaration, which he desires to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time thereafter, said joint declaration, as filed or as amended, may be permitted to become effective as provided by Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rule U-20 (a) and Rule U-100 thereof.

APR 30 '51

All interested persons are referred to said joint declaration which is on file in the offices of this Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed.

By the Commission.

(Sec. 5, 38 Stat. 719, as amended; 15 U. S. C. 45) [Cease and desist order, Mills Sales Company of N. Y., Inc., et al., Docket 5775, Feb. 23, 1951]

In the Matter of Mills Sales Company of N. Y., Inc., a Corporation, David Jacoby and Evelyn Jacoby, Individually and as Officers of Mills Sales Company of N. Y., Inc.

This proceeding was heard by Frank Hier, trial examiner, upon the complaint, of the Commission, the answer of the respondents, and a hearing at which counsel in support of the complaint and counsel for respondents joined in a stipulation dictated by them into the record, wherein it was agreed that such stipulation might be taken as the facts in the proceeding and in lieu of testimony in support of and in opposition to the charges stated in the complaint, and that it might serve as the basis for findings as to the facts and conclusions based thereon and order disposing of the proceeding, without presentation of proposed findings and conclusions.

Thereafter the proceeding regularly came on for final consideration by said trial examiner upon the complaint, answer, and stipulation, which had been approved by said trial examiner who, after duly considering the record and having found that the proceeding was in the interest of the public, made his initial decision, comprising certain findings as to the facts, conclusion drawn therefrom, and order to cease and desist.

No appeal having been filed from said initial decision of said trial examiner as provided for in Rule XXII, nor any other action taken as thereby provided to prevent said initial decision becoming the decision of the Commission thirty days from service thereof upon the parties, said initial decision, including said order to cease and desist, accordingly, under the provisons of said Rule XXII, became the decision of the Commission February 23, 1951.

The said order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondent Mills Sales Company of N. Y., Inc., a corporation, its officers, directors, employees and representatives, and respondents David Jacoby and Evelyn Jacoby, individually and as officers of such corporation, their employees and representatives, directly or indirectly, or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the sale, offering for sale, and distribution in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, of toys, jewelry, cosmetics, gift items, drugs, or any other merchandise, do forthwith cease and desist from:

1. Representing directly or by implication that Mills Sales Company of N. Y., Inc., owns or controls any subsidiary, firm, company or corporation.

2. Representing directly or by implication that Mills Sales Company of N. Y., Inc., is the world's lowest priced wholesaler, or is never undersold.

3. Shipping any merchandise not identical in all respects with the merchandise ordered by any customer, except with the express consent of the latter.

By "Decision of the Commission and order to File Report of Compliance", Docket 5775, February 27, 1951, which announced fruition of said initial decision, report of compliance with the order was required as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondents herein shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: February 27, 1951.

(Sec. 5, 38 Stat. 719, as amended, 15 U. S. C. 45) [Cease and desist order, Electrovox Company, Inc., et al., Docket 5781, Feb. 26, 1951]

In the Matter of Electrovox Company, Inc., a Corporation, Lowell Walcutt and Robert G. Walcutt, individually and as officers of Electrovox Company, Inc.

This proceeding was heard by Clyde M. Hadley, trial examiner, upon the complaint of the Commission and the joint answer of the respondents in which they admitted all of the material allegations of facts set forth in the complaint and waived all intervening procedure and further hearing as to the said facts, but reserved the right to a hearing upon proposed conclusions of fact or law, which reservation, as pertaining to any hearings before the trial examiner, was duly waived by their counsel.

Thereafter the proceeding regularly came on for final consideration by the above named trial examiner, theretofore duly designated by the Commission, upon said complaint and answer, all intervening procedure having been waived, and no proposed findings and conclusions having been submitted by counsel, or oral argument requested, and said trial examiner having duly considered the record, and found the instant proceeding in the interest of the public, made his initial decision, comprising certain findings as to the facts, conclusions drawn therefrom, and order to cease and desist.

No appeal having been filed from said initial decision of said trial examiner as provided for in Rule XXII, nor any other action taken as thereby provided to prevent said initial decision becoming the decision of the Commission thirty days from service thereof upon the parties, said initial decision, including said order to cease and desist, accordingly, under the provisions of said Rule XXII, became the decision of the Commission February 26, 1951.

The said order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondents Electrovox Company, Inc., a corporation, and Lowell Walcutt and Robert G. Walcutt, individually and as officers thereof, and their agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the sale and distribution of phonograph needles in commerce as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, do forthwith cease and desist from representing, directly or by implication:

1. That their phonograph needles made with synthetic points or tips contain sapphire, ruby, or other gem or jewel as generally understood by the trade and the consuming public.

2. That their phonograph needles will play, or may be relied upon or depended upon to play, satisfactorily up to 10,000, 6,000, or 4,000 records, or any other specified number thereof not definitely proven under the varied conditions of normal use.

By "Decision of the Commission and order to File Report of Compliance", Docket 5781, February 26, 1951, which announced fruition of said initial decision, report of compliance with the order was required as follows:

It is ordered, That the corporate respondent, Electrovox Company, Inc., and the individual respondents, Lowell Walcutt and Robert G. Walcutt, shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: February 26, 1951.

By the Commission.

PART 200—FEATHER AND DOWN PRODUCTS INDUSTRY

PROMULGATION OF TRADE PRACTICE RULES

Due proceedings having been held under the trade practice conference procedure in pursuance of the act of Congress approved September 26, 1941, as amended (Federal Trade Commission Act), and other provisions of law administered by the Commission;

It is now ordered, That the trade practice rules of Group I and Group II, as hereinafter set forth, which have been approved and received, respectively, by the Commission in this proceeding, be promulgated as of April 26, 1951.

Statement by the Commission. Trade practice rules for the Feather and Down Products Industry, as hereinafter set forth, are promulgated by the Federal Trade Commission under the trade practice conference procedure. Such rules constitute a revision and supplementation of the rules promulgated by the Commission for the Feather and Down Industry on July 18, 1932, and supersede the 1932 rules.

Members of the industry are the persons, firms, corporations, and organizations engaged in the manufacture, processing, distribution and sale in commerce of pillows, cushions, comforters, sleeping bags, and similar products, which are wholly or partially filled with feathers or down.

The rules are directed to the elimination and prevention of various unfair trade practices and are issued in the interest of protecting the purchasing public and maintaining fair competitive conditions in the industry. To this end the rules provide a helpful guide to all concerned.

The industry affected has fully cooperated with the Commission in the formulation and establishment of the rules. During the course of the proceedings a general industry conference was held under Commission auspices in New York City, at which proposals for rules were submitted for the consideration of the Commission. Thereafter, a draft of proposed rules was released by the Commission and public hearing thereon held in Washington, D. C., at which all interested or affected parties were afforded opportunity to present their views, suggestions, or objections regarding the rules.

Following such hearing, and upon consideration of the entire matter, final action was taken by the Commission whereby it approved and received, respectively, the trade practice rules hereinafter appearing in Group I and Group II.

Such rules become operative thirty (30) days from the date of promulgation.

These rules promulgated by the Commission are designed to foster and promote the maintenance of fair competitive conditions in the interest of protecting industry, trade, and the public. It is to this end, and to the exclusion of any act or practice which suppresses competition, restrains trade, fixes or controls price through combination or agreement, or which otherwise injures, destroys, or prevents competition, that the rules are to be applied.

GROUP I

General statement. The unfair trade practices embraced in §§ 200.1 to 200.18 are considered to be unfair methods of competition, unfair or deceptive acts or practices, or other illegal practices, prohibited under laws administered by the Federal Trade Commission; and appropriate proceedings in the public interest will be taken by the Commission to prevent the use, by any person, partnership, corporation, or other organization subject to its jurisdiction, of such unlawful practices in commerce.

§ 200.1 Misrepresentation and deception in general. It is an unfair trade practice to use, or cause or promote the use of, any trade promotional literature, advertising matter, guarantee, warranty, mark, brand, label, trade name, picture, design or device, designation, or other type of oral or written representation, however disseminated or published, which has the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers or prospective purchasers:

(a) With respect to the type, kind, grade, quality, quantity, weight, size, color, origin, durability, processing, testing, construction, manufacture, distribution, or customary or regular price, of any industry product, or concerning any component, contents, or covering of such product; or

(b) With respect to the colorfastness, finish, thread count, weight, pattern, material, type of fiber or weave, or feather- or down-resistant qualities of the sewn, permanent, or removable cover or covering of any industry product; or

(c) Which in any other material respect has the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving the purchasing or consuming public. [Rule 1]

§ 200.2 Deceptive pictures or symbols. It is an unfair trade practice, in connection with the offering for sale, sale, or distribution of industry products, to use as part of a label, advertisement, trade name, or other representation, any depiction of a waterfowl or other picture, symbol, or design which, either alone or in conjunction with accompanying words, phrases, or other representations, has the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers or prospective purchasers into the belief that the product is composed (in whole or in part) of feathers or down when such is not the fact, or is composed (in whole or in part) of feathers or down from fowl of the type or color represented by such words, pictures, or other symbols, when such is not the fact. [Rule 2]

§ 200.3 Identification and disclosure of kind and type of filling material in industry products. (a) In the sale, offering for sale, or distribution of industry products, it is an unfair trade practice to misrepresent or deceptively conceal the identity of the kind or type of filling material contained in any of such products, or of the kinds or types, and proportions of each, when the filling material is a mixture of more than one kind or type. Such identification and disclosure shall be made by tag or label securely affixed to the outside covering of each product and in invoices and all advertising and trade promotional literature relating to the product; and when the filling material is a mixture of more than one kind or type, each kind and type shall either be listed in the order of its predominance by weight, or be listed with an accompanying disclosure of the fraction or percentage by weight of the entire mixture which it represents.

(b) Identification of the kind and type of feather and down stock by use of any of the terms listed and defined in this paragraph will be considered proper when in accord with the definition set forth for such term:

(1) Down. The undercoating of waterfowl, consisting of clusters of the light, fluffy filaments growing from one quill point but without any quill shaft.

(2) Down fiber. The barbs of down plumes separated from the quill points.

(3) Waterfowl feathers. Goose feathers, duck feathers, or any mixture of goose and duck feathers.

(4) Feathers (or natural feathers). Bird or fowl plumage having quill shafts and barbs and which has not been processed in any manner other than by washing, dusting, and sterilizing.

(5) Quill feathers (or quills). Wing feathers or tail feathers or any mixture of wing and tail feathers.

(6) Crushed feathers. Feathers which have been processed by a crushing or curling machine which has changed the original form of the feathers without removing the quill.

(7) Stripped feathers. The barbs of feathers stripped from the quill shaft but not separated into feather fiber.

(8) Feather fiber. The barbs of feathers which have been completely separated from the quill shaft and any aftershaft and which are in nowise joined or attached to each other.

(9) Chopped feathers. Feathers which have been subjected to a chopping or cutting process and as a result have been chopped or cut into pieces.

(10) Damaged feathers. Feathers, other than crushed, chopped, or stripped, which are broken, damaged by insects, or otherwise materially injured.

(c) Tolerance:[1]

(1) Subject to the restrictions and limitations of this paragraph, the filling material of an industry product may be represented as being of but one kind or type when 85 percent of the weight of all filling material contained in the product is of the represented kind or type; or may be represented as being of a mixture of two or more kinds or types with accompanying disclosure of a fraction or percentage of the weight of the entire mixture represented by each if the fraction or percentage shown is not at variance with the actual proportion of the weight of the entire mixture represented by each such kind or type by more than 15 percent of the stated fraction or percentage.

(2) Limitations and restrictions:

(i) When the filling material of an industry product is represented, directly or indirectly, as being wholly of down, any proportion within the tolerance percentage provided for in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph which is not down shall consist principally of down fiber and or small, light, and fluffy waterfowl feathers, shall contain no quill feathers, crushed feathers, or chopped feathers, and shall not contain damaged feathers, quill pith, quill fragments, trash, or any matter foreign to feather and down stock in excess of 2 percent by weight of the filling material contained in the product or which in the aggregate exceeds 5 percent of such weight.

(ii) When the filling material of an industry product is represented, directly or indirectly, as being wholly of waterfowl feathers, any proportion within the tolerance percentage provided for in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph which is not waterfowl feathers shall not contain non-waterfowl feathers in excess of 5 percent by weight of the filling material in the product, nor quill pith, quill fragments, trash, or any matter foreign to feather and down stock in excess of 2 percent by weight of the filling material in the product or which in the aggregate exceeds 5 percent of such weight; and, unless nondeceptively disclosed in the representation, not in excess of 5 percent by weight of the filling material of the product shall consist of waterfowl quill feathers, waterfowl damaged feathers, waterfowl crushed feathers, or waterfowl chopped feathers.

(iii) When the filling material of an industry product is represented, directly or indirectly, as being wholly of feathers (or natural feathers), any proportion within the tolerance percentage provided for in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph which is not natural feathers shall not contain quill pith, quill fragments, trash, or any matter foreign to feather and down stock in excess of 2 percent by weight of the filling material in the product or which in the aggregate exceeds 5 percent of such weight; and, unless nondeceptively disclosed in the representation, not in excess of 5 percent by weight of the filling material of the product shall consist of crushed feathers, chopped feathers, quill feathers, or damaged feathers.

(iv) When the filling material of an industry product is represented, directly or indirectly, as being wholly of a mixture of down and feathers, or of down and more than one kind or type of feathers, or of feathers of more than one kind or type, any proportion, or the aggregate of any proportions, of the filling material of the product at variance with the representation, but within the tolerance percentage provided for in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, shall not contain quill pith, quill fragments, trash, or any matter foreign to feather and down stock in excess of 2 percent by weight of the filling material in the product or which in the aggregate exceeds 5 percent of such weight; and, unless nondeceptively disclosed in the representation, not in excess of 5 percent by weight of the filling material of the product shall consist of crushed feathers, chopped feathers, quill feathers, or damaged feathers.

NOTE: It is the concensus of the industry that determination as to whether any representation is violative of the provisions of this section should be based on an average of the results of tests of at least two products of the same type when same are readily available for testing, and that a proper method of testing such product would be as follows:

Samples of approximately equal weight and size should be drawn from at least three different locations in the product. Such samples should then be thoroughly mixed so as to assure of substantially uniform distribution of each kind and type of component material. From such mixture a test sample of not less than 3 grams weight should be drawn. The kinds and types of materials in said test sample should then be identified and separated and each kind or type then separately weighed and the percentage by weight of each kind and type computed from such weights. The identification of the variou kinds and types of feather and down stock in the test sample should be made by a competent feather and down analyst.

(d) Nothing in this section is to be construed as relieving industry members from complying with the requirements of § 200.5 when the filling material of any industry product, or any component thereof, is used or second-hand, or from complying with the requirements of § 200.6 "Cleanliness of feathers, down, and other components. [Rule 3]

§ 200.4 Disclosure as to covering materials. It is an unfair trade practice to misrepresent or deceptively conceal the type or kind of fabric or other material used in covers and cases of industry products, or the fiber or material content of any inner, outer, permanent, or removable covers or cases.

NOTE: Products containing rayon, silk, or linen shall be identified as to their fiber and material content in labels, invoices, and advertisements, in accordance with the requirements of trade practice rules heretofore promulgated by the Commission for the Rayon Industry, Silk Industry, and Linen Industry.

Products containing, purporting to contain, or in any way represented as containing, wool, reprocessed wool, or reused wool, shall be labeled in accordance with the requirements of the Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 and the rules and regulations issued thereunder.

§ 200.5 Second-hand feathers, down, and other components. To offer for sale, sell, or distribute any industry product containing any component which has previously been used in any product, or used for any purpose, without clearly disclosing that fact in describing, advertising, labeling, invoicing and selling such product, and in all representations concerning the product, is an unfair trade practice. It is likewise an unfair trade practice to misrepresent or deceptively conceal the type, kind, or amount of such components, or to use with reference to said products descriptive words, phrases, labels, or other representations which have the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers or prospective purchasers concerning the effect on said material of such prior use or concerning the type, extent, method, or effect of any reprocessing, renovation, or resterilization of such material.

NOTE: Disclosure that feathers or down have been previously used may be made by clear and conspicuous use of the term "second-hand." Designation of such material as "reworked" or "reprocessed," or use of similar phrases, without further clear and conspicuous statement that such material is not new or has been previously used, is deemed misleading.

[Rule 5]

§ 200.6 Cleanliness of feathers, down, and other components. It is an unfair trade practice to sell or distribute for sale to the ultimate consumer, without full and nondeceptive disclosure concerning the unclean, unsanitary, and unsterilized nature of the contents, any industry product containing feathers, down, or other components which have not been sterilized and properly washed or otherwise properly cleaned, or containing used or second-hand feathers, down, or any other components which have not been re-sterilized and re-cleaned, such practice having the capacity and tendency or effect of causing purchasers or consumers to be misled or deceived by reason of concealment or nondisclosure of the condition of the feathers, down, or other contents of such product.

NOTE: Standard tests, such as the New York State Oxygen Test, should be used to determine whether feathers and down have been properly cleaned. Such a test may be made in the following manner:

Ten grams of feathers and down are transferred to a glass jar or similar container and 1 liter of distilled water at room temperature is added. The material is thoroughly wetted by shaking and placed in an incubator at 25° C. for one hour. It is then filtered through 19-cm. coarse filter paper, and 100 ml. of filtrate are pipetted into a porcelain casserole. The liquid is made just acid to litmus with 6 N sulfuric acid and 1 ml. of acid is added in excess. The solution is titrated in the cold with 0.1 N potassium permanganate by adding 2-drop portions and then stirring until a pink color persists for 60 seconds.

The number of milliliters of potassium permanganate used is noted, and calculated to number of grams of oxygen per 100,000 grams of sample (oxygen number). 1 ml. of 0.1 N $KMnO_4$=0.8 mg. of oxygen=80, oxygen, number.

Material having an oxygen number above 20 shall be deemed to be not properly cleaned.

[Rule 6]

§ 200.7 Disclosure as to size. (a) In connection with the offering for sale, sale, or distribution of industry products, it is an unfair trade practice to misrepresent or deceptively conceal the size of any product, or to advertise, mark, brand, stamp, tag, label, or otherwise represent or describe, any industry product in a manner having the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers or prospective purchasers as to the size or any dimension of such product.

(b) In the application of this section, the following standards and tolerances shall be observed to the end that confusion, misunderstanding, deception, and unfair competitive practices may be avoided and prevented.

(1) Representations concerning the size of a product shall set forth or indicate the finished size of the product (that is, the dimensions of the product as offered for sale) in a clear, definite, and unambiguous manner.

EXAMPLE: Either "Finished Size—21x27" or "Size 21x27" is a proper label for a product with a finished size 21 inches wide and 27 inches long. A size label stating only "21x 27" is also deemed a representation that such is the finished size.

(2) In the case of representations concerning the finished size of industry products, a tolerance on each dimension of one-fourth inch for pillows and one inch for comforters will be allowed.

EXAMPLE: A pillow labeled "Size 21x27" is within the tolerance if the measurement of its shortest end and side is not less than $20\frac{3}{4}$x$26\frac{3}{4}$ and the measurement of its longest end and side is not more than $21\frac{1}{4}$x$27\frac{1}{4}$.

(3) Truthful disclosure of the cut size of a product's cover before sewing and filling may be made in conjunction with, and with no greater conspicuousness than, any disclosure of the finished size of the product, when explanation is made of the meaning of such cut size, and when such disclosure is made in a clear, definite, and unambiguous manner that does not mislead or deceive the purchaser or prospective purchaser concerning the finished size of the product.

EXAMPLE: A finished product size label stating only "Cut Size—21 x 27" does not comply with the foregoing rule. A proper label could read: "Finished Size—20 x 26; Cut Size of Cover Before Sewing and Filling—21 x 27."

[Rule 7]

§ 200.8 Guarantees, warranties, etc. (a) It is an unfair trade practice to use or cause to be used any guarantee which is false, misleading, deceptive, or unfair to the purchasing or consuming public.

(b) The following types of guarantees are examples of those considered unfair trade practices and in violation of this section:

(1) Guarantees which are so used, or are of such form, text, or character, as to import, imply, or represent that the guarantee is broader than is in fact true, and guarantees which in themselves or in the manner of their use are otherwise false, misleading, or deceptive.

(2) Guarantees which purportedly extend for indefinite or unlimited periods of time, or for such long periods of years, as to have the capacity and tendency or effect of thereby misleading or deceiving purchasers or users into the belief that the product has or is definitely known to have a greater degree of serviceability or durability in actual use than is in fact true.

(3) Guarantees which have the capacity and tendency or effect of otherwise misrepresenting the serviceability, durability, or lasting qualities of the product, or of its feather and down content, or of its fabric covering or of any mothproofing or other special treatment or quality of such product.

(c) This section shall be applicable not only to guarantees, but also to warranties, to purported warranties and guarantees, and to any promise or representation in the nature of or purporting to be a guarantee or warranty. [Rule 8]

§ 200.9 Fictitious price lists. The publishing or circulating by any member of the industry of false or misleading price quotations, price lists, terms or conditions of sale, or reports as to production or sales, with the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers, prospective purchasers, or the consuming public, or the advertising, sale, or offering for sale of industry products at prices purporting to be reduced from what are in fact fictitious prices, or at purported reductions in price when such purported reductions are in fact fictitious or are otherwise misleading or deceptive, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 9]

§ 200.10 Use of lottery schemes. The offering or giving of prizes, premiums, or gifts in connection with the sale or distribution of industry products, or as an inducement thereto, by any scheme which involves a lottery or scheme of chance, and the sale or distribution of industry products by any method or plan which involves a lottery or scheme of chance, are unfair trade practices. [Rule 10]

§ 200.11 Misrepresentation as to character of business. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry to represent, directly or indirectly, through the use of any word or term in his corporate or trade name, in his advertising or otherwise, that he is a manufacturer of feather and down products, or that he is the owner or operator of a factory or producing company manufacturing them, or that he owns, maintains, or operates a research laboratory devoted to feather, down, pillow, comforter, or bedding research and development, when such is not the fact, or in any other manner to misrepresent the character, extent, volume, or type of his business. [Rule 11]

§ 200.12 False invoicing. Withholding from or inserting in invoices any statements or information by reason of which omission or insertion a false or misleading record is made, wholly or in part, of the transactions represented on the face of such invoices, with the purpose or effect of thereby misleading or deceiving dealers, purchasers, prospective purchasers, or the consuming public, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 12]

§ 200.13 Combination or coercion to fix prices, suppress competition, or restrain trade. It is an unfair trade practice for a member of the industry:

(a) To use, directly or indirectly, any form of threat, intimidation, or coercion against any member of the industry or other person unlawfully to fix, maintain, or enhance prices, suppress competition, or restrain trade; or

(b) To enter into or take part in, directly or indirectly, any agreement, understanding, combination, conspiracy, or concerted action with one or more members of the industry, or with one or more other persons, unlawfully to fix, maintain, or enhance prices, suppress competition, or restrain trade. [Rule 13]

§ 200.14 Prohibited discrimination—

(a) Prohibited discriminatory prices, or rebates, refunds, discounts, credits, etc., which effect unlawful price discrimination. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce,[1] in the course of such commerce, to grant or allow, secretly or openly, directly or indirectly, any rebate, refund, discount, credit, or other form of price differential, where such rebate, refund, discount, credit, or other form of price differential, effects a discrimination in price between different purchasers of goods of like grade and quality, where either or any of the purchases involved therein are in commerce,[1] and where the effect thereof may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce,[2] or to injure, destroy, or prevent competition with any person who either grants or knowingly receives the benefit of such discrimination, or with customers of either of them: Provided, however:

(1) That the goods involved in any such transaction are sold for use, consumption, or resale within any place under the jurisdiction of the United States;

(2) That nothing in this section shall prevent differentials which make only due allowance for differences in the cost of manufacture, sale, or delivery resulting from the differing methods or quantities in which such commodities are to such purchasers sold or delivered;

(3) That nothing in this section shall prevent persons engaged in selling goods, wares, or merchandise in commerce[1] from selecting their own customers in bona fide transactions and not in restraint of trade;

(4) That nothing in this section shall prevent price changes from time to time where made in response to changing conditions affecting the market for or the marketability of the goods concerned, such as but not limited to actual or imminent deterioration of perishable goods, obsolescence of seasonal goods, distress sales under court process, or sales in good faith in discontinuance of business in the goods concerned.

(b) Prohibited brokerage and commissions. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce,[1] in the course of such commerce, to pay or grant, or to receive or accept, anything of value as a commission, brokerage, or other compensation, or any allowance or discount in lieu thereof, except for services rendered in connection with the sale or purchase of goods, wares, or merchandise, either to the other party to such transaction or to an agent, representative, or other intermediary therein, where such intermediary is acting in fact for or in behalf, or is subject to the direct or indirect control, of any party to such transaction other than the person by whom such compensation is so granted or paid.

(c) Prohibited advertising or promotional allowances, etc. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce[1] to pay or contract for the payment of advertising or promotional allowances or any other thing of value to or for the benefit of a customer of such member in the course of such commerce as compensation or in consideration for any services or facilities furnished by or through such customer in connection with the processing, handling, sale, or offering for sale of any products or commodities manufactured, sold, or offered for sale by such member, unless such payment or consideration is available on proportionally equal terms to all other customers competing in the distribution of such products or commodities.

(d) Prohibited discriminatory services or facilities. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce[1] to discriminate in favor of one purchaser against another purchaser or purchasers of a commodity bought for resale, with or without processing, by contracting to furnish or furnishing, or by contributing to the furnishing of, any services or facilities connected with the processing, handling, sale, or offering for sale of such commodity so purchased upon terms not accorded to all competing purchasers on proportionally equal terms.

(e) Inducing or receiving an illegal discrimination in price. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce,[1] in the course of such commerce, knowingly to induce or receive a discrimination in price which is prohibited by the foregoing provisions of this section.

(f) Exemptions. The inhibitions of this section shall not apply to purchases of their supplies for their own use by schools, colleges, universities, public libraries, churches, hospitals, and charitable institutions not operated for profit.

NOTE: In complaint proceedings charging discrimination in price or services or facilities furnished, and upon proof having been made of such discrimination, the burden of rebutting the prima facie case thus made by showing justification shall be upon the person charged; and unless justification shall be affirmatively shown, the Commission is authorized to issue an order terminating the discrimination: Provided, however, That nothing in this section shall prevent a seller rebutting the prima facie case thus made by showing that his lower price or the furnishing of services or facilities to any purchaser or purchasers was made in good faith to meet an equally low price of a

[1] As here used, the word "commerce" means "trade or commerce among the several States and with foreign nations, or between the District of Columbia or any Territory of the United States and any State, Territory, or foreign nation, or between any insular possessions or other places under the jurisdiction of the United States, or between any such possession or place and any State or Territory of the United States or the District of Columbia or any foreign nation, or within the District of Columbia or any Territory or any insular possession or other place under the jurisdiction of the United States."

competitor or the services or facilities furnished by a competitor.

[Rule 14]

§ 200.15 Discriminatory returns. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry to discriminate in favor of one customer-purchaser against another customer-purchaser of industry products, bought from such member of the industry for resale, by contracting to furnish, or furnishing in connection therewith, upon terms not accorded to all customer-purchasers on proportionately equal terms, the service or facility whereby such favored purchaser is accorded the privilege of returning industry products so purchased and receiving therefor credit or refund of purchase price: Provided, however, That nothing in §§ 200.1 to 200.18 shall prohibit or be used to prevent the return of merchandise by purchaser, for credit or refund of purchase price, when and because such merchandise has not been properly labeled by the seller in accordance with §§ 200.1 to 200.18, or has been otherwise falsely or deceptively labeled or represented, or when and because such merchandise is defective in material, workmanship, or in any other respect is contrary to warranty or purchase contract. [Rule 15]

§ 200.16 Commercial bribery. It is an unfair trade practice for a member of the industry, directly or indirectly, to give, or offer to give, or permit or cause to be given, money or anything of value to agents, employees, or representatives of customers or prospective customers, or to agents, employees, or representatives of competitors' customers or prospective customers, without the knowledge of their employers or principals, as an inducement to influence their employers or principals to purchase or contract to purchase industry products manufactured or sold by such industry member or the maker of such gift or offer, or to influence such employers or principals to refrain from dealing in the products of competitors or from dealing or contracting to deal with competitors. [Rule 16]

§ 200.17 Defamation of competitors or false disparagement of their products. The defamation of competitors by falsely imputing to them dishonorable conduct, inability to perform contracts, questionable credit standing, or by other false representations, or the false disparagement of the products of competitors in any respect, or of their business methods, selling prices, values, credit terms, policies, or services, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 17]

§ 200.18 Aiding or abetting use of unfair trade practices. It is an unfair trade practice for any person, firm, or corporation to aid, abet, coerce, or induce another, directly or indirectly, to use or promote the use of any unfair trade practice specified in §§ 200.1 to 200.18 [Rule 18]

GROUP II

General statement. Compliance with trade practice provisions embraced in §§ 200.101 to 200.102 is considered to be conducive to sound business methods and is to be encouraged and promoted individually or through voluntary cooperation exercised in accordance with existing law. Nonobservance of such sections does not per se constitute violation of law. Where, however, the practice of not complying with §§ 200.101 to 200.102 is followed in such manner as to result in unfair methods of competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in commerce, corrective proceedings in respect thereto may be instituted by the Commission as in the case of violation of §§ 200.1 to 200.18.

§ 200.101 Use of size marks and labels. The industry approves the practice of marking and labeling all industry products in a manner which accurately and nondeceptively discloses the size of such products and disapproves the practice of distributing and selling industry products which are not thus marked or labeled with respect to size. [Rule A]

§ 200.102 Industry committee. A Committee on Trade Practices is hereby authorized to cooperate with the Federal Trade Commission and to perform such acts as may be legal and proper in the furtherance of fair competitive practices and in promoting the effectiveness of this part.

TITLE 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

Subtitle A—Office of the Secretary of Defense

PART 31—DEFENSE CONTRACT FINANCING POLICY

Sec.
31.1 Purpose.
31.2 Definitions.
31.3 General policies.
31.4 Contract finance committee.
31.5 Advance payments.
31.6 Issuance of regulations.

AUTHORITY: §§ 31.1 to 31.6 issued under 61 Stat. 499, as amended; 5 U. S. C. 171-172j. Interpret or apply 55 Stat. 839, as amended, 62 Stat. 21, secs. 301-304, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.; 50 U. S. C. app. 611, 41 U. S. C. 151-161, E. O. 10210, Feb. 6, 1951, 16 F. R. 1049.

§ 31.1 Purpose. The purpose of this part is to establish basic contract financing policy for the Department of Defense to assure proper uniformity in policies, procedures, and forms, and to provide for application of the fundamental management principle of internal check and balance.

§ 31.2 Definitions. The term "financing" as used in this part covers government guaranteed loans, advance payments, and progress and partial payments (except partial payments for delivery of one or more completed units called for under a contract) necessary for both performance and termination purposes, to the extent authorized by law. (Insofar as progress and partial payments are concerned, it is contemplated that contract financing officers will participate in the development of appropriate standard contract provisions designed to avoid undue risk to the government and would participate only in specific cases involving unusual financial arrangements and conditions.)

§ 31.3 General policies. (a) Financing must support procurement and should be designed to aid not impede essential procurement, but should be so administered as to minimize the risk of monetary loss to the Government to the extent compatible with aiding essential procurement. To this end:

(1) In terms of organization, the financing function should be separated from the procurement function, but close cooperation between the procurement and financing functions should be preserved at all times.

(2) Procuring activities in placing contracts must give due regard to the financial capabilities of the supplier.

(3) Government financing for production or services should be provided only if, and to the extent, reasonably required for prompt and efficient performance of government contracts and subcontracts.

(4) Financing through guaranteed loans or advance payments should be made available to a supplier in cases where (i) the production or service is essential and (ii) no alternative source is readily available.

(5) It is recognized that adequate protection against the financial impact of termination of government contracts and subcontracts should encourage suppliers to invest their own funds in performance under such contracts and that financing for termination purposes will be an important aid to ultimate reconversion of industry to peacetime activities. Accordingly, termination financing may be made available, with appropriate protection of the government's interest, either in connection with or independently of performance financing.

(6) If a disagreement arises between the financing office and the interested procurement activity in any department as to whether, to what extent, or in what form, financing should be furnished, the matter will be referred immediately to and resolved in the higher echelons of authority responsible respectively for financing and procurement functions, subject to any issue being resolved ultimately by the Secretary of the department concerned.

(b) When financing through loans or advance payments is requested, the interested procuring activity shall certify that the case meets the requirements set forth in paragraph (a) (4) of this section and shall accompany such certification with adequate supporting data pertinent to the case.

(c) Uniform financing policies and, so far as practicable, uniform procedures and standard forms are to be used by the Military Departments and, to the extent mutually agreed upon by the Military Departments, facilities and personnel are to be used in common. In formulating such policies, procedures, and forms due regard shall be given to the desirability of following, so far as consistent with present circumstances, the policies and procedures developed during World War II.

(d) In determining what form of financing shall be recommended or made available to suppliers, the following order of preference should generally be observed, recognizing that there may be valid exceptions in specific cases or classes of cases:

(1) Private financing (without governmental guarantee).

(2) Progress or partial payments.

(3) Guaranteed loans (with financing institutions participating to an extent appropriate to the risk involved).

(4) Advance payments.

(e) The responsibility for insuring uniform administration of financing in accordance with this part shall be in the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Comptroller). Specific cases need not be referred to the Office of the Assistant Secretary (Comptroller), unless policy or important procedural problems are involved, and the day-to-day financing operations shall be the responsibility of the Military Departments.

(f) Responsibility for financing in each Department shall be in the Under or Assistant Secretary responsible for the comptroller function, with the focal point of such activities at departmental headquarters although contract financing offices may be established at the operational level determined by that department.

(g) Guaranteed loans under section 301 of the Defense Production Act of 1950 (50 USC App. 2091) will be used primarily for working capital purposes as was done during World War II. Such guarantee authority will not be used for loans for facilities expansion.

(h) It is contemplated that essential facilities expansion will be provided pursuant to the authority and funds under sections 302, 303 (d) and 304 of the Defense Production Act of 1950 (50 USC App. 2092, 2093 (d), 2094) and pursuant to specific authority and funds available under appropriation to the Military Departments for this purpose.

(i) It is not the purpose of this part, however, to preclude guarantees in cases in which a relatively small part of the loan might be used for facilities expansion of a minor or incidental nature; provided, that the borrower's financial condition is such that the facilities expansion will not delay or impair repayment of a guaranteed loan which would be granted on a commercial banking basis.

§ 31.4 Contract Finance Committee. There shall be a Contract Finance Committee composed of a representative of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Comptroller) as Chairman, a representative of the Munitions Board and two representatives of each Military Department (one representing procurement and one representing the contract finance office), which committee shall meet frequently. This Committee shall advise and assist the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Comptroller) in assuring proper and uniform application of policies and the development of procedures and forms, and may from time to time recommend to the Secretary of Defense through the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Comptroller) and the Munitions Board such further policy directives on the subject of financing as may appear desirable. For matters involving guaranteed loans, a representative of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System may be invited to meet with the Committee. The Committee also may from time to time secure the advice of representatives of other branches of the Government and other persons and may invite such representatives and persons to its meetings.

§ 31.5 Advance payments—(a) General. (1) The following provisions will apply to all advance payments hereafter authorized; whether pursuant to the Armed Services Procurement Act of 1947 (62 Stat. 26) or pursuant to the First War Powers Act, as amended.

(i) Interest will be charged on all advance payments hereafter authorized, usually at the rate of 4 percent per annum on the unliquidated balance: Provided, however, Advance payments may be approved without interest when in connection with contracts which provide for performance at cost, (without profit or fee to the contractor), or when specifically authorized by the Assistant Secretary responsible for the comptroller function.

(ii) The responsibility and authority for making determinations and findings with respect to advance payments, and in each case for approval of contract provisions for advance payments, or for approval of the terms and conditions thereof, shall be in the Assistant Secretary responsible for the comptroller function in each Military Department. With respect to advance payments under the First War Powers Act, as amended, this authority may be delegated as provided in § 31.5 (b) (5).

(iii) If a disagreement arises between the financing office and the interested procurement activity in any department as to whether, to what extent, or in what form, financing should be furnished, the matter will be referred immediately to and resolved in the higher echelons of authority responsible respectively for financing and procurement functions, subject to any issue being resolved ultimately by the Secretary of the department concerned.

(iv) Each Department shall submit reports of financing activities at such times and in such form as may be prescribed by the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Comptroller).

(b) Under First War Powers Act, as amended:

(1) Pursuant to the First War Powers Act, 1941 (50 U. S. C. App. 611), as amended by the Act of January 12, 1951 (Public Law 921, 81st Congress), and Executive Order No. 10210 of February 2, 1951, the Department of the Army, the Department of the Navy, and the Department of the Air Force are authorized to make advance payments under contracts heretofore or hereafter made, without regard to other provisions of law relating to contracts, including advance payments under contracts awarded on competitive bids after formal advertising, and to amend such contracts to provide for advance payments.

(2) All contracts and amendments to contracts providing for advance payments made under the authority of the above-cited act and Executive order shall:

(i) Make reference to the act and the Executive order;

(ii) Include a finding that the national defense is facilitated thereby; and

(iii) Include the following clause:

Examination of records. (a) The Contractor (which term as used in this clause means the party contracting to furnish the supplies or perform the work required by this contract) agrees that the Comptroller General of the United States or any of his duly authorized representatives shall have access to and the right to examine any pertinent books, documents, papers, and records of the Contractor involving transactions related to such contract.

(b) The Contractor agrees to insert the provisions of this clause, including this paragraph (b), in all subcontracts hereafter made, if such subcontracts provide for advance payments.

(3) The advance payment agreement under the above-cited act and Executive order should provide for deposit of all payments into special bank accounts and should include suitable covenants to protect the Government's interest. Advance payments under such authorizations should be limited to the contractor's financial needs, and withdrawals from the special bank accounts provided therefor should be closely supervised. The terms governing advance payments should include as security, in addition to or in lieu of the requirements for advance payment bond or other security, provision for a lien in favor of the Government, paramount to all other liens, upon the supplies contracted for, upon the credit balance in any special account in which such payments may be deposited, and upon such of the material and other property acquired for performance of the contract, as the parties shall agree.

(4) Complete data shall be maintained by each Department as to all contracts and amendments to contracts relating to advance payments made pursuant to the above-cited act and Executive order.

(5) Pursuant to the above-cited act and Executive order, the authority in each case to approve contract provisions for advance payments, or to authorize the terms and conditions thereof, may be delegated within each Department to the Assistant Secretary responsible for the comptroller function, with power of redelegation under such Assistant Secretary no further than, to the Chief of Finance (and an alternate within his office) in the Department of the Army, to the Assistant Comptroller, Accounting, Audit and Finance (and an alternate within his office) in the Department of the Navy, and to the Deputy for Contract Financing to the Assistant Secretary (Management) of the Air Force (and an alternate responsible to such Deputy for Contract Financing).

§ 31.6 Issuance of regulations. The Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force may prescribe appropriate regulations, which shall be as uniform as practicable, to carry out the purposes of this part.

Acting Secretary of Defense.

R. 3239); and, in order to expedite the disposition of urgent railroad wage matters now pending, and for other purposes, this Wage Adjustment Order No. 1 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

On April 6, 1951, the President of the United States addressed a letter to the Administrator which states in part as follows:

On March 1, 1951, a collective bargaining agreement was signed between the carriers represented by the Eastern, Western, and Southeastern Carriers' Conference Committees and the nonoperating employees represented by the Fifteen Cooperating Railway Labor Organizations.

At present, there is no functioning administrative machinery by which this agreement can be reviewed and either approved or rejected in whole or in part in the light of wage stabilization rules and regulations.

As you know, the settlement of labor disputes in the transportation industry is covered by the Railway Labor Act of 1926. Traditionally, the Government has provided separate machinery to deal with the distinctive problems of the transportation industry • • •.

In the meantime, it is essential that some interim machinery be established whereby the agreement in the "non-operating" case be reviewed and recommendations for action be submitted to you. Accordingly, I am asking that you immediately establish an emergency panel to consider the "non-operating" case on its merits and to submit recommendations to you promptly regarding its disposition. Such recommendations could be made effective upon the approval of the Administrator • • •.

Pursuant to the President's letter, the Administrator, on April 9, 1951, established a Temporary Emergency Railroad Wage Panel. This Panel conducted open hearings on April 13, 1951, during which testimony and written evidence were offered in support of the request for approval of payments of wages of certain non-operating railroad employees, filed by the Eastern Carriers' Conference Committee, the Western Carriers' Conference Committee, and the Southeastern Carriers' Conference Committee with the Administrator under date of March 27, 1951. The Panel likewise considered proposed similar wage payments affecting closely related employers and employees in the railroad transportation industry. Following the hearings, and after consideration, the Panel submitted to the Administrator a written report, which included recommendations that payments be permitted as provided in this Wage Adjustment Order No. 1. The report of the Panel points out:

> In the first place, the bargaining processes involved in national wage cases are far more lengthy and cumbersome than those in other industries, due to the requirements of the Railway Labor Act and the multitude of carriers and unions.

The report also emphasizes that under the Railway Labor Act strikes are unauthorized until an elaborate procedure has been carried through to the end, which often takes as much as six months to complete; that these lengthy processes are complicated by national negotiations of the type involved due to numerous factors, including the requirement of the Railway Labor Act that each agreement ultimately be in the form of an agreement between each individual carrier and each particular craft or group comprising the bargaining unit; that in national wage cases numerous crafts are involved whose cases are at any given time in varying states of development due to various and sometimes accidental circumstances; and, that in national wage cases some unions and carriers may not actually participate in the bargaining but merely wait for the results of the principal negotiations.

The findings of the Panel demonstrate that collective bargaining in the railroad transportation industry is unique, and, within the framework of wage stabilization policies, requires the application of special standards to the matter here presented. Accordingly, this order is issued.

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[Ceiling Price Regulation 8, Supplementary Regulation 2]

CPR 8—AMERICAN UPLAND COTTON

SR 2—VALIDATION OF CERTAIN CONTRACTS FOR FUTURE DELIVERY OF AMERICAN UPLAND COTTON

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Supplementary Regulation 2 to the Ceiling Price Regulation 8 (16 F. R. 2060) is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Section 402 (d) (1) of the Defense Production Act of 1950 provides that regulations issued under this Act "shall apply regardless of any obligation heretofore or hereafter incurred * * *" Under certain circumstances, this section provides relief to sellers whose "seasonal demands or normal business practices require contracts for future delivery * * *" of materials. To "prevent hardships and inequities" to such sellers with bona fide contracts in effect on issuance of a price regulation, this section provides that "the President shall make appropriate provision" therefor. The "hardships and inequities" referred to in this section were intended by Congress to cover far more than a shrinkage of profit realization on a contract cut across by a price regulation. This is clearly revealed by the text and context of the basic act and by its legislative history. Accordingly, this Agency has carefully scrutinized any claim for relief under section 402 (d) (1) and has required definite and specific proof of circumstances warranting its application.

For a number of considerations it has been deemed appropriate under section 402 (d) (1) to permit fulfillment of certain bona fide contracts for future delivery of American upland cotton, pre-existing the issuance of Ceiling Price Regulation 8. These contracts which were entered into primarily between cotton merchants and mills, both domestic and foreign, before January 26, 1951, and, in any event, not later than March 4, 1951, fall into two categories: (1) On call contracts in which the price was fixed, if at all, after January 26, 1951, and (2) fixed price contracts. These contracts for future delivery of cotton are required by normal business practices. While production of American upland cotton is seasonal, the utilization of this cotton by mills is relatively steady throughout the year. To meet the demands of mills, cotton merchants perform the vital economic function of buying cotton and classifying it into even-running lots, compressing it, financing it, carrying it in storage until required by the mills, and finally shipping it to the mills. These merchants normally execute contracts with mills which call for delivery of cotton as much as twelve months in the future.

Unlike other commodities, cotton is sold to mills for the most part pursuant to what are known as "on call" contracts. Most of the contracts cut across by Ceiling Price Regulation 8 are of this kind. In terms of bales of cotton, it appears that about two-thirds of these contracts cannot be performed at ceiling prices except at a substantial out-of-pocket loss as well as loss of all profit by the cotton merchants.

The price in on call contracts is determined with reference to a "basis." This term refers to the difference between the spot price of cotton for a specified grade and staple at a specified place, and the current price of a cotton futures contract named in the sales contract. "Basis" is expressed as so many points on or off a particular futures month. With respect to such futures month, the "basis" represents the cotton merchant's judgment as to his capacity to deliver spot cotton to a mill with preservation of his handling and other costs as well as profit. An on call contract specifies which party has the right to fix the contract price within a certain time. In on call contracts, the mill normally has the "call" and fixes the contract price by buying in a specified futures contract for the account of the merchant. The price of this futures contract applied to the contract "basis" establishes the contract price of the cotton.

A typical hardship situation which this supplementary regulation is designed to alleviate may be shown by the following example which is an actual case: On January 15, 1951, a merchant sold White and Extra White, Middling 1⅛" cotton for future delivery at 300 points on March 1951, futures on buyer's call. The price of the cotton is fixed by the mill's purchase of a March futures contract. The contract price is then the sum of the basis and the price at which the mill buys in the futures contract. If the mill on March 10 purchased a March 1951, futures contract at the ceiling price, the contract price per pound would be 45.39 cents plus 3 cents or a total of 48.39 cents. This price, however, would be 1.25 cents per pound above the even-running lot ceiling price of 47.14 cents for deliveries on and after March 5, 1951 and, therefore, could not be validly paid to the cotton merchant. The latter's situation is aggravated by the fact that, in accordance with normal business practice, he previously hedged the on call mill sale by selling a March futures contract. His hedging loss, including 11 points broker's commission, based on his prior sale of a March futures contract at 43.75 cents, is 1.75 cents per pound. Assuming that the merchant had purchased cotton at 45.25 cents to fulfill his mill contract, his total cost of cotton and hedging operations is 47 cents. In addition, he has 120 points expenses in handling, sorting, compression, insurance, carrying and shipping charges. His total cost of cotton, hedging operations, and shipping the cotton is, therefore, 48.20 cents. As stated above, under Ceiling Price Regulation 8, the merchant cannot price his deliveries to the mill at more than 47.14. He suffers, therefore, on such deliveries a loss of 125 points on contract realization, of which 19 points is his loss of profit and 106 points is his out-of-pocket loss.

The second class of contracts to which this supplementary regulation is applicable are fixed price contracts. Within this group are contracts executed before January 26, 1951, in which the price was fixed before that date in excess of the ceiling prices subsequently established by either the General Ceiling Price Regulation or Ceiling Price Regulation 8. Also within this group are contracts validly entered into under General Ceiling Price Regulation at a fixed price in excess of the ceiling prices subsequently established by Ceiling Price Regulation 8.

According to the Commodity Exchange Authority, unfixed on call sales based on March, May, and July 1951, futures months amounted on January 25, 1951, to 1,425,000 bales, and on March 2, 1951, to 1,393,000 bales. No estimate was similarly available as to the number of bales to be delivered on fixed price contracts executed on or before January 25, 1951. These on call and fixed-price contracts can not be performed under the applicable ceiling price regulation except at a substantial out-of-pocket loss in addition to a loss of all profit by the cotton merchants. This conclusion has been reached on the basis of a careful examination of figures submitted by a representative group of thirty-three cotton merchants. Their figures show that they have fixed price contracts and on call contracts for future delivery of 355,220 bales of cotton entered into on or prior to January 25, 1951, in which the price fixed or to be fixed at current market conditions exceeds the ceiling prices for spot cotton established by the General Ceiling Price Regulation and Ceiling Price Regulation 8. If deliveries already made and to be made on these contracts cannot be priced according to their terms, these merchants cannot perform these contracts without incurring a total loss in contract realization of $2,131,320. Five-sixths of this loss represents out-of-pocket loss and one sixth represents a complete loss of profit. These losses were determined by applying the latest reliable per bale profit figures realized by these merchants on their 1950 total business of 2,732,234 bales. These figures show that the average per bale profit earned by these shippers in 1950 was approximately $1 per bale (or 1/5 of a cent per pound) at an average landed value per bale of $175. These profit figures are in line with the average profit historically made by all merchants in the trade and are considered reliable. The total out-of-pocket loss, therefore, incurred and to be incurred by cotton merchants in carrying out these contracts in compliance with ceiling prices amounts to $1,776,100. Similarly, the total loss of profit amounts to $355,220.

It would be administratively unfeasible at the present time to examine the cost-price relationship under each individual contract. In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, it is deemed appropriate, and, indeed, the only practicable solution under section 402 (d) (1) to permit all these contracts to be carried out to the extent allowed under this supplementary regulation.

This supplementary regulation provides for the fulfillment of bona fide contracts for the sale of American upland cotton in which the price was fixed on or before January 25, 1951, as well as fixed price contracts validly entered into under the General Ceiling Price Regulation. It also permits fulfillment of bona fide on call contracts entered into before March 5, 1951, by allowing application of the basis specified in the contract to a futures price not exceeding the applicable futures ceiling price at the time the contract price is fixed. Moreover, the price of previous deliveries on such contracts may be fixed at the prices allowed for future deliveries on such contracts.

CPR 13—RETAIL CEILINGS ON PETROLEUM PRODUCTS

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Ceiling Price Regulation 13, Amdt. 1, is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

The accompanying amendment to Ceiling Price Regulation 13 clarifies sections 8 and 9:

The provision of sections 8 (1) and 9 (a) permitting 4 cents per gallon to be added to the tank wagon ceiling price for regular grade gasoline of a dealer's supplier plus or minus the customary retail differential for premium or third grade gasoline does not reflect the pricing method used in the territories, since margins are customarily lower than 4 cents in such areas. Such an addition would result in increased prices in these areas. Therefore, it is desirable that the territories and possessions of the United States be excluded from this pricing method.

The further purpose of this amendment is to make it clear that the filing required by section 8 (2) and 9 (b) is to be made within 60 days after the effective date of Ceiling Price Regulation 13, or within 15 days after a seller puts this method of pricing into effect.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Ceiling Price Regulation 13 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 8 (1) is amended by adding, at the beginning of the sentence, the following: "Except in the territories and possessions of the United States,".

2. Section 9 (a) is amended by adding, at the beginning of the sentence, the following: "Except in the territories and possessions of the United States,".

3. Section 8 (2) is amended by adding "within 60 days after the effective date of this regulation or within 15 days after you determine your ceiling price by this method" to the last sentence following the word, "located."

4. Section 9 (b) is amended by adding "within 60 days after the effective date of this regulation or within 15 days after you determine your ceiling price by this method" to the last sentence following the word, "located."

(Sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.)

Effective date. This amendment, except as otherwise herein stated, shall become effective April 30, 1951.

NOTE: The reporting requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 22]

CPR 22—MANUFACTURERS' GENERAL CEILING PRICE REGULATION

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Ceiling Price Regulation 22 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

The Need for This Order

When the General Ceiling Price Regulation was issued on January 26, 1951, it was pointed out that the general freeze which it imposed upon prices at all levels of production and distribution was an emergency measure made imperative by the urgency of bringing the inflationary spiral to a halt. It was not intended to be a permanent basis of control, but rather a means of "holding the line" until specific regulations properly adapted to the needs of individual industries could be formulated and issued. In this connection the Statement of Considerations accompanying the General Ceiling Price Regulation said in part:

It is recognized that the issuance of one regulation covering millions of prices and sellers and thousands of industries, differing in structure, market organization and degree of complexity, cannot be expected to cover adequately the multitude of problems that arise in day-to-day pricing. It is, therefore, the intention of the Director of Price Stabilization to issue, as soon as practicable and after appropriate consultation, additional price ceiling regulations, some general in scope, and some tailored to meet the separate problems of individual industries.

This regulation constitutes a major step in this replacement of the freeze.

The price structure which was frozen by the General Ceiling Price Regulation was badly unbalanced in many respects. Prices had been changing very rapidly during the six months following the Korean outbreak, and, as is inevitable during a period of dynamic price change, there had been no adequate opportunity for the prices of commodities at different levels of production and distribution to achieve their normal mutual adjustments. In some industries prices had lagged behind the increase in materials costs and other costs of manufacture; in others prices had outrun the advance of manufacturing costs by a substantial margin. Within individual industries there were marked differences in the prices charged by competing companies. In particular, those businesses which had held back on price increases in an effort to cooperate with the stabilization program and in compliance with the voluntary pricing standards which had been issued on December 19, 1950, were at a marked disadvantage as compared with other concerns which had raised their prices and ignored those standards. Prices of some companies and in some segments of industry were frozen below actual production costs; other prices were far above any justifiable level. Even within single companies, prices of individual products were often out of balance; ceilings for some commodities were fully adequate while others were so low as to discourage continued production.

The Office of Price Stabilization has been moving as rapidly as its resources have permitted in the direction of ironing out the distortions and inequities imposed by the freeze. A series of regulations covering a large portion of the retail business of the United States has been formulated and issued. Specific orders covering a very few branches of manufacture have been prepared to remedy some of the most urgent outstanding problems. However, it has not been possible within the few weeks that have elapsed since the General Ceiling Price Regulation was issued to assemble either the resources needed to take faster action on a wider front nor the detailed information upon which such action would have to be based. As a result, the vast majority of manufacturers is still subject to the provisions of the general freeze, as are virtually all nonfood wholesalers and a significant number of retail establishments.

The urgency of taking prompt action toward the restoration of a balanced and sound price structure becomes daily more pressing. Complaints from manufacturers whose prices are frozen at levels at which they cannot continue to operate are accumulating. At the same time it is neither feasible nor sound policy to attempt to apply individual adjustments to such inequities on so broad a scale. It is not feasible because to do so would tax virtually the entire resources of the organization, which should rather be devoted to the formulation of a firm basis for continuing controls. It is not sound policy because to concentrate upon giving relief to hardship cases without a concurrent effort to roll back those prices which are clearly excessive would run directly counter to the objectives of the stabilization program.

It is obvious that the soundest way of restoring a balanced and equitable price structure in manufacturing would be by the issuance of a series of individual regulations tailored to meet the needs and peculiarities of each specific industry. However, although the Office of Price Stabilization is moving in this direction as rapidly as possible, there is no way in which the large number of specifically tailored regulations which this would require can be prepared and issued within any reasonable period of time. In many cases, the mere compilation of the data needed to form the basis for such orders would take months. The urgency of the present situation cannot permit such delay.

Consequently, it has become necessary to issue a regulation generally applicable to as large a segment of manufacturing industry as possible in order to meet the need for immediate action. It is obvious that no such regulation can fully reflect the diverse problems of the vast number of industries comprising the American economy. Nevertheless, it is believed that this regulation is generally fair and equitable in principle; that it will afford at least limited relief to most cases of hardship imposed by the general freeze; that it will serve simultaneously to require reductions in prices which are too high; and that it will constitute, therefore, a major step forward toward the restoration of a sound and properly balanced price structure. It is not expected that this regulation will be the ultimate basis of control for most of the industries which it covers, but rather that it will serve as a bridge between the price structure frozen by the General Ceiling Price Regulation and that which will ultimately be established through appropriate tailored regulations.

General Nature of the Regulation

The general principle under which this regulation has been formulated is a return to pre-Korean price levels, adjusted for certain increases in manufacturing costs which have occurred since the Korean outbreak. The price structure which prevailed during the period July 1949 to June 1950 is regarded as affording an appropriate starting point because prices and costs generally were in balance at levels which yielded satisfactory operating margins to the vast bulk of manufacturing industries. Adjusting these prices to take account of manufacturing cost increases since Korea should, therefore, restore generally sound price relationships. It is true that there were a few industries whose prices were relatively low throughout this entire twelve month period; but so far as can be ascertained, raw materials costs for those industries were also low, and the adjustment for cost increases will be correspondingly greater. It is not the absolute level of the base period selling prices of any industry which is the significant test, but the adequacy of its pre-Korean operating margin. If that margin was sufficient to provide reasonable profits before Korea, the formula used in this regulation should yield a sound basis for current production.

The translation of this basic principle of pre-Korean prices plus an adjustment for cost increases since Korea into an equitable and administrable regulation required a number of basic decisions. The first was the selection of the base period. Under the Defense Production Act of 1950, "the President shall [in establishing price controls] ascertain and give due consideration to comparable prices * * * which he finds to be representative of those prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950 to June 24, 1950, inclusive, or, in case none prevailed during this period or if those prevailing during this period were not generally representative because of abnormal or seasonal market conditions or other cause, then those prevailing on the nearest date on which, in the judgment of the President, they are generally representative."

Upon due consideration, it appeared evident that the single month May 24 to June 24, 1950 referred to in the Act is unduly restrictive. The three months immediately preceding the Korean outbreak or, more precisely, the period April 1 to June 24, 1950, is clearly more representative for this purpose, and this is the general base period established in the regulation. However, while this period is an equitable basis for most industries, even three months is too short to avoid inequities due to seasonal factors or other special circumstances applicable to individual industries, companies, or commodities, as the Act itself anticipates. Consequently the regulation permits any manufacturer who finds the period April 1 to June 24, 1950, to be unrepresentative for a category of his products to select any one of the three preceding calendar quarters as his base period for that category. Seasonal influences on price are thus largely eliminated.

A second problem was the determination of the nature of the cost increases that could be added to pre-Korean prices. The increases over base period costs which may be taken into account under this regulation are limited to advances in manufacturing costs, that is, those costs affecting the labor and materials actually required for the production of the commodities covered.

The term manufacturing costs is defined broadly enough to cover all factory labor, including labor sometimes classified as indirect as well as direct labor, and all manufacturing materials whether they are incorporated directly into the commodity or are otherwise directly consumed in the manufacturing process. An earlier draft submitted for comment to representative manufacturers reflected only "direct" cost, but it was pointed out that this limitation had unequal and unfair impact upon those industries or companies where a large percentage of manufacturing costs was classified as "indirect", either because of the nature of the manufacturing process or for reasons of accounting convenience. In view of the evident validity of these objections, the limitation to "direct" costs was discarded after due consideration.

The calculations required to compute these increases in costs have been simplified as far as possible and several alternative methods of calculation are provided in order to meet the needs of manufacturers with different systems of accounting and record keeping. The process of computation will still require considerable work in many cases, but this is unavoidable. Even if each manufacturer were permitted to devise his own method of computing cost increases—a procedure which would obviously lead to erratic results—the work involved would still be very substantial.

No provision has been made for adjustments reflecting changes in overhead costs such as depreciation, general administration, sales, and research. The reasons for this are twofold. In the first place, there is no precise or uniform way by which such costs can be allocated to individual commodities or even to commodity groups. More important, unit overhead costs vary with volume, and there is no way in which future production volume can be forecast with any degree of accuracy. For most lines of manufacture, moreover, production has increased since Korea, with the result that overhead costs per unit of production have declined, despite increases in the salaries of administrative or research personnel. It is recognized that there may be cases for which this is not true, but whether overhead costs per unit have increased or decreased is essentially irrelevant to the principle employed in this regulation. The purpose of this regulation is to establish a level of prices which is generally fair and equitable, and a relationship between prices and costs which is sound and reasonable. If increased overhead costs for any manufacturer should be sufficient to create real hardship, he will have the opportunity of applying for individual adjustment to the extent necessary to avoid over-all loss. Any industry whose aggregate earnings are reduced below a normal peacetime base can apply for general price adjustment.

The calculation of materials cost increases is greatly complicated by the fact that this regulation and those accompanying it will affect not only manufacturers' prices but also manufacturing costs. Except for finished consumer goods, the products of one manufacturer are the raw materials of another. Consequently no manufacturer can determine accurately the current cost of the products he buys from another manufacturer until the latter has determined what his ceiling prices will be, and so on down the line. It would be clearly impractical, however, for each manufacturer to postpone his calculations until he had definite information as to the prices which his supplier will charge for materials; if this were done the process of mutual adjustment and readjustment would be strung out indefinitely. Consequently, it is expected that the calculations required under this regulation will have to be repeated in the reasonably near future in order to give effect to the impact of the regulation itself and other OPS regulations upon material costs. While no specific date has been set for this recalculation, it will be provided for as soon as practicable.

In the meantime, however, it is necessary to provide a definite basis for calculating materials costs increases, and one that will minimize the readjustments which could result from the anticipated recalculations. In particular it seems essential to avoid allowing prices to be increased under this regulation on the basis of current materials costs which the regulation itself may be expected to roll back. Consequently the regulation provides that manufacturers should, in general, give effect only to those increases in material costs which occurred up to December 31, 1950, on the assumption that the average price of materials subject to this regulation will be rolled back by the regulation itself to a level approximately that which prevailed last December. It is recognized that this is only a rough approximation, which will have to be adjusted subsequently through the planned recalculation, or through the issuance of tailored regulations.

An exception has, however, been made in the case of materials not covered by this regulation, and for which no rollback may therefore be expected in the immediate future. This includes such categories as the basic ores and metals, imported materials generally, and other raw materials. For such materials, and for factory labor, cost increases may be computed up to March 15, 1951.

A further exception had to be made in the case of certain farm products whose current prices are below the minimum standards established in the Act. For these materials, cost increases may be computed up to any current date.

Finally decision had to be reached as to whether manufacturers whose ceiling prices calculated under this regulation exceeded those established by the general ceiling should be permitted to put such increases into effect automatically, or whether some restrictions on increases should be imposed.

As stated above, it was one of the specific purposes of this regulation to afford relief to cases of hardship and inequity. On the other hand an automatic application of any formula of the kind provided in this regulation might permit some freak or fortuitous price increases which would be out of line with the basic objectives of the regulation. Such a result could be due in some cases to the formula itself, as it worked out in certain situations. The problem is increased if the formula is left completely self-executing, taking into account the possibility of honest or wilful misunderstanding, possibly compounded by inadequate records.

Serious consideration was therefore given to the advisability of imposing specific percentage limitations on the extent to which present ceiling prices could automatically be raised under this regulation. This approach was objected to by a group of representative manufacturers, and was discarded for a number of reasons. In the first place, any limitation of this kind would be highly arbitrary. Moreover, its impact would be most serious with respect to those manufacturers who had cooperated with the stabilization program and had avoided price increases or held increases to a minimum and were now frozen in an inequitable position.

It is recognized that some of the increases which will be granted may exceed those which would be required under an individual adjustment provision limited to hardship cases. However, many such increases would occur in any event as industry-wide ceilings were issued, and as companies frozen below the industry average adjusted to the general industry level. Moreover, any industry-wide ceiling, in restoring equitable price relations between competing firms in an industry, necessarily gives the more efficient firms in that industry more satisfactory profit margins than the inefficient firms.

It is the judgment of the Director that, in the overwhelming majority of cases, this regulation will not establish generally a higher level of prices than would be granted through the application of an industry earning standard.

For these reasons, the regulation does not specifically limit the extent to which current ceiling prices may be increased in accordance with its provisions. It does, however, stipulate that any manufacturer whose price for any commodity under this regulation is in excess of his present ceiling price, must file a report presenting all the relevant facts and calculations for review by the Office of Price Stabilization, and that he may not put such a price increase into effect until at least 15 days after he has filed this information. This will afford an opportunity for a review of such proposed price increases and a determination as to whether or not they are in fact justified and appropriate. If such review indicates that the increases are unjustified or excessive, the Director may take appropriate action to reduce the proposed price increases.

The Interim Character of This Regulation

Attention should be directed once again to the fact that this regulation is not intended as the final pricing action of the Office of Price Stabilization. This is a good working instrument, applied on a broad base, to reach a more just and equitable alignment of manufacturer's prices than was possible under the General Ceiling Price Regulation. The Office of Price Stabilization will continue to issue tailored industry regulations which utilize provisions geared to particular industry problems, practices, and situations.

The price levels which will be established by any such tailored regulations may be the same as those set by this regulation, or they may be increased or decreased in accordance with the ultimate pricing standards developed by the Economic Stabilization Agency. Higher price ceilings may be needed to take account of cost increases not recognized by this regulation, but only to the extent that the ultimate pricing standards do not require that such cost increases be absorbed.

Even in the administration of this regulation, supplementary regulations may be issued for particular industries so as to promote the objectives of the price stabilization program. For example, in appropriate cases it may be possible to announce a general labor cost increase factor, or a materials cost increase factor, or both, for application by an entire industry, or to specify a particular base period for the industry. These and similar techniques will permit the achievement of much of the goal of a uniform industry regulation, even before the entire tailored regulation is ready for issuance. They will also afford a means of rectifying any wide disparities between the ceiling prices established for competing sellers of the same or similar commodities.

The Problem of Cost Absorption

In adopting as its basic principle the adjustment of pre-Korean price levels to take account of the increase in manufacturing costs which has occurred since Korea, this regulation follows the only practicable method of restoring a balanced and generally equitable price structure that is available. This should not, however, be interpreted as constituting an acceptance or endorsement of the principle of automatic or indefinite cost escalation. It would be wholly unsound to base any continuing price control program or policy on the assumption that increases in costs should be automatically reflected in increases in price. This would result not in price control, but rather in rubber-stamped inflation.

No system of price control can do its job if each increase in costs is immediately and automatically translated into rising prices. Such a policy would leave us within the very same vicious circle of cost and price increases which it must be the primary object of any stabilization program to break.

A substantial defect in any automatic escalation formula lies in the fact that an increase in the unit price of a purchased material or service or in the wages paid labor does not necessarily mean that the unit cost of producing a commodity is increased in the same proportion or even increased at all. Improvements in productivity, economies associated with a high level of operations, and the effect of volume changes on unit fixed costs all operate to destroy any exact parallel between material prices and wage rates and total cost per unit of output.

Any automatic translation of higher unit cost into higher prices would destroy much of the incentive to efficient operation. This principle is recognized in the methods of calculation prescribed in the regulation. Under its provisions, a manufacturer can retain the benefits which he would normally derive from improved production methods. For example, if fewer man-hours are now used to produce a commodity than before Korea, or if wastage of materials has been curtailed, the manufacturer is not required to reflect such economies in price reductions, but is permitted to retain these savings just as he would in a normal competitive market. Similarly, under any general industry ceiling, there is incentive for each individual manufacturer to increase efficiency. Finally, although an industry ceiling regulation must assure an adequate level of profits to the industry generally, it does not follow that each individual manufacturer must be permitted to retain the unit profit margin he enjoyed immediately before Korea.

Consequently, the cost-plus principle is incorporated in the present regulation only to a limited extent. It is used as the best available device for reestablishing a balanced and equitable price structure and should not be construed as implying any guarantee of profit levels. Not all cost increases are recognized, and in particular, neither increases nor decreases in certain indirect costs are taken into account. This does not mean that the cost changes which have not been taken into account are any less real than those which have. Thus, increases in the salaries of clerical and administrative personnel in the central office are paid in the same currency as the higher wages of a factory worker. It does mean that the impact of these indirect costs on the unit cost of a commodity varies with volume, and that the regulation is intended to arrive at an equitable level of prices, rather than to guarantee an inviolate rate of profits.

It is particularly important to emphasize that this regulation allows only for past increases and carries with it no implication that increases which may occur subsequently will be treated on a similar automatic basis. The provision for recalculation of prices at a date in the near future is not intended to do more than carry through the necessary readjustment of cost-price relationships which this regulation seeks to achieve. The December 31 cut-off date for calculating the increases in the cost of materials which are subject to this regulation is an interim expedient and is too rough a measure for continuing control. The recalculation is, therefore, merely the anticipated second stage in restoring price balance.

It is in the light of this principle also, that March 15, 1951, has been stipulated as the cut-off date for calculating increases for materials not subject to this regulation, such as imported materials, and for increases in wage rates and freight costs. Manufacturers whose costs may increase after that date because of wage increases, or higher prices for certain imported materials, or for other reasons, may ask why they should not be permitted to translate those higher costs automatically into higher prices. It is, of course, true that cost increases after March 15 are just as real as those which occurred before that date. However, as pointed out above, if price controls are to be real and not illusory, the cost-price cycle must be broken at some point. The cut-off date of March 15 is one of the ways in which the break in this price-cost cycle must be accomplished. The date is, to some extent, arbitrary, but some date had to be set. An earlier date would have increased the number of individual firms and industries which would be forced to petition for specific relief. A later date would have resulted in an unjustifiably high level of prices in too many instances. Accordingly, the Director has selected March 15 as a date which would be generally equitable, which would prevent excessive price increases under this regulation, and at the same time minimize the number of cases requiring individual adjustment, or the processing by the Director of meritorious requests for industry-wide price adjustments.

It should be emphasized that selection of the March 15 date does not mean that cost increases after that date will be ignored. Rather, it means that they will not automatically be reflected through an individual firm's application of the formula contained in this interim regulation. Although the Director has determined that the principle employed in this regulation will provide interim ceilings which are fair and equitable for manufacturing industry generally, it is of course impossible to make this finding individually for each of the hundreds of separate industries covered by the regulation. If it should develop that for any industry, the ceilings calculated under this regulation do not satisfy the basic pricing standards shortly to be promulgated, the industry is invited to submit the facts necessary to demonstrate this condition. Peculiarities of an industry's base period, cost increases between the end of its base period and March 15 not recognized under this regulation, or cost increases after March 15, may unfairly reduce an industry's earnings below a normal peace-time level. Upon a proper showing of facts, the Director is prepared to take such action as is required to make the ceilings generally fair and equitable to each such industry. Normally, such price adjustment might be expected to be made in the process of substituting a more tailored regulation for this interim one.

Adjustment Provision

It cannot, of course, be anticipated that any general regulation of this character can cure all cases of hardship or inequities imposed by the freeze; nor can it avoid imposing hardship in special circumstances. It is, therefore, recognized that provision must be made for the adjustment of individual hardship cases. The regulation permits a manufacturer who under this regulation would be forced to operate at a loss to apply for an adjustment of his ceiling prices. This provision is not intended to take care of losses resulting from unusual or seasonal factors which would normally cure themselves; nor is it intended to provide an inefficient manufacturer with a level of prices substantially in excess of that which is adequate for the bulk of his competitors. The Office of Price Stabilization expects to act upon petitions for relief submitted under this provision promptly, and if no action is taken within thirty days after the request has been submitted the applicant is permitted to sell at the prices proposed in his petition until the Office has taken final action.

Commodities Exempted From the Regulation

A number of major segments of manufacturing industry have been exempted from this order for varying reasons. These exemptions are listed in detail in Appendix A to this regulation. The commodities exempted include those for which specific regulations have already been issued or are very close to issuance; products for which cost changes are particularly difficult to compute under any general formula, such as the primary mining and metallurgical industries and lumber; and certain foods and other products to which the application of the formula would be peculiarly difficult. In addition, of course, general exemptions from price control previously in force for legal or administrative reasons will be continued.

Almost simultaneously with this regulation it is expected that parallel regulations embodying the same general principles will be issued for the machinery, cotton textile, and apparel industries. These special regulations will differ from this general regulation in detail rather than in principle. As in the case of this general regulation, they will establish ceiling prices upon the basis of pre-Korean levels adjusted for the increase in manufacturing costs since Korea, but the methods of calculations prescribed have been modified to adapt them more closely to the cost structures of the industries they cover. They, too, are intended to serve as a bridge pending the establishment of a final tailor-made basis of control.

These general readjustments of manufacturers prices must, of course, be reflected by distributors. Under previously issued price regulations, such adjustments can be made automatically by most retailers. It is expected that before the effective date of this regulation, provision will be made to permit wholesalers generally and retailers not now covered by specific regulations to make the necessary adjustments in their respective ceiling prices. In this way balance will be restored between prices at successive levels of production and distribution; and such balance is the essential prerequisite to any stable system of controls.

Small Business Exemption

It is recognized that many small manufacturing concerns may find it more difficult than larger companies to make the calculations prescribed in this regulation. Consequently, any manufacturer whose gross sales during his last annual accounting period were less than $250,000 may elect to continue to price his products under the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation rather than under those of this regulation.

Anticipated Effect on the Price Level

The application of this regulation and those accompanying it will, as indicated, result in a large number of price changes of varying directions and magnitude. It is impossible to predict with accuracy what the net effect will be upon the general price level, but there is every indication that at least a moderate reduction of average wholesale prices should result, except to the extent that rising costs of farm products below parity and uncontrolled imported materials have to be reflected. In general, manufacturers maintained customary mark-ups on the cost increases sustained between June 24 and January 26 (the date of the GCPR). This regulation permits no mark-up on these increased costs. To the extent that some manufacturers raised their prices in anticipation of cost increases that did not occur, or in order to have a favorable base price in the event of an anticipated price freeze, still larger rollbacks will ensue.

Consultation With Industry Representatives

The wide coverage of this regulation made it a practical impossibility to consult in detail with representatives of all the industries affected. However, consultations were held with a special group of business leaders selected from many major branches of industry, and their advice and suggestions were given the most careful consideration in the formulation of the final regulation. Consultations were also held with a group of accounting specialists with respect to the cost-accounting features of the regulation, and its provisions were informally discussed with numerous representatives of different industries.

Findings of the Director

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the issuance of this regulation is imperative to iron out the distortions in the structure of manufactured goods prices which were frozen by the GCPR. The Adjustment of these distortions cannot await the necessarily lengthy process of issuing tailored regulations on an industry-by-industry basis. To permit such delay would be to court disastrous effects upon production and distribution. By easing the immediate pressures, this regulation will provide the time needed to work out a more precise and fully integrated system of continuing controls. Work on such a system, which has been under way at a constantly increasing pace ever since the issuance of the GCPR, will now be further accelerated.

COVERAGE

SECTION 1. Sellers and sales covered by this regulation. This regulation covers you if you are a manufacturer located in the United States (not including territories or possessions) or the District of Columbia. It applies to any sale of any commodity as to which you are the manufacturer, except sales of commodities listed in Appendix A and sales at retail. With these exceptions, the General Ceiling Price Regulation is superseded by this regulation as to manufacturers in the United States or the District of Columbia. If, however, your gross sales for your last complete fiscal year were less than $250,000 you may elect not to use this regulation, but if you so elect, you may not use this regulation for any of your commodities.

CEILING PRICES ESTABLISHED

SEC. 2. Ceiling prices established by this regulation. This regulation establishes ceiling prices for commodities dealt in between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950, and for new commodities introduced subsequent to June 24, 1950. There are also special provisions relating to (a) rounding ceiling prices, (b) retention of ceiling prices established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation where the change in price is less than 1 percent, (c) reduction of ceiling prices to reflect any increase in the value of scrap or waste material, (d) adjustment of ceiling prices quoted on a delivered basis for increases in transportation costs, and (e) adjustment of ceiling prices for commodities manufactured in more than one of your plants.

CEILING PRICES FOR COMMODITIES DEALT IN BETWEEN JULY 1, 1949 AND JUNE 24, 1950

SEC. 3. How to determine your ceiling price for a commodity you sold or offered for sale between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950. (a) Your ceiling price to your largest buying class of purchaser for sale of a commodity which you sold or offered for sale at any time between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950, is your base period price for the commodity, plus "the labor cost adjustment" and "the materials cost adjustment". Section 47 (Definitions) explains the meaning of "your largest buying class of purchaser". Sections 4 through 6 tell how to obtain your base period price. Sections 7 through 9 tell how to calculate "the labor cost adjustment". Sections 10 through 16 tell how to calculate "the materials cost adjustment". If you do not wish to make either of these calculations you may use your base period price as your ceiling price to your largest buying class of purchaser. If you wish to calculate only one of the adjustments you may do so, in which case you will add only the amount of that one adjustment to your base period price.

(b) Your ceiling price for sale of the commodity to your largest buying class of purchaser must be consistent in every respect with your base period price, e. g., it must carry all customary delivery terms, cash, trade and volume discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms and other terms and conditions of sale.

(c) Your ceiling price for sale of the commodity to your other classes of purchasers to whom you made sales during your base period is determined by applying your price differentials last used during your base period. In the event you made no base period sales to a particular class of purchaser, you apply your customary differentials in effect during your base period, or if none, then those last in effect before your base period. If you are selling to an entirely new class of purchaser you determine your ceiling price under section 33 for that class of purchaser. For each class of purchasers you must maintain all customary delivery terms, cash, trade and volume discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms and other terms and conditions of sale which you had in effect during your base period. An explanation of what is meant by "class of purchaser" is found in section 47 (Definitions).

BASE PERIOD PRICE

SEC. 4. Base period. "Base period" refers to the period April 1 through June 24, 1950 or any previous calendar quarter ended not earlier than September 30, 1949, which you may elect to use. Whatever base period you elect must be used for all commodities in the same category. There is an exception in case of a commodity which you did not deliver during that base period, and which you did not make the subject of a written offer for delivery during that base period, and for which you did not have a price list in effect during that base period. In that case you may use for that commodity any other base period permitted under this section.

SEC. 5. Category. "Category" refers to a group of commodities which are normally classed together in your industry for purposes of production, accounting or sales. This is the same definition as used in section 4 (c) of the General Ceiling Price Regulation. You may, however, exclude from any category any commodity or group of related commodities for which the base period you have elected to use for the category is unrepresentative because of special seasonal characteristics of that commodity or group of related commodities. In that case, treat the commodity or related group of commodities as constituting a separate category.

SEC. 6. How to obtain your base period price. Your base period price for a commodity is obtained as follows:

(a) If, during your base period, you delivered the commodity or contracted in writing to sell the commodity at a firm price, you find the highest price to your largest buying class of purchaser at which such a delivery or such a contract of sale was made.

(b) If you did not make such a delivery or contract, you find the highest price at which you made a written offer for base period delivery to your largest buying class of purchaser.

(c) Instead of the price under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section you may use your price, to your largest buying class of purchaser, which you announced in writing in a price list, catalogue, or similar statement showing your prices for one or more commodities. To use this paragraph (c) you must either have announced the prices during your base period, or have announced them previously and had them in effect during your base period. Also you must have communicated the prices to the trade or a substantial number of customers in your customary way. Further, you must have made substantial deliveries at these prices after your written announcement of the prices. If you use this paragraph (c) for any commodity you must also use it for all other commodities covered by the same announcement.

(d) If your base period price includes any excise, sales or other similar tax which is not separately stated, you must follow the instructions contained in section 36.

(e) If your base period price is expressed as a list price less discounts, you may make the adjustments of the base period price under section 3 (a) upon the basis of the net price to your largest buying class of purchaser.

Example: Your base period "list" price for commodity A is $12 less a 20 percent discount to your largest buying class of purchaser. "The labor cost adjustment" and "the materials cost adjustment" which you are permitted to add to your base period price total $3.84. You first take 80 percent of $12, thus applying the 20 percent discount. The resulting amount, $9.60, plus $3.84 equals $13.44, your "net" ceiling price to your largest buying class of purchaser. You can figure your "list" ceiling price by dividing your "net" ceiling price ($13.44) by the same percentage (80 percent), giving $16.80. Applying the 20 percent discount to your largest buying class of purchaser gives you $13.44, or your "net" ceiling price to that class of purchaser.

(f) If, during your base period you customarily produced the same commodity at two or more manufacturing establishments of your business and sold it at different prices depending upon the place of production, you must obtain a separate base period price and determine a separate ceiling price for each such establishment.

HOW TO CALCULATE THE LABOR COST ADJUSTMENT

SEC. 7. General description of how to calculate "the labor cost adjustments". Sections 8 and 9 tell how to calculate "the labor cost adjustment". The calculations under both sections are designed to yield an average percentage increase in your factory labor cost based upon net sales and factory payroll data for your last fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950. This percentage is referred to as your "labor cost adjustment factor". Under section 8, the net sales and factory payroll data are for your entire business and the labor cost adjustment factor will be applied uniformly to the base period prices of all of your commodities. Under section 9, the net sales and factory payroll data are for a unit of your business and the labor cost adjustment factor will be applied uniformly to the base period prices of all commodities produced in that unit. If the commodities produced in the several units of your business have experienced significantly different labor cost increases, it will probably be to your advantage to use section 9 so as to reflect these differences more appropriately.

SEC. 8. How to calculate "the labor cost adjustment" upon the basis of your entire business. To calculate "the labor cost adjustment" upon the basis of your entire business, you do the following:

(a) Find the dollar amounts of your net sales and of your factory payroll for your entire business for your last fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950. You may not include in factory payroll, labor used in general administration, sales and advertising, or research, or in making major repairs or replacement of plant or equipment or in expansion of plant or equipment. Labor used in factory supervision, packaging and handling, ordinary maintenance and repair of plant or equipment, or in materials control, testing or inspection may, however, be included.

(b) Divide the dollar amount of your factory payroll found under paragraph (a) of this section by the dollar amount of your net sales found under (a). This will show what percentage your factory payroll is of your net sales. This percentage is referred to as your "labor cost ratio".

(c) Find the dollar amount of your factory payroll, as limited in paragraph (a) of this section, for your last payroll period ended not later than the end of your base period (if your base period is April 1 through June 24, 1950, you should use your last payroll period ended not later than June 30, 1950). The term "end of your base period" is explained in section 47 (Definitions). This payroll is referred to as "your base period payroll". Compute what the dollar amount of your base period payroll would have been upon the basis of your wage rates in effect on March 15, 1951. This is referred to as "your recomputed payroll". You may add to your recomputed payroll a dollar amount to reflect, for the labor covered by that payroll, any increase between the end of your base period and March 15, 1951, in the cost to you of insurance plans, pension contributions for current work, paid vacations and similar "fringe benefits". You may make the calculations called for by this paragraph in whatever appropriate way is best adapted to your accounting records and your basis of wage payments, e. g., hourly rates, piece-work, or any other system of wage payments used by you.

(d) Divide the dollar amount of the difference between your recomputed payroll and your base period payroll by your base period payroll. The resulting percentage is referred to as your "wage increase factor."

(e) Multiply your labor cost ratio derived under paragraph (b) of this section by your wage increase factor derived under paragraph (d) of this section. The resulting percentage is referred to as your "labor cost adjustment factor."

(f) Multiply the base period price of the commodity being priced by your labor cost adjustment factor. The resulting amount is "the labor cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

(g) If you use this section, it must be used for all of your commodities.

Example: (a) Your fiscal year is the calendar year. Your net sales for the twelve months ended December 31, 1950, were $1,000,000. Your factory payroll for the year was $300,000 (the required exclusions having been made in arriving at this figure).

(b) $300,000 divided by $1,000,000 is 30 percent. This is your labor cost ratio.

(c) Your factory payroll for the week ended June 24, 1950, was $6,000 (the required exclusions having been made in arriving at this figure). At wage rates in effect March 15, 1951, the payroll would have been $6,500. In addition you have also granted longer paid vacations and a more liberal insurance plan which amounts to the equivalent of two and one-half cents per hour. The number of hours covered by your base period payroll was 4,000. Consequently the increased "fringe benefits" add an extra $100 per week to your factory labor cost for the March 15 period. This makes your recomputed payroll at March 15 wage rates $6,600, or a total increase of $600.

(d) $600 divided by $6,000 is 10 percent. This is your wage increase factor.

(e) 30 percent multiplied by 10 percent is 3 percent. This is your labor cost adjustment factor.

(f) If your base period price was $100, you multiply $100 by 3 percent, giving $3, "the labor cost adjustment".

SEC. 9. How to calculate "the labor cost adjustment" upon the basis of a unit of your business. To calculate "the labor cost adjustment" upon the basis of a unit of your business, you do the following:

(a) Find the dollar amounts of your net sales and of your factory payroll for your last fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950, relating to a unit of your business for which you regularly maintain separate accounts and in which the commodity being priced is produced. You must include in net sales the value, as shown on your records, of any transfer of a commodity or material from that unit to another unit of your business. If your records do not show a value you may not use this section. The provisions of section 8 (a) as to what may be included in factory payroll apply.

(b) Using the data found under paragraph (a) of this section you make the calculations prescribed in paragraphs (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) of section 8, for the unit of your business to which the data relate. This will give you "the labor cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

(c) This section may be used only for commodities produced in the particular unit of your business to which the net sales and factory payroll data relate, and must be used for all commodities produced in that unit.

HOW TO CALCULATE THE MATERIALS COST ADJUSTMENT

SEC. 10. Manufacturing material. You will need to become familiar with the term "manufacturing material" in the following sections. It refers to a material entering directly into the commodity being priced or used directly in the manufacturing processes from which the commodity results, together with packaging materials, containers (other than returnable containers), purchased fuel, steam or electric energy, and subcontracted industrial services which are directly related to the manufacture of the commodity. The term does not include materials or sub-contracted industrial services used in replacing, maintaining or expanding your plant and equipment, nor other materials or supplies the use of which is not directly dependent upon the rate at which you manufacture the commodity being priced.

SEC. 11. General description of the methods available. (a) There are four alternative methods available to you for calculating "the materials cost adjustment." You should use the one best suited to your particular situation. Only manufacturing materials may be taken into account in your calculations and you will measure their change in cost to you between prescribed dates. You are permitted, however, to omit any manufacturing material which is not significant or whose cost has not decreased between the prescribed dates. This section contains ony general descriptions, as an aid in understanding. The exact provisions which are in the following sections are controlling.

(b) (1) Method 1. Method 1 allows you to measure the increase in your manufacturing materials costs upon the basis of a unit of your business not larger than a plant, or, if you have only one plant, upon the basis of your entire business. Under this method, which is set forth in section 13, you calculate a percentage increase in your manufacturing materials costs upon the basis of net sales and materials put into production during a yearly accounting period. If you make the calculations upon the basis of your entire business, you apply the percentage increase uniformly to all of your commodities. If the calculations are upon the basis of separate units of your business, you apply the percentage increase for each unit uniformly to all of the commodities produced in that unit. There are specific limitations upon the use of this method where you have had significant substitution of materials.

(2) Method 2. Method 2 is for an individual commodity and is based upon the increase in your unit manufacturing materials cost for that commodity. Under this method "the materials cost adjustment" will ordinarily differ for each commodity. You should probably use this method, therefore, if the various commodities you produce have had substantially different material cost increases since the end of your base period, or vary widely from each other in the ratio between unit manufacturing materials cost and sales price. This method, however, is more burdensome because it requires a separate calculation for each commodity.

(3) Method 3. Method 3 is for a product line and is based upon the increase in your unit manufacturing materials cost for the best selling commodity in the product line. A percentage figure for this increase is derived which is applied to the base period price of each commodity in the product line. This method may be more appropriate than Method 2 if you have a number of closely related commodities whose material cost increases have been about the same.

(4) Method 4. Method 4 may also be used for a product line or it may be used for a category. It is based upon the increase in the cost of the bill of materials used in producing the goods sold during an accounting period of three months or less. Like Methods 1 and 3 it yields a uniform materials cost adjustment factor for all commodities in the product line or category. If your records are in a form which permits you to use this method, you may find it simpler to apply than Method 1.

(c) You may select whichever one of the four methods you consider best suited to the nature of your business and most adaptable to the records you maintain. If you select the first, third, or fourth method, you must use it for each commodity in the particular unit of business involved (or for all of your commodities if your calculations are based upon your entire business), product line or category.

SEC. 12. Omission of certain manufacturing materials from your calculations. Under any of the four alternative methods which you use for calculating "the materials cost adjustment" you may omit from your calculations any manufacturing material which is not significant or whose cost to you has not decreased between the prescribed dates. Consequently, a reference to "each manufacturing material" under any of the four methods means each such material you are including in your calculations.

SEC. 13. Method 1 (Aggregate method). To calculate "the materials cost adjustment" under this method, you do the following:

(a) Find the dollar amount of your net sales for your last fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950, for your entire business, or for a unit of your business for which you regularly maintain accounts and in which the commodity being priced is produced. You may not, however, use your entire business for this calculation if you operate more than one plant. Nor may you use a unit of your business which includes the output of more than one plant, although you may use a unit less inclusive than a plant. If you use a unit of your business, you must include in net sales the value of any commodity or material transferred from that unit to another unit of your business. The value shall be that shown in your records. If your records do not show a value, you may not use that unit of your business for making your calculations.

(b) Multiply the physical amount of each manufacturing material which you used during the same fiscal year either in your entire business or in a unit of your business, whichever you are calculating on, by the dollars-and-cents amount of the change in net cost per unit of the material to you between the end of your base period and December 31, 1950. The term "end of your base period" is explained in section 47 (Definitions). For any material listed in Appendix B you may figure the change to March 15, 1951, and for any material listed in Appendix C you may include the increase to any current date subject to the limitations in section 21. Before starting to figure the change in net cost per unit of the material, you should read carefully the instructions contained in sections 17 through 23.

(c) Add together the resuting figures derived under paragraph (b) of this section which represent increases in net cost. Do the same with the resulting figures which represent decreases in net cost. Subtract the total of the decreases from the total of the increases.

(d) Divide the final figure derived under paragraph (c) of this section by the amount of your net sales found under paragraph (a) of this section. The resulting percentage is referred to as your "materials cost adjustment factor".

(e) Multiply the base period price of the commodity being priced by your materials cost adjustment factor. This will give "the materials cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

(f) If you use this section and your calculations are based upon your entire business, the materials cost adjustment factor which you derive must be used for all of your commodities. If your calculations are based upon a particular unit of your business, the materials cost adjustment factor which you derive must be used for all commodities produced in that unit and may not be used for commodities produced in any other unit of your business.

(g) You may not use this section if you have replaced, in any significant degree, the materials used by you during your base period with lower-priced substitute materials. (For example, if you are a manufacturer of rubber automobile tires, and you are now using a significantly larger percentage of synthetic rubber than you did in your base period, you may not use Method 1.)

SEC. 14. Method 2 (Individual commodity method). To calculate "the materials cost adjustment" under this method, you do the following:

(a) Find the physical amount of each manufacturing material which you normally used in your base period per unit of the commodity being priced.

(b) Multiply this physical amount of each of these manufacturing materials by the change in its net cost per unit to you between (1) the last day of the base period you elected for the commodity being priced and (2) December 31, 1950. For any material listed in Appendix B you may figure the change to March 15, 1951, and for any material listed in Appendix C you may figure the change to a current date subject to the limitations in section 21. Before starting to figure the change in net cost, you should read carefully the instructions contained in sections 17 through 23.

(c) Add together the resulting figures derived under paragraph (b) of this section which represent increases in net cost. Do the same with the resulting figures which represent decreases in net cost. The difference between these totals is "the materials cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

Example: The commodity you are pricing uses three different manufacturing materials. For each unit of the commodity, you require 5 pounds of material A, 10 pounds of material B, and 1 gallon of material C. Before Korea, material A cost you $1.00 per pound, material B $2.00 per pound and material C $0.50 per gallon. Your net cost per unit of material A on your last invoice before December 31, 1950 was $1.50 and for material B it was still $2.00. Material C is listed in Appendix B; your last invoice prior to March 15, 1951 was $1.00 per gallon. Your increase for material A was, therefore, 5 multiplied by 50 cents (the difference between $1.50 and $1.00) or $2.50. Material B has not changed in price and may, therefore, be omitted. For material C, 1 gallon multiplied by 50 cents equals 50 cents. In addition, the commodity was enameled for you by an outside contractor at a cost of $1.00 per unit before Korea, and the price for the service as of March 15, 1951 was $1.25, a difference of 25 cents. Your materials cost increase for the commodity is, therefore, $2.50 for material A, 50 cents for material C, and 25 cents for the enameling service, or a total of $3.25. This is "the materials cost adjustment".

SEC. 15. Method 3 (Product line method using best selling commodity). This method is essentially the same as Method 2 except that the calculations are made for the best selling commodity in a product line. To calculate "the materials cost adjustment" under this method, you do the following:

(a) Select the best selling commodity in the product line of which the commodity being priced is a part.

(1) "Product line" refers to a group of closely related commodities which differ in such respects as style, model or size and which are normally classed together as a product line in your industry. Generally speaking, each commodity in the same product line must serve the same purpose and must be made by the same manufacturing process from substantially the same materials. A product line may never be broader than a category and usually will be narrower. The relationship between the commodities will normally be substantially closer in a product line than in a category. For example, stripped, standard and deluxe models of refrigerators are separate product lines, but a single category.

(2) "The best selling commodity" refers to the commodity in a product line which accounted for the greatest dollar volume of sales in the product line in your base period.

(b) Using the best selling commodity, make the calculations prescribed in section 14. This will give "the materials cost adjustment" for the best selling commodity, i. e., the amount to be added to its base period price.

(c) Divide "the materials cost adjustment" by the base period price of the best selling commodity. The resulting percentage is referred to as your "materials cost adjustment factor."

(d) Apply your materials cost adjustment factor to the base period price of each commodity in the product line. The resulting figure for each commodity is "the materials cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price of that commodity in accordance with section 3 (a).

(e) If you use this section it must be used for each commodity in the product line for which you have made your calculations.

Example: You have three commodities in a product line, whose base period prices were $8, $10 and $12, respectively. The best selling item was the $10 commodity. "The materials cost adjustment" for that commodity calculated under section 14 was $2, or 20 percent. "The materials cost adjustment" for the $8 commodity is, therefore, 20 percent of $8, or $1.60, and for the $12 commodity, 20 percent of $12, or $2.40.

SEC. 16. Method 4 (Composite bill of materials method). Under this method you make your calculations for the increase in your manufacturing materials cost for a product line or a category. To calculate "the materials cost adjustment" under this method, you do the following:

(a) Find the total net sales of all commodities in the product line or category for your last complete accounting period of three months or less ended not later than the last day of your base period (or if your base period is April 1 through June 24, 1950, ended not later than June 30, 1950). You must include in net sales the value, as shown in your records, of any transfer of a commodity in that product line or category to another unit of your business. If your records do not show a value, you may not use this section for that product line or category.

(b) Find the total physical amount of each manufacturing material used in producing the commodities in that product line or category sold in that accounting period. (Note that, in contrast to Method 1, you find here the physical bill of materials used in producing the goods sold in a short accounting period; while, under Method 1, you find the aggregate quantities of materials used, i. e., put into the production process, in an annual accounting period).

(c) Multiply this total physical amount by the dollars-and-cents change, between (1) the end of your base period and (2) December 31, 1950, in net cost to you per unit of the material used. For any material listed in Appendix B you may figure the change to March 15, 1951 and for any material listed in Appendix C you may figure the change to a current date subject to the limitations in section 21. Add together the resulting figures which represent increases in net cost. Do the same with the resulting figures which represent decreases in net cost. The difference between these totals is your increase in manufacturing materials cost. Before starting to figure the change in net cost you should read carefully the instructions contained in sections 17 through 23.

(d) Divide your increase in manufacturing materials cost derived under paragraph (c) of this section by the amount of your net sales found under paragraph (a) of this section. This percentage is referred to as your "materials cost adjustment factor."

(e) Apply your materials cost adjustment factor derived under paragraph (d) of this section to the base period price of the commodity being priced. The resulting figure is "the materials cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

(f) You may use this section only if you use it for each commodity included in the product line or category.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED IN CALCULATING THE MATERIALS COST ADJUSTMENT

SEC. 17. General nature of these instructions. Section 18 will apply to your calculations irrespective of which of the four alternative methods you use. Sections 19 through 23 may be applicable to you depending upon whether you are covered by certain described situations which are briefly indicated by the section heading and opening sentence of the section.

SEC. 18. How to compute the net cost to you of a manufacturing material as of a prescribed date. Under any of the four alternative methods you may use for calculating "the materials cost adjustment," you must figure the change, between prescribed dates, in the net cost to you per unit of each manufacturing material included in your calculations. (The earlier "prescribed date" is June 24, 1950, or another date depending on the base period you elected. The later "prescribed date" is December 31, 1950, March 15, 1951 or a current date as permitted by section 21). To determine the net cost to you per unit of a manufacturing material as of a prescribed date, you use the first of the following prices available to you. In no event may the price you use be in excess of the ceiling price under a ceiling price regulation in effect on the date of issuance of this regulation. If you use paragraphs (c), (d) or (e) of this section, you must disregard any price based upon a departure from your normal buying practices. Such a departure would include quantities smaller than those you usually purchase or contract for, or use of a more distant or different class of supplier

(other than the United States), or use of subcontracted industrial services in an amount in excess of that used in your base period. For example, you must disregard any price based upon a change in your source of supply from a manufacturer to a reseller or warehouseman or from a domestic to a foreign source of supply. Likewise, you must disregard any price which is based upon a purchase of conversion steel, except as permitted in section 44.

(a) The exchange quotation for the nearest monthly contract as of the close of business on the prescribed date (or the nearest preceding date for which such a quotation is available) for any commodity traded regularly upon a commodity exchange operating under the jurisdiction of the Commodity Exchange Authority or the Sugar Exchanges and you must use the quotation for both of the prescribed dates. Also you must use the same commodity exchange for both of the prescribed dates. If the commodity is one which is not itself quoted on such an exchange, but another grade of that commodity is so quoted, you may use the exchange quotation for such other grade provided you do so for both of the prescribed dates.

(b) The selling price for rubber as of the prescribed date established by an agency of the United States Government.

(c) The net price per unit of the material shown on the invoice for the last delivery of the material to you prior to the prescribed date. If, however, the delivery was received more than 30 days prior to the prescribed date or was pursuant to a contract bearing a firm price entered into more than 60 days prior to the prescribed date, you may not use this paragraph (c). If within 30 days prior to each of the applicable prescribed dates, you received more than one delivery of the same manufacturing material, you must use an average price for each such date. You obtain this average price by dividing the net amount you paid for all deliveries of the material during each of the 30-day periods by the total number of units of the material delivered to you during each period. The average price for each period is the price you use for each of the respective prescribed dates.

(d) The net price per unit of the material stipulated in the written contract for the material which you entered into last prior to the prescribed date, provided that it was entered into not more than 60 days prior thereto.

(e) The net price per unit of the material stipulated in the written offer for sale of the material to you made last prior to the prescribed date provided that the offer was made within 60 days prior to the prescribed date and that you still have the written offer or obtain a copy of it from the offerer.

(f) If none of the foregoing is available to you for one or both of the applicable prescribed dates, you may apply to the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., for an appropriate increase in the cost of the manufacturing material for use in your calculations. If you make such an application, you must refer specifically to this paragraph; you must describe the commodity being priced and the manufacturing material; you must propose the amount of increase per unit of the manufacturing material you consider appropriate based upon what you would have paid for the material if you had purchased it on each of the applicable prescribed dates; you must set forth in detail supporting reasons and why this paragraph is applicable; and you must state the base period price of the commodity and the ceiling price you propose. You must file this application before using the increase you propose. Although you need not await a reply from the Director of Price Stabilization, he may at any time disapprove the increase you propose, stipulate the amount of increase which he will approve or request additional information.

SEC. 19. How to compute net cost as of the applicable prescribed dates where you are using a substitute material not used during the base period or used in lesser quantities. In the case of a substitute material not used by you during the base period (or used in lesser quantities or proportions) in the manufacture of the commodity being priced, you must, if you are using Methods 2, 3, or 4 for calculating "the materials cost adjustment", compute the net cost to you as of the end of your base period of the physical amounts of the materials normally used by you in your base period and the net cost to you as of December 31, 1950, March 15, 1951, or a current date, whichever date is applicable, of the physical amounts of the materials normally used by you now. Since this calculation cannot be made accurately under Method 1 (section 13), you may not use that method for any unit of your business in which you are now using significant quantities of a substitute material whose current unit cost is lower than the current unit cost of the material used by you during the base period. However, if the current unit cost of the substitute material is the same or higher than the current unit cost of the material used by you during the base period, you may use Method 1, but without making any allowance for the higher cost of the substitute material.

SEC. 20. Inclusion of transportation costs in the computation of net cost of a manufacturing material as of a prescribed date. If a quotation, invoice, contract, or written offer which you use under section 18 did not include transportation costs for delivery of the material to you, you may add the actual amount of the transportation costs which you paid or would have paid for delivery of the material to you, provided that you include them in your determination of the net price of the material as of both dates.

SEC. 21. Calculation of the increase in net cost per unit of materials covered by Appendix C—(a) General description of this section. You will be concerned with this section only if a manufacturing material you propose to include in your calculations of "the materials cost adjustment" is one of the agricultural commodities listed in Appendix C or a product processed therefrom. Appendix C lists certain agricultural commodities selling below the minimum prices required to be reflected to producers by section 402 (d) (3) of the Defense Production Act of 1950. The following paragraphs of this section contain, among other things, special instructions relating to the particular dates to be used in your calculations of cost increases of these commodities.

(b) Calculation by manufacturers of food products. If the commodity you are pricing is a food product you may, subject to the limitations in paragraph (d) of this section, use a current date in figuring the change in net cost per unit of any of the agricultural commodities listed in Appendix C, or of any food products processed from these listed agricultural commodities.

(c) Calculation by manufacturers of non-food products. (1) If the commodity you are pricing is a non-food product you may, subject to the limitations in paragraph (d) of this section, use a current date in figuring the change in net cost per unit of any of the agricultural commodities listed in Appendix C, but you must use March 15, 1951, as the date for figuring the change in net cost per unit of any products processed from those listed agricultural commodities.

(2) If the commodity you are pricing is made in whole or in substantial part from a product processed from a listed agricultural commodity, and you believe that the increase in cost to you, since March 15, 1951, of that processed product is due to an increase in the price of the listed agricultural commodity, you may apply to the Director of Price Stabilization for permission to adjust your ceiling price to reflect that increase in price. Your application must describe the commodity being priced and specify its ceiling price; and must contain a statement based upon a report from your supplier as to what portion of the increase in his price to you of that processed product is directly attributable to the increase in price of the listed agricultural commodity. If the Director of Price Stabilization is satisfied that the information submitted by you shows that only the amount of the increase in price of the listed agricultural commodity is reflected in the adjustment you seek, he will approve your application. If, however, he is not satisfied that you have made such a showing, he may withhold approval of your application and require that you furnish additional information. If thirty days after mailing your application you have not received a reply from the Director of Price Stabilization, you may sell at the adjusted ceiling price you propose until such time as you are notified otherwise by the Director.

(d) Limitations on calculations by all manufacturers—(1) Old inventory. After you have made your first calculation under this section, you may become entitled to increase the ceiling price of the commodity being priced, if the cost to you of a listed agricultural commodity (or product processed therefrom) has increased. But you may not put the ceiling price increase into effect unless and until you have first sold an amount of the commodity you are pricing which is at least equal to the quantity you owned at the close of business on the day you otherwise would have been entitled to put that ceiling-price increase into effect under this section.

(2) Removal from listing. You may not, in figuring the change in net cost of a listed agricultural commodity or product processed therefrom use any date subsequent to the date of deletion of the listed agricultural commodity from Appendix C by the Director of Price Stabilization or any date more than five days subsequent to the date upon which the Secretary of Agriculture announces for the agricultural commodity, by publication in "Agricultural Prices," a price which equals or exceeds both (i) the parity price as set forth in the same publication and (ii) the highest price received by producers of the agricultural commodity during the period May 24 to June 24, 1950, inclusive, both as determined and adjusted by him.

(e) Definition of "food product". The term "food product" refers to a commodity used for, or as an ingredient in, food, drink, confectionery, or condiment by man or other animals, whether simple, mixed, or compound; and fats and oils used for cooking purposes or in the preparation of food for immediate consumption.

SEC. 22. How to calculate "the materials cost adjustment" for joint products or by-products. This section will concern you only if you manufacture joint products or by-products. If two or more commodities result from the same manufacturing operation or from common materials and you are unable to compute the unit manufacturing materials costs for each under section 14, you calculate "the materials cost adjustment" for each as follows:

(a) Establish an appropriate combined unit of production in which are represented the several commodities in the proportions in which they result from the same manufacturing operation or from common materials. (For example, if a manufacturing operation yields, for each ton of commodity A produced, 3 gallons of commodity B and 520 pounds of commodity C, your combined unit of production could be: one ton of A, three gallons of B and 520 pounds of C; or one gallon of B, 1/3 ton of A and 173.3 pounds of C; or any other combination in which the proportions among the three commodities are maintained.)

(b) Find the dollar value of the combined unit of production using base period prices for each commodity, determined in accordance with section 3. (If the base period price for commodity A was $10 per ton, for commodity B was $1 per gallon and for commodity C was $0.10 per pound, the dollar value of the combined unit of production would be $65 under the first example in (a) above and $21.67 under the second example in (a) above.)

(c) Using the same calculations as in section 14 (substituting, of course, the combined unit of production for the unit referred to therein), compute the increase in manufacturing materials cost per combined unit of production.

(d) Divide the increase in manufacturing materials cost per combined unit of production by the dollar value of that unit as determined under paragraph (b) of this section.

(e) Apply this percentage to the base period price of each of the commodities being priced. The resulting figure for each commodity is "the materials cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

Example: The total increase in manufacturing materials cost for the combined unit of production illustrated in paragraph (b) above, calculated in accordance with section 14, is $13. $13 divided by $65 is 20 percent. Consequently, "the materials cost adjustment" for commodity A is 20 percent of $10, or $2 per ton; for commodity B is 20 percent of $1, or 20 cents per gallon; and for commodity C is 20 percent of $0.10, or 2 cents per lb.

SEC. 23. How to calculate the change in net cost of a manufacturing material which is produced in one unit of your business and transferred to another unit of your business. (a) You will be concerned with this section if you are a multi-unit organization and in your operations you transfer products for further processing or assembly between units of your business for which you regularly maintain separate records. By way of illustration, such transfers may be between departments, plants, branches or divisions. This section deals specifically with a manufacturing material which you produce in one unit of your business and transfer to another unit of your business where it is used in producing the commodity being priced. Such a manufacturing material (which is referred to as a "transferred material") may also be sold to other persons. This section provides three methods for figuring the change in cost of a transferred material in your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced. The method you use depends first on how you calculated "the labor cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced and second, on whether you also sell the transferred material to other persons.

(b) If you calculated "the labor cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced upon the basis of your entire business or of a unit of your business that included the unit in which the transferred material is produced, you may not in calculating the change in cost of that material include any increase in factory labor cost. Your calculation of the change in cost of the transferred material will therefore only take into account changes in the costs of the manufacturing materials directly related to the transferred material. Such change in cost of the transferred material will be included in your calculation of "the material cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced.

(c) If your calculation of "the labor cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced was not based upon your entire business or upon a unit of your business that included the unit in which the transferred material is produced and if the transferred material is one you sell to other persons, you calculate its change in cost as follows:

(1) Find its base period price (i. e., to your largest buying class of purchaser).

(2) Find its ceiling price under this regulation to your largest buying class of purchaser, or if it is listed in Appendix A, its ceiling price under the applicable ceiling price regulation.

(3) The difference between the figure found under (2) and that found under (1) is the increase or decrease in the cost of the transferred material which you use in calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced.

(d) If your calculation of "the labor cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced was not based upon your entire business or upon a unit of your business that included the unit in which the transferred material is produced and if that material is not one you sell to other persons you calculate its change in cost as follows:

(1) Find the value as shown in your records at which the transferred material was transferred, last prior to the end of your base period (i. e., the base period for the commodity being priced), to the unit of your business in which the commodity being priced is produced.

(2) Using that transfer price as your base period price, determine what the ceiling price would be under this regulation, or such other regulation as would be applicable.

(3) The difference between the figure found under (2) and that found under (1) is the increase or decrease in cost of the material to be used in calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced.

Example: You are pricing a camera the lens for which you produce. The following paragraphs illustrate the application of the three methods prescribed in section 23.

(a) You have treated the department in which the camera is assembled and the department in which the lens is produced as a single unit in computing "the labor cost adjustment" for the camera. You purchase on the outside the optical glass used in the lens. "The materials cost adjustment" for the camera may include, as far as the lens is concerned, only the change in cost of the purchased optical glass.

(b) In calculating "the labor cost adjustment" for the camera you used only the assembly department. You also sell the lens to others and calculated "the labor cost adjustment" for the lens upon the basis of the lens department. Therefore, in calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for the camera, the change in cost of the lens will be the difference between your ceiling price for the lens under this regulation to your largest buying class of purchaser, and your base period price for the lens to that class of purchaser.

(c) Assume the same facts as in (b) except that you produce the lens exclusively for your own use. You must compute what the ceiling price for the lens would be under this regulation, using the value at which the transfer between departments was made on your books last prior to the end of the base period. The difference between your computed ceiling price and your base period transfer value is the amount you use in calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for the camera.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO CEILING PRICES

SEC. 24. General nature of these provisions. Sections 25 through 29 relate to adjustments of your ceiling prices under certain circumstances. Section 25 relates to rounding ceiling prices. Section 26 relates to retention of ceiling prices established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation where the change in price is less than 1 percent. Section 27 requires that you reduce your ceiling prices to reflect any increase in the value of scrap or waste material generated in your manufacturing processes. Section 28 permits you to adjust your ceiling prices quoted on a delivered basis for certain increases in transportation costs. Section 29 provides an optional method for adjusting your ceiling prices for commodities manufactured in more than one of your plants.

SEC. 25. Rounding ceiling prices. You may round your ceiling prices determined under this regulation so that they will be expressed in the nearest cents or fraction of cent you normally employ. If you elect to do so you must similarly round the ceiling prices for all your commodities normally priced by you upon the same basis, to reflect decreases as well as increases. In no event may the increase be greater than 1 percent of your ceiling price prior to rounding. For example, if you normally quote to the nearest quarter of a cent and your ceiling price for commodity A is 21.20 cents, you may round that ceiling price to 21¼ cents. However, if your ceiling price for commodity B is 27.30 cents you must round its ceiling price to 27¼ cents.

SEC. 26. Retention of GCPR ceiling price where the change in price is less than 1 percent. If your ceiling price for a commodity as determined under section 3 differs by less than 1 percent from that under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you may continue to use your GCPR ceiling price. However, you may use this section only if you apply it to all your ceiling prices determined under section 3 differing by less than 1 percent from the GCPR ceiling prices, regardless of whether decreases or increases result. For example, your GCPR ceiling price for commodity A is $10 and your ceiling price under section 3 is $9.95. Your GCPR ceiling price for commodity B is $8 and your ceiling price under section 3 is $8.05. You may continue to use $10 as your ceiling price for commodity A, but if you do so you must continue to use $8 as your ceiling price for commodity B.

SEC. 27. Requirement for reduction of your ceiling prices as otherwise determined for any increase in value of scrap or waste material. (a) You will be concerned with this section if in the manufacturing process relating to the commodity being priced you generate any scrap or waste material which you sell to other persons or which is transferred from one unit of your business to another, and if, between the end of your base period and March 15, 1951, there has been an increase in the value of such scrap or waste material. However, you need not make the adjustment called for in this section unless your sales of scrap or waste material are significant. They will be considered significant if, for the plant or other unit of your business in which the commodity being priced is produced, the value of your sales or transfers of scrap or waste material exceeded 3 percent of the total value of your sales or transfers of all commodities from that plant or unit during your most recent fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950.

(b) In the circumstances described in paragraph (a) of this section where your sales of scrap or waste material are significant you must make an appropriate reduction in the ceiling prices for each of the commodities resulting from your manufacturing process to reflect the dollars-and-cents amount by which the value of the scrap or waste material generated in the manufacturing process has increased between the end of your base period and March 15, 1951. In calculating this increase in value you should use a method comparable to the one you employed for your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced. For instance, if you used Method 2 (section 14) you should calculate the increase in value of your scrap or waste material per unit of the commodity being priced; if you used Method 1 (section 13) you should calculate the increase in value of your scrap or waste material by an aggregate method. The resulting dollars-and-cents amount reflecting the increase in value of your scrap or waste material per unit must be subtracted from your ceiling price as otherwise determined under this regulation.

SEC. 28. Adjustment of ceiling prices quoted on a delivered basis for increases in transportation costs. If your base period price was, and therefore your ceiling price is, a delivered price, you may adjust your ceiling price to reflect any increase, between the end of your base period and March 15, 1951, in transportation costs incurred by you (not including warehousing charges). You may include in this adjustment only increases resulting from transportation charges paid by you to other persons (excluding any person who is an employee, subsidiary or affiliate of yours or of whom you are a subsidiary or affiliate). This adjustment is made in the following manner:

(a) Where your base period price for the commodity being priced included full transportation costs from point of shipment to point of delivery, you may adjust your ceiling price by the exact amount of the increase in transportation rates to you between such points, charged by the same carrier or class of carrier for the same class of transportation. You may not include any increase due to changing the class of carrier (e. g., from water or highway to rail) or to changing your customary method or quantity of shipment.

(b) Where your base period price was uniform within defined geographical zones but you maintained an established differential between each zone, you may calculate a transportation cost increase adjustment to be applied to the ceiling price for sales to each zone. This calculation is made in the following manner:

(1) Find the average transportation charge paid by you for deliveries of the commodity being priced to each zone during your last accounting period of not less than three months, ended not later than the end of your base period. If your base period is April 1 through June 24, 1950, you should use your last accounting period of not less than three months, ended not later than June 30, 1950.

(2) Find what the average transportation charge paid by you for deliveries of that commodity to each zone would be, using the transportation rates actually in effect on March 15, 1951.

(3) The dollars-and-cents amount of the difference between the average transportation charge found under (2) and that found under (1) for each zone may be added to your ceiling price for sales to that zone.

(c) Where your base period price was uniform for all sales of the commodity being priced to any destination within the United States, you may calculate a single transportation cost increase adjustment to be applied to the ceiling price for all sales within the United States in the same manner as under paragraph (b) of this section, treating the United States as a single zone.

SEC. 29. Optional method for determining a uniform ceiling price for a commodity manufactured in more than one plant. If the commodity being priced is manufactured in more than one of your plants and is customarily sold by you at a uniform price, but in adjusting the base period price for each plant different ceiling prices result, you may compute a uniform ceiling price. To do this, you first determine the ceiling price for each plant and multiply it by the number of units of the commodity sold from that plant during the last quarter of 1950. You then divide the total dollar amount of such sales from all plants by the total number of units sold from all plants. The resulting figure is your uniform ceiling price for the commodity. If sales from any of your plants in the last quarter of 1950 were not substantial, you may use the last three consecutive months of substantial sales in 1950, provided that you use the same period for all your plants.

Example: You are producing the same commodity in two plants, and customarily charge the same price from each. However, due to a difference in your wage rate changes, your ceiling price for plant A is $2.00, and for plant B is $2.10. Sales during the last quarter of 1950 were 1500 units from plant A, and 1000 units from plant B. 1500 multiplied by $2.00 is $3,000; 1000 multiplied by $2.10 is $2,100; 1500 plus 1000 is 2500; $3,000 plus $2,100 is $5,100; $5,100 divided by 2500 is $2.04. You may therefore use the uniform ceiling price of $2.04 for sales from both plants.

CEILING PRICES FOR NEW COMMODITIES, NEW SELLERS AND SALES TO NEW CLASSES OF PURCHASERS

SEC. 30. Ceiling prices for new commodities differing only by reason of minor changes from commodities whose ceiling prices are established under this regulation—(a) Ceiling price for a commodity first offered for sale between June 25, 1950, and May 27, 1951. The ceiling price for a commodity first offered for sale by you between June 25, 1950 and May 27, 1951, differing from a commodity you dealt in during the period July 1, 1949 to June 24, 1950, only by reason of a minor change in design or construction which does not reduce unit manufacturing materials cost or prevent its offering fairly equivalent service, shall be the ceiling price for the previous commodity established under this regulation. If you are no longer manufacturing the previous commodity, you must establish a ceiling price for it in accordance with this regulation and use that ceiling price as the ceiling price for the commodity being priced. If the new commodity differs from the previous commodity only by reason of the use of a substitute material the new commodity must be priced under section 3.

(b) Ceiling price for a commodity first offered for sale subsequent to May 27, 1951. The ceiling price for a commodity first offered for sale by you subsequent to May 27, 1951, differing from a commodity for which your ceiling price is established under this regulation only by reason of minor changes in material, design or construction which do not reduce unit manufacturing materials cost or prevent its offering fairly equivalent service, shall be the ceiling price for the previous commodity as established under this regulation. If you are no longer manufacturing the previous commodity, you must establish a ceiling price for it in accordance with this regulation and use that ceiling price as the ceiling price for the commodity being priced.

SEC. 31. Optional method for determining ceiling prices for packaged commodities to reflect cost increases since your base period by changing size or quantity. This pricing method may be used in place of section 32 under the circumstances indicated herein. If you wish to use your base period price for a packaged commodity as your ceiling price and to reduce the size or quantity of that commodity to reflect any permissible cost increases since the end of your base period, you may do so in the following manner:

(a) Determine your ceiling price for the commodity in its base period size or quantity.

(b) Calculate the ratio between your base period price for the commodity and your ceiling price.

(c) Apply this ratio to the base period size or quantity of the commodity. The resulting size or quantity is the minimum for which you may use your base period price as your ceiling price.

Example: Your base period price for a 10-ounce package of commodity A was 25 cents and you wish to retain that price as your ceiling price. Your ceiling price for a 10-ounce package of commodity A as determined under this regulation is 30 cents. 25 cents divided by 30 cents is 83.3 percent. 10 ounces multiplied by 83.3 percent is 8 and one-third ounces. Your ceiling price for a package of commodity A containing not less than 8 and one-third ounces is therefore 25 cents.

SEC. 32. Ceiling prices for new commodities falling within categories dealt in during your base period—(a) Description of the pricing method. This section deals with a commodity which cannot be priced under sections 3 or 30, but which falls within a "category" in which you dealt during your base period. You determine your ceiling price by applying to the current unit direct cost of that commodity the percentage markup over the current unit direct cost of a "comparison commodity" (using your ceiling price for the comparison commodity under this regulation), in accordance with the following instructions.

(b) Current unit direct cost. "Current unit direct cost" as used in this section means the sum of the amounts (not higher than permitted by law) which it costs you, or if you are not currently producing it, would cost you for direct labor and materials to produce the commodity at the time you use the pricing method provided by this section. Current unit direct materials cost shall be computed upon the basis of current replacement prices for materials and current unit direct labor cost shall be computed upon the basis of current wage rates for direct labor. The method used in computing current unit direct materials cost and current unit direct labor cost for the new commodity and for the comparison commodity shall be the same in every respect.

(c) Selection of a comparison commodity. The comparison commodity to be used must be in the same category as the commodity being priced and shall be the first of the following which is available to you:

(1) A commodity dealt in during your base period differing from the commodity being priced only by reason of a minor change in size or quantity or of packaging.

(2) A commodity dealt in during your base period that you are now manufacturing which is most nearly like the commodity being priced and which has current unit direct cost the same or lower than that of the commodity being priced.

(3) A commodity dealt in during your base period that you are no longer manufacturing which is most nearly like the commodity being priced and whose current unit direct cost would be the same or lower than that of the commodity being priced.

(4) A commodity dealt in during your base period that you are now manufacturing which is most nearly like the commodity being priced and whose current unit direct cost is next higher to that of the commodity being priced.

(5) A commodity dealt in during your base period that you are no longer manufacturing which is most nearly like the commodity being priced and whose current unit direct cost would be next higher to that of the commodity being priced.

(d) Calculations to determine your ceiling price. Having selected the appropriate comparison commodity, you determine your ceiling price as follows:

(1) Determine your ceiling price for sale of the comparison commodity to your largest buying class of purchaser if you are now manufacturing it, or what it would be if you are no longer manufacturing it, using either sections 3 or 30 of this regulation, whichever is applicable.

(2) Determine the current unit direct cost of the comparison commodity, if you are now manufacturing it, or what it would be, if you are no longer manufacturing it.

(3) Subtract the current unit direct cost derived under (2) from the ceiling price derived under (1). This will give the gross dollar margin over current unit direct cost for the comparison commodity.

(4) Divide this gross dollar margin over current unit direct cost by the current unit direct cost of the comparison commodity. This will give the percentage markup over current unit direct cost for the comparison commodity.

(5) Apply this percentage markup to the current unit direct cost of the commodity being priced. This is your ceiling price for sale of that commodity to your largest buying class of purchaser. It must be consistent in every respect with the ceiling price for the comparison commodity, i. e., it must carry your customary delivery terms, cash, trade and volume discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms and other terms and conditions of sale. Your ceiling price for sale of the commodity to each of your other classes of purchasers shall be determined in the same manner as under section 3 (c).

Example: (i) Your comparison commodity is one you are no longer manufacturing. You find that its ceiling price under this regulation would be $10. (ii) The current unit direct cost of the comparison commodity would be $6. (iii) $6 subtracted from $10 is $4. This is the current gross dollar margin over direct cost for the comparison commodity. (iv) $4 divided by $6 is 66.7%. This is the percentage margin over direct costs for the comparison commodity. (v) The current unit direct cost for the commodity being priced is $7.50. 66.7% of $7.50 is $5.00. $7.50 plus $5.00 is $12.50. This is your ceiling price for the commodity being priced.

(e) Category. Category means a group of commodities which are normally classed together in your industry for purposes of production, accounting or sales. Section 46 of this regulation continues in effect certain provisions of section 16 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation which among other things prescribes that you must prepare and preserve a list of your categories. If the list you have prepared is not representative of your categories during your base period for this regulation, you should prepare such a list by May 28, 1951 and thereafter preserve it. In applying the pricing provisions of this section, you should refer to it. You might, for example, have a category such as one of the following: desks, office, steel; desks, office, wood; dishwashers, domestic; ranges, domestic, electric; ranges, domestic, gas; refrigerators, household; room air conditioner to 1 h/p; vacuum cleaners, domestic; washing machines, domestic.

(f) Required report. Before selling any commodity for which you have determined a ceiling price under this section, you must file the report required by paragraph (g) of this section with the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., and in addition you may not sell the commodity until 15 days after mailing your report; thereafter you may sell the commodity at your proposed ceiling price unless and until notified by the Director of Price Stabilization that your proposed ceiling price has been disapproved or that more information is required. In the event that more information is required you may not sell until 15 days after mailing the additional information.

In case, however, the commodity is one required to be priced under this section, and which, prior to the effective date of this regulation, you sold or offered for sale upon the basis of a ceiling price determined under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you may continue to use your GCPR ceiling price until June 12, 1951.

(g) Information required in report. Your report should state the name and address of your company; a description of the commodity being priced; the comparison commodity and an explanation why you have selected the comparison commodity as such; a description of the category in which the commodity being priced and the comparison commodity fall; your ceiling price to the largest buying class of purchaser of your comparison commodity, or if you are not now manufacturing it what this ceiling price would be; a detailed breakdown of the current unit direct cost of the comparison commodity, or what it would be; the gross margin, and the percentage mark-up over current unit direct cost for the comparison commodity; a detailed breakdown of the current unit direct cost of the commodity being priced; the ceiling price of the commodity being priced; delivery, discount, guaranty and servicing terms and conditions and differentials in effect for sales to purchasers of various classes with respect to the comparison commodity.

SEC. 33. Ceiling prices for commodities in new categories, for new sellers and for sales to an entirely new class of purchaser. (a) (1) If you are pricing a commodity which is in a different category from any dealt in by you between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950, or which you are selling to an entirely new class of purchaser as referred to in section 3 (c), your ceiling price is the same as the ceiling price of your most closely competitive seller of the same class selling the same commodity to the same class of purchaser. A ceiling price so determined must be in line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation.

(2) Before selling any commodity for which you have determined a ceiling price under this section, you must file the report required by paragraph (b) of this section with the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., and in addition, you may not sell the commodity until 15 days after mailing your report; thereafter, you may sell the commodity at your proposed ceiling price unless and until notified by the Director of Price Stabilization that your proposed ceiling price has been disapproved or that more information is required. In the event that more information is required you may not sell until 15 days after mailing the additional information.

(3) In case, however, the commodity is one required to be priced under this section, and which, prior to the effective date of this regulation, you sold or offered for sale upon the basis of a ceiling price determined under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you may continue to use your GCPR ceiling price until June 12, 1951.

(b) Required report. Your report should state the name and address of your company; the new categories in which the commodities fall and the most comparable categories dealt in by you during the base period; the name, address and type of business of your most closely competitive seller of the same class; a statement of his ceiling price and his differentials to each of his classes of purchasers; your reasons for selecting him as your most closely competitive seller; a statement of your customary price differentials; and, if you are selling to an entirely new class of purchaser, a description of such class of purchaser. If you are starting a new business, you should include a statement whether you or the principal owner of your business are now or during the past 12 months have been engaged in any capacity in the same or a similar business at any other establishment, and, if so, the trade name and address of each such establishment. Your report should include the following: Your proposed ceiling price and the specifications of the commodity you are pricing; the manufacturing process involved; a detailed breakdown of your unit direct costs; the reason you believe the proposed ceiling price is in line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation; and the types of customers to whom you will be selling.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SEC. 34. Sellers who cannot price under other sections. If you claim that you are unable to determine your ceiling price for a commodity under any of the foregoing provisions of this regulation, you may apply in writing to the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., for the establishment of a ceiling price. This application shall contain an explanation of why you are unable to determine your ceiling price under any other provision of this regulation; all of the information called for under section 33 to the extent you are able to furnish it; and the method used by you to determine your proposed ceiling price. You may not sell the commodity until the Director of Price Stabilization notifies you, in writing, of your ceiling price.

SEC. 35. Export sales. Your sales for export are subject to the provisions of this regulation.

SEC. 36. Excise, sales, and other similar taxes—(a) Where the tax is included in your base period price. If your base period price for a commodity you are using to determine your ceiling price either for that commodity or another commodity includes any excise, sales or other similar tax which is not separately stated, you must first ascertain the amount of any such tax and exclude it from your base period price. Your base period price, with any such tax so excluded, may then be used in making any appropriate computations for determining your ceiling price. After completing the computations, you may then add on the appropriate amount of any such tax for inclusion as part of your ceiling price. In the case of any increase in such a tax subsequent to the end of your base period, you may include the appropriate amount of any such increase as part of your ceiling price. Likewise, in the case of any similar tax first imposed subsequent to the end of your base period and included in your selling price thereafter, you may include the appropriate amount of such tax as part of your ceiling price.

(b) Where the tax is separately stated and collected. In addition to your ceiling price determined under this regulation, you may collect the amount of any excise, sales or other similar tax paid by you as such only if it has been your practice to state and collect such taxes separately from your selling price for the same or similar commodities. In the case of such a tax imposed by law which is not effective until after the effective date of this regulation, or of any increase in such a tax subsequent to the effective date of this regulation, you may collect the amount of the tax actually paid as such by you, if not prohibited by the tax law. You must in all such cases state separately the amount of the tax.

SEC. 37. Prohibition against redetermination of ceiling prices. Once you have reported your ceiling price or a proposed ceiling price for a commodity as required by this regulation, you may not thereafter redetermine it except for redeterminations due to the increase in cost of agricultural commodities or products processed therefrom in accordance with section 21. A purely arithmetical error may, however, be corrected, but the correction must be reported to the Director of Price Stabilization.

SEC. 38. Modification of ceiling prices by the Director of Price Stabilization. The Director of Price Stabilization may at any time disapprove or revise downward ceiling prices proposed to be used or being used under this regulation so as to bring them into line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation.

SEC. 39. Recalculation of ceiling prices and announcement of "materials cost increase factors". The Director of Price Stabilization expects in due course to issue an amendment to this regulation providing for a recalculation of your ceiling prices hereunder. The primary purpose of this recalculation would be to reflect more accurately the materials prices established by this and other ceiling price regulations. The Director of Price Stabilization may also from time to time announce "materials cost increase factors" for certain materials in order to provide greater uniformity in the calculation of their change in price since the end of your base period. These factors will be percentage figures based on studies of some categories of important basic materials and parts. If such a factor is announced, it must be used in place of any change you have had in the price of the material covered by the factor, regardless of whether the factor is higher or lower. These "materials cost increase factors" may be announced by amendments or by supplementary regulations to this regulation.

SEC. 40. Adjustable pricing. Nothing in this regulation shall be construed to prohibit your making a contract or offer to sell a commodity at (a) the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery or (b) the lower of a fixed price or the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery. You may not, however, deliver or agree to deliver a commodity at a price to be adjusted upward in accordance with any increase in a ceiling price after delivery.

SEC. 41. Petitions for amendment. If you wish to have this regulation amended, you may file a petition for amendment in accordance with the provisions of Price Procedural Regulation 1 (15 F. R. 9055).

SEC. 42. Supplementary regulations. The Director of Price Stabilization may issue supplementary regulations modifying or implementing this regulation as he deems appropriate.

SEC. 43. Adjustment of ceiling prices where over-all loss in operations results. (a) This section permits you to apply for an upward adjustment of your ceiling prices established by this regulation, if as a result of these ceiling prices, you would operate at a loss.

(b) You may apply under this section if:

(1) Your total manufacturing operations have been conducted at a net loss for a period of operation under this regulation of at least one month, or would have been conducted at a loss if you had manufactured the commodities covered by this regulation in your customary quantities and proportions;

(2) The loss was attributable to the level of prices established by this regulation, and not to any of the following:

(i) Seasonal, non-recurring or temporary factors affecting your operations; or

(ii) A reduction in volume of production below the normal economical capacity of your plant; or

(iii) The payment of unlawful wages or excessive salaries or of unlawful or excessive prices for materials; or

(iv) The incurring of factory overhead costs or of selling, administrative and general costs which are abnormally high relative to sales or other costs unless such excess is demonstrated by clear and convincing evidence to have been unavoidable in the exercise of sound business judgment and management; or

(v) Any transactions with affiliated corporations or businesses which either are of a kind which would not result from arm's-length bargaining or differ from the transactions which you have customarily had with such affiliated corporations or businesses; or

(vi) Reserves for contingencies.

(3) The adjusted prices for which you apply will not be substantially out-of-line with the ceiling prices for similar commodities established for other sellers under this regulation.

(c) If you make application under this section, you must supply:

(1) Your name, address, a description of your manufacturing facilities and of the commodities you manufacture, a statement of the principal types of customers to whom you sell;

(2) A detailed annual profit and loss statement for your firm for the years 1946 through 1949, and both an annual profit and loss statement, and if you regularly prepare them, quarterly profit and loss statements covering the year 1950 and each quarter since then;

(3) A detailed profit and loss statement covering a period of operations of one month or more under this regulation, together with a careful explanation of how it was prepared, including particularly a justification of any estimating procedures used in its preparation;

(4) For commodities covered by this regulation, either (i) a statement of your base period and ceiling prices to your largest buying class of purchaser (including delivery terms, cash, trade and volume discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms and other terms and conditions of sale) and a schedule of your price differentials to your other classes of purchasers; or (ii) a copy of the report required and submitted to the Office of Price Stabilization; together with (iii) a statement of the section or sections under which you established your ceiling prices.

(5) A showing that the loss in your current operations was not due to any of the six factors in paragraph (b) (2) of this section.

(6) A list of your principal competitors, and a statement of their ceiling prices under this regulation for commodities similar to yours, together with data showing the past relationship of your prices to those they have charged for the same or similar commodities;

(7) A proposed schedule of adjusted ceiling prices for commodities covered by this regulation, and a demonstration that, if these prices were charged, your operations would be at a break-even position.

(8) The application must refer specifically to this section of the regulation, must be signed by a responsible officer of your company, and should be sent to the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C.

(d) Within thirty days of the receipt of your application, the Director will grant or deny your application in full or in part, or request further information. The Director may, as a condition of granting your application in full or in part, require you to submit reports of subsequent operations and may revoke or modify the adjustment at any time. If, thirty days after the acknowledgment of receipt of your application, none of the actions listed above has been taken, you may sell at your proposed ceiling prices until such time as the Director shall notify you that these prices have been disapproved.

SEC. 44. Use of "conversion steel" in calculating "the materials cost adjustment"—(a) Purpose of this section. In calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for a commodity under this regulation, you are not permitted to reflect in your calculations any increase in materials cost occasioned by use of so-called "conversion steel". However, if you believe that this requirement imposes upon you a serious inequity because you are required by NPA Order M-47 (16 F. R. 3130) of the National Production Authority to use more conversion steel than you used in your base period, you may apply for permission to reflect such increase in your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment".

(b) How to apply. Under the circumstances described in paragraph (a) of this section, you may make application, signed by a responsible officer of your company, and sent by registered mail, to the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., referring specifically to this section and supplying the following information:

(1) A statement describing the nature of your manufacturing operations, and, particularly, the commodities in which conversion steel is used.

(2) A detailed statement showing all of your purchases of steel (whether conversion steel or not) in your base period, and in the three months ended March 31, 1951, listing, for each such purchase, the date, the name and address of the supplier, the exact specifications of the steel purchased, the price paid (including all discounts, extras, terms, delivery charges, etc.), and the amount purchased. If you sold any steel in either of these periods, you must give full details as to such sales.

(3) A detailed statement establishing the amount of "conversion steel" you are required to use under NPA Order M-47 of the National Production Authority.

(4) A detailed statement showing how you propose to reflect in your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment" the increase, since the end of your base period, in the cost of steel (including conversion steel), in the amount and to the extent that you are required to use such steel under NPA Order M-47 of the National Production Authority.

(c) Action on your application. Within thirty days after the receipt of the application described above, the Director will grant or deny, in whole or in part, your application, or notify you that further information is required. If, at the end of thirty days, the Director has done none of the above, you may begin to sell at ceiling prices calculated in accordance with "the materials cost adjustment" you propose. (In the meantime you may, after the effective date of this regulation, sell at a ceiling price calculated without reference to your use of conversion steel.) At any time thereafter, the Director may notify you that further information is required or may deny your application, in whole or in part, but such denial shall not be retroactive as to deliveries previously made.

SEC. 45. Temporary adjustments to carry out existing contracts—(a) Who may apply for adjustment. If at any time prior to the issuance date of this regulation, you entered into a bona fide contract for delivery of a commodity at a firm price subsequent to the effective date of this regulation, and if your ceiling price as determined under this regulation is lower than the contract price, you may apply to the Director of Price Stabilization for an adjustment of your ceiling price, Provided:

(1) The contract for future delivery was required by seasonal demands or normal business practices.

(2) The contract, if entered into subsequent to January 26, 1951, called for deliveries at a price which was lawful under ceiling price regulations in effect at that time.

(3) You acquired needed raw materials or component parts after the date of the contract at lawful prices in reliance upon and in order to fulfill the terms of the contract.

(b) Calculation of the amount of the adjustment. The adjusted ceiling price will be fixed in the following way:

(1) Take the total price of the quantity of raw materials or component parts acquired in reliance upon, and necessary in order to fulfill, the contract.

(2) Compute what the total price of the same quantity of raw materials or component parts would be as of the later of the two applicable prescribed dates used for your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment". In computing what that total price would be, you will, of course, apply the provisions of section 18.

(3) Subtract the figure arrived at in subparagraph (2) from the figure in subparagraph (1). The result is the total amount of the adjustment. If the figure arrived at in subparagraph (1) is no higher than that arrived at in subparagraph (2), you cannot apply for adjustment under this section.

(4) Divide the total amount of the adjustment by the number of units of the commodity called for by the contract. This gives you the adjustment per unit of the commodity. If the contract calls for the delivery of more than one commodity, the total amount of the adjustment may be distributed in any appropriate way among the several commodities.

(5) Add the adjustment per unit of the commodity under (4) to your ceiling price for that commodity. The result is your adjusted ceiling price. In no event, however, may you obtain an adjusted ceiling price higher than the contract price.

Example: You contracted in January 1951 to supply a mail order house 1,000 units of a commodity at $10.00 per unit, delivery to be made during the months of June, July, and August of 1951. Your ceiling price under this regulation is $9.00. In order to comply with the terms of your contract, you purchased raw material sufficient to produce 600 units at a total cost of $4,200. The cost of acquiring the same raw material as of December 31, 1950 (the later of the two applicable dates used in your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment") would be $3,500. The total adjustment is $700 ($4,200 minus $3,500 equals $700). The total number of units called for in the contract was 1,000. Divide $700 by 1,000. This gives you 70¢. The adjustment per commodity becomes 70¢ and your adjusted ceiling price for the contract $9.70. Subsequent sales to the contract purchaser and all sales to other purchasers must be at the regular ceiling price of $9.00.

(c) What your application must contain. Applications for adjustment under this section must be filed on or before August 1, 1951, with the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. Attached to the application should be the following:

1. A copy of the contract;

2. Copies of invoices covering the raw materials or component parts acquired in reliance upon and in order to fulfill the contract;

3. Copies of invoices or other supporting data which indicate your net cost as of the later of the two applicable dates you used in computing "the materials cost adjustment".

4. A copy of the worksheets used in the calculation of your ceiling price.

5. A report of your adjusted ceiling price and a detailed calculation showing how this price was arrived at.

(d) Action on your application. You may not receive payment of any amount in excess of your ceiling price until 30 days after receipt by the Director of Price Stabilization of any application filed under this section. If the Director of Price Stabilization does not revise or modify the adjusted ceiling price reported by you or notify you that further information is required, you may after these 30 days have elapsed receive payment at the adjusted ceiling price for all deliveries made since the date of filing. The Director may, however, at any time revise or modify the adjusted ceiling price, but such revision or modification will not apply to deliveries already made.

SEC. 46. Records and reports—(a) Record-keeping requirements. (1) With respect to any commodity covered by this regulation the provisions of section 16 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation are hereby continued in effect insofar as they apply to the preparation and preservation of "base period records" and such "current records" as have been made as a result of sales between January 26, 1951, and the effective date of this regulation.[1]

(2) (i) You shall prepare and preserve for the life of the Defense Production Act of 1950 and for two years thereafter all records necessary to determine whether you have computed your ceiling prices correctly, including (but not limited to) records showing base period prices and material and labor costs, and records showing costs, prices, and sales for the other applicable periods and dates referred to in the regulation.

(ii) The records to be preserved under this paragraph must include appropriate work sheets. Appendix E contains suggested work sheets for the more important calculations required under this regulation. The work sheets to be preserved may be in the form shown in the appendix; they may be in any other convenient form so long as they include all data and calculations required to determine your ceiling prices.

(3) You shall preserve for a period of two years all records showing the prices at which sales of commodities subject to the regulation have been made.

(b) Reports. (1) You must file with the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., on or before the effective date of this regulation one or more reports on Public Form No. 8 in accordance with the instructions which are a part of that form. Copies of the form may be obtained from any Regional or District Office of the Office of Price Stabilization. This Public Form No. 8 is shown in Appendix D. If you report a ceiling price for any commodity higher than your ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you must file your report by registered mail, and you must wait 15 days before selling as provided in section 48.

(2) The Director of Price Stabilization may from time to time require additional information or reports subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget under the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

SEC. 47. Definitions and explanations. Category. This term is defined in section 5.

Class of purchaser or purchaser of the same class. Class of purchaser is determined in the first instance by reference to your own practice of setting different prices for sales to different purchasers or groups of purchasers. The practice may (but need not) be based on the characteristics or distributive level of the buyer (for instance, manufacturer, wholesaler, individual retail store, retail chain, mail order house, government agency, public institution). It may (but need not) be based on the location of the purchaser or the quantity purchased by him. If you have followed the practice of giving an individual customer a price differing from that charged others, that customer is a separate class of purchaser.

If in your industry a practice prevails of charging different prices for sales to groups of buyers based on their characteristics or distributive level, any such group to whom you did not make sales during your base period and for whom you did not have a customary differential in effect during or before your base period, is a separate class of purchaser as to you.

Commodity. This term includes any item, object, material, article, product or supply.

Delivered. A commodity shall be deemed to have been delivered if it was received by the purchaser or by any carrier, including a carrier owned or controlled by the seller, for shipment to the purchaser.

Director of Price Stabilization. This term also applies to any official (including officials of Regional or District offices) to whom the Director of Price Stabilization by order delegates a function, power or authority referred to in this regulation.

End of your base period. This term means June 24, 1950, if your base period is April 1 through June 24, 1950, or if you elected a previous calendar quarter as your base period in accordance with section 4, it means the last day of that quarter. If, however, you have elected different base periods for different commodities or categories in accordance with sections 4 or 5, the date you will use as the end of your base period is determined as follows:

(a) If you are calculating "the labor cost adjustment" or "the materials cost adjustment" upon the basis of a unit of your business, and your base period is the same for all commodities produced in that unit, the last day of that base period is the end of your base period.

(b) If you are calculating "the labor cost adjustment" upon the basis of your entire business or of a unit of your business and your base period for all of the commodities being priced is not the same, the last day of the particular base period you have elected which covers the group of commodities having the largest aggregate dollar volume of sales in calendar or fiscal year 1950 is the end of your base period for your calculation of "the labor cost adjustment."

(c) If you are calculating the "materials cost adjustment" upon the basis of your entire business or a unit of your business and your base period for all of the commodities being priced is not the same, the last day of the particular base period you have elected for the group of commodities having the largest aggregate dollar volume of sales in calendar or fiscal year 1950 is the end of your base period for your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment."

(d) If you are calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for a commodity under method 2 (section 14) or method 3 (section 15) the end of your base period is the last day of the particular base period you are using.

Largest buying class of purchaser. This term refers to the "class of purchaser" of a commodity which bought from you the largest dollar amount of that commodity during your base period. It does not, however, include the United States or any agency thereof, any foreign purchaser, or any person to whom the only sales made during your base period were made under a written contract of at least 6 months' duration entered into prior to the base period, unless the United States or any agency thereof, any foreign purchaser or such contract purchaser was your only class of purchaser.

Manufacturer. This term includes a producer, processor, assembler, finisher, printer or fabricator. You are not a manufacturer unless you substantially change the form of some commodity or commodities, combine two or more commodities into a different one, or create a new commodity from existing ones. If you merely package, label, market, promote, or sell a commodity or combine commodities without substantially changing their form, you are not a manufacturer. If you merely perform an industrial service for the account of others on a commodity you are not a manufacturer with respect to such a commodity.

Manufacturing material. This term is explained in section 10.

Most closely competitive seller of the same class. Your most closely competitive seller of the same class is the seller with whom you are in most direct competition. You are in direct competition with another seller who sells the same type of commodity to the same classes of purchaser in similar quantities on similar terms and with approximately the same amount of service.

Net cost or net price. Each of these terms refers to the cost or price to you of a manufacturing material less any discount (other than a customary cash discount) or allowance you took or could have taken. It does not include separately stated charges such as freight, taxes, etc.

Net sales. This term refers to gross sales after trade discounts, less returns and allowances. In the case of sales where the selling price is a delivered price, transportation charges should not be deducted.

Person. This term includes any individual, corporation, partnership, association or any other organized group of persons, or legal successors or representatives of the foregoing, and the United States or any other Government or their political subdivisions or agencies.

Plant. This term refers to a single physical location where business is conducted or industrial operations are performed, for example, a factory or a mill. If such a single physical location comprises two or more units, with separate payroll and inventory records, engaged in distinct industrial activities, each unit shall be treated as a plant.

This definition of "plant" is based on the definition of "a manufacturing establishment" in the Standard Industrial Classification which is consistent with that used by the Bureau of Census in the 1947 Census of Manufactures and subsequent surveys.

Product line. This term is explained in section 15.

Records. This term means books or accounts, sales lists, sales slips, orders, vouchers, contracts, receipts, invoices, bills of lading, and other papers and documents.

Sale at retail. Sale at retail means any sale to an ultimate consumer other than a commercial, industrial, governmental or institutional user.

Sell. This term includes sell, supply (with respect to either commodities or services), dispose, barter, exchange, transfer and deliver, and contracts and offers to do any of the foregoing. The terms "buy" and "purchase" shall be construed accordingly.

Service. This term includes any service rendered or supplied, otherwise than by an employee.

Written offer or written offer for sale. Each of these terms refers to an offer for sale made by means of the seller's price list or, if he had no price list, a written offer otherwise made in the seller's customary manner. The term does not include an offer at a price intended to withhold a commodity from the market or used as a bargaining price by a seller who usually sells at a price lower than his asking price.

You. "You" means the person subject to this regulation. "Your" and "yours" are construed accordingly.

SEC. 48. Prohibitions. (a) On and after the effective date of this regulation, regardless of any contract or other obligation, (1) you shall not sell any commodity subject to this regulation at a price exceeding your ceiling price as determined under this regulation, and (2) no person shall buy from you in the regular course of business or trade any commodity subject to this regulation at a price exceeding your ceiling price as determined under this regulation.

(b) On and after the effective date of this regulation you shall not sell any commodity subject to this regulation unless you have complied with the report requirements of sections 32, 33, or 46, whichever is applicable.

(c) In the event your ceiling price for a commodity under this regulation is higher than your ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation you shall not sell that commodity at a price exceeding your ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, except under the following conditions:

(1) You must send by registered mail a report, relating to that commodity, on Public Form No. 8 (shown in Appendix D) to the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. Copies of this form can be obtained from any Regional or District office of the Office of Price Stabilization.

[1] The portions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation here referred to applicable to manufacturers, are as follows:

SEC. 16. (a) Base period records. You must preserve and keep available for examination by the Director of Price Stabilization those records in your possession showing the prices charged by you for the commodities or services which you delivered or offered to deliver during the base period. • • •

(2) In addition, on or before March 22, 1951, you must prepare and preserve a statement showing the categories of commodities in which you made deliveries and offers for delivery during the base period. • • •

(3) On or before March 22, 1951, you must also prepare and preserve a ceiling price list, showing the commodities in each category (listing each model, type, style, and kind), or the services, delivered or offered for delivery by you during the base period together with a description or identification of each such commodity or service and a statement of the ceiling price. Your ceiling price list may refer to an attached price list or catalog. • • •

(4) You must also prepare and preserve a statement of your customary price differentials for terms and conditions of sale and classes of purchasers, which you had in effect during the base period.

• • • • • • •

(b) Current records. If you sell commodities or services covered by this regulation you must prepare and keep available for examination by the Director of Price Stabilization for a period of two years, records of the kind which you customarily keep showing the prices which you charge for the commodities or services. In addition, you must prepare and preserve records indicating clearly the basis upon which you have determined the ceiling price for any commodities or services not delivered by you or offered for delivery during the base period. • • •

"Base period" as used in section 16 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation means December 19, 1950 to January 25, 1951.

(2) You must wait 15 days after the date of receipt by the Director of Price Stabilization of the report, as shown on your return receipt.

(3) At the end of that 15-day period, or on or after the effective date of this regulation, whichever is later, you may deliver that commodity at your ceiling price as determined under this regulation, unless and until notified by the Director of Price Stabilization to continue using your GCPR ceiling price, or such higher ceiling price as he may permit, either because your ceiling price proposed under this regulation has been disapproved in whole or in part, or because more information is required.

SEC. 49. Charges lower than ceiling prices. Lower prices than those established under this regulation may be charged, demanded, paid or offered.

SEC. 50. Evasion. Any practice which results in obtaining indirectly a higher price than is permitted by this regulation is a violation of this regulation. Such practices include, but are not limited to, devices making use of commissions, services, cross sales, transportation arrangements, premiums, discounts, special privileges, tie in agreements and trade understandings.

SEC. 51. Penalties. Persons violating any provision of this regulation are subject to the criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions, and suits for treble damages provided for by the Defense Production Act of 1950.

Effective date. The effective date of this regulation is May 28, 1951.

NOTE.—The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

MICHAEL V. DISALLE,
Director of Price Stabilization.

APRIL 25, 1951.

APPENDIX D

This appendix contains a facsimile of OPS Public Form 8, "Manufacturer's Price Adjustment Report," required to be filed under sections 46 and 48 of this regulation. Printed copies of this form are available at OPS District and Regional Offices.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING OPS PUBLIC FORM NO. 8

Who Must File

Every manufacturer subject to CPR 22 must file this report by May 28, 1951, as required by Sections 46 and 48 of the regulation.

Where Shall the Report Be Filed

Mail to Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. Use registered mail if Item 8 is completed.

Why Must the Report Be Filed

This report is designed to inform OPS of adjustments of pre-Korean prices and of proposed ceiling price increases.

How Many Copies Shall Be Filed

A single copy of this report is to be filed for each category or product line, even though the actual price computations have been arrived at by a method applying to a larger unit of your business. Reporting by categories or product lines is needed to facilitate classification and analysis. Many companies will report only one product line.

(See instruction for Item 1 below.)

How To Complete the Form

(Make sure to read the regulation and refer to Appendix E for worksheets.)

ITEM 1. DESCRIBE THE CATEGORY OR PRODUCT LINE COVERED BY THIS REPORT. A "category" is defined in the regulation (Section 5) as "a group of commodities which are normally classed together in your industry for purposes of production accounting or sales." Examples of categories would be: wood office desks; domestic vacuum cleaners; domestic washing machines.

A "product line" is defined in the regulation (Section 15 (a) (1)) as "a group of closely related commodities which differ in such respects as style, model, or size and which are normally classed together as a product line in your industry. Generally speaking, each commodity in the same product line must serve the same purpose and must be made by the same manufacturing process from substantially the same materials." Examples of product lines would be: wringer type washing machines; felt mattresses; ball-point pens.

If the same product line or category was produced by more than one plant and sold at different base period prices, a separate report must be made for each plant and the plant indicated in completing this item.

ITEM 2. GIVE THE DATES OF THE BASE PERIOD USED. "Base period" refers to the period April 1 through June 24, 1950 or any previous calendar quarter ended not earlier than September 30, 1949 which you may elect to use. (See Section 4.)

ITEM 3. ESTIMATED 1950 DOLLAR SALES. Enter in this item the estimated 1950 dollar sales for all the commodities which are included in the category or product line for which the report form is being prepared.

ITEM 4. LABOR COST ADJUSTMENT FACTOR. Enter here the labor cost adjustment factor used pursuant to section 8 (e) or 9 (b) of the regulation. Note that it is the adjustment factor rather than the adjustment which is desired here. The adjustment factor is always a percentage which is applied to the sales or price figure to yield the dollars and cents labor cost adjustment. If you calculated a separate "labor cost adjustment" for each unit of your business enter the labor cost adjustment factor for the unit which produces the category or product line covered by the report.

ITEM 5. MATERIALS COST ADJUSTMENT FACTOR. If either of methods 1, 3, or 4 has been used for the commodities in this category or product line, you will have arrived at a materials cost adjustment factor under section 13 (d), 15 (c), or 16 (d). This adjustment factor is a percentage to be applied to the sales figure to arrive at the materials cost adjustment.

If you have used method 2, which provides for a separate analysis of material cost for each individual commodity, you will have no "materials cost adjustment factor" but only a dollars and cents "materials cost adjustment" (Section 14 (c)) to be added to the base period price. Give the adjustment figure for a selected commodity, which should be the best selling commodity of the category or product line. Show the actual base period price and identify the commodity.

ITEM 6. PRICE ADJUSTMENT RATIO. You may choose to preserve the price relationships established by the General Ceiling Price Regulation. In this case, you will have arrived at a "price adjustment ratio" under Supplementary Regulation 2 to this regulation. Enter here the ratio which will be applied uniformly to GCPR prices.

ITEM 7. CERTIFICATION REGARDING PROPOSED CEILING PRICE INCREASES OVER GENERAL CEILING PRICE REGULATION. All manufacturers filing this report must complete items 1–6 of the report and sign the certification even though they are not reporting any proposed ceiling price increases in item 8.

ITEM 8. PROPOSED CEILING PRICE INCREASES. (a) Identify the commodity in sufficient detail comparable to that which a fully completed invoice would show. Identify also the physical unit to which the proposed ceiling price refers (for example, pound, dozen, piece).

(b) Give here sufficient information to show the nature of the price computed: largest buying class of customer, delivery terms, cash and other discounts and other important terms and conditions of sale.

(c) Estimated sales in 1950 should be only for the specific commodity for which there is a proposed ceiling price increase, but should include sales to all customers.

(d) Insert the base period price to the largest buying class of purchaser which you determined for the commodity in accordance with Section 6 of the regulation.

(e) Indicate your GCPR price for the commodity.

(f) Indicate the proposed ceiling price as calculated under the provisions of this regulation.

(g) Divide the proposed ceiling price (column (f)) by the GCPR price (column (e)). This will indicate the percentage price increase over the GCPR price which is being proposed.

(h) If you used method 2 for calculating the materials cost adjustment separately for each commodity included in the category or product line covered by this report, then you must show here the materials cost adjustment obtained for the commodity for which a proposed ceiling price increase is shown. If you used method 1, 3 or 4 no entry is required in this column since the adjustment factor shown in Item 5 of the report will apply.

APPENDIX E

This appendix contains three "worksheets" for certain of the calculations required in determining ceiling prices under this regulation. No actual copies of such worksheets will be printed for distribution by OPS. They are shown only to indicate the content and arrangement of data appropriate for certain important calculations, for a record of these calculations for your own use, for examination by OPS representatives, and for submittal on request to OPS. Any other arrangement which presents the same data and calculations is acceptable.

The worksheets comprise: Worksheet 1, "Labor Cost Adjustment Worksheet," for use in connection with Sections 8 and 9; Worksheet 2, "Materials Cost Adjustment Worksheet for Methods 1 and 4," for use in connection with Sections 13 and 16; and Worksheet 3, "Materials Cost Adjustment Worksheet for Methods 2 and 3," for use in connection with Sections 14 and 15.

Note that the worksheets do not cover all necessary calculations under the regulation for which systematic working papers are necessary. For example, the final determination of a ceiling price will require also computation of actual adjustments (based on the adjustment factors), the addition of these to base period prices, and the application of customary differentials to determine prices to different classes of customers. Moreover, the worksheets are designed for the more usual situation and will not necessarily fit all special computations provided for by the regulations.

M–47—USE OF IRON AND STEEL

This order, as amended, is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950. In the formulation of this order, there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. However, in the formulation of this amendment, consultation with representatives of all trades and industries affected has been rendered impracticable due to the necessity for immediate action and because the order affects a large number of different trades and industries.

This amendment affects Groups II, III, and VIII of List A, NPA Order M–47.

As amended, NPA Order M–47 now reads as follows:

Sec.
1. What this order does.
2. Definitions.
3. Iron and steel products to which this order applies.
4. Application of order.
5. Use of iron and steel products in consumer durable goods.
6. Exemptions.
7. Application for adjustment.
8. Records and reports.
9. Communications.
10. Violations.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 10 issued under sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong. Interpret or apply sec. 101, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.; sec. 101, E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105, 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.; sec. 2, E. O. 10200, Jan. 3, 1951, 16 F. R. 61.

SECTION 1. What this order does. The purpose of this order is to limit the use of iron and steel in the manufacture and assembly of certain products.

SEC. 2. Definitions. As used in this order:

(a) "Person" means any individual, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons and includes any agency of the United States or any other government.

(b) "Base period" means the 6-month period ending June 30, 1950.

(c) "Manufacture" means to put into process, machine, fabricate, or otherwise alter materials by physical or chemical means.

(d) "Conversion steel" means steel mill products which have been obtained by the consumer in consequence of the consumer or some other person having furnished, directly or indirectly, to one or more steel producers or converters, steel mill products in a less finished form such as, but not limited to, ingots, blooms, billets, slabs, rods, skelp, and hot rolled sheets in coils, for the express purpose of procuring such steel mill products.

SEC. 3. Iron and steel products to which this order applies. This order applies to the iron and steel products listed in Table I of NPA Order M–1, as amended.

SEC. 4. Application of order. This order applies to persons who use iron and steel products or parts or components made wholly or partly therefrom, for purposes of manufacture or assembly, and limits the use of such materials and parts in the manufacture or assembly of certain items. This order does not apply to the production of iron and steel.

SEC. 5. Use of iron and steel products in consumer durable goods. (a) Subject to the exemptions stated in section 6 of this order, and unless specifically authorized in writing by the National Production Authority, no person shall use during the calendar quarter commencing on April 1, 1951, in the manufacture of any item included in List A at the end of this order, a total quantity by weight of iron and steel products in excess of 80 percent of his average quarterly use of such materials in the manufactured item during the base period: Provided, however, That such use in any one month shall not exceed 40 percent of the permitted quarterly use. However, if such person manufactured one or more units of a part made wholly or partly from iron or steel products during the base period, and uses one or more purchased units of that part during said calendar quarter in any item in List A, he shall include the weight of the iron and steel products used in the manufacture of each such part, whether by himself or another, in computing his use of iron and steel products during the base period and during said calendar quarter. During the calendar quarter commencing on April 1, 1951, any person who does not use any iron and steel product in the manufacture of an item in List A, but who assembles parts made wholly or partly from such material into such item, shall not assemble a total number of units of such item in excess of 40 percent of the number of such units which he assembled during the base period.

(b) Any person who during the 6-month period ending December 31, 1950, used conversion steel in the manufacture of any items included in List A at the end of this order shall, during the calendar quarter commencing on April 1, 1951, use conversion steel in the manufacture of such items to the extent stated in this paragraph. The ratio between nonconversion steel used and the total permitted use of steel shall not exceed the ratio between nonconversion steel and total steel received by him during the 6-month period ending December 31, 1950: Provided, however, That in the alternative and in the event it is not practicable to determine the quantity of conversion steel used in the manufacture of items in List A, the ratio between nonconversion steel and total steel used in his total production, including all items in List A, shall not exceed the ratio between nonconversion steel and total steel received by him during said period. Any person who selects and applies either of the alternatives above stated may not subsequently apply the other alternative without the written approval of the National Production Authority.

SEC. 6. Exemptions. (a) The manufacture or assembly of any item in List A to fill rated orders, or to meet any mandatory order of the National Production Authority, is permitted in addition to the manufacture or assembly permitted by section 5 of this order.

(b) Section 5 shall not apply to any person whose total output of manufactured and assembled items included in List A during the calendar quarter commencing April 1, 1951, has an iron and steel content (including the estimated iron and steel content of parts and semi-fabricated materials purchased from others) of less than 100 short tons: Provided, however, (1) That no such person shall during said quarter use iron and steel products (not including the estimated iron and steel content of parts and semifabricated materials purchased from others) in the manufacture of items in List A a total quantity by weight of such material in excess of his average quarterly use thereof for such purposes during the base period; and (2) That any such person who does not use any iron and steel product in the manufacture of an item in List A, but who assembles parts made wholly or partly from such material into such item, shall not assemble a total number of units of such item in excess of 50 percent of the number of such units which he assembled during the base period.

SEC. 7. Application for adjustment. Any person affected by any provision of this order may file a request for adjustment or exception upon the ground that his business operation was commenced during or after the base period, or because any provision otherwise works an undue and exceptional hardship upon him not suffered generally by others in the same trade or industry, or that its enforcement against him would not be in the interest of the national defense or in the public interest. Each request shall be in writing and shall set forth all pertinent facts and the nature of the relief sought, and shall state the justification therefor.

SEC. 8. Records and reports. (a) Each person participating in any transaction covered by this order shall retain in his possession for at least 2 years records of receipts, deliveries, inventories, and use, in sufficient detail to permit an audit that determines for each transaction that the provisions of this order have been met. This does not specify any particular accounting method and does not require alteration of the system of records customarily maintained, provided such records supply an adequate basis for audit. Records may be retained in the form of microfilm or other photographic copies instead of the originals.

(b) All records required by this order shall be made available at the usual place of business where maintained for inspection and audit by duly authorized representatives of the National Production Authority.

(c) Persons subject to this order shall make such records and submit such reports to the National Production Authority as it shall require, subject to the terms of the Federal Reports Act (Pub. Law 831, 77th Cong., 5 U. S. C. 139–139F).

SEC. 9. Communications. All communications concerning this order shall be addressed to the National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M–47.

SEC. 10. Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order or any other order or regulation of the National Production Authority or who wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information in the course of operation under this order is guilty of a crime and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. In addition, administrative action may be taken against any such person to suspend his privilege of making or receiving further deliveries of materials or using facilities under priority or allocation control and to deprive him of further priorities assistance.

NOTE: All reporting and record-keeping requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act.

This order as amended shall take effect, except as otherwise specifically stated, on April 24, 1951.

NATIONAL PRODUCTION AUTHORITY,
MANLY FLEISCHMANN,
Administrator.

TITLE 38—PENSIONS, BONUSES, AND VETERANS' RELIEF

Chapter I—Veterans' Administration

PART 21—VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION AND EDUCATION

SUBPART C—TRAINING FACILITIES

1. A new cross reference is added immediately following § 21.443 to read as follows:

CROSS REFERENCE: Payment of tuition to profit educational or training institutions operating on a clock-hour basis for Part VII and Part VIII trainees where the trainee is absent from scheduled instructional periods. (See § 21.520.)

2. A new § 21.520 is added as follows:

§ 21.520 Payment of tuition to profit educational or training institutions operating on a clock-hour basis for Part VII and Part VIII trainees where the trainee is absent from scheduled instructional periods—(a) General. This section sets forth the policy of the Veterans Administration for determining the maximum payment that may be made to a profit educational or training institution operating on a clock-hour basis for a Part VII or Part VIII veteran where the veteran does not receive training because of absences or holidays.

(b) Definitions. The following definitions apply to the words and phrases used in this section:

(1) Absence: Failure to attend the institution during regularly scheduled hours of required attendance.

(2) Emergency absence: Absence not due to fault of veteran necessitated by emergencies, such as (i) death in the immediate family, illness of the trainee or a member of his immediate family as evidenced by a written statement filed with the institution signed by the trainee or a physician, or (ii) certain legal requirements such as jury duty and time spent in court where the trainee is detained by legal authority.

(3) Regularly scheduled hours of required attendance: The number of hours of attendance required of the trainee on the school premises as predetermined and scheduled by the school in the course outline and listing of class schedules, exclusive of any lunch periods.

(4) Instructional day: A day on which scheduled instruction is actually given.

(c) Profit schools which are required to meet the criteria set forth in section 5, Public Law 610, 81st Congress. The following policy with respect to payment for absences shall apply for veteran training:

(1) The standards of educational institutions with respect to attendance, progress and conduct as approved by the State under paragraph 11 (e) 2 d, Part VIII Veterans Regulation 1 (a) as amended (added by section 5, Public Law 610, 81st Congress) (38 U. S. C. ch. 12 note), will be recognized by the Veterans' Administration: Provided, That the maximum absences for which the Veterans' Administration will make payment for instructional time missed are as follows:

(i) Not to exceed a total of 30 days, or the equivalent expressed in clock-hours of absence (i. e., the number of daily instructional hours times 30) in a full-time course in a 12-month period of enrollment or a pro rata part of 30 days, or of the appropriate number of clock-hours, for periods of enrollment of less than 12 months. (For part-time courses, see subdivision (iv) of this subparagraph.)

(ii) Not to exceed a total of 3 days, or the equivalent expressed in clock-hours as defined in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph, of absence in a full-time course in any one calendar month. Such absence will be noncumulative beyond said period. (For part-time courses, see subdivision (iv) of this subparagraph.) In addition, the total of monthly absences for a 12-month period (or the total of the prorated part for shorter periods) shall not exceed the total as shown in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph.

(iii) Emergency absence not in excess of 10 days during a period of enrollment of 12 calendar months. Emergency absence will be allowed in addition to absences allowed under subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, but the total of absences under this subdivision and subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph will not be in excess of the limitations as prescribed in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph.

(iv) Absences (including emergency absence) in part time courses not in excess of the pro rata part of the absences allowed for full-time courses that the part-time course bears to the full-time course.

(v) In the determination of absences in subdivisions (i) through (iv) of this subparagraph, the following is applicable for tardy students: a student who is late three times in one month will be charged with one day of absence, or the equivalent of one day of absence expressed in clock-hours.

(2) Payment of tuition will not be made for any periods except for instructional days on which the school schedules and offers instruction on a required attendance basis.

(3) The length of the course will be expressed in terms of total hours of instruction even though the length of the course is also expressed in terms of weeks or months.

(4) The contract or other specified rate for tuition will be expressed at a rate per student clock-hour.

(5) Vouchers submitted by the educational institution to the Veterans Administration will not include any claim for absences from regularly scheduled instructional time in excess of the limitations prescribed in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph. As an example of the application of the above 3-day per month limitation for a full-time course, if a veteran were absent 5 instructional days in one month and there were 23 instructional days in that month, the veteran would have been absent 2 days in excess of allowable limitations prescribed in this paragraph, and the Veterans Administration would not pay for more than 21 instructional days in such case.

(6) Tuition will be payable only from the first day of the veteran's actual physical attendance for scheduled instruction and will terminate with the last day of actual physical attendance where the trainee withdraws or is separated from the educational institution.

(7) In the usual practices of educational institutions, regularly scheduled classes provide the total formal instruction of a course. In individual cases where the number of absences from scheduled instruction causes the instructors and officials of the school to consider the need for either discontinuing the student or prescribing make-up work, the individual student's possibility of completing the course through special make-up work is considered by the school. In such cases the school usually does not expend additional funds for teachers' salaries, operating or other expenses, nor will the Veterans' Administration agree to allow any such expenses either in the computation of contract rates or in vouchering for instruction. Therefore, the Veterans' Administration will not pay the institution for make-up work or make-up time where absences are in excess of the number as prescribed in this paragraph.

(d) Profit schools which are not required to meet the criteria set forth in section 5, Public Law 610, 81st Congress. When the enrollment in a course in an educational institution operating on a clock-hour basis consists of more than 25 students or one-fourth of the students enrolled, whichever is greater, paying their own tuition, and the institution publishes a catalog, bulletin, circular, or otherwise makes a certification to the Veterans' Administration, setting forth the tuition charges, the length of the course will be expressed in the usual terms used by the educational institution in such publications or certifications. The Veterans' Administration will accept the policies of such educational institutions regarding absences: Provided, That the Veterans' Administration regional office manager in his judgment considers such policies as reasonable and they are approved by the appropriate State approving agency. The basis of payment by the Veterans' Administration for holidays in schools having a majority of nonveterans will be either as stated in subparagraph (1) or (2) of this paragraph.

(1) Schools with courses stated on a weekly or monthly basis. Where charges for a course of instruction are clearly stated to be on a weekly or monthly basis and the length of the course is expressed only in terms of weeks or months, such charges will be paid without reduction for national legal holidays, or other officially recognized State holidays as determined by the Veterans' Administration regional office manager: Provided, That the total payment for the course will not exceed the amount derived by multiplying the total number of weeks or months in the course by the rate per week or per month. Where it is specifically provided in the institution's catalog, bulletin, or certification that charges will not be made for holidays, the foregoing will not be applied and payment will not be made for holidays.

(2) Schools with courses stated in terms of total clock-hours. Where the course of instruction consists of a stated number of total clock-hours of instruction, regardless of an additional statement as to the length of the course in weeks or months, sufficient instructional days must be offered to provide for all instructional hours in the course.

(e) Flight schools, language schools, et al., with tuition rate per hour. Where the school customarily provides instruction at a tuition rate per hour of instruction as in the case of flight training, language lessons, music lessons, etc., the basis of payment should be clearly specified either in the contract or in the published bulletin or certification of the institution where a contract is not required under Veterans' Administration Regulations. Payment will only be made for the hours of instruction actually furnished to and received by the veteran where the school customarily provides instruction at a tuition rate per hour of instruction as above.

(f) Responsibility of educational institutions. It is the responsibility of the educational institution to maintain accurate records of attendance including all basic and related records of attendance for each veteran-trainee enrolled therein under the provisions of Part VII and Part VIII, as amended. There shall be recorded on the attendance records of the educational institution all absences regardless of reason and whether such are due to authorized emergency absence or other absences. Vouchers prepared for tuition will be substantiated by recorded attendance in accordance with the provisions set forth in this paragraph; and, upon demand by the Veterans' Administration, such original records must be produced or made available for inspection.

(g) Payment provisions. For those profit educational institutions which are not required to and do not have a contract under Veterans' Administration regulations, the regulations in this section shall be applied effective July 1, 1951. In existing contracts having provisions relating to the payment for absences, this section will become effective from the date following expiration of such contracts. As contracts are renewed, or new contracts are prepared for veteran training under Part VII and Part VIII, provisions will be added to contracts to include the above-mentioned policies where applicable.

(h) Absence and leave. Educational institutions, referred to in this section, may continue to grant leave in accordance with their established policy for granting leave to all students and they will continue to inform the Veterans' Administration on prescribed reports where leave is unauthorized or exceeds 30 days in a calendar year (or the proper pro rata amount of 30 days for courses of less than a calendar year in duration). The policy announced in paragraphs (a) through (g) of this section deals with the matter of payment of tuition to such schools where absences from scheduled instructional periods occur. Nothing contained in this section is to be interpreted to conflict with prevailing regulations (§ 21.65) respecting the granting of leave.

PART 21—VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION AND EDUCATION

SUBPART C—TRAINING FACILITIES

1. In § 21.539, the title and paragraph (n) are amended and a new paragraph (o) is added as follows:

§ 21.539 Books, supplies and equipment, including tools, for Part VII or Part VIII trainees; furnished by an educational institution. * * *

(n) Limitations on procurement of tools, supplies and equipment and payment therefor. (1) Under the provisions of paragraph 5, Part VIII, Veterans Regulation 1 (a), as amended, the Administrator may pay for books, supplies, equipment, and other necessary expenses as are generally required for the successful pursuit and completion of the course by other students in the institution. Paragraph (e) (1) of this section provides that the institution will assure itself that the Veterans' Administration is not billed for "supplies" at an unreasonable price and paragraph (e) (6) of this section provides that if the institution furnishes items of "supplies" specifically purchased for trainees only (i. e., not handled through a book or supply store for all students), such items will be billed at cost to the institution. Under the regulations in this section the Veterans' Administration will pay for "supplies" at prices regularly and customarily charged to other students where there are substantial numbers of students other than those pursuing courses under the provisions of Part VII and Part VIII, Veterans Regulation 1 (a), as amended, and where there is a well-established policy of the institution with respect to the requirement for the student to furnish personally the "supplies."

(2) In all other cases of institutions or courses established subsequent to June 22, 1944, where the enrollment in the institution or courses involved consists solely or primarily of veterans pursuing courses under the provisions of Part VII and Part VIII, as amended, the Veterans' Administration will pay for "supplies" at a price not in excess of the lowest wholesale price at which the "supplies" may be purchased in a competitive market. This policy is for application in the case of all "supplies", including those for which separate reimbursement is made to the institution and those which are included in the over-all tuition or fee charge.

(i) Except as provided in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, effective June 22, 1950, the Veterans' Administration will not agree prospectively to pay for tools, supplies, and equipment, unless such items are provided at the rate established by the lowest of at least three bids or quotations from reputable and reliable established dealers or distributors. Therefore, prior to the negotiation or renewal of any contract and prior to the approval of payment bases for tools, supplies, and equipment for educational institutions receiving payment without a contract, each educational institution affected under this subparagraph will be required to submit or make available to the Veterans' Administration such data and information as will clearly indicate to the satisfaction of the Veterans' Administration that the agreed amount to be paid by the Veterans' Administration for items necessary for veteran training under Part VII and Part VIII is no greater than the lowest price at which such items can be procured in a competitive market. When possible, at least three bids or quotations will be solicited from prime sources of supply. Competition between a manufacturer and his distributors or jobbers or a bid or quotation by a firm debarred by the Veterans' Administration from bidding on Veterans' Administration requirements or affiliates of such firm will not be considered as complying with the intent of this subdivision. Acceptable bids or quotations will show prices for items delivered at the school (i. e., f. o. b. the school) and also will show all trade discounts. Where tools, supplies, and equipment are purchased by the Veterans' Administration for veterans who are training on the job, which are the same or comparable to those required by the school to be furnished for veterans, the Veterans' Administration regional office will inform the educational institution that one of the bids or quotations must be from such a Veterans' Administration designated supply source. After the Veterans' Administration has determined that the items have been or will be procured at a reasonable price, the source of supply is not a matter of concern for the Veterans' Administration, except that the cost of supplies procured from a debarred bidder and issued to a veteran in training will not be paid for by the Veterans' Administration unless the price charged by such firm or affiliate for articles of equal quality is lower than any of the bids submitted by qualified bidders. The assistant administrator for construction, supply, and real estate will designate the firms and affiliates which are debarred from bidding on Veterans' Administration requirements and advise the assistant administrator for vocational rehabilitation and education accordingly. The assistant administrator for vocational rehabilitation and education will take appropriate steps to notify the field stations as to actions to be taken in any case where suppliers are debarred as provided in this subdivision.

(ii) Under existing contracts with institutions affected under this subparagraph, the Veterans' Administration will not pay a marked-up price to the institution (whether or not within retail or list price) where the supplies have been procured from or through a dummy corporation or other affiliate of the institution but will pay for such supplies at an amount not in excess of the cost thereof to such dummy corporation or affiliate.

(iii) In addition to the above limitations respecting the payment for tools, supplies, and equipment, it is emphasized that only the amounts and kind of tools, supplies, and equipment which normally are required by well-established schools offering the same or similar instruction and which are essential to the training process will be provided for training of veterans under Part VII and Part VIII, as amended. Under the provisions of Part VIII, as amended, the Veterans' Administration has no authority to furnish personally to a veteran enrolled in institutional training any tools, supplies, and equipment which have been customarily maintained by well-established educational institutions and issued to students from a central tool room or tool crib as needed during classroom periods; or which are maintained at central points in a classroom or laboratory on tool boards, benches, racks, stands, or in cabinets, where they can be used as needed by individual students without materially delaying or retarding the progress of other students; or which are maintained for the use of instructors to demonstrate processes to groups of students or to check, test, or gauge periodically the results of student work. Such tools, supplies, and equipment shall be considered capital equipment to be furnished by the institution as distinguished from those tools, supplies, and equipment each student is customarily required and expected to own and which he needs to have in his possession at all times in his tool kit or on his desk or bench at each class period in order to progress satisfactorily in training without disrupting the work of other students.

(o) Reexamination of charges. In any case where the manager believes that the last contract rate for tuition, books, or supplies was obtained as a result of fraud, misrepresentation, or was in conflict with the governing regulation, the manager will carefully reexamine such rate, and, if the contract is determined to have been invalid, the manager will take appropriate action including the negotiation of a contract on a proper and legal basis.

2. In § 21.549, paragraph (d) is deleted:

§ 21.549 Payments for related training. * * *

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Production and Marketing Administration

[7 CFR, Parts 725, 726]

BURLEY AND FLUE-CURED TOBACCO

FIRE-CURED, DARK AIR-CURED, AND VIRGINIA SUN-CURED TOBACCO

NOTICE OF FORMULATION OF REGULATIONS RELATING TO MARKETING OF TOBACCO, COLLECTION OF MARKETING PENALTIES, AND RECORDS AND REPORTS, 1951-52 MARKETING YEAR

Pursuant to the authority contained in the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended (7 U. S. C. 1301, 1311–1315, 1372–1375), the Secretary of Agriculture is preparing to formulate marketing quota regulations covering the issuance of marketing cards, the identification of tobacco, the collection and refund of penalties, and the records and reports incident thereto on the marketing of Burley, flue-cured, fire-cured, dark air-cured, and Virginia sun-cured tobacco, for the 1951–52 marketing year.

The Secretary is considering the issuance of regulations for the 1951–52 marketing year substantially the same as those issued for 1950–51 (15 F. R. 3608, Burley and flue-cured) (15 F. R. 5527, fire-cured, dark air-cured, and Virginia sun-cured) except for the additional provisions discussed below.

(1) A provision for making any suspended sale subject to penalty which is not identified by a valid memorandum of sale within four weeks or on or before the last warehouse sale day of the marketing season, whichever comes first. The 1950–51 regulations permitted sales to remain in suspension the full four weeks without regard to the end of the marketing season. The change is considered necessary because of the difficulty encountered in the past in clearing suspended sales after the warehouse closes for the marketing season.

(2) A provision which would require that a warehouseman on whose floor more than one kind of tobacco is offered for sale at public auction display each kind separately and maintain records that will insure separate identification and accounting with respect to each kind. This amounts to an extension of the provision in the 1950–51 fire-cured, dark air-cured, and Virginia sun-cured regulations which provided for separate display and records with respect to Virginia fire-cured and Virginia sun-cured tobacco.

(3) A specific provision making all nonwarehouse sales subject to the converted rate of penalty for the farm for which the marketing card is issued, without regard to the amount of the net proceeds of the sale. While this would not be a new provision in the program, it is felt that more specific language is necessary in order to clarify the amount of penalty due on nonwarehouse sales.

Prior to the final adoption and issuance of such regulations, consideration will be given to any data, views, or recommendations pertaining thereto, which are submitted in writing to the Director, Tobacco Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. All submissions must be postmarked not later than fifteen days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER in order to be considered.

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 23d day of April 1951.

HANDLING OF MILK IN LOUISVILLE, KY., MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO A PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND A PROPOSED ORDER AMENDING THE ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), public hearings were conducted at Louisville, Kentucky, on December 18–21, 1950, and on March 9 and 14, 1951, pursuant to notices thereof which were issued December 13, 1950, and March 3, 1951, respectively (15 F. R. 8827 and 16 F. R. 2041).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearings and the record thereof, the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, on April 11, 1951, filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision in this proceeding. The notice of filing such recommended decision and opportunity to file written exceptions thereto was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on April 14, 1951 (16 F. R. 3307).

The material issues and the findings and conclusions of the recommended decision (16 F. R. 3307) are hereby approved and adopted as the material issues and findings and conclusions of this decision as if set forth in full herein.

Ruling on exceptions. In arriving at the findings and conclusions included in this decision each of the exceptions received was carefully and fully considered in conjunction with the record evidence pertaining thereto. To the extent that the findings and conclusions herein are at variance with the exceptions, such exceptions are overruled.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and are applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in the said marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Determination of representative period. The month of February 1951 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of the order amending the order, now in effect, regulating the handling of milk in the Louisville, Kentucky, marketing area, in the manner set forth below in the amending order is approved or favored by producers who, during such period, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in such marketing order.

Marketing agreement and order amending the order, as amended. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled, respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Louisville, Kentucky, Marketing Area," and "Order Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Louisville, Kentucky, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 23d day of April 1951.

Order[1] Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Louisville, Ky., Marketing Area

§ 946.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary to and in addition to the findings and determinations made in connection with the issuance of this order and of each of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900) public hearings were held December 18–21, 1950, and March 9 and 14, 1951, at Louisville, Kentucky, upon a proposed amendment to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Louisville, Kentucky, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearings and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

[1] This order shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

Order Relative to Handling

It is therefore ordered, That on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Louisville, Kentucky, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended and as hereby further amended, and the aforesaid order, as amended, is hereby further amended as follows:

1. Delete § 946.4 (b) (1) and substitute therefor the following:

(1) Class I milk. The price for Class I milk shall be the basic formula price plus $1.25.

2. Delete § 946.7 (b) (3) and substitute therefor the following:

(3) Subtract for each of the delivery periods of April, May, June, and July an amount computed by multiplying the total hundredweight of milk received from producers by handlers whose milk plants are included under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, by 12 percent of the average of the announced basic formula prices, computed to the nearest cent, for the twelve months of the preceding calendar year.

3. Amend § 946.8 (d) (2) by replacing the words "September, October, and November" and "September, October, or November" in such subparagraph by the words "September, October, November, and December" and "September, October, November, or December" respectively.

SUBPART B—DELEGATION OPTION AUTHORIZATION

§ 410.11 Application. Application for an authorization from the Administrator to use the delegation option procedures shall contain the information specified in Appendix A to this part, and shall be submitted to the CAA Regional office for the region in which the manufacturer is located.

§ 410.12 Authorization. Upon receiving an application and finding that the applicant meets the eligibility requirements, the Administrator will issue an authorization to the applicant to use the delegation option procedures in accordance with the provisions of this part. A sample authorization is shown in Appendix B to this part.

§ 410.14 Designated Aircraft Certification Representative (DACR). A Designated Aircraft Certification Representative is an individual who:

(a) Holds a responsible position in a manufacturer's organization with respect to the design and manufacture of airplanes,

(b) Upon request by the manufacturer, has been issued a Certificate of Authority by the Administrator, and has been listed on the delegation option authorization issued to the manufacturer.

A DACR will be furnished CAA forms, and instructions on the use thereof, under the delegation option procedures.

§ 410.15 Maintenance of eligibility. (a) The holder of an authorization to use the delegation option shall employ a competent staff of engineering, flight test, production, and inspection personnel adequate to maintain compliance with the applicable certification requirements of Parts 1, 3, 4a, and 8 of Chapter I of this title.

(b) The Designated Aircraft Certification Representative required by § 410.13 (b) may be replaced by another individual upon request by the holder of the delegation option authorization and the appointment of such replacing individual by the Administrator.

§ 410.16 Duration. An authorization to use the delegation option procedure shall remain in effect until suspended, cancelled, or revoked by the Administrator. The holder of such authorization shall request the CAA to cancel it if he no longer desires to use the delegation option.

§ 410.18 Inspections. Upon request, the applicant for a delegation option authorization, or the holder of such authorization shall permit authorized employees of the Administrator to inspect his organization, facilities, aircraft, and records.

SUBPART C—DELEGATION OPTION PROCEDURES

§ 410.31 Limits of applicability. (a) The delegation option procedures shall be applied only to airplanes which are manufactured by the holder of a delegation option authorization, and which:

(1) Are eligible for certification under the type, production, and airworthiness requirements of Parts 1, 3, 4a, or 8 of Chapter I of this title, or Bulletin 7A of the Bureau of Air Commerce,

(2) Have a maximum weight of no more than 5,000 pounds,

(3) Are designed to carry no more than 5 persons.

(b) Within the limitations prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section, the delegation option procedure may be applied to:

(1) Type certification,

(2) Changes in the type design of airplanes for which the manufacturer holds or obtains a type certificate,

(3) The amendment of the production certificate held by the manufacturer, to include additional airplane models or additional types for which he holds or obtains type certificates,

(4) The issuance of airworthiness certificates for airplanes of any type for which the manufacturer holds or obtains type and production certificates.

(c) The delegation option procedures may be applied to one or more airplane types as selected by the manufacturer, who shall notify the CAA of each airplane model, and the first airplane serial number of each model, manufactured by him under the delegation option procedures.

§ 410.32 Type certificates. (a) When a manufacturer desires to obtain a type certificate for a new type airplane under the delegation option procedures:

(1) The DACR for such manufacturer shall submit to the CAA an Application for a Type Certificate (Form ACA–312) together with a statement listing particular airworthiness requirements of this title by part and date, which the DACR considers applicable. After reviewing the application, the CAA will notify the DACR in an acceptance letter that the Administrator finds such requirements, or other specified requirements, applicable.

(2) After determining that the airplane meets the applicable airworthiness requirements, the DACR shall request the Administrator to issue a type certificate for such airplane. If the request for issuance of a type certificate is submitted more than one year after the date of application for the type certificate, the applicable requirements shall include all amendments to Parts 1, 3, 4a, or 8 of Chapter I of this title which have become effective up to a date one year prior to submittal of the request. A list of all such amendments, and any subsequent amendments voluntarily complied with, shall be included in the request. The request shall include a statement of compliance and the information prescribed in Appendix C to this part. The proposed Aircraft Specification, and if required by the applicable airworthiness requirements, a copy of the Airplane Flight Manual as approved by the DACR, shall be transmitted with the request. Upon receipt of a proper request and the required documents, the Administrator will issue and forward to the manufacturer a type certificate for the airplane.

(b) Under these delegation option procedures, the manufacturer may change the type design for airplanes for which he holds a type certificate, when the DACR finds that the changes comply with the applicable airworthiness requirements. If such changes would alter the information in the Aircraft Specification or Airplane Flight Manual, the manufacturer shall promptly submit proposed Aircraft Specification revisions or Airplane Flight Manual revisions to the CAA.

(1) The DACR shall furnish a statement to the CAA, briefly describing any changes to the type design and listing the particular airworthiness requirements of this title which the DACR considers applicable, whenever:

(i) A change in the type design appreciably changes the external configuration, maximum weight, or type of engine installed in the airplane, or

(ii) The manufacturer desires certification of the type design under airworthiness requirements other than those applicable in the original issuance of the type certificate. Upon receiving such a statement, the CAA will notify the DACR that the Administrator finds such requirements, or other specified requirements applicable.

(c) In determining compliance with the applicable airworthiness requirements, the DACR shall conduct a type inspection of the airplane, and complete a Type Inspection Report (Form ACA–283), or applicable portions thereof, which he shall sign and include in the manufacturer's technical data file.

(d) The manufacturer or the DACR may request the advice of the CAA concerning interpretation of the certification requirements in Parts 1, 3, 4a, and 8 of Chapter I of this title and Bulletin 7a of the Bureau of Air Commerce. Such requests and the replies thereto shall be made in writing and shall be recorded in the manufacturer's technical data file. The DACR shall request the advice of the CAA on any interpretation which requires application of the equivalent safety provisions contained in the certification requirements.

(e) The manufacturer shall prepare and maintain a technical data file for each airplane type under the delegation option procedure, in accordance with § 410.39 (a) (1).

§ 410.33 Production certificates. (a) When a manufacturer desires to list a new airplane model or a new type certificate on his production certificate, the DACR for such manufacturer shall, after finding that the manufacturer meets the production certificate requirements of Part 1 of Chapter I of this title with respect to the new model or type, submit a request therefor to the Administrator. This request shall be accompanied by:

(1) A statement of compliance containing the information prescribed in Appendix D to this part, and,

(2) A properly executed application for an amendment to the manufacturer's production certificate (Form ACA–332). Upon receipt of these documents the Administrator will add the new model designation and/or type certificate number to the production certificate and forward to the manufacturer an amended production limitation record.

(b) In determining that the manufacturer meets the applicable production certificate requirements, the DACR shall, for each new model or type added to the production certificate under the delegation option, conduct an inspection of the manufacturer's organization, facilities, methods, and procedures for manufacturing and controlling the quality and conformity of airplanes of that type, and shall complete and sign a Manufacturing Inspection Report (Form ACA–314) for inclusion in the manufacturer's records.

(c) At least once each year while the manufacturer holds a delegation option authorization, the DACR shall conduct an inspection of the manufacturer's facilities, methods, and procedures and shall complete and sign a copy of Form ACA–314 for inclusion in the manufacturer's records.

(d) The manufacturer shall prepare reports covering changes in organization and procedures and special processes, as required by the production certificate requirements of Part 1 of Chapter I of this title. He shall include such reports, and inspection records for each airplane produced under the delegation option, in his records as specified in § 410.39 (a) (2).

§ 410.34 Airworthiness certificates. (a) A DACR may issue an airworthiness certificate for an airplane manufactured under the delegation option when he finds, on the basis of the inspections and production flight check required under the production certificate requirements, that the airplane conforms to a type design for which the manufacturer holds a type certificate and is in a condition for safe operation.

(b) The DACR may authorize other employees of the manufacturer to sign such airworthiness certificates for him, over his name and designee number: Provided, That:

(1) Such employees perform or are in direct charge of the inspections specified in (a), and

(2) Such employees have been listed on the manufacturer's application to use the delegation option procedures (See Appendix A to this part), or on amendments thereto.

§ 410.35 Certificates of airworthiness for export. A certificate of airworthiness for export may be issued on the same basis as an airworthiness certificate, as specified in § 410.34.

§ 410.36 Service difficulties and noncompliance. Service difficulties and questions of compliance on airplanes produced under the delegation option will be handled as follows:

(a) Routine reports. The CAA will collect information on service difficulties in accordance with standard procedures. Where service difficulties are deemed of sufficient importance, the CAA will forward copies of the reports to the aircraft manufacturer for his information and any action he deems appropriate. The CAA will not request replies or action on such reports, except as indicated in paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) Serious defects. If accident or service difficulty reports indicate unsafe features or characteristics in an airplane caused by defects in design or manufacture, the CAA will transmit such reports to the manufacturer with a request that it be informed of the results of his investigation and of the action, if any, taken or proposed by him (e. g. service bulletins design changes, etc.). If the nature of the defect is of such importance that mandatory corrective action by airplane operators is necessary for safety, the CAA will require the manufacturer to submit the information necessary for the issuance of an Airworthiness Directive in accordance with the standard procedures.

(c) Investigation of airplane or manufacturing facilities. The manufacturer shall, upon request, permit the CAA to inspect and test his airplane, and investigate his technical data files and manufacturing facilities when reports indicate that a serious defect exists, and when the CAA finds that:

(1) The manufacturer's investigation and action are deemed inadequate to correct the unsafe condition, or

(2) There is substantial evidence that airplanes of the type may not, in fact, comply with the applicable airworthiness requirements. Prior to conducting such an investigation, the CAA will communicate with the manufacturer, citing the evidence in the case and, time permitting, will request the manufacturer to submit comments and any additional pertinent information. After the manufacturer's reply has been received, all pertinent facts and evidence will be referred to the CAA, Aircraft Division, Washington Office, for review, and the decision on whether or not to proceed with the investigation, and its nature and scope, will be made by that office.

(d) Non-compliance. When investigation is made by the CAA, and the findings indicate that a serious safety hazard exists because of the manufacturer's failure to comply in important respects with Parts 1, 3, 4a, or 8 of Chapter I of this title, the CAA will take such action as is deemed necessary to require correction of the defect in existing airplanes and to assure compliance in airplanes subsequently produced.

(e) Revocation of delegation option authorization. If the number or importance of established cases of noncompliance warrants, the CAA may request the manufacturer to show cause why his privileges under the delegation option procedures should not be withdrawn. After proper hearing, these privileges may be withdrawn until the manufacturer re-establishes his eligibility to the satisfaction of the Administrator.

(f) Suspension and revocation of certificates. Any action against type or production certificates held by the manufacturer will be processed in accordance with the standard procedures. (See § 408.26 of this chapter.)

§ 410.37 Maintenance, repair, and alteration of aircraft. Airplanes manufactured under the delegation option procedures shall be maintained, repaired, and altered in accordance with Part 18 of Chapter I of this title, and the following provisions:

(a) Approval of major repairs and alterations performed by the manufacturer. For airplanes of types included under the manufacturer's delegation option authorization:

(1) The DACR may, after finding that the major repair or alteration complies with the applicable requirements, approve such repair or alteration under the provisions of § 18.11 of Chapter I of this title.

(2) A completed Repair and Alteration Form (Form ACA–337) shall be furnished to the airplane owner and a copy forwarded to the nearest CAA District Office as specified on the reverse side of the form. However, any technical data prepared in accordance with §§ 18.16–2, 18.16–4, 18.16–5 and 18.16–6, of Chapter I of this title, need not be submitted with Form ACA–337, but shall instead be included in the manufacturer's records. The Form ACA–337 shall contain a description of the repair or alteration and a statement that it was accomplished under the delegation option procedures.

(3) The DACR may authorize other employees of the manufacturer to execute and sign Forms ACA–337 and make required logbook entries over his name and designee number: Provided, That:

(i) Such employees perform or are in direct charge of inspecting the repair or alteration, and

(ii) They have been listed on the manufacturer's application for the delegation option (See Appendix A to this part), or on amendments thereto.

(b) Approval of major repairs and alterations performed by agencies other than the manufacturer. The CAA will consider all major repairs and alterations submitted to it for approval under the provisions of § 18.11 of Chapter I of this title; however, where reference to the original configuration of the airplane and to available technical data does not provide an adequate basis for determining compliance with applicable airworthiness requirements, the CAA will advise the repair agency either to:

(1) Obtain the necessary technical data or advice from the airplane manufacturer, or

(2) Conduct the technical investigations and tests necessary to demonstrate compliance with the applicable airworthiness requirements.

§ 410.38 Annual inspections. (a) For airplane types included under the manufacturer's delegation option authorization, the DACR may act as a representative of the Administrator in conducting the annual inspection prescribed by Part 1 of Chapter I of this title and in executing the prescribed forms and making the required logbook entries. He may also approve the airplane for return to service after finding that it is in airworthy condition and complies with the applicable Aircraft Specification and Airworthiness Directives.

(b) The DACR may authorize other employees of the manufacturer to perform the functions specified in paragraph (a) of this section and to sign the specified documents over his name and designee number: Provided, That:

(1) Such employees perform or are in direct charge of the inspection, and

(2) They have been listed on the manufacturer's application for the delegation option (See Appendix A to this part), or on amendments thereto.

§ 410.39 Data and records. (a) A manufacturer shall maintain at his factory, for all aircraft certificated under the delegation option procedures, current records containing the following:

(1) A technical data file for each type aircraft. This data shall include the type design drawings, specifications and reports on tests prescribed by Part 1, 3, 4a, or 8 of Chapter I of this title, the original type inspection report (Form ACA–283), and amendments thereto.

(2) A complete inspection record for each airplane produced according to serial number, data covering the processes and tests to which materials and parts are subjected, the report required to be submitted with the original application for the production certificate and amendments thereto, and the factory inspection reports specified in § 410.33 (b) and (c).

(3) A record of all major repairs and alterations performed under the delegation option procedure.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

HAROLD C. STAYSA ET AL.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER REVOKING REGISTRATIONS

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Washington, D. C., on the 20th day of April A. D. 1951.

In the matter of Harold C. Staysa, 1728 Rand Bldg., Buffalo, New York; Maxwell E. Tobin, d/b/a M. E. Tobin Company, 842 Bushwick Avenue, Brooklyn, New York; L. A. Van Patten, 465 West 57th Street, New York, New York; Robert S. Way, d/b/a Robert S. Way Company, 115 Broadway, New York, New York; John D. Williams, 545 West 112th Street, New York, New York.

These are proceedings pursuant to section 15 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("the act") to determine whether the registrants named above, each of whom is registered as broker and dealer or as a dealer only, willfully violated section 17 (a) of the act and Rule X-17A-5 thereunder and, if so, whether it is in the public interest to revoke their registrations.[1]

The proceedings were instituted by separate notices and orders for hearing issued on February 9 and 13, 1951. On those days copies of the notices and orders were sent by registered mail to the addresses last furnished us by the registrants. These registered notices were returned to us by the Post Office Department with notations indicating that the registrants could not be found at the addresses given.[2]

On November 28, 1942, we promulgated Rule X-17A-5 under section 17 (a) of the act, which provides, among other things, that every registered broker or dealer must file with this Commission a report of financial condition during each calendar year commencing with the year 1943. Promulgation of the rule was announced by publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, by release to the press, and by distribution to persons on our mailing list.

The registrations of the registrants became effective prior to 1943, and have not been withdrawn, cancelled, revoked or suspended. Our records show that none of the registrants filed the required reports during any year from 1943 through 1949.

Upon review of the records in these proceedings we have concluded that each of the registrants violated section 17 (a) of the act and Rule X-17A-5 thereunder as a result of his failure to file such reports. We conclude also that such violations were willful within the meaning of section 15 (b).[3]

We conclude, on the basis of the foregoing, that it is necessary in the public interest to revoke the registration of each of the registrants. However, in view of the fact that our records do not show whether any of them actually received personal notice of the scheduled hearings, and to avoid any possible prejudice to them, our order will provide that the revocation of registrations be without prejudice to a motion on the part of any registrant to reopen the proceedings and to seek, upon a proper showing, to set aside the order of revocation applicable to said registrant.[4]

Accordingly it is ordered, That the registrations of Harold C. Staysa, Maxwell E. Tobin, doing business as M. E. Tobin Company, L. A. Van Patten, Robert S. Way, doing business as Robert S. Way Company, and John D. Williams be, and they hereby are, revoked without prejudice to a motion by any of the said registrants to reopen the record in the proceeding and, upon a proper showing, to set aside the order of revocation applicable to said registrant.

By the Commission.

[1] Section 15 (b) provides in part:

"The Commission shall, after appropriate notice and opportunity for hearing, by order • • • revoke the registration of any broker or dealer if it finds that such • • • revocation is in the public interest and that (1) such broker or dealer • • • (D) has willfully violated any provision • • • of this title, or of any rule or regulation thereunder."

[2] Our orders and notices instituting these proceedings provided that the same be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER not later than 15 days prior to March 19, 1951. Pursuant to this provision the orders and notices were published in the FEDERAL REGISTERS of February 15 and 17, 1951. 16 F. R. Nos. 32 and 34, pp. 1613-14, 1691-92.

SUPPLEMENTAL ORDER RELEASING JURISDICTION OVER LEGAL FEE AND EXPENSES

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Washington, D. C., on the 20th day of April A. D. 1951.

The Commission, on September 7, 1944, having issued its order approving the plan of reorganization of United Gas Corporation ("United") filed under section 11 (e) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, said order reserving, among other things, jurisdiction with respect to the fees and expenses of such reorganization; and

The Commission having heretofore released jurisdiction with respect to the fees and expenses then shown in connection with said reorganization; and

United having now filed a supplemental application requesting that the Commission release jurisdiction with respect to the requested fee of the firm of White & Case of $1,750 and expenses in the amount of $60.24 for legal services rendered in connection with said plan of reorganization; and

The Commission having considered the record in the above matter and finding that the fee and expenses proposed to be paid are not unreasonable:

OHIO EDISON CO.

ORDER GRANTING APPLICATION AND PERMITTING DECLARATION TO BECOME EFFECTIVE

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 18th day of April 1951.

Ohio Edison Company ("Ohio"), a registered holding company and a public utility company, having filed an application-declaration, with two amendments thereto, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") and certain rules and regulations promulgated thereunder with respect to the following transactions:

Ohio proposes to issue and sell 150,000 shares of a new series of preferred stock, par value $100 per share, at competitive bidding pursuant to Rule U-50. The dividend rate and the price per share to be paid the company are to be determined by such competitive biddine.

Ohio also proposes to issue 436,224 shares of additional common stock, par value $8 per share, pursuant to a subscription rights offering to its common stockholders of record at the close of business on May 2, 1951, at the rate of one share of new common stock for each ten shares of common stock held, at a price to be determined by the company. The holders of warrants evidencing subscription rights will also be entitled to subscribe, subject to allotment, and at the same price, for shares covered by outstanding unexercised warrants. No fractional shares are to be issued in exchange for warrants. The warrants provide that persons subscribing for stock may direct the subscription agent to purchase additional rights required to complete the subscription for a full share or to sell rights in excess of those required for full share subscriptions. In each case the purchase or sale may not exceed nine rights for any single stockholder. The offer of shares of common stock will be underwritten. Such shares as are not subscribed for by the stockholders and such shares, if any, as are acquired by Ohio in connection with stabilizing the price of the common stock (described more fully below) are to be offered to prospective bidders, pursuant to the competitive bidding requirements of Rule U-50, at the same price per share as the price at which stockholders may subscribe. Prospective bidders will be notified of the price per share as determined by the company at least 42 hours prior to the time for the receipt of the bids. The bidding will set forth the amount of compensation to be paid by Ohio to the bidders for their services in underwriting the sale of the common stock. The proposed contract with the bidders provides that in case any shares of common stock purchased by them shall be sold prior to the expiration of 30 days following the close of the subscription period, for a price in excess of $1.50 more than the subscription price, the bidders must pay to Ohio, in addition to the purchase price, a sum equal to one-half of such excess.

In connection with stabilizing the price of the common stock, Ohio may, during the period commencing with the first business day after the price per share is determined by the company and ending at the time of the acceptance of a bid for the stock, purchase up to 43,622 shares of its common stock, such purchases to be made through brokers with the payment of regular stock exchange commissions.

The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, the State in which the company is organized and conducts its business, has expressly authorized the proposed security issuances and sales. It is represented in the filing that the proceeds from the sale of these securities will assist Ohio with its contemplated construction expenditures for the years 1951 and 1952 which it is estimated will aggregate approximately $57,000,000.

Notice of the filing of this application-declaration having been duly given in the form and manner prescribed by Rule U-23 promulgated pursuant to the act and the Commission not having received a request for hearing and not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

The Commission finding with respect to this application-declaration, as amended, that there is no basis for any adverse findings and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers to grant said application and permit said declaration to become effective forthwith:

It is hereby ordered, Pursuant to said Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that said application-declaration, as amended, be, and the same hereby is, granted and permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24 and to the following additional terms and conditions:

1. That the proposed issuance and sale of the new preferred stock and the new common stock by Ohio shall not be consummated until the results of competitive bidding to be held with respect to each separate issue have been made a matter of record in this proceeding and a further order shall have been entered by this Commission in the light of the record so completed which order shall contain such further terms and conditions, if any, as may then be deemed appropriate.

2. That jurisdiction be reserved with respect to any and all fees and expenses incurred or to be incurred in connection with the consummation of the proposed transactions.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

Standards for Grades of Canned Lima Beans are hereby promulgated under the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.) and the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1951 (Pub. Law 759, 81st Cong., approved September 6, 1950):

§ 52.169 Canned lima beans. (a) "Canned lima beans" means canned lima beans as defined in the definitions and standards of identity for canned vegetables (21 CFR Cum. Supp. 52.990) issued pursuant to the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

(b) Varieties of canned lima beans. (1) Canned lima beans consist of either Fordhook or other than Fordhook variety.

(c) Grades of canned lima beans. (1) "U. S. Grade A" or "U. S. Fancy" is the quality of canned lima beans that possess similar varietal characteristics; that possess a normal flavor and odor; that possess a good color; that are practically free from defects; and that are of such quality with respect to character and clearness of liquor as to score not less than 90 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(2) "U. S. Grade B" or "U. S. Extra Standard" is the quality of canned lima beans that possess similar varietal characteristics; that possess a normal flavor and odor; that possess a reasonably good color; that are reasonably free from defects; and that are of such quality with respect to character and clearness of liquor as to score not less than 80 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(3) "U. S. Grade C" or "U. S. Standard" is the quality of canned lima beans that possess similar varietal characteristics; that possess a normal flavor and odor; that possess a fairly good color; that possess a fairly clear liquor; that are fairly free from defects; that possess a fairly good character; and that score not less than 70 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(4) "U. S. Grade D" or "Substandard" is the quality of canned lima beans that fail to meet the requirements of U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard.

(d) Recommended fill of container. The recommended fill of container is not incorporated in the grades of the finished product since fill of container, as such, is not a factor of quality for the purpose of these grades. It is recommended that each container be filled with lima beans as full as practicable without impairment of quality and that the product and packing medium occupy not less than 90 percent of the volume of the container.

(e) Recommended minimum drained weight. (1) The drained weight recommendations in Table No. I of this section are not incorporated in the grades of the finished product, since drained weight, as such, is not a factor of quality for the purpose of these grades.

(2) The drained weight of canned lima beans is determined by emptying the contents of the container upon a No. 8 sieve of proper diameter and allowing to drain for 2 minutes. A sieve 8 inches in diameter is used for the No. 2½ size can (401 x 411) and for containers of equal or smaller sizes; and a sieve 12 inches in diameter is used for containers larger than the No. 2½ size can.

TABLE No. I

[Recommended minimum drained weights (in ounces) of lima beans]

Container size, or designation:	Drained weight
8 Z tall	5½
No. 1 (picnic)	7
No. 1 tall	10¾
No. 300	9¾
No. 303	11
No. 2	13½
No. 10	72
No. 303 jar	11

(f) Sizes of lima beans in canned lima beans. The size of lima beans is not a factor of quality of canned lima beans for the purpose of these grades. The size of a lima bean is determined by measuring the greatest width through the center at right angles to the longitudinal axis of the bean. The designations of the various sizes of lima beans packed as canned beans are shown in Table No. II of this section.

TABLE No. II

[Sizes of lima beans in canned lima beans]

Word designation	Number designation	Size of lima beans (inches in width)
Tiny	No. 1	$\frac{30}{64}$ inch in width and smaller.
Small	No. 2	Over $\frac{30}{64}$ inch to and including $\frac{34}{64}$ inch in width
Medium	No. 3	Over $\frac{34}{64}$ inch to and including $\frac{38}{64}$ inch in width.
Large	No. 4	Larger than $\frac{38}{64}$ inch in width.

(g) Ascertaining the grade. (1) The grade of canned lima beans is ascertained by considering in conjunction with the other requirements of the respective grade, the respective ratings of the factors of color, clearness of liquor, absence of defects, and character.

(2) The relative importance of each factor which is scored is expressed numerically on a scale of 100. The maximum number of points that may be given such factors is:

Factors:	Points
(i) Color	35
(ii) Clearness of liquor	10
(iii) Absence of defects	25
(iv) Character	30
Total score	100

(3) "Normal flavor and normal odor" means that the product is free from objectionable flavors and objectionable odors of any kind.

(h) Ascertaining the rating of the factors which are scored. The essential variations within each factor which is scored are so described that the value may be ascertained for such factors and expressed numerically. The numerical range within each factor which is scored is inclusive (for example, "8 to 10 points" means 8, 9, or 10 points).

(i) Color. Spotted or otherwise discolored lima beans are considered defective beans and therefore are not considered in evaluating the factor of color.

(i) "Green" means that the individual lima bean, with respect to (a) all varieties other than Fordhook variety, possesses as much or more green color than Plate 11, F–2; and, with respect to (b) Fordhook variety, possesses as much or more green color than Plate 12, L–2, as illustrated in Maerz and Paul's Dictionary of Color.[2]

(ii) "White" means that the individual lima bean, with respect to (a) all varieties other than Fordhook variety, is lighter in color than Plate 11, C–2; and (b), with respect to Fordhook variety, is lighter in color than Plate 11, L–3, as illustrated in Maerz and Paul's Dictionary of Color.[2]

(iii) Canned lima beans that possess a good color may be given a score of 32 to 35 points. "Good color" means that the canned lima beans possess a bright, typical color and, with respect to varieties other than Fordhook variety, contain not less than 90 percent, by count, of green lima beans, and not more than 10 percent, by count, may be lighter in color, of which not more than 1 percent, by count, may be white lima beans; and, with respect to Fordhook variety, may contain not less than 90 percent, by count, of green lima beans and not more than 10 percent, by count, may be lighter in color, of which not more than 3 percent, by count, may be white lima beans.

(iv) If the canned lima beans possess a reasonably good color, a score of 28 to 31 points may be given. Canned lima beans that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Extra Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably good color" means that the canned lima beans possess a typical color and contain not less than 50 percent, by count, of green lima beans, and the remainder may be lighter in color, of which not more than 25 percent, by count, may be white lima beans.

(v) Canned lima beans that possess a fairly good color may be given a score of 26 to 28 points. Canned lima beans that score in this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good color" means that the canned lima beans possess a typical color and may contain less than 50 percent, by count, of green lima beans or lima beans that are lighter in color or more than 25 percent, by count, of white lima beans.

(vi) Canned lima beans that are definitely off color or fail to meet the requirements of subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 25 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, re-

(2) Clearness of liquor. (i) Canned lima beans that possess a practically clear liquor may be given a score of 9 to 10 points. "Practically clear liquor" means that the liquor may be slightly cloudy and that not more than a small amount of sediment is present.

(ii) If the canned lima beans possess a reasonably clear liquor, a score of 7 to 8 points may be given. "Reasonably clear liquor" means that the liquor may be somewhat cloudy and may contain a considerable amount of sediment.

(iii) Canned lima beans that possess a fairly clear liquor may be given a score of 5 to 6 points. "Fairly clear liquor" means that the liquor may be dull in color; and may be rather viscous, cream-like or starchy.

(iv) Canned lima beans that possess a liquor that is definitely off color for any reason or contain an excesssive amount of sediment may be given a score of 0 to 4 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(3) Absence of defects. (i) The factor of absence of defects refers to the degree of freedom from extraneous vegetable matter, from loose skins and pieces of skins, loose cotyledons and pieces of cotyledons, mashed or broken beans and from beans that are blemished or seriously blemished by discoloration, pathological injury, insect injury or blemished by other means.

(a) "Extraneous vegetable matter" means pods or pieces of pods, leaves, stems, and other similar vegetable matter.

(b) "Mashed and broken" means broken or crushed so that the bean has lost its original conformation or is broken to the extent that a cotyledon or portion thereof has become separated from the bean.

(c) "Loose skin" means a whole skin which has become separated from the cotyledons or loose pieces of skin aggregating the equivalent of an average size whole skin.

(d) "Loose cotyledon" means a whole cotyledon which has become separated from the skin or loose pieces of a cotyledon aggregating the equivalent of an average size cotyledon.

(e) "Blemished" means blemished by discoloration, pathological injury, insect injury, or blemished by other means to such an extent that the aggregate blemished area materially affects the appearance of the bean. Very light discoloration of the hilum or other very light discoloration is not considered as blemished.

(f) "Seriously blemished" means blemished to such an extent that the aggregate blemished area seriously affects the appearance or eating quality of the bean.

(ii) Canned lima beans that are practically free from defects may be given a score of 22 to 25 points. "Practically free from defects" means that for each 12 ounces drained weight there may be present extraneous vegetable matter having an aggregate area of not more than $^{3}/_{16}$ square inch ($1/2'' \times 3/8''$) on one surface of the piece or pieces; not more than 8 percent, by count, of mashed and broken beans, loose skins, and loose cotyledons; and not more than 4 percent, by count, may be blemished or seriously blemished beans and of such 4 percent not more than $1/4$ thereof or 1 percent, by count, may be seriously blemished: Provided, That the blemished or seriously blemished lima beans do not affect the appearance or eating quality of the product.

(iii) If the canned lima beans are reasonably free from defects, a score of 20 to 21 points may be given. Canned lima beans that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Extra Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably free from defects" means that for each 12 ounces drained weight there may be present extraneous vegetable matter having an aggregate area of more than $^{3}/_{16}$ inch but not more than $^{3}/_{8}$ square inch ($1/2'' \times 3/4''$) on one surface of the piece or pieces; not more than 10 percent, by count, of mashed and broken beans, loose skins, and loose cotyledons; and not more than 6 percent, by count, may be blemished or seriously blemished beans and of such 6 percent not more than $1/4$ thereof or 2 percent, by count, may be seriously blemished: Provided, That the blemished or seriously blemished lima beans do not materially affect the appearance or eating quality of the product.

(iv) Canned lima beans that are fairly free from defects may be given a score of 18 to 19 points. Canned lima beans that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly free from defects" means that for each 12 ounces drained weight there may be present extraneous vegetable matter having an aggregate area of more than $^{3}/_{8}$ square inch but not more than $^{3}/_{4}$ square inch ($1/2'' \times 1\ 1/2''$) on one surface of the piece or pieces; not more than 15 percent, by count, of mashed and broken beans, loose skins, and loose cotyledons; and not more than 10 percent, by count, may be blemished or seriously blemished beans and of such 10 percent not more than $^{3}/_{10}$ thereof or 3 percent, by count, may be seriously blemished; Provided, That the blemished or seriously blemished lima beans do not seriously affect the appearance or eating quality of the product.

(v) Canned lima beans that fail to meet the requirements of subdivision (iv) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 17 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(4) Character. (i) The factor of character refers to the tenderness and maturity of the product.

(ii) Canned lima beans that possess a good character may be given a score of 27 to 30 points. "Good character" means that the lima beans are young and tender.

(iii) If the canned lima beans possess a reasonably good character, a score of 24 to 26 points may be given. "Reasonably good character" means that the lima beans are reasonably young and reasonably tender.

(iv) Canned lima beans that possess a fairly good character may be given a score of 21 to 23 points. Canned lima beans that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good character" means that the lima beans may be nearly mature and possess a fairly tender texture, may be firm and mealy but not hard, or may be soft but not mushy.

(v) Canned lima beans that fail to meet the requirements of subdivision (iv) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 20 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(i) Tolerance for certification of officially drawn samples. (1) When certifying samples that have been officially drawn and which represent a specific lot of canned lima beans, the grade of such lot will be determined by averaging the total scores of all containers, if:

(i) Not more than one-sixth of the containers comprising the sample fails to meet all the requirements of the grade indicated by the average of such total scores, and with respect to such containers which fail to meet the requirements of the indicated grade by reason of a limiting rule, the average score of all containers in the sample for the factor, subject to such limiting rule, must be within the range for the grade indicated;

(ii) None of the containers comprising the sample falls more than 4 points below the minimum score for the grade indicated by the average of the total scores; and

(iii) All containers comprising the sample meet all applicable standards of quality promulgated under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act and in effect at the time of the aforesaid certification.

In the Matter of National Toilet Company, a Corporation

This proceeding having been heard by the Federal Trade Commission upon the complaint of the Commission, the answer of the respondent, testimony and other evidence introduced before a trial examiner of the Commission theretofore duly designated by it, the trial examiner's recommended decision and the respondent's exceptions thereto, and briefs and oral argument of counsel; and the Commission having made its findings as to the facts and its conclusion that respondent has violated the provisions of the Federal Trade Commission Act:

It is ordered, That the respondent, National Toilet Company, a corporation, and its officers, representatives, agents, and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale, or distribution of their cosmetic preparations designated "Nadinola Bleaching Cream", "Nadinola Freckle Cream", or any other preparation or preparations of substantially similar composition or possessing substantially similar properties, whether sold under the same name or any other name or names, do forthwith cease and desist from, directly or indirectly:

(a) That any such preparation constitutes an adequate or competent treatment for or will clear up pimples.

(b) That any such preparation constitutes an adequate or competent treatment for skin blemishes; or that the use of such preparation will have any beneficial effect upon skin blemishes except to the extent that it may temporarily protect the skin, while the preparation is on the skin, and thus facilitate the normal processes of the skin in clearing up minor externally caused blemishes.

(c) That any such preparation will improve the texture of the skin; Provided, however, That this shall not be construed to prevent the dissemination of representations that such preparations while on the skin may temporarily soothe, smoothen, and soften the skin and in this way temporarily improve its outward appearance and feel.

2. Disseminating, or causing to be disseminated, any advertisement, by any means, for the purpose of inducing, or which is likely to induce, directly or indirectly, the purchase of said preparations in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, which advertisement contains any of the representations prohibited in paragraph 1 hereof.

It is further ordered, That the respondent shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon it of this order, file with the Commission a report, in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which it has complied with this order.

1. Section 370.10 Shipments entering foreign trade zones is amended in the following particulars: Paragraph (a) is amended to read as follows:

(a) General provisions. Except for the commodities listed in § 371.9 (c) of this subchapter, commodities wholly of foreign origin and for which no customs entry has been made with a collector of customs may be exported from a foreign trade zone without a license from the Department of Commerce, to all destinations other than those in Subgroup A, Hong Kong, and Macao, as provided in Part 384 of this subchapter.

[1] This amendment makes no substantive, but only formal, changes in the export control regulations. These changes were published in the revised Comprehensive Export Schedule dated March 30, 1951.

2. Section 371.2 General provisions is amended in the following particulars: Paragraph (c) is amended to read as follows:

(c) Applicability — (1) Prohibited shipments. No general license set forth in this part may be used to effect an exportation to a destination for which such general license has been suspended or revoked.

NOTE: All general licenses authorizing exportations to North Korea have been suspended (see § 384.3 of this subchapter). See Part 384 of this subchapter for other destinations (Subgroup A, Hong Kong, and Macao) to which particular general licenses have been suspended or revoked.

(2) Choice of general license. When two or more types of general licenses are applicable, any one of such general licenses may be used.

3. Section 371.8 General license GRO is amended in the following particulars: Paragraph (a) is amended to read as follows:

(a) Scope of license. A general license designated GRO is hereby established authorizing the exportation to all destinations, except Subgroup A countries, Hong Kong, and Macao, of all commodities not included on the Positive List of Commodities (§ 399.1 of this subchapter).

NOTE: Gift parcels. Gift parcels containing commodities not on the Positive List may be shipped under general license GRO. Any commodity on the Positive List requires a validated license for export, even though intended as a gift, unless exportable under one of the other general licenses such as Gift (see § 371.23), GO (see § 371.7) or GLV (see § 371.10).

Gift and other parcels sent by parcel post must conform to post office regulations as to size, weight, and permissible contents according to the country of destination.

The sending of merchandise as gifts is also subject to the import regulations of the receiving country. Many foreign countries permit the entry, duty-free, of gift parcels which conform to regulations regarding contents and marking. To secure this advantage, as well as the reduced postage rate arranged by the Economic Cooperation Administration for gift shipments, the sender also should show the words "U. S. A. Gift Parcel" on the addressee side of the package and on any required customs declaration.

Senders of gift parcels who wish information regarding the import regulations of a foreign country should write to the nearest regional or district office of the Department of Commerce, or the Areas Division, Office of International Trade, Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D. C.

4. Section 371.18 Return of certain commodities imported into the United States GLR is amended in the following particulars: Paragraphs (a), (c) and (d) are amended to read as follows:

(a) Machinery, or parts of machinery. Machinery, or parts of machinery, shipped to the United States for repair purposes may be returned to the country or origin, as well as replacement or rebuilt parts which are substituted when the identical parts imported are not returned.

The provisions of this paragraph do not apply to:

(1) Destinations in Subgroup A, Hong Kong, and Macao; and

(2) The following commodities: precision instruments; tools or devices incorporating diamonds, including such tools or devices when shipped as an integral part of a machine.

* * * * * *

(c) Containers returned empty. Metal drums, gas cylinders, bags and other containers used in shipping articles and materials to the United States from any destination may be returned empty to any destination other than Subgroup A countries, Hong Kong, and Macao.

(d) Newsprint cores. Newsprint cores made of any kind of material, whether imported into the United States separately or as a part of the packing of imported newsprint paper, may be returned to any destination from which imported except Subgroup A countries, Hong Kong, and Macao.

5. Section 371.19 Technical data GTD is amended in the following particulars: Paragraph (c) Authorization and use of general license GTD, subparagraph (1), is amended to read as follows:

(1) Authorization. A general license designated GTD is hereby established authorizing the exportation of technical data to any destination except those in Subgroup A: Provided, (i) That no officer or agency of the United States Government has assigned to it a security classification (e. g., "restricted," "confidential," "secret," etc.) or (ii) That if such classification exists the exporter has obtained duly authorized permission in writing from the agency of the U. S. Government which assigned the security classification; or (iii) That the Department of Commerce has not revised, suspended, or revoked this general license in any manner as to any person within or without the United States so as to prohibit shipment thereunder by the exporter.

NOTE: Where the Department of Commerce determines in any case that shipment of technical data should be prohibited, notice of such determination will be given to the exporter in the official opinion requested by him, wherever possible.

6. Section 372.3 How to file an application for export license is amended in the following particulars:

a. Paragraph (a) is amended to read as follows:

(a) Time of submission. Specific filing dates are established for certain Positive List commodities. Applications for licenses to export such commodities shall be submitted at such times or during such periods as are announced in Current Export Bulletins.[1] Applications for licenses to export commodities for which no specific filing dates are announced may be submitted at any time.

b. The note following § 372.3 paragraph (c) Information required is amended in the following particulars: In paragraph 3. Preparation of Form IT–116 the second unnumbered subparagraph is amended to read as follows:

Upon receipt of the application, the Office of International Trade will enter on the card the case number assigned to the application, and the date of receipt, detaching and returning to the applicant the return portion (applicant's copy).

c. PAR. 5. Inquiries and correspondence is amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

When an exporter requests telegraphic reply to an inquiry, the complete address of such person or company, including name, street, city, postal zone number, and state, must be given; or if desired, the Western Union "WUX" designation may be substituted for the address. This will expedite the servicing of these requests by the telegraph companies.

Telegraphic replies will be made at the expense of the inquirer.

7. Section 373.1 Export licensing general policy is amended in the following particulars: In paragraph (b) Accepted orders: evidence and certification, subparagraph (3) (ii), "Director, Commodities Division" is changed to read "Assistant Director for Export Supply".

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[Ceiling Price Regulation 7, Amdt. 3]

CPR 7—RETAIL CEILING PRICES FOR CERTAIN CONSUMER GOODS

CHAIN STORES AND MINOR CORRECTIONS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Amendment 3 to Ceiling Price Regulation 7 (16 F. R. 1872) is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

The accompanying amendment and a concurrent amendment to Supplementary Regulation 1 broaden and simplify the application of the regulation to groups of chain stores which determine uniform selling prices centrally. It also clarifies several provisions of the regulation and of Supplementary Regulation 1.

Under section 3 (b) of the regulation prior to this amendment, two different types of store groups were, for certain purposes, constituted single sellers and, therefore, entitled to price as such under the regulation or, alternatively, under special provisions contained in Supplementary Regulation 1. The eligible groups comprised (1) those establishments permitted under the provisions of Supplementary Regulation 1 to determine prices centrally and uniformly for certain articles, and (2) groups with outlets which received from their central offices invoices or statements showing the same selling prices for articles (and not showing costs).

Upon further consideration of the problems of chain stores which regularly determine uniform prices centrally, it has been determined that all chains which regularly fix uniform selling prices for their members should be permitted to have the same choice of methods for preparing charts for categories as to which they had a uniform pricing practice in the past, whether or not the billing was only of uniform selling prices or a billing of both such prices and costs. To effect this purpose, section 3 (b) of the regulation has been amended to provide that all the selling outlets of a chain which are included in one group, zone, class or area to which prior to General Ceiling Price Regulation the group regularly sent invoices or statements showing the same selling prices for certain articles, and which regularly sold those articles at uniform prices, constitute a single seller as to the categories in which those articles are included. Accordingly, these groups are deemed to constitute a single seller for the categories of merchandise they price centrally and they may use charts for the categories, constructed in the manner of any other single seller under the regulation. That is, they may list the appropriate costs to the group of all of the articles sold or offered for sale in the outlets of the group on the list date and the offering prices of such articles.

The alternative method of chart construction, which Supplementary Regulation 1 as here amended now affords, permits preparation of a list date pricing chart by the group as if its members were offering for sale on the list date all the articles covered by Ceiling Price Regulation 7 which it charged to them between December 1, 1950, and February 27, 1951 (or between January 1, 1951, and March 31, 1951, where the list date is March 31, 1951). In preparing such a chart, the group lists the last net cost from its outside supplier to the chain or groups of stores for each different article thus charged during that period. It lists also the uniform prices at which the group directed its outlets to offer each such article on the list date. In addition, for the categories affected, the group chart lists the costs and offering prices of other articles for which the members themselves determined the selling prices and which they offered on the list date.

Other provisions of Supplementary Regulation 1 have been modified to make it clear that the notification of prices required to be furnished to chain outlets, the notice required to be kept in retail outlets, and the record-keeping, reporting and filing requirements there stated apply to all groups of outlets pricing uniformly either under the regulation or under Supplementary Regulation 1.

These amendments, it is believed, will make the provisions of the regulations more consistent with actual central pricing practices, easier for chains to follow, and more capable of administration. Inasmuch as some chains may have prepared charts in accordance with provisions of the regulation, changed by these amendments, limited permission is granted for a continuation on the basis of charts thus prepared.

This amendment also makes a few minor corrections in the appendices.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Ceiling Price Regulation 7 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 3 (b) is amended to read as follows:

(b) When used in this regulation, the word "seller" refers to each single separate seller covered by this regulation. (1) If a seller makes sales at retail through more than one selling unit or department, each selling unit or department is considered to be a separate seller subject to all the provisions of this regulation. (2) A person who sells through salesmen making sales at uniform prices is a single seller. (3) All of the selling outlets of a chain, which are under common ownership or control and which are included in one group, zone, class or area to which immediately prior to January 26, 1951, the chain regularly sent invoices or statements showing the same selling prices for certain articles in a category (whether or not costs were shown), and which regularly sold those articles at such uniform prices, constitute, as to the categories in which those articles are included, a single seller.

2. In paragraph (c) of section 13, the last sentence is amended to read as follows: (A department in a departmentalized establishment must also state its department number or name; and a group of outlets which is a single seller under section 3 (b) must show the names and addresses of all retail outlets in the group.)

3. Section 39 (b) (1) (ii) is amended by substituting the word "or" for the word "and" at the end thereof.

4. Appendix B is amended in the following respects:
